Official opening? No quite. Last Thursday night Ray Rawcliffe formally "closed" the doors to his old garage location on Sedgewick's main street by tearing the building to the ground.

Change in main street

Another link with downtown Sedgewick's past, has fallen prey to the wrecking hammer. Signs of the former Ray's Garage are rapidly disappearing, including the familiar gas pumps, however Mr. Rawcliffe remains in business, conducting a similar operation in quarters at the town's southerly access. Town council considered the middle of the Main Street the wrong place for a garage, said Secretary-Treasurer Lawrence

Fewer water mains

The total tender price for Sedgewick's water system is lower than engineer's estimates, but Secretary-Treasurer Lawrence Kneeland said the town will not be installing as many mains, as anticipated.

For the sum of $1,075,335.25, St. Lawrence Construction (Western) Ltd. of Edmonton, will install the agreed-upon amount of water mains, and service connections, and the firm is also responsible for pavement replacement, which will be subcontracted. It is anticipated that construction will start the first week in July, with a scheduled completion date of December 1. Eight tenders were submitted for this phase of the work. Deleted from the project was a loop main, proposed around the golf course, and also cut for this year were water lines for Stage 3 subdivision (Meadowbank) and "most of the lines intended for south of the railway tracks."

At a price of $507,852, Greene Construction Co. Ltd. of Drumheller, was the successful firm from six tenders submitted, to construct the storage reservoir and pump house.

Also drilling should start before too long, on town-owned property, for a water supply, the secretary-treasurer reported. Restoration of roads should follow a short time after water mains are laid, with earth being tramped down as work proceeds. Mains will be installed in the centre of the roadway, Mr. Kneeland said.

Street numbering, a project of the Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the town, will follow road restoration.

Sedgewick seniors in Alberta Games

Last Thursday, Mrs. Ida Black, Mrs. Leone Roggenack, Mrs. Gunda Storbakken and Mr. Frank Mayne competed in the Cribbage Contest. In Horseshoes, Mr. Charles Lane, and Mr. David Davidson were the representatives. Competitors in the Shuffleboard were Mrs. Rose Falia, Mrs. Agnes Carlson and Mr. David Black.

Farm Family selected

Edmonton Northlands is pleased to announce that the selection has been completed for the 1981 Alberta Farm Family Awards. The Earl Wettuhun family of Kilham is one of the thirty-one families from Northern Alberta to be recognized by Edmonton Northlands for the contribution they have made to their local areas through community involvement and the business of farming. A full day of activities has been planned on "July 30 by the Farm Family Award Committee, commencing with registration, a City Tour, lunch with Government of Alberta, City of Edmonton and Edmonton Northlands dignitaries, then Klondike Days activities.

Loughheed may call for more tenders

The vacant property at 50th Street may have to be re-tendered, he said. It was proposed that the new village office and library at the corner of 50th Avenue and 50th Street may remain untouched for the foreseeable future, at least. Tenders were opened for the project on June 11th, but a spokesman at the village office said tenders were "away over budget."

There is a possibility that the project may have to be re-tendered, he said. It was proposed that the new village office and library complex would be single story, and of wood frame and masonry construction. A portable wall was planned so that space for either facility could be expanded as required. The present village office is located in an ancient brick building and the library is located in the rear portion of a building that houses the post office and a barber-shop.

The changing seasons

Every season has its affect on the family situation, but none so much as the coming of summer.

With summer holidays beckoning, many families are not only looking forward to an enjoyable vacation, but to many family members this period of the year signals the beginning of another phase of their lives.

Preparations for entering institutions of higher learning are underway, and the whole new life-style that lies ahead. Some students entering college may have been fortunate enough to earn a college scholarship; others may have parents with sufficient financial resources to take care of tuitions and school expenses, while others have jobs lined up for the summer to earn the required money.

And what about mother and father? Sure, they have had their "Days." And we hope they have many more.

However, the approaching summer season may be the last time many families are together as a unit. Some of their sons and daughters have graduated from college and are about to enter the working world on a full-time basis.

Then there are the "small fry" who have a glorious summer ahead of them, with no thought of school, only good times.

We salute you, Mom and Dad, for a job well done.

Have a good vacation - and say, kids - how about helping out a little bit on your "spare time", so parents can ease up a trifle, too.

So, whether you are vacationing near or far, relax, enjoy yourself and have a safe and happy summer.

September and the return to routine awaits you.

Hire-A-Student

While the rest of us go through our daily lives, there is a group of youngsters who often get forgotten during the summer months - the students.

While you and I grumble about rising costs, these kids have to face the same costs.

Thought of the week

With the economic squeeze farmers are feeling themselves, there is a great temptation to tank-mix herbicides for "one shot" coverage. Avoid the temptation, plant scientists advise, unless it is a recommended mixture.

Someone who spends more than 30 hours a week at writing is "idle," according to Statistics Canada. In a recent survey, 528 full-time writers were identified of a total of 3,144 writers in Canada.

In Sedgewick, a crew of Pool elevator carpenters have been busy the past week wrecking the old barn on the Pool Elevator residence property (known as the H. L. Gray residence) and converting it into a commodious garage.

The government is gravitating the highway (No. 13) from Hardisty east, and several Sedgewick truckers are busy hauling gravel for the purpose, among these being J. F. Watawa with one truck, and Galtley Bros. with one truck.

A. P. Crop Report:

Main was received in the area during the week, averaging 1/2 to 1 inch along the southern and western fringe of the area and increasing toward the north and west where some stations received over an inch. Crop prospects have been much improved in the north, but more rain will be needed soon in the fringe areas where precipitation was lighter. It was decided that a Red Cross swimming school is to be held in Sedgewick at the lake one mile due north of town. The school is being sponsored by the Klansmen Club in co-operation with the Red Cross.

The Championship was won by (in order): Chuck Noble, Camrose; Al MacLennan, Kilmory; Bob Hanrahan, Dayland; and Al MacLennan, Kilmory.

TO URNATE OR NOT TO URNATE, or, when ya gotta go ya gotta go. Now there's a nice salty subject of conversation which has been up for discussion in the hallowed recesses of City Hall in Edmonton. Never mind the heavy problem of a convention centre, snarled traffic, new city hall the insurmountable other minor matters that plague the administration. They will be laid to rest in due course. First, it is to give serious attention to the immediate needs of the people. Beautiful parks and recreational areas must be provided where people can relax and forget the more mundane problems of life. So this is done, but in the doing, overlooked is the vital aspect of the necessity of nature calling upon us to constantly eliminate the superfluous inner liquids which are not needed for the adequate functioning of the human body. As surprising as it may seem, the subject is, it would seem that the matter is not one for serious or prolonged discussion in the council chambers and would likely never have arisen if the City Fathers had done their homework or seen to it that others did. Ample facilities should have been provided, situated strategically so as to care for the needs of the busy and outlying stations for the not so happy. To determine locations city employees could tabulate statistics on the actions of all visitors; such things as people standing around with legs crossed, a sure sign of idleness; wild-eyed kids impeding guidance from mothers who have them under threat of reprimand if proper procedures are not adhered to; women communicating in hushed tones which really doesn't disguise anything when flaggers are pointing out directions. It may well be assumed that there is some accommodation provided but the point is that all the people can't live close to the privy.

UP TO THE POINT we've only discussed the problem, which is easy to go for the world is full of problems these days. How to deal with them is the question, and to resolve them to everyone's satisfaction. It could be immediately suggested that the thing be turned over to the sanitation department for this is its field, but such a piddling matter requires appropriate guidance, the opinion of Aldermen must be sought. There probably is no need for a new by-law, although the matter may bring forth a plebiscite for the plebiscites will not let the thing slip by through without challenge. If left simply to the Mayor it could result in several million-dollar Elimination Centres. Ron Hayter will expound on the fact that people have to perform this very necessary act when nature calls, and should have that freedom. But, he insists this be done discreetly. His platform is Freedom of Elimination. Alderman Butt could give the feminine angle for she insists that women are different and have different procedures. She will likely call for a vote on Squatters' Rights. Then after listening to all and sundry we go to Ed Ledger where we will bet the news that all the rest are mere accomplices and their ideas asinine. He will oppose all suggestions except his own. Install slanting rain troughs, dig a pit and use a sump pump for disposal. Plant small areas on buttercups or better yet to askers where Butt's squatters may admirer the flowers discreetly. Add a warning track around the flower beds so grandmas won't destroy the tulips.

THAT SEEMS TO HAVE TAKEN CARE OF THE WOMEN, but I would submit for Ed's attention, that for the men, football squads be formed. Have quarterbacks on hand to blow the whistle when duty calls. If a player is needed call all anxious players to a huddle at midfield. There may be a slight waiting period until a full team is gathered, but then they assume a closely-knit circle. As the signals are called each knows his assignment. Then break the huddle and leave a puddle. The salient effect will mark the spot for future huddles.

IT'S ALL VERY EASY when you know how to attack a problem. No cost to the taxpayers either. I'm surprised that these well-paid Aldermen haven't come up with so simple a solution. Ordinary people can. For instance:

I was asking about the best method of eliminating that pesky "Ring Around the Collar" which is the sign of an old-time female friend. I asked her which product did the best job. She replied that they were all fairly efficient, but added that the best one of all is to wash your neck now and again. Cuts eh? Cheaper too.

Work started for artificial ice in Killam

If all goes as planned, Killam will have artificial ice in its Memorial Arena by October 1st, but in the meantime, much remains to be done.

A contract has been signed with Reglin Industries of Calgary to install the refrigeration equipment, and Ted Tucker from the firm is scheduled to arrive in Killam on Monday, July 6th, to start laying the miles of piping required to circulate, ammonia, the freezing agent.

In preparation for this, volunteers are busy removing the boards around the hockey cushion, and hauling in sand to prepare the base.

When the pipes are installed, volunteer crews will again move in to lay a concrete surface.

Mild weather during the last two winters prevented Killam Agriplex from starting a fund-raising campaign for artificial ice in December, 1980, and the objective is between $250,000 and $300,000.

Ken Lang, Agriplex president, who also serves in the role of treasurer for the pee wee hockey team, related that his club could only play three games at home last season, because of poor ice.

"It's hard to schedule anything without artificial ice, the kids and boys have been real bad," Mr. Lang said. "I commented that 'it's a must to complete the complex,' relating George (McGowan) Bjelle, who has been working at the Camrose Treasury Branch for the past 12 years has been appointed to the position of Assistant Manager in the Camrose Branch.

While in favor of Canada's Constitution being drafted by the federal government, and Mr. Engle, who has been working at the Camrose Treasury Branch for the past 12 years has been appointed to the position of Assistant Manager in the Camrose Branch.

He termed the Liberal action as "justified," adding "how much more colonial do we have to be?"

Speaking last Tuesday to the annual meeting of Sedgewick Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Malone said that the "constitution shouldn't be a prerogative of the government, but should be people-based."

It was suggested that the federal government should have the power, people should have the power, Mr. Malone contended, stating the "constitution shouldn't be a prerogative of the government, but should be people-based."

He personally within the constitution, had difficulty with a Charter of Rights, saying it contained "super-laws" that would be washed from the hands of the people and brought before the courts.

He said citizens are well-served if courts do.

Delaying action by the provinces has produced better constitutional package, he said, remarking that there had been 10 amendments, mostly in January and February.

The Charter of Rights is an entrenchment and is very complicated to change, he said. The Liberals had taken some items from John Diefenbaker's Bill of Rights while leaving others, and Mr. Malone termed the Liberal action as "Caucasian and dense for some purpose."

He referred specifically to the omission of the supremacy of God in the original proposal, since included, and to the ownership of property, not in the present constitution.

A Bill of Rights can be changed by parliament, he said. Mr. Malone said constitutional changes should not be drafted by the federal government, and Mr. Engle, who has been working at the Camrose Treasury Branch for the past 12 years has been appointed to the position of Assistant Manager in the Camrose Branch.

Water weed danger

The recent discovery near Trail, B.C. of Eurasian watermilfoil, holds disturbing possibilities for Alberta residents.

Eurasian watermilfoil, a prolific aquatic weed that takes its toll of waterways throughout the U.S., Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia.

Since 1970 when the weed was first found in B.C. it has spread rapidly in several lakes, holding disturbing possibilities for Alberta residents.

The Trail incident is the first case of infestation outside the Fraser and Okanagan Valley areas.

Boat check-stops set up by the B.C. Ministry of Environment are examples of preventative measures being implemented, but somehow the weed is still extending its territorial reach.

Alberta could be next. Clean boats, free of weed fragments of any kind, will help check the invasion. In a province where irrigation is necessary and lakes are few, Eurasian watermilfoil could prove to be a very serious intruder.

Visitors from afar at Tourist Centre

Volunteers operating the Tourist Information Centre at Sedgewick's southern approach are just that, but judging by some of the comments in the guest book, they must find days there well spent.

A couple from Saskatchewan noted that Alberta is a "lovely province, prompting Monday's receptionist, Ida May Black to remark, "we know it, but it's nice to hear it from someone else".

Perhaps James B. Todd of Stirling, Scotland, a visitor to the Loughheed area, would win the prize for coming the longest distance, but eventually he could lose that honour to visitors from "Down Under" in Australia.

Yes, yes, travellers from Spruce Grove, Alberta, were in to pick up information to send to that southern continent. "Beautiful," is the way in which a visitor from Cranbrook, B.C., peened a comment, on the area's scenic beauty.

And the tourist centre, located on Highway 13, also has been of service to vacationers from Nova Scotia.

One of the most eye-catching remarks was left by a person from Fort Saskatchewan, who posed the question, "Where's Irma?"

In his second year at the present site, the Tourist Information Centre contains material provided by the Battle River Tourist Association, Zone 8 in the provincial designation, and come from the Town of Sedgewick, also.

Maple galore, data on recreation, including fishing, camping, and hunting, as well as accommodations and eating establishments, is neatly stacked in easily accessible racks.

The facility is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and is clearly marked with the wording "Information Centre," so that persons seeking guidance, may be taken care of with a minimum of inconvenience.

Most of the seniors who volunteer their time are members of the Drop-In Centre at Sedgewick, but other seniors from the area also participate in a gesture of community service. Yena Blakney is in charge of scheduling volunteers.

The tourist "hut" is a venture of the Battle River Tourist Association, while near-by picnic tables, a pump providing some of Alberta's finest water, and a windmill, painted a bright yellow, are maintained by Sedgewick Chamber of Commerce.

For those who have ordered name tags from the Battle River Tourist Association, they are now available.

Ken Clouston, on behalf of the Legion, and Oliver Grive, on behalf of the Auxiliary, thanked the Lions for the social evening, and expressed a desire to participate again in the near future.

Loughheed W.I. meets

The regular meeting of the Loughheed W.I. was held at the home Mrs. Wm. Peterson (Eileen) in Sedgewick, with co-hostess Mrs. J. McClements (Sadie), on June 8.

There were 15 members present, Mrs. Mary Pope, former W.I. member and Mrs. Pat Cameron a W.I. member from Argyle (Alliance), were welcome guests.

The president, Mrs. Veronica Probert welcomed everyone and lead in repeating the W.I. Creed. Veronica thanked Eileen for inviting us to her lovely home. The minutes were read and approved.

The treasurer, Mrs. Rita Skerbekken gave her financial report, which was adopted. Molly Fersyehough gave her card report. Mrs. Mattie Peterson gave the Memorial report for Mrs. Sadie Marlow. The cemetery report was given by Mrs. Hazel Skerbekken. The W.I. will be pleased by Jim and Sadie Peterson.

Mrs. Hazel Swanson reported on the Library. The list of workers for Thursdays at the Library was handed out to the members. A report on the ticket books for the quilt raffie was given by Molly Fersyehough.

Correspondence was read and dealt with. A thank-you note was received from Judy Keils for the donation to the Scholarship Fund. Plans were made for Debbie Walter's shower on June 19th with Janet Niehaus in charge of the program. A discussion took place on having a booth at the fair. The roll call was "A trip I would like to take." Many countries would like to be visited by the members.

Election of Program Conveners will be held at the July meeting day. Molly Fersyehough, delegate, who attended the Olds W.I. Convention in May, gave an interesting report. These members who have attended these Conventions find the reports particularly interesting. Molly thanked Hazel Swanson for taking her. Hazel Swanson gave a short report on the Convention and especially the W.I. remarks on the handicrafts. A vote of thanks was given to Molly for attending the convention as our delegate.

Mrs. D. McClements won the hostess gift. The meeting was adjourned. A delicious lunch was served by Eileen and Sadie.

Flag project honours Canada

Hardly past to fly a country's flag at the time of the country's national holiday, where this is possible, it is our pleasure to honor, from June 30 to July 2, the country we all know best, Canada. We also know that Canada. We also know at this time are Gibraltar, Falkland Islands, Massachusetts, and Michigan.

Canada is made up of 10 provinces and two territories (can you name them all?). It is a land rich in scenic beauty and natural resources, from colorful fishing villages hugging the Atlantic coast to the golden wheat fields covering the western plains. The far-west, with its towering snow-capped mountains, deep green valleys, and sparkling lakes, is one of the world's most scenic regions.

On July 1, Canada celebrates its 114th birthday. We are all justly proud of our red and white flag with its maple leaf in the center.

Gibraltar is a British Crown colony which occupies a rocky peninsula on the southern shores of Spain. The rock of Gibraltar guards the narrow passage between the Atlantic Ocean and the Mediterranean Sea, and has been the key to control the Mediterranean for centuries. The Rock, as it is commonly called, has long stood as a symbol of strength and reliability. It towers 1,100 feet above sea level. Gibraltar's flag is white with a red castle, symbolizing defensive strength, and a golden key hanging from the gate, representing the key to the Mediterranean.

The Falkland Islands lie 300 miles east of the Strait of Magellan, on the tip of South America. These islands make up another Crown Colony consisting of two large islands and about 200 smaller ones. The islands export wool and whale oil, which usually have a much greater value than the imports (lucky country!). Stately, the chief town, receives mail by ship about once a month from Montevideo, Uruguay, and a steamship then carries the mail from island to island. The Falkland Islands fly a flag we know well, the Union Jack.

Massachusetts is the sixth smallest state in the U.S. but stands among the leaders in many fields. Boston, the capital and largest city, is a major U.S. seaport and air terminal.

Michigan, known as the Wolverine state, is an important industrial, mining, farming, and tourist city in the Great Lakes region of the Midwest. Detroit, Michigan's largest city, is called the Automobile Capital of the World, and the Motor City, as it produces more cars and trucks than any other city in the world. Michigan is approximately 96,000 square miles in area, which is twice the size of New Brunswick. The state flag is of Royal Blue with a white seal on it, showing the sun rising over water, a man in a field, an elk, moose, and eagle.

Sedgewick Seniors manning tourist booth

The Senior Citizens are again manning the Tourist Booth by Badry's Garage. It is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day with information for your travelling.

MUSCA DOMESTICA 5-46

One of the most familiar and widely distributed of all insects, the housefly, besides being a nuisance, is a prime carrier of disease. Its entire body swarms with millions of bacteria, which is often transmitted to the food it eats and spits, excretes, labours, and vomits. It is only a few of the diseases it can distribute. Since it requires only about 2 weeks from the time the eggs are deposited until the females which hatch from them are capable of laying eggs of their own, this often leads to several generations of flies in a matter of a few days. In the most developed countries modern sewage disposal, which removes and disposes of human excrement has had a marked effect in controlling the insect's numbers.

B.R.T.A. sponsor seminar

On Saturday, June 20, 1981, the Battle River Tourist Association (BRTA) conducted one of the most successful Hospitality Training Seminars to date. The ninth such event sponsored by the Association took place at the Norseman Motor Inn in Camrose, and was attended by 66 people. City of Camrose Alderman, Mr. James Howland was on hand to welcome the participants to Camrose.

The project was geared to train staff who will be working in the Tourist Information Centres throughout the Zone 8 area during the summer months. Also attending were staff members from museums located within the Zone 8 region.

Participants attended from: Stettler, Banff, Watawin, Sherwood, Park, Camrose, Viking, Consort, Leduc, Camrose, Provost and Wainwright. Barbara Kilcoo was on hand from Travel Alberta. In handling the morning part of the program she explained the 1981 Travel Alberta tourist literature to the gathering, emphasizing how the various items can be used in helping visitors. Films were used to demonstrate numerous ways of providing top-notch service to the public.

The afternoon was taken up with presentations outlining the many things there are to see and do throughout Battle River Tourist Zone 8. These were handled by BRTA President, Robert Brown (Leduc); Georgia Taylor (Chauvin) and BRTA Manager Sylvia Clement (Camrose). Special attention was given to the techniques of dealing with people and some of the kinds of inquiries to be expected. One of the main objectives of the tourist association is to encourage efficiency and to promote a high standard of service to each and every visitor.

Corrected list of Sedgewick ladies golf tournament

Tiny Medsack of the host Sedgewick Ladies' Golf Club carded a 198 over 18 holes, to capture the Annual Ladies' Open Golf Tournament as Monday, June 15, over 31 other competitors. The medal play drew ladies from several areas including Hardisty, Houghton, Dayland, Forestburg, Viking, Irma, and Wainwright, besides Sedgewick.

Doris Forstberg of Forestburg won the First Flight, and Hazel McNabb from Wainwright, took the Second Flight.

Third Flight winner was Jean MacLellan, Ardith Gould headed the Fourth Flight, and Vera Hopkins took the Sixth Flight. These golfers all play out of the Sedgewick club. Karen Cummings of Viking was Sixth Flight winner, and Darlene Clark from Sedgewick wrapped up the Seventh Flight. The golfer pictured in last week's newspaper was, in fact, Enaice Forster of Forestburg, not Doris Forstberg of Forestburg, as stated.

The popular Hardisty Round-up Days takes place on July 10, 11 and 12, with a variety of activities, so that all may enjoy themselves. Events range from dice darts, pancake breakfast, to gymkhana, to barbecue, to amateur rodeo. Another highlight will be the selection of the Battle River Light Horse Rodeo Queens, Saturday. Corale Meakin, left, is sponsored by Border Chuckwagon Club; Tanya Snake, centre, is sponsored by the Battle River Light Horse Association, and Shelly Welch, by Hanes & H Prairie Riders Club.

Tire playground in Hardisty

Completion of the Hardisty Tire Playground was accomplished on the weekend of May 29-30. On the Friday afternoon a small work party, assisted by some of the Junior High students, prepared materials and drilled holes in the tires to be used for the structure. During the evening about twenty volunteers made a start on construction.

The following day, a large work party of about thirty people continued to work on the building of the structure. The playground was completed at 4 p.m., and within an hour children were making use of the equipment.

The construction of a playground in the school grounds was first proposed at a general meeting of parents, teachers, school board representatives, and administrators in May of last year.

A committee was formed which met at regular intervals to develop planning. In the fall, some structures were built and a consultant, Mr. David Blais of Gibbons, was engaged to co-ordinate the project. The committee members worked hard in obtaining equipment, especially the larger tires, and visited a number of playgrounds locally and in Edmonton.

Funds were sought, and a number of local organizations made generous donations. The Town of Hardisty donated funds from the Strong Ladies Trust Account, and a sum was also obtained from the 75th Anniversary Heritage Trust Fund to initiate the project.

The children enjoy using the equipment and spend a great deal of time during recesses, noon hour and after school in the playground. The place of resistance in the child structure which has two swing bridges and fireman's poles attached. A quadruple structure includes a tire wall, chain wall, trapeze rings, and a toddler tire swing. Smaller structures include two domes, a pyramid, a tunnel, various sand boxes, and a conventional slide.

The official opening of the playground will take place on Saturday, August 1, during the Homecoming weekend. At this time, the sign bearing the playground's name and date of construction and an acknowledgment plaque will be unveiled.

Hardisty United Church News

Sunday, June 7 was awards day for the children of the Sunday School of St. Paul's Church in Hardisty.

About twenty children received their seals and diplomas for the year's work in Sunday school. These were presented by the Sunday school superintendent, Gail Reed, and teachers of the various grades. After the presentations, the classes trooped over to the Christian Education Building for a time of games. The day was finished off in the evening with a potluck supper at the hall for children, teachers, parents and friends.

The monthly meeting of the United Church Women was held June 11, with 18 members present. After the reading and approval of the minutes, the devotional was presented by Grace.

A vacuum cleaner has been purchased for use in the church. There has been no estimate made yet of possible hall renovations. Each contractor states that they will not be able to do anything until fall, as a general clean-up will be done before homecoming.

A letter was received from the Chamber of Commerce, asking groups and individuals to write to Dave Russell, Minister of Hospital, to continue to pressure the government into action on the construction of a new hospital in Hardisty, and also to request extended health care services to be included in the plans. These would be auxiliary and nursing home facilities that could be a real benefit to this area. Direct letters to Mr. Dave Russell, Minister of Hospital, Legislative Building, Edmonton.

It was decided not to have a booth for round-up days. The meeting adjourned on the construction of the members.

Allen is building a retaining wall and landscaping his yard, and Neil is building a basement for the trailer. Olaf has been there to offer helpful hints when he comes to visit the boys.

Many former pastors returned to Trinity Lutheran Church, north of Loughheed, for 75th anniversary services, held Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28. Pictured on the front steps of the church are from left, Pastor J.B. Stollie (1938-1945), Pastor S.J. Christopherson (1964-1968), Pastor C.W. Magee (1967-1968), Pastor P. Olson (1972-1976), and Pastor George Qualley and Pastor Carol Qualley, present pastors.

Church celebrates 75th anniversary

With the song "God's Word Is Our Heritage" as the theme, parishioners of Trinity Lutheran Church, north of Loughheed, celebrated the 75th anniversary of its founding on Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28, with song, fellowship, and reminiscing.

Founded by Norwegians, who came to the area north of Loughheed, the church was originally known as "The Loughheed Norwegian Trifolioded Evangelical Lutheran Mission." with Norwegian spoken at services.

Pastor J.B. Stollie, who addressed the anniversary celebrants on Sunday afternoon, presided over the service, which was a bilingual program presided here, and it worked well.

The first English service was started in 1955. Originally, the settlers met in the homes of various members of the community, once a month, with Sunday School, confirmation and parochial school held in the homes from the beginning, as often as possible.

Land for the church and cemetery site was donated by Ole Hauge and deacons of the congregation were realized in 1917, when the first church was built.

Lillie Thoresen and Thomas Lien were the first couple married there, on January 7, 1918.

The church was wired and power put in, early in 1965. Later that year a basement was completed and the church moved a few feet south onto a new foundation.

Thomas Lien, nephew Dennis Basse said at the collection table at the reunion. Donations were received from people residing in Rathdun, Idaho as well as Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, Vancouver and Courtenay, B.C., Regina and Moose Jaw, Sask., Edmonton, Rimby, Drayton Valley, Foreburg, Harstad and other Alberta communities.

More than 100 persons attended the reunion, with ages ranging from 60 years to six months. Mr. Ross Fox, 60, the oldest attending, is a resident of the Auxiliary Hospital at Killam.

Donna Basse, presently operates the farm, settled by his grandfather in 1918. He is located north-west of Killam.

Killam's Artificial Ice Fund Drive has received a $500 boost, thanks to donations from the Basse reunion. My Basse Oct. 84, left and Annie Basse Thayer, 86, of Idaho, make the donation to chairman Ken Lang.

Killam - Sedgewick apply for gas increase

Users of natural gas supplied by the gas utility jointly operated by the Town of Killam and Sedgewick, may expect to pay more for gas because of an application heard by the Alberta Public Utilities Board in Killam on June 23.

There are about 365 natural gas customers in Sedgewick and over 400 in Killam," he said.

Lawrence Kneeland, Sedgewick secretary-treasurer, said the submission for an increase in the base rate was made "nearly two years ago" (November 1980), and in the meantime there have been upward revisions, caused by higher costs for the gas supply, and more taxation.

The most recent increase of 18 cents per thousand cubic feet, was necessitated by the imposition of a federal excise tax included in the June bill, which brings the present rate to 62.5¢ per thousand cubic feet.

In making the announcement, Rev. Richard Conrad extended an invitation to members of all other denominations to attend the reunion service.

A truly great Canadian

A man had a cause that he believed in strongly, and he devised a plan to reach his goal, which at first appeared "an impossible dream".

Events since that time have vindicated this man, who, with a driving force almost compelling him, took to the highways and by-ways of Canada, to raise funds to combat the dreaded disease - cancer, which was eventually to take his life. His journey was indeed no whim.

Yes, that man was Terry Fox, who early on Sunday morning "completed his last kilometre", as a spokesman at Royal Columbia Hospital in "New Westminster, put it.

His determination to walk across this country with one "good" leg and one artificial leg, provided inspiration and hope to countless thousands fighting the odds, not only against cancer, but against life itself.

The death of Terry Fox on Sunday, allowed in dignity, brought to an earthly end, the life of a truly living legend, who achieved more in his 22 years than most of us ever hope to reach.

Through his cross-Canada walk, which came to a tragic end at Thunder Bay, Ontario, more than $22 million was raised.

ed for research, which hopefully one day, will result in a cure for cancerous diseases.

Support for his "Marathon of Hope" was meagre in the beginning, however the public cannot be blamed for thinking this was just another publicity stunt.

It is history how support ballooned as Terry Fox, dragged himself forward, and how his "gutty" performance dug deep into the hearts and pocketbooks of Canadians from every walk of life, young and old. And indeed, the United States, and around the world.

An athlete in the trust context of the word, Terry Fox received the plaudits of the Canadian sports world's greats, including Wayne Gretzky and Bobby Orr.

There will be a Terry Fox stamp issued and a Terry Fox Youth Centre established to commemorate this great Canadian. Honours well deserved.

When told last Friday, that a stamp would bear his resemblance, a barely-conscious Terry, simply said "Wow".

Quiet and unassuming, that's the way Terry Fox was in life, and as the end to his suffering neared.

He has left a legacy for all Canadians to uphold.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Up at Dawson Creek I read the article about the man who asked her about her husband who was quite sick.

I also met people from Campbell River who knew June (Cook) Boodle. June's dad was Dr. A.J. Cook. Also they knew Mr. Alex Alibut's daughter, Shalagh Greaves.

I am sorry to hear of so many people passing away. My brother, Melford Moore, passed away on June 1 from cancer.

Have you got an obituary notice yet, as they were printed in Vancouver. I'm still trying to get one to have in your paper.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Gladys (Moe) Greaves, Clearwater, B.C.

"St. Ursula's Convent" was the first Canadian novel to be published in Upper Canada. It was written by Frances Brooke and printed in Kingston, Ontario, in 1804. Mrs. Brooke was the wife of a garrison chaplain who had been stationed in Quebec.

Text of the word, Terry Fox received the plaudits of the Canadian sports world's greats, including Wayne Gretzky and Bobby Orr.

There will be a Terry Fox stamp issued and a Terry Fox Youth Centre established to commemorate this great Canadian. Honours well deserved.

Where are all the voters? One has this privilege in this country. Why not use it. If you weren't there to vote on matters pertaining to important decisions - like in some instances, there also would be a fuss.

Where were all our future citizens? Surely there are more than a handful of young people on the way.

I bet there are more at other activities, than showed up for the election.

The New Drinkers

The author tells us that after an adult has had one or two drinks, a person becomes more talkative and active; three or four, slow down thinking and mix up co-ordination; five or six, righting becomes blurred, speech is staggered, and one slows down considerably. With more than seven or eight drinks, one loses balance and becomes sleepy. Large amounts can result in death.

Concerns with youthful drinking and resulting problems, has never been greater in Canada. Worried parents and teachers write the Addiction Research Foundations with requests for information. This book sets up questions, and tries to answer those most often asked, regarding youthful drinking.

It is hoped that all professionals working with young folk where drinking is of major concern, will find interest in this printed work.

Visitors to Manitou Manor

Ruby Nelson — Good to have Olive Gallety and Bruce McDougall back from their vacations. Olive from her tour to Tennessee, and Bruce, from B.C.

Visiting with Mrs. W. Hardwick were Lorraine Rancier, and daughters, Elaine Fuller of Lett, and bridge and Gladys Scherakowski of Olive. Also Mrs. David Reid called in.

Mrs. Nathalia Robinson of Edmonton visited Manitou, and visiting Mrs. Emma Raymond were her two nieces, Leone Beaumont and Iola Overbo.

Mrs. Gerlie Watkins spent the weekend with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Watkins, at Hardisty.

Alex and Ruby attended the graduation exercises held at Canadian Union College last week. Their grandson, Jerry Anderson graduated with 28 others, making it the largest graduating class in history at C.U.C. Alvin Herman attended with them.

Visiting with them this weekend were Fred and Ruth Berchall, of Armstrong, B.C. and Emma Dear of Stettler, brother and sister of Alvin and Ruby. Elwyn and Judy Belier of Armstrong, C. Wataabe and Todd Virginia Meyer of Auburn, Washington; Mrs. Vernon McNeilus of Chattanooga, Tennessee, all spent a few days here to attend the wedding of granddaughter, Debra Anderson at Merna.

— Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Zarochoch of Prince Albert, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Befus of Carleton Place, and Mrs. Esther

The Way to Vibrant Health — Alexander James M.D.

The author introduces us to a new word, "bio-energetics." This means a fully-active way to keep our bodies healthy. Our bodies are constantly vibrating whether we are awake or asleep.

In the healthy adult, the involuntary and voluntary movements are co-ordinated giving grace, and good effect.

All kinds of exercises are suggested from the "joy of being alive" stretch and warming-up exercises, to working with special areas — hips, arms, neck, legs; even special expressive types are given such as rhythmic hitting and kicking out from the hips.

Try these with care, the gains will surprise you.

What Every Child Would Like His Parents To Know — Dr. Leo Lebovitz

A pediatric psychologist writes with help for parents so they can give their children effective psychic answers.

Some key stress situations we must work out with our children are mentioned here: the constantly disobedient child, an impeding divorce, how to tell your child, the trauma of the first day at school.

This book is written in a question and answer form in an interesting, easily understood manner.

Let's Play Maths — Michael Hall

All activities described here, help to build the child's four vocabularies: hearing, speaking, reading, and writing.

Any type of mathematical equipment can be used — twigs, bottle tops, buttons. If they are all blue, or all red, or all big, they are lumped together and put into a set — a new word in this type of math.

New relationships in words can be carried out — comparing and classifying, up and down, "opposite to" or "the same as."

When a child doesn't want to play with you, let him wander off to do what he wants. Forced to do what you want, he'll wiggle out one way or another. Always let him play at his speed or he'll never begin to understand.

Though it may look like meandering around in an adult, playing around is a serious business to a child.

Two types of games are suggested here, for from four years and over, with sorting games, secret codes, mazes, number and pebble games, that Dad can play from the armchair.

Interest those little folk, and they'll soon entertain and learn themselves.

— Mr. and Mrs. Dan VIB.

Bishops visits Anglican Church

(Held for Last Week)
The Rt. Rev. E. Kent Clark, Bishop of Edmonton, visited St. Edmund's Parish on Sunday, June 28, preaching and celebrating Holy Communion in Killam, Sedgewick, and Lethbridge.

A pot-luck supper in his honor and in honour of all faithful members of the Anglican Church took place at the Parish Hall, Sedgewick, on Sunday, June 28. In the Parish for his hospitality, the Bishop observed that his previous visit with us last November, he had been so well provided for, that he was forced to diet for three weeks thereafter. It appears that we don't feed our own rectors quite so well. But then he's around every day — not just twice a year.

Klaine and Marna Klaine are caring for their small grandchild while her mother, Donna Mulbeler, is in hospital.

Mrs. Wainwright of Vancouver is visiting friends and relatives around Sedgewick and Lethbridge. She is staying with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Elsie Cookson, and her sister, Mrs.

Klaine Black. Mrs. Wright attended the wedding of her niece, Debbie Waite, on Saturday.

Last winter, the Rev. Richard Conrad conducted in Coar, a highly successful course, entitled "The Jewish Background to the Scriptures." This is a non-denominational course, open to the public. Anyone who is interested in having the course offered in this area, should contact Vernon Cookham at 388-3970 or Sylvia Gallety at 384-366.

Birthdays greetings this week to Dorcas Conrad. I wonder if the recter baked her a cake — or did he just settle for perfume and flowers?

On June 28, at St. John's, five young Guides and Brownies will receive their Religion in Life badge.

News from the Anglican Church

Dennis Clark
Mrs. Thelma Tanton is back after a three-day Arctar course at the Banff Centre.

Our sympathy is extended to the Armour, Bulcher and Hapworth families, on the passing last week of John Armour.

Abb and Pat Martin and families, spent several days fishing at Cripple Creek and Prairie Creek, and had a fine time.

Rosetta Johnson has returned to her home in Vancouver, after a visit with her sister, Marie Martin, and her many relatives and friends in the Lethbridge district.

Contributions were made to St. Patrick's Offering and St. John's Priory.

The church was to be prepared for the Bishop's June 31 visit.

The hostess prize was won by Nettie Peters. Lunch and fellowship followed the meeting.

The Don Cookson family of Edmonton were week-end visitors at the Don Cookson home.

Hardisty Chamber Wishes relief from flag project

A lengthy meeting of the Hardisty Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, June 24, finalized all plans for Round-up Days. Please watch this paper for details of all events, and for posters around town dealing with special events.

A special resolution and motion was placed in the meeting by Vice-President Louis Johnson. It follows in its entirety, and we ask that all groups and organizations, give it careful attention.

During this past year the "Flag Capital of the World" project has received a lot of time and effort and support from the Chamber of Commerce. There are some members who have always felt the project was a waste of time, and others who have become concerned, that it is receiving more than its share of effort.

Now that the original costs of obtaining and displaying flags have been taken care of by the Chamber, like obtaining logos, letterhead paper, reference books, and postage, it would be nice if some other organization would take responsibility for the Flag Project. This would help the town by having more people become involved.

The project will still have expenses and will need source of funds.

Therefore a motion is made that: if a non-profit Hardisty-based organization will accept general responsibility and conditions of the project, the Chamber of Commerce will:

1. Give that organization (a) complete ownership and authority and responsibility for obtaining and displaying flags for the Flag Capital of the World project;

(b) permission to use Chamber stationery and supplies for the project until September 30.

(b) if, on August 10, revenue from the souvenirs does not equal the amount owed to the Chamber, that organization will pay the remainder.

Hardisty bingos okayed for club

The June meeting of the Hardisty Social Club was held in the Drop-In Centre on Tuesday evening, June 23rd, with 10 members present.

Following the reading and adoption of the minutes and financial report, the president, Bessie Maure, reported having contacted the Attorney General's office re our social bingos. She received assurance that a letter would be issued, giving permission to hold these as before.

The tickets for the Heritage Quik were received, and are now on sale. Proceeds will go to the Homecoming expenses. Margaret Charam and Barbe Matthews are in charge of tickets.

It was agreed that a boy be hired to cut the grass during the summer. Gladys Stehrase offered to donate payment for this.

A new guest book is to be purchased before homecoming. At the next meeting a schedule will be set up for having the centre open during the summer.

The July meeting has been advanced to July 11, to allow for homecoming plans.

Battle River Valley trail ride

Trail ride has excellent turnout.

A most enjoyable trail ride was held on Father's Day, June 21st. Approximately sixty-five riders of all ages attended, as well as several teams, including a real old-fashioned chuckwagon, a team and democrat, single horse and buggy and at least two pony chuckwagons or chariots.

These present were from various towns: Sedgewick, Loughheed, Killam, Forestburg, Hanna, Edgerton, Merna, Edmonton, Anisk and Hardisty.

The ride started from the R.E. Goodrich ranch, south of Hardisty, and followed the beautiful valley of the Battle River for six miles, then stopped for refreshments which had arrived in the chuckwagon. Coffee and iced lemonade were served and everyone especially enjoyed the ice cream and cookies, which also arrived in the chuckwagon.

Following lunch, everyone mounted up and returned to the starting point, where a delicious pot-luck supper was served.

The ride was sponsored by Ken Alderick and the Everett Goodrichs.

Olaf Nelson celebrates birthday

Olaf Nelson celebrated his 84th birthday with a picnic supper at Hardisty Campsite with nieces and nephews.

June 30 brought enough people for six tables of whist at the Drop-In Centre.

Guests high went to Barbe Matthews; Guests low, Lloyd Gravett; Ladies' high, Lena Hop; Ladies' low, Dorothy Stappard of Anisk.

The highlight of the day was the arrival of his niece, Esther Tolberg of Ogden, Utah. Esther had never been in Canada before, so she and Uncle Olaf had a good visit in Hardisty.

On the 17th, Olaf went back to Playstaff Lodge and Esther and Isabel went to Camrose.

Either thought our country was so nice and green, and she had imagined Camrose as being a small town, so she was really surprised of its size.

Recently, relatives and friends from Oak Lake and Kenton, Manitoba, stayed overnight with Isabel Nelson.

The came via Paradise Hill, and found the caterers so thick on the road that the car slipped going up hill.

Isabel Nelson accompanied them to Camrose where they met Isabel's sister, Florence, who had come from Calgary to meet the cousins.

The next two days were spent visiting at Fernie and Camrose - no caterers!

We are very sorry to see our banker, Rick Sautjens and family leave Hardisty, but our loss is Drumheller's gain.

In turn, we welcome Don Hutchinson from Okotoks, Alberta, who takes Rick's place. Mr. Sautjens was serving as mayor of Hardisty.

Seen in Cecilia's Cafe, the former Crystal Cafe, were Pete and Barbara Stolt, enjoying coffee with Barbara's father, Fred Drager.

Seen there too, a few days later, were Bob

Chadwick and his friend from Edmonton.

A very well known man throughout Alberta passed away at his home in Sherwood Park. Namely Roy Cecil Marler, age 84 years.

Mr. Marler was one of the original directors of the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool and was also president of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture for 10 years. He was a director of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and president of the Alberta Farmers Union as well as active in other well known organizations. He was also elected to the Alberta Agriculture Hall of Fame in 1972.

Sympathy is sent to his wife Edith and family Edith Miller came from the Rosyth-Hardisty area.

Legislature Report

Companies get tax credits

The provincial government has improved the climate for oil and gas exploration companies, while devaluing the move is intended to ease some of the pressures applied by the National Energy Program (NEP).

In a decision expected for several months, the provincial cabinet approved bigger tax credits than previously available for companies that do seismic work and exploratory drilling.

The most dramatic improvement in the incentives for seismic work. Companies will receive a 11% per cent increase to 17% per kilometre for basic seismic operations. And in some cases they will receive four-fold increases to as much as $5,000 per kilometre for special programs that minimize wilderness disruption.

Improvements in exploratory drilling incentives are not nearly as large, but are still substantial. Companies that drill deep wells in the province will receive as much as a 50 per cent increase in credits.

A 5,000-meter well will qualify for a $934,000 credit.

In the foothills region, where incentives are already high to compensate for the higher costs of working in difficult terrain, the incentives have not been enriched as much as elsewhere.

A 1,500-meter well, for instance, will qualify for a $3.1 million credit, an increase of about 18 per cent.

The objective of the revised credits is to cover about 25 per cent of exploration companies' expenditures on what are considered to be higher-risk wells.

The revision doesn't quite bring the incentives level as high as the 1974-75 standards, when companies could expect to have 27.5 to 56 per cent of their exploration expenditures covered.

Government officials estimate that about one-fifth of the roughly 4,000 exploratory wells drilled in the province last year, benefited from the government's incentive, which cost the treasury a total of $194 million.

This year, the government expects to forego $200 million, under the new credit system.

The exploration incentives represent only a small proportion of the total subsidies the government has given to the oil industry in the last few years.

Provincial Treasurer Lou Hyndman has estimated the companies have benefited from $3.1 million in royalty adjustments, incentive tax credits, royalty holidays, and other measures since the government initiated its Alberta Petroleum Exploration Plan (AEP) in 1974.

Industry spokesmen have reacted favorably to the new incentives, although they argue it has done very little to offset the negative impact of the National Energy Program.

However, companies whose ownership is more than 75 per cent Canadian, will be able to claim NEP incentive grants of up to Alberta credits, to have nearly 80 per cent of their exploration expenditures covered by the taxpayer.

starter Larry Ness after two-thirds of an inning had to be ranked himself before the game was secured.

Larry Cox turned out to be the fireman needed, forcing Sedgewick to bounce into a game-ending double play, after one run was scored.

Claude McArthur of Sedgewick Oil Supplies, was hand to pick Mark Pirkus, with the championship trophy.

A pick-off play, with Mark Pirkus, usually on the front end, was a treat to watch.

Lougheed won the championship by edging Sedgewick's 5 in a seven-inning thriller.

Roy Kean and Ralph Stoll of Sedgewick led their charges "up" for the game, forcing Lougheed to use three pitchers, but to no avail.

There were numerous double-plays and in fact winning pitcher Mark Pirkus, who relieved

Sedgewick Sports Day

Sedgewick's 63rd Annual Sports Day can be termed a success, although the cool afternoon breezes cut down on the number of spectators for events at the Rec Centre grounds.

Early risers stiffed themselves with pancakes and coffee in preparation for the parade, which was termed by one spokesman, as almost as good as last year's 75th Anniversary parade.

Led once again by the Dayland Tigers and Sedgewick Legion Colour Party, the parade consisted of a pleasant variety of entertainment with the surrounding district well represented.

In addition to the floats, there were decorated bicycles, and children, and clowns such as the "rubber-tube" man, and puppet characters, who provided much amusement for spectators crowding the parade route.

In the noon meal, we are told, Kermil, the Frog couldn't find his favorite food, flies, on the menu, and rumour has it that Miss Piggy became "ill" on seeing pork chops served. Other Muppets were trying to "davour" residents of the Lodge, being too busy to observe the misfortunes of their spokesman.

Ball games, chuck-wagon and chariot races, and horsehoes took place at the Ag. Society grounds, where participants and spectators had to brave biting winds. An evening dance was held at the Rec Centre closed the activities.

Sedgewick Bakery float, consisting of a cake and real cookies, took first prize in the commercial category of parade award winners, with the gaily decorated Bearstos Bros. entry taking second.

Normally at this time of year, one-half of the town is in the water for outside purposes, then the other, on alternating days.

Town residents were advised in person, or a pamphlet left, advising them of the situation. They were informed that it had been found necessary to cut off all outside watering - no lawns, gardens, etc., anywhere in town.

Patrols are making rounds to ensure that the regulations are heeded. Citizens have been warned that unless they might have to be taken to alter-supper hours. Before the cutback, Mr. Richard said similar action has had to be resorted to "for years."

The deputy mayor suggested that perhaps another year, outside watering could be restricted to after-supper hours. Before the cutback, Mr.

Bott Lake to become park

There will be a Provincial (or recreational) Park developed at Bott Lake, located west of Drayton Valley on Highway No. 15, it was revealed at the June meeting of the Bow River Tourist Association.

While the park won't be developed overnight or perhaps for a few years, the ground work is now firmly in place.

Special Projects Chairman Joyce Harrison reported that land negotiations are in progress with both the County of Flagstaff and Charles Stewart, MLA for Wainwright have advised her that the proposed park will indeed become a reality.

The BRTA has been hammering at this particular project for years, and as Chairman Harrison stated, "persistence in pointing out the great need for such a facility and lobbying governments at all levels has produced results."

The County of Flagstaff has developed a Municipal Park located at Fish Lake, about three miles west of Hardisty.

The park has overlighting facilities, lots of tables, stores, etc.

In a question as to whether the park is signed, the chairman said she would look into the matter.

Some 300 students enrolled in the Red Cross Kinnmen sponsored swim classes now in full swing at Sedgewick Lake. Classes are being held daily with Miss Lakens and assistants of Hardy in charge.

The Sociology class at Killam Public School did something a little different on the last day of the 1971-72 school term. They celebrated a centennial, which is the 100th anniversary of the school which was opened June 30, 1891. The capstone of the celebration was a play in the northeast corner of the school grounds and in a market in June of 1900. Present students are probably a children- and perhaps grandchildren.

IT ALL STARTED OUT innocently enough. I had gotten out of bed in a surly mood not expecting anything earth-shaking during the day to arouse me from a state of lethargy which seemed to have taken hold of me during the week. Apathy had set in. I was in a state of shock. I was determined that whatever came before me or whoever approached me in any manner whatsoever would be met with determination and that I would leave no doubt as to my mental situation. I was so far out of social condition that I turned on the T.V. just to see how others felt and to ascertain the State of the Nation. It was the best move I ever made, for out of it came a cure for my ailing condition. It was a balm to my soul and therapy for my physical being. The subject on the screen had to do with the then impending election and an interview with a Mr. Don Johnson. I love that man for he did for me that day. He restored my equanimity and gave me reason to finish out the day with my usual calm, friendliness and low voiced agreement with everything. I'll tell you how he did it.

government side of negotiations with a most militant group of employees. His job is to beat them down to reasonable requests and to counter each move they make; to expostulate, expound, cajole and threaten, all of which he carried out reasonably well. But the summation of his entire treatise was what made my day, he said, "You know we have a responsibility to the taxpayers of this nation." That set off the scene and if I had not been leaning well back in the lay-boy chair I might have landed on the floor and fractured my pelvis. Laughter took over completely.

FOR THOSE OF YOU who don't know it and so have never tried it, let me tell you that medical science has never come up with therapy that can compete with a real good "belly laugh". You know, the kind that takes off from the inner depths of the diaphragm, way down deep, and takes off with rapid succession through the cavities of the midriff and comes to life in an uncontrollable emission from the mouth conjoined by skin color, shaking diaphragm and moist eyes. A handful of kindness helps. You literally laugh yourself into crying. That's what tears are really for isn't it? I saw a young lady recently who got into a state of laughter so severe she had to take a short break to the bathroom. She got doubt relief from anxiety, and when she came back she said, "thank you, I sure feel better" and well she should.

"WE HAVE A RESPONSIBILITY to the taxpayers of the nation." That's what started it all and so it deserves a bit more attention. It would probably be a waste of time to expostulate on why the statement struck friendly recall with my funnybone for you know as much about "things" as I do. Suffice it to say that it recalled situations and actions taken on by governments, which if they were not so serious would cause laughter among the multitude. Millions spent for deprivation; added millions spent to assume positions far better left to free enterprise; more millions spent to retrieve revenue which will never balance out the needless expenditures nor lessen the capital debt. Needless expenditures to maintain a system so overburdened with party leeches as to ensure re-election. A system which really doesn't care too much about the man on the street, especially the taxpayer, so long as the party keeps hold of the reins and spends our money in attempting to justify its behavior.

AND THEN TO HEAR a high government official tell us that he and his government has a responsibility to the taxpayers of the nation. Well, now, can't you see why my laughter made my day? Not because I convinced me of anything, but simply because the absurdity of the statement was so obvious that I thought even Don Johnson could see it. I'll bet a shilling that he laughed when he got off the air, and I wanted to be the first to join him. Laugh and the world laughs with you, cry and you cry alone. So let's all laugh at him, maybe our obvious ridicule through laughter will have more effect on his future than a good cry. Such hide-bound officials pay little attention to tears of sorrow but they can't stand the tears of bitterness. So let's laugh at them.

There have been many tributes paid to Terry Fox in the past months. It is hard for us to fathom the depth of his devotion to a cause. In an age so bent on self-interest, self-preservation, and material gain, Terry's actions have come like a breath of fresh air after a stifling day.

For there was a man who gave his life for a cause that might one day be less suffering from the dreaded disease of cancer; a day that he knew he would never see. He brought the essay out into the open and called it by name, that one of its greatest advantages, "death" might be defeated.

Terry was quite aware that the deathly purchase shall not be wasted on fancy buildings and costly administration, but shall be used to finish the battle with cancer, the race called by Terry.

Where it is stated, "Greater love hath no man than he who lays down his life for a friend."

It should be far from my prayer that the money that Terry purchased shall not be wasted on fancy buildings and costly administration, but shall be used to finish the battle with cancer, the race called by Terry.

Where it is stated, "Greater love hath no man than he who lays down his life for a friend."

Editorial

Hobbies feel need, but . . .

What ingredients contribute to the making of a contented person? Of course, every individual is just that - a personality, distinct from every one else.

Heritage plays a major factor in one's make-up, and despite the influence of environment, characteristics from family background are predominant.

Most people are supposedly happy in their line of work, however this is not entirely so. We know many factory workers, for example, who are only "going through the paces," because of the financial rewards, or simply because there just isn't employment available to their liking.

Home-life is certainly an utmost consideration - many are happy in a domestic situation, with children to amuse them, and take up their "spare time."

Others may find enjoyment parked in front of the "boob tube".

The popularity of arts and crafts in recent years, provides that need for thousands, young and old.

"Recreation" in its various forms, such as camping, fishing, baseball, softball and other sports, certainly comes under the classification of a "hobby" for hundreds in East Central Alberta.

Collection of various items such as antique cars, antique furniture, stamps, coins, sports photos and yes, even newspapers from different parts of the world, provides a hobby for countless others. And to many, travel to distant provinces, and countries, is "just what the doctor ordered."

While hobbies have a definite place in our overall plan, a reader last week complained that perhaps electors were engaged too much in recreational pursuits, to turn out at the polls to elect a councillor for Division 4 of Flagstaff Council, or even care about county affairs.

There may be an imbalance in the time allotted by many, between the devotion to civic duty and recreation, as charged by the letter writer, (some call it apathy), but "it's a free country".

UPDATE

The County of Flagstaff now has its own Consulting Service, through Flagstaff Family and Community Services (formerly Flagstaff P.S.S.).

Topics include family matters, individual problems, career planning and educational interests.

Please phone the Flagstaff P.S.S. office for an appointment at 364-3974, Full Free (through the operator) at Zenith 2228, or contact Counsellor Nancy Holman when she is in your area.

There is no charge for this County-wide service, and all matters are strictly confidential.

OLD FELLA WINN

Mac McKie of Kinleith affectionately known as the circuit as "The Old Fella," was named the All Around champion at the recent Lee Park Rodeo, held just north of Marwayne, Alberta.

In the same rodeo, Bill Kinleith of Viking, and Brenda Anderson of Pentahon, won the team roping event.

Many visitors attend Sedgewick Sports Day

Betty Walsh
 I'm sure I'll miss lots of folk who were here for July 1st, but here are some I saw, or was told about.

Mrs. Robina Cox of Edmonton with daughter, Valerie, and grandson David, of Sylvan Lake; Mr. Ross MacGregor of Powell River, B.C.; Janet Jean Bricker and daughter, Lisa of Strome; Mr. and Mrs. Clarke James and children of Elmore; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Moore of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Neill of Red Deer; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jackson of Irma; Mr. Bill Arbuckle of Altmore; Mr. Furdie Wong (Jr.) of Edmonton; Mrs.

Beth Blaeser and Tricia of Sealer; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walsh, Robert and Todd of St. Albert; the Gerry Miller family of Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Newman from B.C. and lots more, I'll remember as soon as I've sent this in.

I hear that Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson and Mrs. and Mrs. Francis Moore were around during the weekend. The Johnsons lived here for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McBride and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Dissen and family, all of Edmonton, were weekend visitors at the George Jenvey home.

Mrs. Evelyn Meier, Matt and Jennifer, left on Friday for a holiday in Ireland.

Mrs. Gretchen Howeth returned home to Port Hardy, B.C. on Saturday, after staying here with her mother for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Miller and children of Calgary, who have been staying at her parental home, the Rod MacKinnons, left on Sunday afternoon to return to their home taking with them, Shelia, Sharon and Scott MacKinnon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Freeman have been babysitting their daughter, Darlene's (Mrs. L. Schmidt) children, while she was patient in the hospital. Pleased to hear she is now at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Deane Freeman and children returned to their home in Langley, B.C. on Tuesday. Mrs. Agnes Carlson went along with them for a visit.

Congratulations to Tom Watkins who received the Most Valuable Player award in the July 1st Baseball tournament. Geoff Barry was the runner up.

Hardisty Council reports hospital approved

The first meeting under the new mayor C. Rempel was called to order on Thursday, July 2nd, at Hardisty council chambers.

Concern arose over the misunderstanding over whether Hardisty had received an approval on the hospital. As it is obvious, we have.

Frank was in attendance to update us on the planning in this area. We appreciate their hard-nosed attentiveness to our area, and urge them to keep up the good work.

The town fully understands any possible acquiring of a dental, as pointed out to us from the Small Business and Industry official in Camrose. Some dentists are looking at establishing practices in the East Central area.

The town has designated distinct lots near the Arena for parking for the "Hockey in" and regular arena use. Signs will be posted on site.

We have lost two flags from the Canadian flag play. Revolvers has lost its flag, Home Hardware lost theirs, Lakerville Golf lost theirs, and the hospital lost an Alberta flag within one week.

Mr. and Mrs. Deane Freeman and children returned to their home in Langley, B.C. on Tuesday. Mrs. Agnes Carlson went along with them for a visit.

Some grief. But the Hawaiian State Flag arrived today.

Most of the residences requested to clean up their yards have conformed, but it seems taxpayer money will be used and reclaimed to clean up some of these yards.

The town has endeavored to clean up the weed problem vacant land and hopefully all will be completed by Round-Up Day.

The town is being approached to clean up these vacant lands, is going to enforce the cleaning up of certain vacant property, which has been littered with discarded cement and debris by adjacent landowners.

The Mayor and Council would like to wish everyone a safe and happy summer!

Prepared by Coun. G. Fritz.

Fritz Howeihe passes

The funeral of Fritz Howeihe was conducted by the Reverend Tim Johnson at Bethania Lutheran Church on Tuesday, June 23rd at 2 p.m.

Fritz Howeihe was born September 18, 1901 in Kallstadt, Germany (now part of East Germany). His family had been bakers and when Fritz began as well was the eighth generation of bakers in the family. There were three other sons in the family as well.

In 1943 Fritz married Herta Kleinspater and, who still in Germany, two children were born to them: Gretchen and Fritz.

The family moved to Canada in 1948 living first in Edmonton for a few years and then moving to Sedgewick in 1956. Here Fritz opened the help bakery in law and remained in business for many years. Baking was his vocation and not only a job to be done. The family lived behind the bakery until 6 or 7 years ago when the present house was prepared and bought. The house and yard have absorbed his energy and his life since then. The bakery business was reluctantly given up 6 years ago.

About five years ago Fritz began to experience various symptoms which finally became apparent as cancer. He underwent some treatment and began a long fight with the disease. Fortunately he did not need to be hospitalized for long periods and he remained as active as his health allowed and his "stubborn" spirit insisted. He died Saturday, June 28, at home attended by his wife and son. Fritz was 79 years old.

Russia during the war and another in 1963. His mother died in 1946 and his father in 1962.

Rejoicing in the memory of his life and now mourning his loss are his family: Herta, his wife; his son, Fritz; his daughter, Gretchen, of Fort Hardy, B.C. and one daughter, Crystal, in Germany, as well as two grandchildren.

The pallbearers were Mrs. Colin Baird, Mr. Gordon Muirhead, Mr. Bob Muir, Mr. Ray Pol, Mr. Don Anderson and Mr. Mike Smith. Dr. Meier and Mr. Jim Walsh were honorary pallbearers. Mrs. Inga Jacobson played the organ for the service.

After interment at the Sedgewick Cemetery, the L.C. provided a lunch for friends and relatives at the Church Hall.

Few competitors in trap shoot

Only seven trapshooters showed up for last Sunday's, June 28, Zone 4 shoot-out at Hare and Sedgewick Trap Club, contending for a place in the Alberta Summer Games at Lethbridge in August, and organizer John Golka is to say the least.

Mr. Golka lays the primary blame at the feet of the provincial government, game sponsors for their failure to provide funds to advertise in the competition, an oversight which has affected many events.

Also, the rules governing the eligibility of trapshooters came under fire. Mr. Golka, who said the competition was open only to those who had previously won in provincial or Canadian competition.

He stated that most shooters have won something over the years, and criticized those who had set up the rules.

"I'm unhappy over the rules, the way they are written," Mr. Golka flatly stated.

While realizing that the aim of the Summer Games is to provide an opportunity for persons who have never won anything, Mr. Golka said that most sports have divisions, and if this formula had been applied in this situation, experienced trapshooters would not be competing against amateurs.

"I expected 20 to 50 shooters to turn out," stated Mr. Golka, in expressing his disappointment, at the apparent lack of interest in the Summer Games.

He added that, "I would say there is something wrong."

A director of the Alberta Trap Shooting Association, Mr. Golka said the group had discussed the situation, but Game organizers "didn't ask us for any help."

In the actual competition, which included Open, A, B, C, and Junior, Mr. Golka took the A Class, Alex Forbes of Corcoran was the B winner, and John's wife, Corinne, took the C Class.

There were no entrants in the Junior age class, for those between 13 and 17 years of age.

Sedgewick to start water line installation

Equipment is being moved into Sedgewick this week to commence installation of the Town's water system, with St. Lawrence Construction (Western), Ltd. of Edmonton, scheduled to complete the project about December 1.

Town Council has indicated that to cause as little inconvenience as possible, water service lines will be installed to the property line at the same time as the water main is being installed. Service lines will be installed as close to the centreline of the property as possible, unless the owner has an individual preference.

Officials state that an attempt will be made to install service lines as not to disrupt sidewalks, sanitary sewer services, driveways, or any other obstructing objects which may exist.

Hobo's visit is surprise

Last Monday afternoon, Silver Link Rebe-kah Hobo's of Killam paid a surprise visit to the home of Beattie Brodie.

A social afternoon, reminiscing over the early days of the Lodge, and past events, was enjoyed by all.

The afternoon passed all too quickly. Who knows where the Hobo's will visit next, as Rebe-kahs, keep the coffee pot on because they do like their cup of coffee.

project: Agriculture ... expanding our potential

In Agriculture, the Heritage Fund directly helps rural Alberta farmers as well as scientists conducting agricultural research in Alberta laboratories. Through the Heritage Fund, Alberta farmers benefit from the purchase of 1000 new farm implements which are speeding our farm production to market. Heritage Funds have also been committed for investment in Prince Rupert Terminal. This will produce a new and much improved port outlet for the marketing of our agricultural products to promote the growing of Alberta agricultural products in Alberta, the Heritage Fund has also invested in the new Food Processing Development Centre near Leduc. Your Heritage Fund is committed, over the long term, to help make our future more secure.

Working through the Department of Agriculture, irrigation systems are being refurbished and expanded; and irrigation hardware are being built. Public grazing lands are being developed which are also being used to promote livestock breeding to improve livestock quality. The promotion of agricultural research by the Farming for the Future project allows all sectors of Alberta's agricultural community to increase productivity.

These long term investments of the Heritage Fund assure the future viability of agriculture and reflect the fundamental aim of the Fund. Since 1976, 30% of all revenue from your oil and natural gas - non-renewable resources - has been placed in the Fund. The Heritage Fund is committed, over the long term, to help make our future more secure.

Support, through an even wider range of activities, for our farming community is just one visible way that the Heritage Fund is committed to agriculture today for tomorrow.

 GOVERNMENT OF ALBERTA

Hardisty Chamber deplores land loss

It is becoming increasingly apparent to any frightened, concerned Albertan, that too much valuable farm land is being allowed to disappear forever from food production, claims Hardisty Chamber of Commerce in the following viewpoint and letter.

Farm land is raised for productivity as numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, etc., with numbers 1, 2, 3, being the most valuable. Since these valuable land areas have taken their toll of more than a hundred thousand acres in the last two years alone.

We feel it is time Peter Lougheed and his Cabinet were made aware of the urgency for strong government legislation in this matter. Agriculture must in principle through a firm government stand, is useless.

Urban expansion, the building of roadways, drilling wells, acreages for homes and construction of industrial sites, have all taken their toll of more than a hundred thousand acres in the last two years alone.

We feel it is time Peter Lougheed and his Cabinet were made aware of the urgency for strong government legislation in this matter. Agriculture must in principle through a firm government stand, is useless.

Farm organizations are at the present time pressuring the government for such action. We feel other non-farm organizations must take responsible action to prevent the deterioration of the agricultural land base in Alberta, and must add their voices in protest before we are forever, all the losers.

In this light, the following letter has been sent to Peter Lougheed by the Hardisty Chamber of Commerce.

Dear Mr. Lougheed, The Hardisty and District Chamber of Commerce

Vandals remove flags

It seems a shame that when people try to beautify a spot in Hardisty, vandals try to undo hard work.

The Devonian park at the end of main street has looked very smart with 16 flags waving in the breeze.

But, alas, vandals took two of the flags and pulled the poles down. Many businesses also have been stripped of their flags.

What does the town have to do to prevent this willful damage?

We're sure many of us would like the answer to that.

48 YEARS AGO

About seventy-five members and visitors attended the constituency conference held in the assembly hall of the Sedgewick School on Tuesday, July 15. This ended another year of very active service and work on the part of the Women's Institute in this area.

The War Work committee of the Red Cross has sent another shipment to Calgary. This shipment was made up of one pair of mitts, sixty-four pairs of socks, two pairs of women's stockings, four sweaters and three scarves.

The Wyoming Softball team is undefeated in the last two years. At a softball tournament held in Lacombe on Wednesday, July 15th, the Wyoming team won the pennant by defeating Albion 13 to 7. In order to work up to that stage of the proceedings, however, the boys had to dig in good and hard to raise the Lacombe flag. Their first game was a walk-around when they took Bashaw into camp 25-2. John Anderson and Cliff Simpson were the Wyoming battery in both games.

30 YEARS AGO

The Presbyterian Ladies Association held the July meeting at the home of Mrs. Russell Grant, with 17 members responding to roll call with an article for the fall bazaar made from a flower sack. Three visitors were present. The meeting voted $40 to be turned over to the Board of Managers to aid in re-organizing the church basement.

The Storme Sports held on July 11, was a success, with sunny skies, and entertainment for all. The bait game results were as follows: first game, Storme 18, Kilian 3; second game, Heiler 18, Kilian 4; and in the final, Heiler 18, Kilian 4.

18 YEARS AGO

In "The Runoff" by Seacey, was written as that Ducks Unlimited was a project in mind in the area between Kilian and Sedgewick, on Iron Creek. The subject was to be create a watered area of considerable extent for breeding purposes of wild game birds. It was intended that the plan would raise the level of the lake at Sedgewick enough so that there would be a possibility (just a possibility) that it could be stocked with certain varieties of fish.

A.P. Crop Report: Rain received June 30 amounted generally to 1 1/4 or more, maintaining satisfactory to good moisture conditions. Crop prospects south and west of Edmonton are classified as fair and throughout the remainder of this area prospects are reported as good to very good.

Private George Goldman, 31, son of Mr. Eva Goldman, Sedgewick, has successfully completed a 30-week recruit course at the Hamilton Galt Barracks in Edmonton. Now a trained soldier, Pte. Goldman will be posted to the 2nd Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in Edmonton, to complete his training.

William Ross Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Grant, engaged in the R.C.M.P. Police on January 4, 1971. Having successfully completed Recruit Training on July 15, 1971, Constable Grant is being transferred for duty to the province of British Columbia. Monday, July 19th had ideal weather for Sports Day at Kilian. Breakfast was served to start the morning off, and was followed by a parade at 11:00 a.m.

Vandalism is everywhere

Every community has its pride, but there always seems to be an "element" which tries to undo all the good that has been done.

Centres such as Daysland, Alliance and Sedgewick held special activities to mark Canada Day. Heiler held his Kids Day, Kilian held its Rodeo Days, and Hardisty has just completed Roundup Days, and is looking forward to its Homecoming weekend.

Citizens and organizations are banding together to install artificial ice at Kilian, and Forestburg is preparing for the coming winter sports season by installing a unique ice plant in its arena.

The accomplishments in the name of community betterment are endless.

That's the plus-side, but then there is the minus-side.

Usually it is the "doings" of just a few, but the damage caused by vandalous acts is far-reaching.

Hardisty Chamber of Commerce has combined ingenuity with hard work to establish itself as "Flag Capital of the World".

But the news emanating out of Hardisty this last week, was heart-breaking, to say the least.

Vandals had struck, and not only were Chamber-sponsored flag displays "desecrated", but also flags at commercial enterprises were stolen.

While the culprits may have considered their actions as "hijinks", citizens took a different view.

Town Councillor George Brisk commented: "Hopefully, they're happy, they've caused someone some grief", while our correspondent stated: "It seems a shame that when people try to beautify a spot in Hardisty, vandals try to undo their hard work".

And recently at Daysland, someone apparently hooked a chain to the screen on the south side of the tennis court, bending some of the piping and screening, according to President Ray McClure.

At one time, Sedgewick had street signs, but the temptation was too great, and they are now a thing of the past.

We are sure other communities have experienced similar destruction.

It's high-time that actions such as these, should not be tolerated.

Undoubtedly, police cannot be everywhere, however citizens knowing anything about these criminal acts, should perform their civic duty, and aid in convicting the guilty parties.

What Others Say

Posties

Another postal strike comes as no surprise. Our postal system is a national joke and the sooner it is taken out of the hands of the federal government, the better.

Now, the service is not considered essential and the government has stated that it has no intention of ordering the inside workers back on the job. Nor are the talks being taken seriously. When the government goes from a soft line one year to a hard line the next, a strike is bound to result.

Crown corporation management may not be the answer to all the problems in the postal service, but surely it will be an improvement. The job cannot be done when an inconsistent government deals with irresponsible union.

The Third Column

BY THURSCATE
"I Write as I Please"

WAVE THE FLAG and blow the horn, an expeditionary force is born. Well, maybe not born exactly, so let's say reborn or re-surfaced, and showing the public that it can act with speed and aplomb when the situation demands action, quickly, decisively and co-operatively. All the members may sit in the Commons and their angry passions rise in false indignation, yell at each other to shut up and let the process of democracy proceed with accuracy and dignity, righteousness and fairness; accuse one another of insincerity and showmanship, but when it comes right down to the nitty gritty of looking after themselves they form a solidarity group that would put the Polish movement to shame. After all the first degree of man is self-preservation.

IN THE LAST COLUMN it was advocated that we laugh not with our members of parliament, but laugh at them. Why don't we do that? Every time we get the opportunity to talk to an M.P. laugh at him. After all they are a joke and everybody laughs at jokes. Even the people who are able to joke about things. One Pole told his friend he was going to Cracow to get food. His friend said why go to Cracow, the food is in Warsaw. True, said his neighbor, but the line-up starts in Cracow. When you can say things like that you will survive. Laugh your way through your troubles, it's easier on the constitution and worth a whole bottle of medication.

OF COURSE, being the perceptive readers you are, you have already guessed what I'm getting at here. But just in case you haven't been paying attention, I'll tell you. The recent pay raise our "statesmen" voted themselves indicates clearly that politicians can work in harmony and accord when it comes to feathering their own nests. During the course of the past four years they have succeeded in hiking up their pay by some 62 percent. All this in spite of the nation's trying times and attempts to hold everybody else to lower percentages. Besides, they assure that a percentage of their pay is tax free; something else denied all the rest of us. Ah consistency thou art a jewel. Now, just to show that they are all tarred with the same brush, observe that they over 90% of the Liberals voted for the increase, just over 50% of the Conservatives and 70% of the N.D.P. Some of those who didn't vote for the increase also didn't vote against it, so use your imagination to calculate what they were really thinking. You know if you are not for me you are against me, or are you?

THE ENTIRE POLITICAL PROCESS has become so rotten at the core that sometimes I think it cannot be salvaged at all. Politicians have earned a dirty reputation and some of us have become so disillusioned with the entire process that we have forsaken the scene. I used to be a card-carrying political member; in fact at one time was a paid-up member of two parties. I watched the political mill grind from the inside and learned at first hand the intrigue, deception and falsity. Now I have made my conclusions, torn up all membership cards, ceased my donations to all political parties and have become an independent citizen. One who can sit to one side and laugh at them all; knowing they have been using me, misleading me and playing games with me. You may think that democracy can't work if we all do that, but listen my friends, democracy is not working in Canada with my participation, so I've decided to let it struggle along without me. I'll vote as I please, or not vote if I please. I'm going to argue with every politician I meet; I'm going to tell him what I think without reservation and I'm going to tell him to act as himself and not as the party line demands. But most of all I'm going to laugh at him, and laugh and laugh until he finally sees the joke and joins me in raucous gust of hilarity which will only mean that he too has seen the light, and is admitting the absurdity of the entire process.

The Scriptures and the

This article is a continuation of "the twilight years" begun two weeks ago.

As we begin now to pre-which Christ gave about this mystery, we put a very human question. Does nothing of man really remain? Has the dead person actually appeared? Is the love and insight of a human life suddenly extinguished at death?

no, the warmth and light which some one has spread continues to live in others. It is mankind that has a powerful influence on the lives of his loved ones. It seems as though his death does not matter. While our own great-great-grandfather's are often hardly even names to us, Christ remains a real person.

It may well be said that no matter how "personal" the influence of one who is dead and buried, it is still not the man himself. Surely the best, the person has disappeared. Let us first consider Christ once more. He is not merely recalled and admired from afar, like Rembrandt or Madame Curie. He is spoken to one loved when we remember him in our church liturgy, he is among us. We recognize that the lives we live in the trust sense of the word, His influence is manifold, so deep and marvelous precisely because he himself is present through his spirit, in us with us, to exhort, strengthen and console.

This faith in the resurrection of Jesus Christ is the heart of the gospel. No one who believes in the "good things" of this life with us, to exhort, strengthen and console.

President Emma George called the July meeting to order with 30 in attendance. In the absence of the secretary, M. Gibb, the June minutes were read by M. Brodie, who reported the card table top had been changed on Friday evenings 7:00 to 9 p.m. (12 and under) and 9 to 11 p.m. (teens). Other hours are Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday, 7 to 9:30 p.m. and Sundays 1-4 p.m. This summer the music has been changed on Friday evenings and the purchasing committee reported the dinner tablecloths were ordered and their supplies had been purchased. It was decided to have a pot-luck picnic at the Killam Centennial park on Monday, July 20th at 1:30 p.m. Come with your favorite food. Coffee will be supplied. Suggestions were made as to what still needed and it was agreed the executive meet and list the items the grant will cover. Those wishing to play cards on Thursday afternoon are asked to make a phone call to neighbor.

Rainproofing your house

No one likes to think about rain in summertime, most of us prefer to concentrate on the more sunshine, the better. However, the rain is a fact of life, and besides, it's good for our gardens, good for farmers, and good for the economy as a whole. But, what about your house? Can it survive the rain? By that I mean, heavy rain. If your basement becomes damp or flooded after a heavy rain, track down the cause, and correct it right away, or you could be in for more problems than you bargained for.

Here's how: check the slope or 'grade' of the soil around your home. Soil often settles over a period of years, and may be sloping toward the house instead of away from it. This, of course, results in water collecting around the foundation and eventually it seeps into the basement. Eavestroughs should be checked regularly and cleaned.

Trailer maintenance

There are seven sure-fire ways to cause a wheel failure on your trailer and ruin a camping or boating vacation. "We call them the Seven Deadly Sins of Trailering," says R.D. Dushaw, marketing director of Canadian Timken, the tapered roller bearing people. "They cause these trailer breakdowns you see so often at the side of the highway in the summer."

The saddest part of a trailer breakdown, adds Dushaw, is not the trouble and expense of repairs, although that must be considered. It is the loss of precious vacation and leisure time.

Here are seven sins: 1. Ignoring regular maintenance on your trailer.

Wheel bearings should be inspected and repacked with grease every spring and fall, says Dushaw, before the boating and camping season and before storing the trailer for the winter. The maintenance requires only basic tools, he says. "You should check the dust cap for signs of wear, which would indicate it is no longer tight and would allow moisture and road dirt to get and attack the bearing and hub."

The seal and bearing should be checked for any signs of wear or rust, and, if necessary, replaced.

Nicks or rough spots on the hub and spindle should be smoothed with a fine file or emery cloth. Everything should be thoroughly cleaned with a safe solvent and repacked with grease before assembly.

2. Driving your boat trailer into cold water to unload immediately after a long hot trip.

The most common cause of bearing failure is water sticking and rust,

Medical costs more abroad

Albertans travelling outside Canada should keep in mind that their Alberta Health Care Insurance is unlikely to cover in full, medical expenses incurred abroad. Travelers wanting more complete protection against the high costs of medical treatment in other countries should seriously consider purchasing supplemental medical coverage.

The warning coincides with the start of the peak summer holiday period, but is equally relevant to the large numbers of Albertans heading off in winter vacation trips.

As long as the route and destination remain in Canada, the financial risks are fairly low, as health care costs across Canada are generally in line with Alberta rates.

However, outside Canada's borders, medical expenses, particularly if hospitalization is required, can jump dramatically. This is especially true for many of the U.S. summer and winter resort areas most popular with Canadian tourists.

In issuing the advisory, Bill Clark, chief director with Alberta Hospitals and Medical Care, reports that almost every out-of-country claim received last year, exceeded the maximum payments allowed under the Alberta Health Care Insurance Plan.

"While residents registered under the plan do not lose benefits while temporarily out of the country, all payments made must follow the fee schedule in effect at the time," he explains.

"The balance becomes the responsibility of the individual, and frequently Albertans seem unaware and totally unprepared for the extra payments they may face."

Eighty-five per cent of Alberta Health Care's out-of-country claims stem from treatment received in the U.S. Bills of $10,000 in excess of health care benefits are by no means rare; they have ranged as high as $30,000. Extra billings in the $1000 range are common. A discounted Canadian dollar adds to the problems, as Alberta Health Care payments do not cover a higher exchange rate when billings are in U.S. dollars.

Enrolment under standard Alberta Blue Cross group, or non-group coverage or under other separate employment group plans or privately-owned insurance policies may provide some additional medical protection. Travelers are urged to check carefully the small print for restrictions or limits, as payments may still fall far short if lengthy or high-cost treatment is required.

Supplemental travel insurance provides the most complete medical coverage. The two most common sources are Alberta Blue Cross and the Alberta Motor Association. Tourists travelling outside a group arrangement can sometimes obtain special trip insurance, including health care, through their travel agency. Some of the established insurance companies also offer special health care packages for travellers.

Generally, premium rates for the added travel protection vary with the length of stay and the number of people covered. Blue Cross, as an example, quotes a daily rate of 60 cents for single coverage, $1.30 for a family.

Albertans are reminded to always carry their health insurance cards, and to list a registration claim, recording a change or seeking information.

ATTENTION FARMERS HAIL INSURANCE IS A NECESSITY

Hail can take a year's work in just a few minutes. The premium will not break you. A TOTAL LOSS MIGHT.

Happy Riders hold Challenge Show

Fifty-six riders turned out to compete at the Happy Riders Fourth Annual Challenge Show, July 4th and 5th at Hill Top Acres.

For the two-day affair was Terry Froman from Ponoka, with Joanne Doody, Carol Arlison, Shirley Holmberg and Angie Blaser taking shifts at the job of ring mistress.

Rud Doody was announced with Marie Parsons and Diane Blaser performing the job of secretary.

In spite of the extreme heat, the entries were large, with competitors coming from Botha, Camrose, Hanna, Alliance, Hardisty, Heisler, Killam, Merca, and Viking, as well as the Happy Riders Club.

It was a pleasure to see Mary Ann Cole of the 4-H Branch in attendance. Western Day was held on Saturday, and English Day on Sunday.

Even though entries were small on the English Day, a super afternoon of jumping classes was enjoyed by both spectators and competitors.

The Challenge trophy was once again won by the Happy Riders, the club that earned the most points.

Hearings soon on 'proposed plan'

A document presented by the planning staff was given the status of a "Proposed Regional Plan" by the Regional Planning Commission at its June meeting, on the understanding that the commission may make further changes, following public input.

The action was taken to proceed with the public hearing process, although the County of Camrose, through its representative, L. Coyne, said it had not had the chance to review the proposed plan, and he asked that the matter be tabled for another month.

Members pointed out that acceptance of the document as a proposal for public discussion gave the BRPC the power to amend it later if necessary.

pleated, and recommended that it be accepted by the Commission. The Study will be circulated to those directly concerned for comment.

A letter from the Town of Hardisty advised that their representative, Mr. Rich Smith had been transferred to Drumheller, and Councillor Gordon Brils has been appointed as Hardisty delegate. Councillor L. Drever will serve as alternate member on the Commission.

The Alberta Planning Board forwarded a ministerial order, which adds the villages of Bowell and Hay Lakes as voting members on the Commission, and deletes the Village of Loughdale.

A letter was received from the Village of Strome advising that their municipal requisition for the year is $281.05 and they questioned why they are required to pay approval fees for a transfer document when the requisition is so high for the amount of benefits received.

The BRPC received notification from the Alberta Planning Board as to decisions on several appeals, and these appeal decisions were reviewed. Members felt that as in previous months, these appeal decisions were reviewed.

Miss Soloway was an excellent judge as she took time to give us all a lot of very helpful comments as well as encouragement, which we, as members, really appreciated. We enjoyed a very beautiful pot-luck dinner at noon, and finished the day off with all the ice cream we could eat, compliments of our leaders, Ella and Kenny. Club Reporter: Kirby Whitebeck.

Card of Thanks: We wish to thank all those who came out to our achievement day and helped in any way to make it a great success. We especially wish to thank Bernie and Laura who so willingly came out on short notice to spend the day helping our members in so many different ways. Your kindness and help was greatly appreciated by all.

Pony Club has camp

The first Pony Club camp was held at 200 Camp Acres, July 7 - 18 for ten members of the Flagstaff Branch. Angela Doody of Sedgewick and Janet Malone of Red Deer, instructed riding classes and lectures.

The daily schedule began at 8 a.m. with feeding horses and mucking out stalls, and included two one-and-a-half hour riding classes, two three-quarter hour lectures, shooting practice, plenty of tack cleaning, and a swim at the Killam pool. Mothers of the members were kept busy preparing meals, washing dishes, and trying to keep an eye on classes, in order to learn what they could.

Thursday evening, the members had the written exams that placed them at a level according to Pony Club standards. Writing these exams were Kelly and Tracy Arntsen, Jeff and Collin Boscheck, Angie Blesser, Teresa and Heidi Parsona, Holly Holmberg, Toni Smolai, and Donna MacPherson.

On Friday, a combined

Margaret Fischer of Killam can consider herself lucky - she has her life, but her 1975 Cougar is a total write-off. Early last Saturday morning, her eastbound vehicle left Highway 13 near Strome, crossed the ditch, and became "high-centred" on the railway tracks. Attempts to remove the car failed, and it was demolished by a westbound freight train, according to investigating RCMP. There were no injuries.

Water line work progresses

About ten volunteers have responded to Jim Tindall's invitation to act as volunteers at Hardisty Homecoming Days, August 1 and 2, and more assistance would be appreciated.

The idea is that Sedgewick will supply water mains for Sedgewick's water system is progressing at a rapid pace as workmen for the contracting firm, St. Lawrence Construction (Western Ltd.) of Edmonton, are working practically from sun-up to sunset.

With Sedgewick's subterranean is mostly sand, there is little to impede the work.

Except at one point, when water itself, ironically, presented a temporary problem.

While Sedgewick water is of excellent quality, and most homes have an adequate supply, the prime purpose of installing a water system is to provide adequate protection against fire.

The 60,000 gallon water tank used by Sedgewick Volunteer Fire Department has been seen better days, resulting in a council decision to install a

Killam C.W.L. hold farewell tea for ladies

Killam's C.W.L. sponsored a farewell tea and made a brief sketch of Sister Carol and Mrs. Mann's activities during their years in Killam followed.

A thought-provoking game led by the hostess prompted each lady to present to consider something "I've never done". Those who disagreed forfeited a token. A variety of original and hilarious ideas emerged after much mind and soul searching. A prize for the most remaining tokens was awarded to Mrs. Gerrie Slavik.

The question "Who is wearing the most buttons?" initiated a "dress inspection" of all present, with Sister Carol having the prize winning total number of buttons.

On behalf of all present, Mrs. Nikiforuk extended a wish for future happiness and success to both special guests in their new homes and work. Sister Carol leaves Killam to return to London, Ontario and Elise Mann will join her family who have already taken up residence in Bradburnham.

Vote on ice loan guarantee

Proprietary sectors of the Town of Killam will be asked to guarantee repayment to the Treasury Branch of a $250,000 loan to the Killam and District Agricultural Society for the installation of artificial ice in the Killam arena.

Voting will take place on Wednesday, August 19th, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and results of the vote will be made known on Friday, August 21st.

A contract has been signed with Reggin Industries of Calgary to install the refrigeration equipment, and it is anticipated that Killam will have its artificial ice by early October.

More than $50,000 in donations has been received toward the approximate total cost of $200,000, and much volunteer work was done in preparation for the actual artificial ice installation.

Cheque delivery date uncertain

Although there is limited mail delivery along Highway 13, there has been no official word received by the Sedgewick Post Office, pertaining to the delivery of Family Allowance cheques and Old-Age Pension cheques.

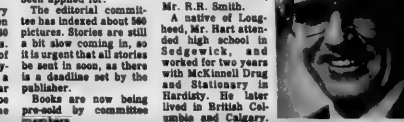

A spokesperson at Sedgewick Post Office said a radio report indicated that Family Allowance cheques would be distributed on August 29th, but that can't be taken as official.

Considering the information available, it appears that eligible cheque recipients should be waiting for the cheques, however long it takes, because nothing is official.

A native of Loughheed, Mr. Hart attended high school in Sedgewick, and worked for two years with McKinnell Drug and Stationery in Hardisty. He later lived in British Columbia and Calgary.

Wyoming - A Harvest of Memories

Many memories are written on the pages of time.
Of Wyoming school district 1789
Our fond recollections may not be the same
But lets travel together down memory lane.

For twenty five bucks in 1906,
The Brimcos sold land at the going rate.
Wyoming was built on the lot that was bought.
And Miss Weir was the very first teacher they got.

For the next 40 years, there were teachers galore:
John Edgar, Lily Park, Elmar Huse, then three more;
Betty Bonner, Myrtle Anderson and Miss Edith Pottinge.
Most of them living in the little white cottages.

Carl, and I were janitors at school for awhile.
He'd get up bright and early and run the half mile.
To build a fire in the furnace, the drafts open wide,
In hopes that by checktime it was warmed up inside.

Memories are golden except for this rule.
That in winter all children wear longsleeved to school.
For the boys this was fine, for the girls, it was shocking.
How to hide underwear underneath our wool stockings.

We'd fold and we'd tuck, couldn't hide our bad humors.
Till our stockings hung smooth underneath our big bloomers.
We'd scratch and we'd itch; turned into real clawers.
When we'd back our wool underbirts like our drawers.

One day after school Leonard Brimco asked Ab.
Over to his house to have a big slab
of his Mom's home-made bread, with thick peanut butter.
He forgot about chores, got his folks in a fluster.

My kid sister Elaine says they'll have to contest.
That Edith Hughes played the piano
sometimes at recess.
They'd whirl and they'd twirl as graceful and fair
Dreading of Hollywood-dancing with
Fred Astaire!

It was spring of the year, the sun shining hot when they were at school, it had melted a lot;
An ocean of water covered the road
home.
Mr. Edgar carried Anna; she couldn't make it alone.

Jean Reynolds and I were best friends
from Grade 1,
We were always together - had barrels
of fun.
We shared secrets and lunches - Jean
sometimes said,
She'd trade me her chocolate cake, for
she loved my burnt bread!

At noon hour to eat we would sit on the bench.
But it seemed that the boys preferred
the bad stench
Of the bars; so they'd climb up the
rafters with their lead balls
Enjoy their noon lunches, and tell their tall tales.

One day there was trouble, it made
Mrs. Park wail
For Carl put manure in Frances Mc-
Pherson's lunch bin.
Carl warned him I told Mom I better understand.
That he'd tell of the spelling words I wrote on my hand.

By the late 1930's when I went to school,
The underwear bit was no longer the rule:
Mellon cloth ski pants, with elasticcuffs
That billowed and scratched when I strutted my stuff.

When nature called, our hand we would put up with ease.
We'd map our fingers a bit "May I leave the room please?"
Mrs. Park never "went," so to this I obey.
That with excellent plumbing our teacher was bliss.

One day teacher sent us to pick quite a few Wild strawberries over by Swainson's slough.
She forgot to add sugar when she stirred up the cake,
And we was the worst shortcake that we ever ate.

The first red fireballs we'd seen, I remember.
Admired Mrs. Park's hands, when she returned one September.
The very next summer we stared even more.
For we couldn't believe the Red shoes that she wore.

We played lots of games, mostly all were top - notch.
Anti-bi-ower, red-light, and hopscotch.
In summer down gophers, the sandbox we'd use.
Jack and marbles in springtime, in the snow, fog and goose.

We'd teeter-totter, and swing way up in the air.
Not one single worry, and never a cry.
I'd stand up to swing and I'd swing sitting on it.
My stomach would flip - flop and I'd have to vomit.

One day after school Leonard Brimco asked Ab.
Over to his house to have a big slab
of his Mom's home-made bread, with
thick peanut butter.
He forgot about chores, got his folks in a fluster.

My kid sister Elaine says they'll have to contest.
That Edith Hughes played the piano
sometimes at recess.
They'd whirl and they'd twirl as graceful and fair
Dreading of Hollywood-dancing with
Fred Astaire!

It was spring of the year, the sun
shining hot when they were at school, it had
melted a lot;
An ocean of water covered the road
home.
Mr. Edgar carried Anna; she couldn't
make it alone.

Jean Reynolds and I were best friends
from Grade 1,
We were always together - had barrels
of fun.
We shared secrets and lunches - Jean
sometimes said,
She'd trade me her chocolate cake, for
she loved my burnt bread!

At noon hour to eat we would sit on the bench.
But it seemed that the boys preferred
the bad stench
Of the bars; so they'd climb up the
rafters with their lead balls
Enjoy their noon lunches, and tell
their tall tales.

One day there was trouble, it made
Mrs. Park wail
For Carl put manure in Frances Mc-
Pherson's lunch bin.
Carl warned him I told Mom I better
understand.
That he'd tell of the spelling words I wrote on my hand.

The north window in the porch got broken one day.
The basketball was the culprit, but Ab had to pay.
He also remembers when an airplane
they heard,
And they quickly rushed outside to view this big bird.

Carl and Eddie pumped water, the fountain to fill.
Heard a splash, dumped it out, then made a mess.
Had Mrs. Park known, would have caused quite a ruckus.
Kerdy's mare had a cold, at school
like the buck.

Heartburns, Simpsones and Kerthas had horses to bring.
Them; by cutter in winter: By buggy in spring.
Heartburns drove "Skooter" and Simpsons drove "Fly".
Kerdy's mare had a cold, at school
like the buck.

Happy Memories of Hallows'en will always remain.
How we'd make witches and pumpkins for each window pane.
There'd be apples from the ceiling and more floating in a tub,
And we'd better catch an apple, for there wasn't any grub.

Up girls would build houses out east in the trees
And make roofs of branches all covered with leaves.
We'd eat our noon lunch there and have a good chat.
But the boys would bombard it, the sassy young brats.

The annual Christmas Concert was quite an event.
From the first of December much time was spent Practicing plays, recitations and drills.
Our Moms making crepe paper costumes with frills.

Many families were asked a white sheet to bring To surround the big stage and draw open to sing.
The day of the concert, we got to leave early.
Our new dresses to don and our hair to make curly.

Mr. Ball was the chairman, he'd always come late.
His gold watch from his pocket he'd carefully take;
Then the program would start, all would heartily clap,
And Santa'd arrive with our gifts to unwrap.

Sometimes kids were kept in the school to catch back
"We won't know what's happened if we don't make a check!"
So to the furnace air intake, outside the west wall.
Head first up the vent Ole Eldey would crawl.

Steve Pottinge, a tall, dark and handsome young fox,
Came to Wyoming one evening, and there met Miss Cox.
He was very impressed, asked Bessie
for a date,
But John Branscome had brought her,
so Steve was too late!

Each year every student was assigned a small young fox.
To plant their own garden and weed it all.
Charlie Ball was the judge, two bits was the best
Prize to be won, in the garden contest.

The Wyoming School picnic was held in late June.
On the last day of school in the mid-afternoon.
Peanut scrambles, ball games, and the big water.
Cake, sandwiches, cookies and coffee galore.

Jack Multhead on his mail route,
the ice cream would pack,
First - in for the picnic in a strong canvas sack.
We'd be at the mailbox, sometimes wait quite a while.
To rush all that ice cream into an ice-pit.

There were many sack races and foot races too.
But the race for the Mothers, the largest crowd drew.
There was Mrs. Whitten, Mrs. Heartburn, and one or two others.
But the winner of the race was our foot-tooted Mother.

Behind the furnace girls jackets hung,
back at the door.
The strap and lard pails of lunch on the floor.
The boys with their lunch in the porch could have been So lucky all winter - each day brought ice cream.

Each year very early, as girls would start
To make many valentines shaped like a heart.
With an arrow shot thru 't; then some little less.
"I love you" or "Will you be my valentine?"

At school, a big box with a heart on each side,
And a nail in the top about four inches wide.
Was filled to the top with the cards we all did;
Mrs. Park added hers, there was one for each kid.

Our teacher would ask one or two to help pass
Valentines out to the kids in the class;
We'd check them all quickly, wonder and fuss.
Would the friends we gave cards to,
give cards back to us?

The Musical Festival was an annual event.
Irene Leedholm and I and Elsie Ecks-strand several weeks we had spent, Practicing the duet we hoped Laura would bring.
"Santa Lucia" was the song we would sing.

But the girls got all flustered when others sang the same song.
For they all sang "Lucia". "Lucia" was all wrong!
It was too late now to change it, so they really gave'er the gas!
But still they came in at the bottom of the class.

We were never allowed to leave the school yard.
But sometimes the boys found this rule was too hard.
So over the fence and away they would sneak.
But if Mrs. Park caught them the outlook was bleak!

One thing I remember you could count on in spring.
Just as sure as the robins returning to sing;
We'd wiggle and jiggle but couldn't swim.
From the miserable odor of bad-smelling feet.

It's been fun reminiscing as we've turned back the clock.
A few things we've remembered, much more we've forgot.
Enough has been said, we don't want to press
Your patience any further, with our foolishness.

We thank you for coming, "Hans't this been a great day?"
Just as sure as the robins returning to sing;
In 30 more years, we hope you'll be tuned in.
To help celebrate at our next school reunion.
-Evelyn Milling, Camrose.

Molly Fernyough

Mrs. Marie Noss and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hays and family of Lougheed have returned home after a visit with their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Eric Onken have returned home after a month's holiday, through to Alaska. They reported having a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lehr and family spent a few days last week in the area and grass were made to look quite nice. But on Monday night, July 13 we had a real good rain to help along the situation.

Mr. Willie Wright of Vancouver Island, with his son, was here for the week, visiting his mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. John Wright.

Mrs. Shirley Rancier and son, Garth, of Kilham spent Tuesday afternoon, July 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wright to help John celebrate his 33rd birthday.

It was also their 10th anniversary. Congratulations and many good wishes were given to them.

Young people that ride their bikes on sidewalks, should be more careful, especially when they come to corners. Last Friday afternoon, a lady was going over town from the east, and at the corner of the Co-op Store, a bike came around and bang, it was at her. There were no bad effects, only a little skin and wrist. But what would have happened if it was a child, or an elderly person. So, slow down at corners, please.

Mr. and Mrs. George Marlow and Gordie and Alma and family, attended their daughter June's daughter's wedding in Edmonton last weekend. Mr. Bob Paul of Windermere is here visiting her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Drager, and family.

Welcome back to Lougheed to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Derragh and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wagner and family. We also welcome Harold Hart and family.

Merna Vacation Bible School

The Merna Seventh Day Adventist Hall, centrally located from Alliance, Galsbad, and Forestburg to the south and Killam, Sedgewick and Laughed to the north, was a busy place from July 20 through 24 when over 60 boys and girls participated in Vacation Bible School.

Twenty-five leaders, teachers and helpers kept things rolling smoothly, so that everyone had a very enjoyable time.

Pastor Warner Seidel captivated the minds of the Juniors and Primaries as he told the stories of Bible heroes, and helped in lesson study.

The Juniors made little wren houses and macaroni decorated pencil holders. The Primaries made beautiful egg carton flowers on wall plaques, magnet felt wigs and carpet-clipers. The Kindergarten class

The Primary Class displays crafts at the annual Merna Seventh Day Adventist Vacation Bible School, held July 20 - 24. Over 60 children attended, with the program including games and Bible stories, as well as crafts. Students were from Killam, Sedgewick, Laughed, Forestburg, Alliance and Galsbad.

Made fans from popples, wall plaques from colored macaroni, and a bird feeder of cloves and orange.

The boys and girls are to be commended for their excellent cooperation, responsibility and sportsmanship, throughout the whole week.

All classes played outdoor games, the Juniors especially having an exciting time playing softball.

Deb Keindorfer is one of three students hired for the summer by the town of Killam. Their duties include more glamorous things such as painting, cutting lawns and weeding.

Making pickles and relishes at home

A new booklet entitled "Making Pickles and Relishes at Home" gives specific directions on selecting and preparing pickling ingredients, and on processing pickles and relishes.

Although today's food markets offer a wide variety of pickles and relishes, many people prefer to make their own when their garden vegetables and fresh fruits are in abundance, and at their best.

"Making Pickles and Relishes at Home" contains basic recipes for such old-time favorites as pickled peaches, piccalilli and sauerkraut. It also contains recipes for the newer fresh-pack or quick process dills, sweet gherkins and dilled green beans.

The spices in these basic recipes can be either increased or decreased according to personal taste.

Pickled products are classified on the basis of the ingredients used and the method of processing. There are four main categories: brined pickles, fresh-pack pickles, fruit pickles and relishes.

Brined pickles, also called fermented pickles, have to go through a curing process for about three weeks. Dilled cucumbers and sauerkraut belong to this group. Fresh-pack or quick-process pickles, which include cucumber, cucumber slices and whole cucumber dills, sweet gherkins and dilled green beans, are soaked in brine for several hours or overnight.

Fruit pickles are usually prepared from whole fruit and simmered in spicy, sweet-sour syrup. Relishes are prepared from fruit and vegetables which have been chopped, seasoned and cooked to the desired consistency.

In addition to information on the characteristics of the four main categories of pickles, "Making Pickles and Relishes at Home" discusses the ingredients and equipment that are needed for successful pickling, recommended procedures, common causes of poor-quality pickles and common causes of spoilage in sauerkraut. It also contains a large number of pickle and relish recipes.

"Making Pickles and Relishes at Home" (Home-Books 118) is published and distributed by Alberta Agriculture's home economics branch, and can be obtained from district home economists, or the Provincial Media Branch, 13 Agriculture Building, 9715-107 Street, Edmonton, Alberta T5K 2C8.

COME ALIVE

(Continued From Page 9) ness, it is raised in power. It is born a physical body, it is raised a spiritual body" (1 Cor. 15:42-44). We are not to think so much of the biological body as of the body which has the life of a new creation. The biblical phrase "coming out of the grave" means that we shall be our own selves - the same as before, but with a difference, just as Jesus after his resurrection was the same, but also different, so that his Apostles knew that it was the Lord, but did not recognize him at first.

This article concludes the series of articles dealing with "life after life". I would solicit your reactions, giving me your letter and soon to what I have written thus far. A lecture - seminar dealing in detail with this subject is offered this September in the Anglican Church of the Resurrection. The workshop will be held on two consecutive nights from 7 to 10 p.m. Dates will be announced in the press. I am requesting that you register now as I am only accepting 30 to 40 persons.

Strome News Shower for Sheila Pottle

Shaheen Edgington

A shower was held for bride-elect, Sheila Pottle, on July 24, in the United Church basement at Strome. Seated at the head table with Sheila were Janet Sprague, Wanda Redman and Bonnie Hancu. Mrs. Pottle and Mrs. Sommer.

Guests, Theresa Still presented Sheila with a rose corsage. The group took part in a game and were entertained by two musical numbers sung by Jeanne and Vicki Sommer. The opening of gifts was followed by lunch. The evening was enjoyable for all who attended. I suppose you noted the omission of a "Strome News" column in last week's paper. We took a long weekend to holiday at Lower Lake. I expect to be submitting your news items regularly during the remainder of the summer.

Congratulations to Tim and Leona Colwell on the arrival of their daughter, Olivia Grace, July 19 at the Killam General Hospital.

Guests to the home of Gordon and Ray Pottle were Jack and Ruth Pottle, of Laughed.

The Allan Arbans attended the wedding of Ruth's nephew, Dennis Carter, at Provost. They spent part of the weekend at the home of the Allan Arbans. Homecomings for classes during 1943-1962 and 1963-1973. On checking over the classes it was noted that Ruth had taught at least 500 students during that time.

On their return trip home they visited with friends at Chauvin, Wainwright and Charlie Arbans at the Viking Auxiliary Hospital.

Last week the Arbans visited Ruth's brother, Jim Carter, at Smoky Lake, where they found asaskatons growing abundantly.

Recent visitors to their home have been Mr. and Mrs. D. Ferguson and girls, of New Norway; Mr. and Mrs. W. Meiers and daughter, Wanda, of Provost; Mr. and Mrs. H. Libhart of Edmonton.

Congratulations to Myron and Noreen Klasson on the arrival of their daughter at the Saint Mary's Hospital in Camrose, a sister for Benji.

Janet White is away at Fort McMurray for a few days to visit Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hill and baby Michael.

Jane Rowe has been transferred back to the Dayland Hospital, hopefully she'll be home soon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Arnett kindly let a water hose run from their house to our Manito Manor after the emergency water cut-off.

Motoring delight

By Clyde R. Lemieux
The Grand Tour of the Yukon is an experience no motorist can ever forget.

The 1,400 km (860 miles) can be done in three days easily but, as they say, only a fool rushes through a banquet.

This fascinating wilderness circuit starts at Whitehorse and the route includes such interesting and beautiful places as Lake Laberge, Carmacks, the Klondike Dawson, the Top of the World Highway, Tok (Alaska) and Klane National Park.

A continuous panorama unfolds on both sides of the highway.

The easy way to start this memorable trip is to fly to the Yukon's capital, Whitehorse, then rent a car or a recreational vehicle.

Whitehorse is a modern city of 15,000 which has preserved enough of its remarkable past to make visitors feel they are roaming in when they are really pampered.

Three days is the minimum required to enjoy what Whitehorse and the surrounding area have to offer.

The MacBride Hotel, old skyscraper, old church, 55 Klondike Riverboat, and fish ladder, are along the path by 300 visitors each summer.

To the south of the city is Miles Canyon, a row stretch of the Yukon River between high cliffs.

Your boat takes visitors on two-hour cruises up and down the canyon, or it can be reached on a suspended footbridge over the canyon leads to a mountain hiking trail.

Just north of the city is Tahkini Hot Springs, a surprising sight in the north. It is open year-round with its mineral water at a constant 39 degrees Celsius (102 degrees Fahrenheit) in the summer and 45 degrees Celsius (95 degrees Fahrenheit) in winter.

Whitehorse is on the Alaska Highway, the road that stretches 336 km (209 miles) from the Yukon capital to Dawson, the former capital, is known as the Klondike Highway.

With only 10,000 inhabitants (excluding Whitehorse) in a territory twice the size of the United Kingdom, the Yukon proves a sense of solitude to most visitors. More animals than people may be encountered on the trip.

For half the distance to Carmacks, 175 km (109 miles) away, the road parallels the Nordstrom-Fossen River Valley with a snow-capped Miners Range in the background.

At Carmacks, a small community named after one of the original discoverers of gold leading to the famous Gold Rush of '89, the highway crosses the mighty Yukon River.

Carmacks has a hotel, motel, campground, grocery store, and two service stations.

Modern bridges new cross two other important routes, the Pelly to the Stewart. Limited services are available at the two such settlements that bear their names, Pelly Crossing and Stewart Crossing.

From Stewart Crossing, the highway takes the Flaming Trench all the way to Dawson - known as Dawson City in Gold Rush days when its population exceeded 30,000. The present population is just 500.

For its size, Dawson probably has more to offer visitors than any other place on the continent.

It is Diamond Tooth the only place in the territory's, the only permanent legalized gambling hall in Canada, where Black Jack and Roulette are played to the sounds of a honky-tonk piano, and the high kicking of cancan airs.

Fancy buildings such as the Hotel Grand Central Theatre, once an opera house, and the 1900 Theatre, are still in operation.

Dead saloons appear to be everywhere, and the log cabins of post Robert Service and author Jack London are still in operation.

The short drive (10 minutes) to the top of a surprising sight in the north. It is open year-round with its mineral water at a constant 39 degrees Celsius (102 degrees Fahrenheit) in the summer and 45 degrees Celsius (95 degrees Fahrenheit) in winter.

in the sky, sometimes above the tree line.

At one point, it is only 300 km (186 miles) from the Arctic Circle and, although summers are pleasantly warm in the Yukon, there is snow and ice in crevasses along this awesome highway.

It is about 150 km (93 miles) between Dawson Boundary, Alaska and there are no gas stations in between. It is wise to gas up the trip whenever there is an opportunity.

Crossing the border from Canada to the United States, or vice versa, is an uncomplicated formalities. Motorists, however, must check their watches since there is a difference of two hours between the two sides.

The Yukon belong two hours ahead. Customs also close at night. It is important to know their hours of operation before starting the drive.

A one-night stop at Tok (its name was shortened from Tokyo during the Second World War) is a welcome pause after the breathtaking driving experience from Dawson.

Tok has good accommodations and all services necessary to travellers. It is at an important highway junction.

Northern traffic on the Alaska Highway, keep going to Fairbanks, from here, or turn left toward Anchorage, Seward, or Valdez.

From Tok to the Canadian border, the highway is paved, but narrow and tortuous. On Book traces education

A concise history of the development of post-secondary education in Alberta has been published by Alberta Advanced Education and Manpower. Access to Opportunity 1900-80, which includes maps, charts, and historical photographs, traces chronologically the growth of and changes in higher education since the inauguration of Alberta as a province.

What we have attempted to do is provide an adequate perspective of the past 75 years for the planners and the decision makers who will influence the future shape of the system. Policy planning in post-secondary institutions, though related to the future, must be carried out in the context of past decisions," said Dr. Desmond Berghofer, Assistant Deputy Minister of Program Services, Alberta Advanced Education and Manpower, and co-author of the book.

The other author, Alan Vladicka, is a graduate student in History at the University of Alberta. He researched and documented most of the data as a project while he was an administrative intern with the department in 1978.

Convinced of the value of the documentation beyond departmental use, since no other such publication exists, it was decided to prepare an external publication. With the assistance of ACCESS, work proceeded on verifying the data and writing the material into book form.

Mr. Vladicka did extensive work on ordering the material into convenient reference format as well as providing additional material.

Dr. Berghofer prepared the introduction and the last chapter, which synthesizes the lessons learned from the past, and discusses the impact on the future of post-secondary education in the province.

The intent of the book is to focus on the development of government policy and to assess its impact on Alberta's system of advanced education, as well as stimulate more in-depth analysis.

Hardisty prepares for homecoming

Blanche Nelson

Homecoming is just around the corner. Has everyone registered? Hope everyone enjoys themselves.

Anyone having family and friends or visitors, staying with them during Homecoming, please let me know as soon as possible. I will be honored to print their names and where they are from in the next issues of the year.

If I'm not told about it, how can I report on it!

Deep sympathy is extended to Pauline Gately and family, on the passing of her sister, Margaret Crychuck of Hardisty.

son Ray, Saskatchewan, on July 22nd, 1981.

Lightning storms caused two fires, one set hay stacks ablaze and another set some prairie grass and trees on fire. The weather surely has changed from other years. I myself, in the thirteen years I have lived in Hardisty, have never seen such weird storms.

Quite a change is happening in the old International building, now owned by Doug Irving. It seems the old building is getting a face lift.

Hardisty Public Library Book draw winners were: Miffy's Birthday, David Cullen, Edmonton;

Three Mr. Books, Cheryl Halsey; Where the Wild Things Are, Adrienne Penny; Thimble Summer and Pin Family Mountain, Larry Kruse; Go Jump in the Pool, and I Want To Go Home, Cary Wadell; Miller's Boy, and A Day No Pigs Would Die, Fanny Wilder; Crazy Eight, and 3 for Zachariah, Jayson Anderson; Random Wids, Esther Johannsson; The Bourne Identity, Orma Thorpe; Rage of Angels, Deedee Cahill.

Hardisty swimming lessons are success

The Hardisty Elks sponsored another successful two weeks of swimming lessons at Hardisty Lake.

The lessons were held from July 6th to July 17th, with approximately 135 participants attending lessons.

This year's instructors were Gail Kidd, head instructor, and three junior instructors, Jody Overman, Taryn Stoke, and Karen Dussell.

Pony Club members attend horse show

Several members of the Pony Club, who are also H-H members, attended the Regional Days Horse Show in Ferestburg. Each member reported having a good time and a successful show.

The Hastings Coulee Club, and the Regional Horse Show committee, are to be congratulated for doing a superb job of organizing this function.

Three new Pony Club members are welcomed: Laurie Rodelchak, Jackie and Debbie Ridley.

Heather and Teresa Parsons are spending Monday and Tuesday in Red Deer getting acquainted with other team members, and practising for the National Tetrathlon.

They will be leaving for Richmond, B.C. next week, and we wish them the very best.

Pony Club continues to meet each Wednesday evening at Hill Top Acres, and new members are welcomed at any time.

We welcome Allen Nelson of Hardisty as the new Meat Manager. Allen has 16 years experience in the meat field and looks forward to meeting and serving you.

Perfect weather prevailed for the Hardisty Homecoming, Aug. 1 & 2 and it was fitting that Sunday morning's church service was able to be held outdoors on the Hardisty Hospital grounds.

The service was highlighted by music provided by the inter-departmental choir, led by Gordon Brice. Many hours of practice were put in by members, in order to achieve the desired effect. As inspirational sermon based on the theme "Heritage," was delivered by Rev. Edworthy of Edmonton, the keynote speaker.

Land is Annexed Boat kills Hardisty man

The Town of Sedgewick will now increase its size by 3.86 acres, with approval for the annexation given by Flaggstaff council last Thursday's meeting.

It is located south of the railway tracks and west of the Sedgewick access road.

Mayor Ernie Koonil said that the land will be put out for industrial lots. The property was purchased by the town from Gordon Muirhead.

A tragic boating accident on Saturday afternoon at Hardisty Lake claimed the life of Kirk Broughton, 34, a life-long resident of Hardisty.

Apparently one of the other skiers had fallen into the water and the remaining four skiers were dropped off as the operator circled the boat to return for the pickup.

It is thought that Mr. Broughton in some manner, dropped off too soon, and the boat driver was unable to see him over the hill.

Death was instantaneous, and the body had been decapitated. Hardisty Homecoming events scheduled for Hardisty Lake on Sunday were moved to the Battle River in order that a search for the body be conducted.

The remainder of the body was found about 1000 ft. The accident is under investigation by RCMP.

Walter Kobitsch paid $650 for the first edition of the Hardisty history book, "Those Years From Rail to Oil". Making the presentation is Mrs. Vivian Robinson, after a spirited auction had taken place in the arena, Saturday night. Mr. Kobitsch also composed a song, "Dear Old Hills of Hardisty, for the homecoming, and supplied free ice cream for the children on Sunday afternoon.

Hardisty Homecoming

A Homecoming to commemorate history is now itself history as Hardisty Homecoming has itself passed into the annals of time.

As a tribute to Hardisty, Mrs. McKee donated an illustrated picture book entitled "Beautiful Australia" to the library. Also recognized at the Saturday night dance in the arena were seven residents of Hardisty since its inception: Ben Bennefield, Len McShane, Lloyd McShane, Gladys Siebrasse, Lloyd Grainger, George Whitlock and Marguerite (Rogers) Drever. All received mementos.

Mrs. Mary Goodrich was presented with a plaque for her work in initiating and assisting in preparation of the Hardisty history book, "Those Years From Rail to Oil".

Karen (Drever) James of Edmonton was present to accept a merit award on behalf of the federal longest distance. E. Motherly of Sprinfield, (continued on page 4)

Mr. and Mrs. Max Kirkman from B.C. are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gordie Kirkman and family, also taking in the Hardisty Homecoming.

Congratulations to all of the people of Hardisty, near and far, that are attending this 75th Homecoming Anniversary. We are sure there has been lots of work put into making it a great success.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Frost have their granddaughters, Kim and Lisa Roberts of Calgary, visiting them. Their mother, Mrs. Sheila Roberts will be with them this week-end, too.

Tender for water wells awarded

By Sedgewick council, due to vacations, only one meeting was held during the month of July, as members available were insufficient to form a quorum.

Work is progressing satisfactorily in the construction of the water main and hydrants. Due to the size of the trench which has to be excavated, considerable disruption of traffic is being experienced on the streets serviced thus far, but hopefully, these will be restored as soon as the service are in.

Tender for the drilling of water wells has been awarded to Servold Sons of Devon, at a cost of $4,979 per well. The town has been invited by the County to co-host the August 26th meeting of the Eagle River Tourist Association, and the invitation has been accepted. Council has approved a lighting improvement plan on Ambler Street, which will see the erection of 18, 250-watt H.P.S. Street Lights from the corner of Railway Avenue, North to the end of the mobile home park. These will replace the six mercury vapor lights, which presently serve this section of Ambler Street.

Building Permit applications amounting to a total of $147,000 were received during the month of June, and $44,000 in July.

At the suggestion of our Town Constable, a motion was passed that the stop sign be removed from Mackenzie Street at the intersection of Thompson Avenue, and one yield sign be erected on Thompson Avenue as it intersects with Mackenzie Street from the West. (This is the intersection at what used to be the site of the old creamery).

Hardisty Lions Club presents PONY CHUCKWAGON AND CHARIOT RACES

Sedgewick district news

Five tables of what players and a couple of crib players were present for the Wednesday afternoon Card Party at the Senior Citizens Drop-in Centre. Mrs. Lillian Craig and Mr. Goddard Erickson were prize for the highest scores. Mrs. Ida Black and Mr. Charles Lane were awarded consolation prizes. A piano has been purchased for the Centre and the members are looking forward to some good sing songs.

Sedgewick folk helping out at Hardisty's Homecoming Saturday night dance were Eldred and Jim Tindall, Myrt and Dick Matthews, Thora Johnson, Judy and Mel Kapicki, Carol and Gary Culbert, Brian Farn, Elaine and Monte Keith, Pat and Bill Innis. The Ken Muhlhaier family of Idaho, who visited at the Keith home this week, are now on a holiday in the mountains.

Jim Todd fatally injured

Jim Todd, 79, a resident of the Kaslo area south of Car, was killed instantly late Saturday night, while returning home from the Hardisty Homecoming.

It is not known whether Mr. Todd had suffered a heart attack or fallen asleep, prior to the accident. He was thrown from his truck. A mixed farmer, he had been semi-retired. Mr. Todd is perhaps best known for his activities as land pickup man at rodeos, and he had appeared in that capacity at the Calgary Stampede.

Starting as a pickup man about 1954, he was well known by cowboys all over Alberta. He leaves his wife, Ida; sons, Rodney and Dave, and daughter, Marilyn. Mrs. Isabel Nelson of Hardisty is a sister.

Congratulations to Bud and Melody James (nee Rod) on the birth of a 6 pound, 11 ounce daughter, Marcelle Dawn, arrived Thursday, July 22. Paddy Oshack was honored by her family at David Fishing Pool, on July 24 on the occasion of her 79th birthday. Approximately 40 relatives helped "Ma" celebrate, and enjoy a picnic dinner. The afternoon passed with much chatter, laughter, reminiscing, fishing and swimming. The birthday cake, appropriately decorated with a camping scene was enjoyed by Paddy, her many gifts and messages of good wishes. Guests included her husband, Hans, her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, sisters, brothers, nieces and nephews, and a host of in-laws.

and Mrs. Clough of Alliance have been keeping weather records for many years and will again be sharing their findings with readers of this newspaper.

The following is a brief summary of precipitation received during the 1981 crop year which starts
the first week of April.
Precipitation, April 19.3
mm.; May 48.5 mm.;
June 32.1 mm.; July 40.1
mm. A total of 193.7 mm.
or an average of 48.4 mm a month. Looking back at the weather chart so many of our storms amounted to 1.0 mm or 2.0
mm often accompanied by high winds and high temperatures. I'm sure we all remember the mud rains we received. Precipitation amounts have varied greatly over the surrounding area.

Flagstaff accepts acid waste

A load of neutralized hydrochloric acid was accepted on Monday at the Flagstaff Regional Waste Sanitary Landfill site. It was removed at a public meeting on hazardous wastes, held that evening in Killam.
Flagstaff-Clerk Treasurer Orville Likness said that before the implementation of the landfill site it would not have been possible to have accepted such materials.
But he remarked, the same could not be said for garbage contained in bags picked up at residences.
Mr. Likness said costs of the Flagstaff Regional Waste System are levied on a per capita basis, and "everybody pays the same."

Flagstaff has few sites for hazardous wastes

There are very few areas in the County of Flagstaff suitable for the location of a hazardous waste plant, according to Jim Steele, a member of a hazardous wastes team, which appeared before 30 citizens at a public meeting in Killam on Monday night.
By the series of overlay maps, Mr. Steele explained the various criteria which eliminated certain portions of land as unsuitable, so that only
"fringe" areas remained.
However Burke Nagle,
a consultant with the citizen team, said later that only about one section of land is required for the location of a hazardous waste plant.
Any area which eventually receives a hazardous waste disposal operation receives much in the way of economic benefits, Mr. Nagle stated.
Mr. Steele said that drilling is going on said that the cost of two or three transfer systems in Flagstaff would be "prohibitive," stating that the county has a population of about 10,000.
The assessment was told by Mr. Steele that the most critical aspect of siting is the non-renewable resource, remarking that prime agricultural land "pretty well covers the whole of Flagstaff county."

Artificial ice still 'go' Killam debenture lost

Despite a flat rejection of a debenture issue by citizens of the Town of Killam, the artificial ice installation program at Killam Arena is proceeding on schedule.
The results of last Wednesday's vote and advance poll were 190 opposed and 43 in favor.
Taxpayers were asked to guarantee repayment to the Treasury Branch of a $350,000 loan to the Killam and District Agricultural Society for the purpose of installing artificial ice.
Much of the work connected with the project has been done by volunteers, and as a show of the community's spirit, about 30 volunteers were at the Arena, the night after the vote was taken.
Other financial arrangements had been made by the Agricultural Society, however had a municipal debenture issue been approved, the rate of interest would have been considerably less.

It is understood that the artificial ice committee said that the original cost of the project had been estimated at approximately $300,000, but every effort is being made to reduce the actual cost by using as much volunteer labor as possible, to as low as $200,000. Ammonia is being used as the freezing agent instead of fron, another cost-saving measure.
Regin Industries of Calgary are being hired in a supervisory capacity.
About $50,000 in donations have already been collected, but it is stated that fund-raising efforts will be stepped up in following weeks to swell the amount of public contributions.
An October 1st completion date still appears realistic, according to a spokesman.
Initially, volunteers removed the boards surrounding the hockey curtain, uncovered the seats to the required level, then applied sand.
Next, heat pipes were laid to prevent damage by permafrost, or heating or cracking of the main concrete floor.
Heat pipes were installed by a local business firm.
Presently, a double layer of styrofoam has been installed, and galvanized strips are being secured to hold chairs, which in turn will support the wire mesh.

The Battle River Tourist Association mascot entertained the kids at the Lougheed Fall Fair parade on Saturday.

The Third Column

O CANADA, WE STAND ON GUARD FOR THESE what a misnomer this part of our national anthem has turned out to be. Is it any wonder that the citizenry of this country are presently staging this anthem with even less enthusiasm than previously? We really were never a people who stood up and sang the number with dedicated pride and earnestness; rather we mumbled the words half-heartedly simply because it was considered a patriotic thing to do before doing any function. Many no longer stand still at attention, with headgear removed and slag as they sing; not that those rules of behaviour meant more actual sincerity, not at all. Yet the way we do it today would seem to indicate some lack of respect and in that mood we are quickly laying the foundation of disrespect as we exerts if you like, for responsibility. A win in a labor dispute is no longer regarded as a triumph over abuse or the winning of an essential right, but the establishment of gains which are no essential place in the bargaining procedure; and thus the precedence is set for more of the same in future rounds of talks, with further demands which are far afield.

AFTER listening to a night-line news broadcast I was moved to comment tears by the salacious prejudicial utterings of the host. He was so biased in his opinions that no matter what his callers asserted he knocked them down with his opinionated repudiation. He made the assertion that the one and only underlying cause of our disruptive labor problems could be laid at the doorstep of management. In attempting to justify his stand, he said, "If management did its job properly employees would work their butts off for it." What he was saying really, was that if management granted all requests, whether or not reasonable, then staff would be so satisfied that labor problems would become a thing of the past. What he failed to recognize was the fact that wherever you have more than two employees you are going to have the disgruntled, the slackers and the agitators who are never satisfied with their lot, along with leaders who must justify their existence by dreaming up demands. No doubt management can be faulted for being niggardly in many cases, but likewise labor can be faulted for being over-demanding. In any final settlement neither side gets all it wanted, thus leaving the grounds for the next round of escalation open.

SUCH IS THE SITUATION with the recently settled strike instituted by the inside postal workers. The union did not get all it wanted, neither did management. There was little doubt that the workers would validate the settlement. Both sides had to bow to the pressure of the public, who, after all pay the penalty for Public Inconvenience. Besides, there is no stronger incentive than lost pay checks and empty stomachs. The settlement is only for two years you know; time which to piece together the lost parts of the bargain and get it ready for the next round. With a few added demands.

SEPTEMBER 1st, 1981, if my memory serves me correctly something it has a habit of not doing is the day that the postal service is to become a Crown Corporation. That may sound impressive to the average layperson but in essence it means very little. While it takes one off the hook it hangs another on the same.

BY TRIUMPHANT "I Write as I Feel"

It will make not one stem of difference in service, efficiency or contentment. The public will still have to suffer the same pangs as presently. UNLESS, unless unless are taken to ensure stability on a long-term basis. The only way to do that is to take away the right to strike in the public service. Don't say it can't be done. It was given in the first place; it can be taken away. Be an Indian giver. Goodness knows the postal workers (the most militant in the nation) have been asking for it for years, and really the paying public is fed up. The only obstacle on the course is a government with the intellectual fortitude to do it. But it has gotten to the stage where in all probability it is the only way to deal with an obstreperous union. Of course if such a thing were done the union could invoke a "work to rule" order which would slow down deliveries, but even that would be more acceptable than no mail at all every two years. We say that in spite of the fact that the mail is about as slow at any time as it can get.

Hardisty flag display

From August 1 to 14, Hardisty is pleased to honor five more places by flying their flag. Scotland celebrates its independence day during this period. Also flying in the Lions' Park are flags of the United Kingdom, Canada, and the United States.

Scotland is a rugged, mountainous country in the northern part of the island of Great Britain. The Scottish flag is a white saltire on a blue field. The saltire is a cross with four arms of equal length, and the blue field is a deep blue.

Fastball league had many surprises

The 1981 Flagstaff Fastball League season proved to be very interesting, and full of many surprises.

The Loughheed Barons won the 1980 league pennant and the championship as well as the Provincial Intermediate "C" championship had held over virtually the same team for the '81 season, and they had to be considered the early favorites to repeat, at least as far as the league was concerned.

But the surprises started early in the season. In the opening game the Barons were defeated by the Sedgewick Saints (4-3), a team which had yet to gain a play-off berth in three years of play.

The Forestburg Flames won six straight games before they too fell victim to the Saints, (10-6).

High quality pitching throughout the league led to generally lower scoring and closer games. In fact, 11 of the 30 games were won by only one or two runs. This season has resulted in much lower batting averages.

By seasons end the Forestburg Flames had won nine games and lost only one, clinching the league pennant.

The Gahalah Blues and the Sedgewick Saints had both won six and lost two. But the Blues were awarded second place because they had outscored Sedgewick in the two league games they had played each other.

The Loughheed Barons struggled to a 5-5 record and fourth place, although four of their losses were by only one run.

The Alliance Bandits won their last three games of the season but fell short of the playoffs with a 4-6 record.

Unfortunately, the Killam Cubs went without a victory and occupied the basement all season.

One bright spot for Killam was Kevin Kirwin who was selected as Rookie of the Year.

Greene Bevington had to be given a great deal of the credit for Forestburg's first place finish.

Pitching all ten games, he finished with a 9 win and 1 loss record to capture the top pitching award. His consistent 4.00 ERA kept him in the league's Top Ten Batters list throughout the season as well as earning him the Provincial Intermediate "C" championship.

Having an excellent season virtually the same team for the '81 season, and they had to be considered the early favorites to repeat, at least as far as the league was concerned.

Killam swimmers win 31 medals

On Monday, August 3, the Killam Aquas Acos travelled to Hanna to compete in the always-tough Aquacade. Killam proceeded to build up a 18 point lead on every one as the relay events were starting.

As the club has only a small number of swimmers we only fielded three teams. This factor showed prominently as the large home team, Hanna, defeated the meet with their many relay teams.

Killam won a total of 31 medals, missing last years mark of 32. Other teams competing were Calgary, Didsbury, Olds, Brooks, Kindersley, Alder, and the host club, Hanna.

Medal winners were as follows: Jennifer O'Connor, 2 gold, 3 silver;

Also competing and earning valuable points in relays and for placing in the top six were Rick Basse, Darren O'Connor, Steve Basse, Kurt Borge, Bruce Sorenson, Rachel Sorenson, Denise O'Connor.

MINI-WEST AT FORESTBURG
On Sunday, August 8th, the Forestburg Aquacade held their annual swim meet. Although the meet was small with only four clubs competing, the swimmers enjoyed it just the same. Every swimmer on the team did very well and everybody placed in the top three of their events. A result about as well as could be expected, as it was probably first or second in the total points category.

Best the heat! Come on down for a dip in the Killam Pool. Its the "best" way to cool off this summer and have fun at the same time. Swimming lessons for the public this summer is every afternoon and evening (except Saturday evenings).

Swimming lessons this summer have been a great success so far. Two teams were held in the pool and the August session is now underway with 149 participants.

Pickle Pickers

The secret to successful pickling is not really too difficult if we follow a few hints. Use firm, fresh vegetables which can even be slightly underripe.

Some pickles require that the vegetables soak in brine. This helps to keep the pickle firm and reduces bitterness. Follow the recipe when making the brine. If not enough salt is used, the pickles will be soft and slippery; too much salt may make them shrivel and become tough.

Use good quality vinegar full strength. If the vinegar is too weak or diluted, the pickles will be soft and may not keep.

White vinegar gives better color when light colored foods such as onions or cauliflower are used. Cider or malt vinegar is used if a special flavor is desired. Blended vinegar is usually made by combining equal quantities of white and cider.

Using a small amount of alum during the pickling process helps develop a crisp quality in certain pickles.

Spices should be purchased fresh and not enough since they tend to lose flavor if stored too long. Spices should be used and measured carefully as a dark color or bitter flavor may result from using too much spice or boiling it too long with the vinegar. Whole spices give better color and flavor than do ground spices. They should be tied in a cheesecloth bag, cooked with the vinegar and removed.

Cooking utensils should be enamel, aluminum or stainless steel. Vinegar and salt will react with iron, brass and copper causing discoloration. Pickles can be stored in clean glass jars, sealers, or crocks. They should be sterilized but it's not necessary for pickles with a high concentration of vinegar and sugar.

Some pickles may discolor if packed in jars. Sealers are more airtight and should be used if the recipe recommends them.

If pickles are left in crocks, they should be stored in a cool place and should be well covered with the pickle mixture to prevent spoilage. A plate or wooden board cut to fit inside the crock should be placed on top of the pickles and weighted down.

Here are a few common problems and hopefully the right solution to them:

1. What is the white sediment in the bottom of jars of dill pickles?

This occurs in dills that have gone through a mild fermentation. The white sediment is due to bacteria that caused the fermentation. The sediment is not harmful and will in no way affect the pickles.

3-leg striped gopher at Galahad

Alta Wilton Edith Johnston spent from July 28 to August 2 with members of her family in Edmonton. She was present at the wedding of Dick Christensen and Paity Hinton at the Missionary Church in Edmonton on August 1. The open house was held at the Rental office with all the family members present.

A family gathering was held at the home of the Johnston's on July 28th, 1981. The honored guest was Alice Kline of Oceanide California, a cousin to the Johnston's. She also visited other cousins while in Edmonton.

While working in the garden recently, Albert Schmitt was somewhat surprised to see the family cat catch a young striped gopher. He was more surprised to see an adult gopher reclining near its burrow, making no effort to run to safety. With his bow, Albert flipped the second strip to the cat, who quickly killed it also. Albert's surprise became astonishment when he picked the mother gopher up, also had only three legs, two in front and one runner like back leg. Without thinking, Albert buried the gopher, a few days later he related his experience to some friends, who seemed somewhat sceptical. "A three legged gopher?" so to speak, wasn't a taller of tall tales, this creature was as small, small and fat. Now, those same friends can touch to the fact of the frank striped gopher, that was born with three legs, and lived to raise a family. If Albert ever encounters another such uncourtly

Gen and Anne Whithead were visitors with Anna's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Maitson and family of Headley on Monday, July 1st. They were shocked to learn when they arrived, that the Headley Missionary Church had been struck by lightning Sunday night. The building was a total loss. The fire that visited other cousins while in Edmonton.

Word was received recently by the congregation of the Missionary Church, that Rev. Leonard DeWitt has been elected as the new President of the Missionary Church of United States and Canada.

Leonard was born and grew up in Galahad, the son of the late Paul DeWitt, and Mrs. Clara DeWitt, who now resides in Forestburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmitt attended the funeral of Albert's cousin in Medicine Hat, they also visited Anna's aunt while there.

The Roth Family Reunion was held at the Paintshair Centre, on the long weekend, from the number of campers, trailers and other vehicles. It would appear that a good number turned out to enjoy the family gathering.

Super guests at Eva Doan's on Sunday were Howie, Shirley, Carman, and Tracy Doan of Bawell. Other guests for the day were Eva's son Bud Maitson, a friend and two girls, her sister Billie Kohl and Gladys Goodley. On Monday Eva's brother, Don Stewart of Okavika called in for a visit.

Scott Grenshaw accompanied Alfred and Gen Wain to the Barrow on Tuesday July 28th to visit Gerald and Eleanor Wain. They continued on to Dapp on Wednesday where they visited Scott and Gen's sister Archie and Maris Orsonson and family. They were pleased to find their niece Lorcan Foster of Bethel Alaska, at the Orsonson's and enjoyed a visit with her also.

Backpacking - One Step At A Time - Harvey Man tling

Hiking and mountaineering have become very popular types of recreation. Harvey Manning tells us we must educate people to "take only pictures" and "leave only footprints" so that the wilderness can be left in an unaltered state.

The author said that in the early 1970's one of Mount Rainer's camps had 60 lbs. loads of gear hauled out twice a week from the wilderness area. The meadows and rivers are being trampled by campers, with alpine parklands, lake-shores, and the like being threatened.

Here is a good list of necessities for your outfit when planning to go on a hike: boots, clothing, packs, sleeping bags, tents, kitchen gear, food and other essentials are suggested. Route findings with ideas on how to cross big rivers and to scramble over rocks safely on to travel in winter are given here with numerous cartoon drawings to intrigue the reader.

Death As A Fact of Life - David Hendin

The author tells us that physicians must carefully examine a person to check for traditional signs occupied at the time of death: cessation of breathing and pulse, rigor mortis. New death signs include fixed dilated pupils. David Hendin recognizes that death is a sequence of events. With medical science's latest studies, a new look has been taken at dying. This is especially important concerning transplants.

Can we bury our dead and leave room for the living? The author has undertaken a study of eustatistics and tells of a "Hippie" priest in New

The building over at the corner of Andy's Hardware is in full swing now. Then on the other corner where the new Town Office and Women's Institute Library will be. It looks like building is getting in full swing too.

Mrs. Karl Espe of Fort St. John is visiting Mrs. Inge Haugen of Sitka, Alaska, also with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haugen.

Mrs. Espe's daughter drove Karl and Inge for a drive one afternoon last week, went up to visit Mr. and Mrs. Peter Grove, then back to Harold and Marilyn's for a very delicious supper. Mrs. Brita Birchill was also there and Marilyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Snyder and daughter of Edmonton. It was a very pleasant afternoon and evening with the friends.

Mrs. Mich Hertel of Edmonton is down visiting the Graham Beaton and Mrs. Marie Beaton, also taking in the Fair. We certainly are getting our share of hot weather the last while. There are pretty bad rainstorms and some hail around us too. Rev. and Mrs. Richard Kambe of Canmore were last Monday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wallis.

Many return for Hardisty Homecoming

Isabel Nelson
The Homecoming was brought people from many parts of Canada, the U.S.A., even Australia, and New Zealand. It was great to see Virginia Johnson's sister, Anna, Muriel and Marcella, all coming from B.C. Their cousin, Jean Gibson, Bay Hingland, and Elizabeth Starritt too. Well-known too, Leonard White and his sister, Helen, who used to go to Volva School.

Glenn Kelsey from Washington and his sister, Jane Kyles, pupils of the Homecoming.

So many others like Russell DeToro from Washington whose father had the dairy before Paul Massey.

The children of M.D. Williams who had a jewelry store, fixed watches, checked railroad time, and sold marriage licenses, before the Homecoming. The reunion was at one side of the Ten-Bay store, before the store was Evelyn Brown's.

Those of us who knew Robt (Pete) Wilson were very pleased that she was the Heritage quilt made by Marguerite Brown, Harriet Plande and Virginia Johnson.

Ruth used to go to Science Hill school, as did Ivan Dornie, Muriel and Harriet Barker, who were enjoying Homecoming.

Another real old timer was Gladys (Sweetie) Massey who went to school at Cambridge as well as other schools, a sister of Mrs. Oliver Mitchell's. Mr. and Mrs. Massey visited in the Homecoming Centre and busy place over that weekend.

We wish to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lawrence of Edmonton to the Homecoming.

Mrs. Lawrence is a niece of the late Wilda Stone, also a cousin of Rattle Lloyd.

They are living in the late Mrs. Leeshelm's house.

Cibarts at Service reunion

Ben and Adrie Cibart have had a pleasant trip of over 6000 miles, to attend the reunion of 40th T.C. Squadron 113 Group.

The reunion was at the Peak and Peak recreational centre, Clwyne, New York, U.S.A.

Ben saw many of his old friends who were busy during the World War II days. About 75 attended and they, as well as a member from Chatham, Ontario, were the only Canadians attending.

They came back by way of Ontario and Adrie saw a cousin in Niagara-on-the-Lake whom she hadn't seen for over twenty years.

On their return home a telegram was waiting for them from Winnipeg, and it went like this: "Hi Ben and Adrie, with the best to you and all our friends on the Homecoming. Tell them 'hello' and thank the Homecoming Committee for their kind invitation. Congratulations to all on the 75 years. Signed, Bob and Rosalie Woods of Winnipeg."

Mrs. Lawrence is a niece of the late Wilda Stone, also a cousin of Rattle Lloyd.

Hazardous wastes

A hazardous wastes transfer station could also be a possibility, a team member stated.

As in other areas, Mr. Steele said the site required should have an impermeable ground layer of stone in case of a spill. Areas such as Cold Lake and Fort McMurray cannot be considered because of the seismic effects caused by oil companies in the removal of heavy oil from underground, he stated.

The amount of surface water, hunting and wildlife areas, bodies of water, forests, and summer recreational areas, are some of the matters taken into consideration. Many of these factors apply, the site is not considered further for location of a hazardous wastes plant.

Mr. Steele reported that the Battle River Basin, with plenty of caves and ravines would be an "ideal" location for a hazardous wastes disposal site.

In his summation, he said that in Flagstaff there are "a number of clear patches" (indicating the land is suitable) including some areas in the centre of the county.

The hazardous wastes team remarked frequently during the meeting that they visited an area only on invitation. Flagstaff County Council had extended such a welcome here.

A number of Sedgewick residents are more than slightly perturbed by the methods used by St. Lawrence Construction (Western Ltd.) in installing water mains on town streets.

Large piles of sand and earth from excavations have been piled onto lawns, and many citizens are displeased.

It is reported in several cases that trees have been either uprooted or covered with excavated materials, and also in others that curbs and gutters have been broken.

While somewhat reticent to talk about the situation, Town Administrator Lawrence Kneeland said in answer to a question, that the contractor is not liable to restore unavoidable damage, but in cases where a different approach could have been used, he would be responsible.

Part of the problem apparently stems from Water mains cause problems

the fact that much of Sedgewick's sub-terrain consists of sand, and since the water mains are being placed in the centre of the roadway approximately, a wider opening has to be resorted to as a precautionary measure in order that piping may be laid by workmen in safety. No cribbing method is being used until next spring. The project is due for completion in December.

The Town official said that work has started on the reservoir, to be located in the north-east part of the town.

Drilling has not yet started for wells to provide the water required for the new water system, Mr. Kneeland said.

The company has been about 100,000 lbs. increase until October 1, because of action taken to reduce income tax payments. Nineteen (19) months will have elapsed on this increase and the last increase in February 1980. At that time, the 5% percent increase was in effect. The rate of general inflation, however, serious new cost pressures have built up since then.

"General inflation in costs and the extremely high cost of money are the primary forces which have necessitated this rate increase," said M.M. Williams, President and General Manager of TransAlta Utilities.

The interest rates are 50 percent since 1980.

While Sunday's heat took its toll on just about everything, this Arabian mother and her colt compare notes during Sunday's Horse Show at Sedgewick Agri Days. TransAlta Utilities to increase rate TransAlta Utilities Corporation (formerly Calgary Power Ltd.) has made application to the Alberta Public Utilities Board for an interim electric rate increase. The rate increase, if approved by the Board following the hearing on August 18, would take effect October 1, 1981.

The proposed increase will affect the rates of all electricity users within TransAlta's service area. The average residential electric bill, for example, the Company is experiencing increases in property taxes of 34 percent, labour 12 percent and coal mining cost increases of 28 percent.

Lightning destroys two poles

Two service poles owned by TransAlta Utilities in the Sedgewick area have been destroyed by lightning in the last week.

The poles were destroyed on Friday morning, about four miles west of Sedgewick, when lightning travelled down one pole, setting adjacent grass afire, and also splitting another hydro pole to the west.

The damage caused a power interruption for 60 minutes, according to Hill Jans, TransAlta manager in Sedgewick.

Bob McGowan, a nearby farmer, astonished the blaze after it had spread over an area of approximately 16 square feet.

Mr. Innis reported that another pole was destroyed about a week ago in a similar incident, just south of Sedgewick.

It's Harvest Time

It's getting to that time of year when crops are maturing and gardens are producing the much-awaited vegetables.

But the road hasn't been an easy one, and it never will be, because in spite of all the chemicals known to man, Nature has the final say.

The process of sowing and reaping has undergone drastic changes over the centuries, from manual to mechanization, but there is still a sense of fulfillment when the mature fruit or vegetable or grain, has reached maturity.

In recent years, weather patterns are getting more unpredictable - and for the worse, we might add.

While many areas of Alberta are complaining that they haven't had summer (particularly Edmonton, and Calgary), others, such as Lethbridge, which recovered from severe drought, and our own, are faring not too badly in the overall picture.

TIME MARCHES ON. That's a fact. Time brings changes. That's a fact. Technology creates operational improvements. That is also a fact, and while this is apparent in most areas of human experience, for the purpose here we are primarily interested in the area of grain farming.

After all this is the main industry of rural Alberta and as it goes so go many of us. From the farming industry springs a source of living for the many businesses which are dependent on agriculture for remaining financially sound. Not very much would be gained by going into details of just how much this part of the world depends on agriculture for it must be abundantly clear to the observant. Yet there are those who know nothing or at least very little about today's technical ramifications of the art of farming under conditions of chemical treatments, crop rotations, fertilizing and timing of the various operations. Mounting expenditures and costs, land values and today's machinery costs almost dictate that summer fallow is prohibitive. Other means of replenishing the soil with necessary minerals and nutrients have been provided by science and technology. Yet the soil can only absorb so much abuse and so the grain producer has to juggle his activities with a great degree of co-operation with nature. So far this has worked well but sometimes I wonder how long it can last without land becoming barren and unproductive. It simply means that more and more artificial means of keeping the land productive will have to come forward to assist nature in a task which she is finding increasingly more difficult to accomplish.

WE ARE PRESENTLY in the midst of gathering another crop and a casual trip through the countryside affords an excellent opportunity for a close-up look at the various operations necessary to put that crop in the bins, the final objective of the year. It's too hot you say to do that? Well not really if you do it in the evening when it's a bit cooler.

Even in the midst of day it's not so bad if you are fortunate to have a vehicle with air conditioning. You can sit along in comfort, with an occasional stop to ask how things are going. Farmers don't like to stop and gossip at such a time, yet they don't mind doing so as long as they can remain inside the air conditioned cab and they talk in the sun.

I ENJOY trying to keep pace with all the angles of farming, but sometimes I get the feeling that my friendly farmers merely tolerate my questions. Some of their answers indicate patience with ignorance. Well after all what is obvious to them is a conundrum to me. I know more about the binders, horses, stocking the threshing machines and hand-shovelling grain than I do about those big, modern combines, combine harrows and augers, let alone the gigantic tractors with air conditioning, radios and comforts entirely unknown to those who sat all day on steel seats without overhead cover and a machine which turned over two furrows per trip, not to mention bolting and yelling at half a dozen horses with less ambition than the driver. So you see what I mean when I talk about technical advancement. It's a good thing, which allows coverage of more acres. Larger farms are the norm of the day and necessary to provide the production to pay for the modern equipment needed to be competitive.

A FEW RECENT excursions through the countryside have indicated to me that we are about to witness the harvesting of at least one more average or better crop. Some better than others of course, because after all the land is at the mercy of the whims of nature. One thing noticed, is that less rape has been sown and more acres have been planted to wheat; although there seems to be an increase in oats and barley. Quite a bit of fall rye too. All needed in today's demands. From my observations it looks pretty good, and that's the way we like it.

Dear Sir,
 I don't know if you have seen the article in the Press about a tragedy such as we members at such a time, yet they don't mind doing so as long as they can remain inside the air conditioned cab and they talk in the sun.

Also on this issue, there have been phone calls to others - some anonymous - as well as an unsigned letter from a "Disgraced Reader." I have written an editorial previously in which it was stated that we must know the signature of the letter writer, or the letter will not be published. That is still our policy. Editor.

 Erin, Ontario,

Dear Sir,
 I read with utter amazement Prime Minister Trudeau's recent announcement that the government intends to increase Canada's foreign aid budget to 7 per cent of GNP from the present 4.5 per cent. That's over $2.5 billion. That's more than $400 per family.

This huge increase is planned to begin at the end of the year. Our federal government is sinking into debt at the rate of $14 billion a year. Soaring interest rates are causing many Canadian farmers to lose their farms and home owners to lose their homes.

What Others Say

Concept gone

Last Thursday night spelled the end of the Lethbridge Natural Gas Co-op as the people of this area knew it and it died for the simple reason that they have stopped thinking in terms of the basic Co-op philosophy.

Co-ops began in this country with one basic premise in mind. A group got together to buy a commodity at a wholesale price and distribute it at a common low price to the members who paid out the initial cash to belong. With the large volume of cash, goods and services could be had at a lower price. The catch word here was "group of people working together for a common goal."

It was very evident at the final meeting last Thursday evening that that idea of togetherness was gone. Almost every speaker who came to the microphone to speak talked in terms of what HE or SHE was prepared or not prepared to do in the future. The WE idea is gone and is replaced with the idea of ME. Only one person expressed an idea of ME not doing MY part as a Co-op member and by that time it was too late for very much of anything to be done.

For most folks, it was the fault of someone else, whether it was the government, who by the way bailed the Co-op out twice, or it was the Board of Directors, who by the way probably have aged ten to twenty years simply from the pressure they were under, or it was the bank for letting the state of affairs get out of hand, who by the way if they had wanted to be rough could have slammed the door a long time ago. No way folks, you and you alone are to blame. To belong to a Co-op, you must take an "active" interest in the organization to which you belong. It was your Co-op and you must take the responsibility for the Liquidation. Yes, as members, you must be responsible for its failure. For instance, those who paid out the cash for the gas to be brought to your farm and then charged the Co-op those very high rates for climate started it and by heavens you must be solely responsible for its failure. For instance, those who paid out the cash for the gas to be brought to your farm and then charged the Co-op those very high rates for climate started it and by heavens you must be solely responsible for its failure.

As soon as the province bailed this Gas Co-op out for the very first time the membership should have clamped down and made itself responsible to assure that such a thing would never happen again. This is not the time to be crying in your beer, for all that has happened is the fact of the membership and the fact of nobody else that the Co-op had to be killed in a vote at the Rec. Centre last Thursday evening. The true concept of Cooperatives is dead in terms of the Gas Co-op. It's dead and the membership has killed it. Like it or not, the membership has done the killing and done it with their attitude. Now you will have to bow to a private gas company and comply with their wishes and whims and pay what you are told. The responsibility is yours and yours alone.

Weidman-Borgel wed

The sun shone bright and warm on a winter's day chosen by Patricia Marlene Borgel of Calgary and John Clarence Weidman of Phoenix where they were united by Rev. Roger Gordon of the First of Glory Lutheran Church in Phoenix, Arizona, blessed and affirmed their covenant to one another before their family and friends.

The ceremony was held on February 28, 1981, at the Kilham Knox United Church and was officiated by Pastor Thomas McLaughlin.

Patricia, escorted by her father, Mr. Clarence Borgel of Kilham, was attired in a 3-piece subdued gray suit, entered the setting to the strains of the "Wedding March" performed very capably by organist, Mrs. Marion Wilson.

The bride beamed with radiance in a full-length polyester gown with hood edged in Venice lace which she chose from shoulders back.

cocktail-length dress with gray boarding the bunline and upper bodice. The sleeves were three-quarter length with wide at the side, held together by buttons. She carried a delicate bouquet of faint purple orchids.

A three-quarter length veil, trimmed with embroidered details, complemented the ensemble. She carried a yellow bouquet of yellow roses embedded in white daisies.

John, son of Colonel and Mrs. Clarence Weidman of Scottsdale, Arizona, looked handsome in a charcoal gray, 3-piece suit.

Maid of honor was Wanda Pellon, cousin of the bride, who travelled from Vancouver to be at this memorable occasion. She wore a plum colored of the bride from Calgary, attended the guest book.

Among Patricia's family attending were Ken and Darlene Borgel and family of Kilham, Lyle and Jody Borgel of Edmonton, Wade and Sandy Borgel of Bawli, and Mark Smith of Kilham.

John's parents and brother were unable to attend this joyous celebration, due to an illness in the family.

Out-of-town guests were from Oregon, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Youngstown, Bowden, Maybrough, Rocky Mountain House, Corralles, Camrose, Viking, and other local areas.

A well-attended open house and dance were held at the Sedgewick Community Hall.

For their trip back to Phoenix, Patricia chose a sleeveless, dark multi-colored pleated dress of light polyester, complemented with a black dress jacket, for the child's evening, and burgundy accessories.

John wore navy slacks and blue shirt, and a gundy pullover sweater.

The happy couple are residing in Mesa, Arizona.

Kelndorfer-Clark wed

A lovely spring wedding was solemnized at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Killam on May 30, 1981, when Adele Marie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kelndorfer of Killam became the bride of Mr. James Richard Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clark of Killam. Rev. Father Perron officiated at the double-ring ceremony and offered the Nuptial Mass.

The two main servers were Kevin Kelndorfer and David Zimmel, cousins of the bride. Dwayne Kelndorfer, brother of the bride, read the first reading. Susan Kelndorfer, sister of the bride, read the second reading.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a radiant floor-length gown of polyester rayon crepe with high neck, lace front, back, and half-way-up sleeves, slim-lined skirt falling to a flare at the bottom with a train behind her. She wore a hat, trimmed with lace, matching her lace on her dress, with a shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of peach roses.

Attending her as maid of honor was Miss Lynn Kella, girlfriend of the bride, and her two sisters, Deb and Patty Kelndorfer. They wore matching floor-length dresses of mint green polyester rayon crepe, worn by the bride's mother. They carried white lace parasols decorated with tiny mint green and peach flowers. On their wrists, they wore peach carnations.

The groom wore a light beige tuxedo with light brown trim, and accessories. His boutonniere was a single peach rose.

The best men were matching tuxedos, the same as the groom, but with light brown pants and were a peach carnation. Attending the groom as best men were Kay Kaczanowski, friend of the groom, Bob Clark, brother of the groom, and Rick Link, friend of the groom.

Ushering the guests into the church were Lorraine Clark, sister of the groom, and Susan Kelndorfer, sister of the bride. As they were ushering the guests in, Joyce George, the organist, played soft music. As the bridesmaids and the bride entered the church, Reg Fee sang "Walk Hand in Hand." During the ceremony he also sang "The Wedding Song" and "You Needed Me" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony, a supper was held in McCarthy Hall, Killam, for 146 guests. In charge of the guest book was Adeline Alexandra, niece of the groom, and Dwayne Kelndorfer, brother of the bride.

Mr. Brian Bowles, brother-in-law of the groom, was M.C., Grant Zimmel, uncle of the bride, gave the toast to the bride, to which the groom capably responded.

The bride's table was laid with a white cloth and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, baked and beautifully decorated by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Newman Zimmel of Strathmore.

To receive the guests the bride's mother wore a knee-length dress of pink lilac flowered polyester sheer. Her corsage was of lilac orchids, while the groom's mother chose a knee-length dress of tan flower rayon sheer, also wearing an orchid for her corsage.

In the evening an open house and dance was held in the Killam Elks Hall for friends and relatives. Music was by the "Prairie Schooners" of Forestburg.

Susan Kelndorfer, sister of the bride, and Cheryl Kelndorfer, cousin of the bride were in charge of the guest book. For travelling to Vancouver, and Victoria, the bride chose an off-white two-piece suit with peach blouse, brown shoes, and a corsage of peach roses, while the groom wore a brown tweed sports jacket, tan pants, off-white sweater and wearing a single peach rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark will make their new home in Killam, where they are both employed. Out-of-town guests were from Strathmore, Daysland, Sedgewick, Forestburg, Havelock, Red Deer, Calgary, Edmonton, Czar, Viking, Wainwright, Toss, Bonville, Hardisty, Codogan, Edgerton, Veteran, Whitecourt, Wainwright, Brooks, and Saltburg, England.

Eleven attend trap shoot school

Farming first - trap shooting next

Hardisty Trap Club's 46th annual Mid Summer Shoot wasn't exactly "a roaring success," but President John Golka reports about 60 shooters turned out for the various events, last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Golka reported that "a lot of shooters are farmers," and with the excessive heat of recent days, crops are ripening faster than expected.

As are many other farmers, the Golka family is busy sweating, and one of those assisting is his son, Jeff. Jeff is scheduled to participate in the American

Hills of Hardisty

I know some folks who say that I'm a dreamer, And I've no doubt there's truth in what they say For sure a body's bound to be a dreamer When all the things he loves are far away.

And when the moonlight shines upon the roof-tops Of all the cities, wondrous tho' they be, For there we've gone to seek our fame and fortune But still you'll find our hearts at Hardisty.

And then in dreams we live again the old times And folks and friends around us we still see; For memory keeps alive those treasured hours, And Hardisty - the way it used to be.

But dreams don't last, Tho' dreams are not forgotten, Tho' we are gone however for we be, I'm sure you'll find a sentimental journey Takes us back to the hills of Hardisty.

If I'm not there when all of you have gathered, I'll close my eyes and once again I'll see The town, the lake, the crooked river winding Among the dear old hills of Hardisty.

Hardisty Garden Club flower show

The Hardisty Garden Club held its annual Flower Show in the Drop-In Centre on Tuesday, August 11. A lovely array of flowers was shown and attendance at the tea was very good. The door prize, a potted plant, was won by Marie Soke, who seems to be on the winning streak this month!

Gardeners note - this show is held on the Tuesday before August 15th each year.

Angela Doody, Miss Rodeo Alberta, with other winners and participants at the rodeo.

Discussing items on the agenda at last Thursday's meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association held at Sedgewick Golf Club are from left, Sedgewick Mayor Ernie Koehl, Sylvia Clements, BHTA manager, Andy Grive of Lougheed and Rolf Jacobson, County of Flagstaff councillor, who was co-host for the evening with Mr. Koehl. Flagstaff Reeve Carl "Bud" Neen attended a welcome before leaving to attend another meeting. Carol Land of Wetaskiwin was elected president, replacing Bob Brown of Leduc. Lindsay Smith of Stettler is 1st vice-president and Joyce Harrison of Hardisty, 2nd vice-president.

Tourist group seeks name for new 'Gosling' mascot

The Battle River Tourist Association is going to have a public contest to select a name for their newly-acquired mascot.

During a very spirited discussion at last Thursday's monthly meeting in Sedgewick, members agreed to take this route at the suggestion of Andy Grive of Lougheed.

General Manager Sylvia Clements reported that the BHTA mascot had arrived and had already appeared in the Lougheed agricultural fair parade.

She noted that since the mascot had become provincially recognised as the Zone 5 logo, it was suggested that the character could be in competition with others, and the prize money will be returned.

The contest will run until September 28 with a $4 prize to the person submitting the winning entry.

Farm home threatened by fire

An early Sunday morning fire north-east of Kilam had the potential to destroy a farm home, but the action of neighbors and Kilam Fire Department prevented such an occurrence.

The fire is reported to have started in some trees on the fence line between the Lloyd and Carsten Moore property.

When the blaze appeared to become too dangerous, Melvin Mackay and Ed Collins decided to call the fire department.

About fifteen large bales of hay were burned, also some standing hay. While the blaze had been officially declared out later in the day, some smoldering could be seen on Monday.

'Super job' done at Sedgewick's tourist information centre

Sedgewick was commended for the "super job" it has done with its Tourist Information Centre by Manager Sylvia Clements during the groups meeting at Sedgewick Golf Club last Thursday.

The meeting was co-hosted by the County of Flagstaff and the Town of Sedgewick.

Senior citizens operate the centre, located on Highway 13, with refreshments and facilities carried out by members of various organizations in the community on a volunteer basis.

Mrs. Clements stated that many of the information centres have flags erected, some have picnic shelters, or tables nearby, some are nicely landscaped and some even have "drinking water" from a nicely painted pump at the base of the windmill (Sedgewick).

It was also noted that the centre has a sign indicating "drinking water" had recently been erected at the Sedgewick location.

Sedgewick's Angela Doody Miss Rodeo Alberta entry

Angela Doody of Sedgewick will be one of six girls vying for the Miss Rodeo Alberta title in Wetaskiwin, August 27-30. Joining her in this stiff western-style queen pageant are Sandy Adams, 1981 Wainwright Stampede Queen; Kathy Smyke, Calgary; Lita Thompson, Ardrossan, former New Saragosa Gymkhana Queen; Charlene Young, Leduc; and the current reigning queen of the Albert Klusman Raimmacker rodeo.

Angela was the Camrose Klusman Rodeo Queen in 1978 and is an accomplished rider, rodeo competitor.

The Miss Rodeo Alberta contest will run for four days under the careful co-ordination of Mrs. Marlene Cole and Mr. Pat Ware.

During the contest, girls will be judged on both personality and appearance by two separate panels of three judges. The personality section will be judged at two main events - a welcome banquet, Thursday, August 27 (at which the girls will give short speeches on themselves) and individual interviews which will be held Friday morning. There will also be several judges who will be watching the girls carefully throughout the entire competition.

The horseshoe section will be judged Saturday morning, and the girls will be judged on their riding skills, especially for the old-timers.

The train ride was pure nostalgia, especially for the old-timers. On arrival, buses carried the crowd to the Forestry Farm Park. The horseshoe section included sports, a midway, stage entertainment, railroad displays, etc., and food gallop for everyone.

It was a really fun-filled day, as well as an opportunity to meet old friends. It was a tired but happy group that returned to Hardisty that night.

Vera Hendricks and Ed Orr took time off from the festivities to visit former Hardisty resident, Mrs. Bill McPherson and her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Atan.

At 90 years, Mrs. McPherson enjoys good health and a keen mind.

Jim Crawford, Flagstaff councillor and chairman of the Flagstaff Regional Solid Waste Authority, serves as chairman of opening ceremonies held Monday at the sanitary landfill site, north-east of Sedgewick. Mr. Crawford is in the foreground, showing some of the features of the hydraulic tilt-frame truck to Forestry Manager Ray Bowersock.

A Marathon of Hope continues

Join the Terry Fox Run

People all across Canada will be running, jogging and walking in memory of Terry Fox and his dream to find a cure for cancer on Sunday, September 13th.

This date has been officially declared Terry Fox Day, to coincide with a series of special 10 km. runs being organized by communities throughout Canada under the guidance of the Canadian Cancer Society, the Canadian Track and Field Association, Fitness and Amateur Sport, Canada and Four Seasons Hotels.

Terry Fox was the 22 year old Port Colomane amputee who lost his battle with cancer on June 28, but whose Marathon of Hope Run across Canada raised more than $23 million for cancer research.

Terry's Run

"The night before my amputation, my former basketball coach brought me a magazine with an article on an amputee who ran in the New York Marathon. It was then that I decided to meet the new challenge and not only overcome my disability, but conquer it in such a way that I could never look back and say it disabled me. Somewhere the hurting must stop... and I was determined to take myself to the limit for this cause," said Terry in a letter to major businesses.

News of Terry's plan reached Peter Martin, Vice President and General Manager of the Four Seasons Hotel in Vancouver, who requested accommodation for Terry in the Chain's hotels across Canada.

The Momentum Begins

Isadore Sharp, Chairman of Four Seasons, was not only satisfied with this contribution. "We have to do more," he said. The Four Seasons agreed not only to provide accommodation and food for Terry and his companions but also pledged dollars per mile for Terry's 5,700 mile run.

Terry began his run on April 12, 1980, dipping his artificial leg into the Atlantic Ocean at St. John's Newfoundland. Rising at 4:00 a.m. every morning and running until 4:00 p.m. with breaks for food and rest, Terry completed an average of 26 miles each day.

Canada Weeps

By the summer Terry had run through five provinces and was in Southern Ontario. The run continued through the cities and communities of Ontario until that September day when Terry arrived in Thunder Bay and it was discovered the cancer had spread to his lungs.

After 144 days and 3,399 miles for the Marathon of Hope, the run was discontinued.

Four Seasons Chairman, Isadore Sharp, immediately sent a telegram to the Fox family pledging to keep Terry's dream alive: "Dear Terry; The Marathon of Hope has just begun. You started it. We will not rest until your dream to find a cure for cancer is realized."

I am asking every Four Seasons Hotel to organize, along with the local branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, a 'Terry Fox Marathon of Hope' run to be held on the first Sunday in October, beginning this year, it will become an annual fund raising event for the 'Terry Fox Cancer Research Fund' and we will not stop until cancer has been beaten. We will also ask every city and town across Canada to join in on the same day so that you will be running in our hearts and our minds every year until the battle is won.

Your courage and determination is an inspiration to us all. Our hearts and our prayers are with you."

Now, on Sunday, September 13, every Canadian will have an opportunity to perpetuate Terry Fox's dream.

The special Runa will be held on accurately measured 10 km. courses that will be established by concerned Canadians in hundreds of communities across the country.

Communities, schools, etc. can set up their own courses with the assistance of the Canadian Track and Field Association. Courses will be open all day, allowing participants to complete the 10 kms. at their own pace. Pledge forms will be provided to collect the funds, groups or families.

The Eskimo dog was close to extinction in the 1970s when the Eskimo Dog Research Foundation took over and saved the race. These beautiful working dogs are bred at Yellowknife, in the Northwest Territories. (Canadian Government Office of Tourism Photo.)

Rebirth of the Eskimo dog

Visitors to Canada's North may soon be taking tours by sled pulled by the legendary Eskimo dog. Such tours are now in the planning stages and that's remarkable considering that as recently as 1975 there was only one such dog left in the world.

First the existence of the Eskimo dog was threatened when the airplane, and later the snowmobile, began operating in the Far North. By that time, fewer Inuit lived nomadic lives so the need for dogs had decreased.

Then, as serious efforts were being made to rescue him from oblivion, a lack of funds for his sustenance nearly wrote him to the last chapter of his exciting existence.

Fortunately, the government of the Northwest Territories came to the rescue with the funds needed by the Eskimo Dog Research Foundation to keep its survival efforts alive and its dogs healthy.

Bill Carpenter, executive director of the Foundation, had a feeling of rising costs of gasoline and snowmobile maintenance would some day reverse the situation. Today, the Inuit are using more and more dogs, especially in the eastern Arctic.

His dream of returning his beloved Eskimo dog to the niche he feels is his by right is now a question of time.

It all started in the winter of 1974-75 when, acting on the suggestion of his friend John McGraw, Carpenter decided to do something about the Eskimo dog.

At that time, there was only one Eskimo dog left of the registered line, a problem that had to be surrounded since, in the dog world as elsewhere, it takes two to reproduce.

To get the line going again, 40 indigenous dogs were bought in 1978 from so far north there was no potential for contamination.

They had no papers, but were considered safe man (see). For instance, such isolated spots as Igloolik, the Boothia Peninsula and Somerset Island, all north of the Arctic Circle.

The breeding program worked so well that close to 500 dogs have been provided to Inuit hunters and trappers in faraway outposts. Carpenter provides only pairs of dogs so the Inuit breed their own teams.

He points out that his dog is the Canis familiaris, in the breed that was once called the Esquimaux, then the Husky and finally the Eskimo. The proper name, according to Carpenter, should be the Canadian Eskimo Dog.

It is not to be confused with the Alaskan Malamute nor the smaller Siberian Husky, since only the Canadian Eskimo Club recognized it as an aboriginal breed in the late 19th century.

The Inuit call him Kingmilk in the western Arctic and Qimmiq in the east.

It is a unique animal, a primitive line of dogs that has not changed in 2,000 years. It seems to understand its interdependence with man since, at one time, one could not survive without the other.

The Eskimo dog can weigh as much as 30 kg. (65 lb.) and measure 0.71 m (28 in.) at the shoulder. The ears are pointed and the eyes small. The tail is curled high and the dog comes in a variety of colors.

In Canada, they are mostly used as pulling or pack dogs. They can cover 32 to 64 km (20 to 40 miles) a day for 40 hours, each dog in the team pulling up the 54 kg. As pack dogs, they can carry about 18 kg. (40 lb.).

As hunting dogs, they are good at finding seal breathing holes and they keep polar bears at a safe distance.

Their upkeep is simple. They eat mainly fish but also walrus, seal and caribou meat when available.

If the Eskimo dog is sometimes indispensable for the Inuit, it can be very useful to the white man too. For instance, dog team trips for tourists are in the planning stages and mining companies that have problems with polar bears find that Eskimo dogs keep them at bay.

The Eskimo dog has been used successfully in past Antarctic expeditions and, more recently, by France, the United States, Chile and other countries doing exploration at the South Pole have shown renewed interest in him.

His kennels, with a breeding population of about 60 dogs and 60 bitches, are open to the public and most tours to Yellowknife include a visit to the Eskimo Dog Research Foundation, on the outskirts of the city.

The primary objective of the Foundation is the preservation of a nearly extinct breed of aboriginal dog.

Rawluk-Probst wedding performed at Loughheed

Trinity Lutheran Church was the scene of a lovely summer wedding June 20, 1981, when Colleen Rosemary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rawluk and Gustav Alton son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Probst, were united in marriage by Pastor George and Carol Quailley. Organist for the occasion was Mrs. A.P. Finke of Chilliwack, aunt of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white sheer crepe dress featuring a ruffled neckline and lace trimmed tiered skirt. Her lace edged finger tip veil was held in place by a pearl trimmed coronet. She carried her Grandmother Carter's prayer book, topped with pink sweetheart roses and ribbons.

Karen Steadman, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Faye Oakes, cousin of the bride, Debbie Johannsen, Teresa Armstrong, and Shelly Neas, friends of the bride were her attendants. They were identical flower length

VERUS ARCTOS S-40

... grizzly bear has the reputation of being the most ferocious and dangerous animal in North America. Some tapers and rangers and others more doubtfully than others have long headed. Similarly, there are wide minor variations. The timber grizzly often being coming within the black with brownish legs and underparts. In the Rocky Mountains the "silver tip" phase is fairly common. Healthy males from the St. Mary (to 1951) had red pharyngeal strong. Although grizzlies and for the most part, avoid contact with man they are sometimes unpredictable and should be given plenty of room. These notes were taken during a walk, the long-shank hand swinging from side to side

B.C. Salmon limit is four per day

Concern has been expressed by Canadian tourism officials and lodge owners that "competition" over salmon fishing regulations is keeping sport fishermen away from Canada's west coast. During the best season for Chinook in the past 10 years, the Canadian Government Office of Tourism, British Columbia tourism officials and local lodge owners have all lamented that regarding fishing limits has resulted in a decrease in fishing lodge and charter boat bookings.

There was confusion over limits set this year. Some reports stated that the limit had been cut to one salmon per day.

That is not the case. The current sportfishing limit for salmon is four fish per day per angler with a possession limit of eight fish or the equivalent of two days' limit unless stated otherwise in a specific area.

The catch may consist of all one species or a combination of chinook, coho, spring, chum or pink.

One change that may be causing some of the confusion is not effective until December, 1981. Then the number of chinook in the four-day daily limit will be reduced to two. That will remain in force until March, 1982. But the limit of all species will still be four a day.

The easiest way to avoid confusion is to check with lodge owners while making reservations. They know the regulations as well as they know the spots to catch the fish in.

We must provide "exits from childhood" with opportunities to explore in the community so they can learn to survive in this ever changing world, Spencer writes.

BRTA against VIA cutbacks

Members of the Battle River Tourist Association fully support the department of tourism and small business in its objection to the cutback in VIA rail passenger service in northern Alberta.

At last Thursday's meeting in Sedgewick, the BRTA learned that the "lengthy telegram had already been sent to Jean-Luc Pepla," the minister responsible for the proposed rail cutbacks.

Killam Aquas Swimming Club has under the guidance of Coach Janet Borth has rolled up an impressive record this year in local, regional and provincial swim meets, in many instances competing successfully against clubs with much larger memberships. This weekend, four Aquas have earned the right to display their skills in an Interprovincial meet between Alberta and British Columbia.

Killam Swim Club is success

Four members of the Killam Aquas Swim Club received an unexpected prize for their showing at the Provincial meet in Edmonton this last weekend - they will return to the same Commonwealth Pool this week to swim against British Columbia in an Inter-provincial Meet.

Also going along will be Janet Borth, Killam swim coach, who was chosen to guide the area team because of the success achieved in the Provincials by members of the Aquas.

Jennifer O'Connor, Carla Oberg, Stu Wilson and Kerry Bussie will represent Alberta at this weekend's competition.

Coach Borth was exceptionally pleased with the output she received from the 15 Aquas swim team, commenting that many finished fourth in their event, or missed qualifying in their heat by a mere stroke or two.

Leading the Killam onslaught at Edmonton was Jennifer O'Connor who took three gold medals in the following weekend.

Fifteen of the 15 Killam Aquas were qualified for the Provincial Meet. Forty-seven individuals Adverse weather conditions affected the turnout for the annual Sedgewick Men's Golf Open held Sunday, but there was some excellent play, none-the-less. Depicted are some of the winners: Fred Watkins, Sedgewick. 1st Flight; Collin

An Editorial Who is the nincompoop?

When you are dealing with governments it is very difficult to obtain satisfaction in the complaint department. This can even happen at the local town level. To cite an example the water crew very nicely buried a hedge at the front of my property only this week. Calls to find who was responsible was "a passing of the buck" to the other guy.

To let you in on the picture the water installing crew came down our street and at our corner they had the choice of piling the dirt ten feet in a driveway or 10 feet south in a roadway or 10 feet west in another roadway. Where did it go? You guessed it, right on top of a shrub hedge that has taken 2 years to finally get established.

Horror stories like this have been repeated several times during the past months. Unnecessary damage to lawns, shrubs, trees, etc. have angered many of the town's residents.

The digger can pile on either or both sides as was the case further down the block when the curbs of a property were hardly even covered, let alone any on the boulevard. Could it be that this man is on council and received special treatment?

Now does the fault lie with the nincompoop who operated the digger or the do it who is the foreman. Perhaps the fault lies with the engineer, or the minister on town council. No one seems to know the answer.

Maybe the ratplayers are the nincompoops to allow people such as these to destroy our property and disrupt our lives in any way they see fit and we do nothing about it.

Killam Equestrians at Light Horse Rally

Well, worth the trip to the "Horse Sense 81" that is. Four members, with Eric and Jean Christensen, from the Killam Light Horse Club, went to Onda to attend the 3-day Provincial Light Horse Rally on August 19 to 21st.

The events started at 7 a.m. on the 19th with a Horse Bowl competition for all horse clubs attending. (A horse bowl is much like Reach for the Top, only questions relate to horses).

Approximately 25 club teams, of four each competed. Killam won their match, but the score wasn't high enough for the final. The Meru Horse Club were overall winners in the Horse Bowl.

Next day, the 11th, started out at 7 a.m. with breakfast in the college cafeteria, then at 8:00, we all marched over to the Horse Husbandry area of the college grounds. Here a "western equitation clinic" was held, given by Alberta J.H.A. coach, Mel Trotter.

Teresa Leslie and Anna Christensen formed a team for Western Equitation and Showmanship. Teresa placed third in her Senior Western Equitation class. Anna placed seventh in her Junior Showmanship class.

Today took their own horses - they were provided as you walked into the ring, some had just come in from running in the pasture.

Today also judged a Senior Equitation class and Anna judged a Junior Equitation class and received a fourth in the Junior division.

Individually Anna was third, highest overall for Juniors in the above division.

Together their marks were combined and they received third highest overall team.

After dinner, a horse was brought into the ring, and an instructor from the college gave a clinic on how to judge a horse's conformation. He stressed the balance and structure.

Following the clinic, four 3-yr old fillies were brought in to be judged. Jane Christensen made up the Senior part and Sharon Wheeler made up the Junior part of the Killam Horse Club's conformation judging team.

Jane judged against Senior competitors and Sharon judged against Juniors. Sharon came up with a fifth in her division.

Then a class of mature mares were brought in and judged. This time, reasons were presented orally in the judge, not written. Jane received a second in her Junior class. Sharon received a third in her Junior class.

Weather hurts Sedgewick golf

Less-than ideal weather conditions last Sunday resulted in only 60 golfers taking to the links at Sedgewick in the club's annual men's golf tournament.

Deplorable early morning conditions marked by cold rains no doubt was a major factor in the decision of many golfers to withdraw, however several showed up from centres such as Stettin, Wetaskiwin, Carleton Place, and Camrose.

Despite the weather factor, Sandy French of Camrose went through the 27-hole Open competition in 119 shots, only eight over par.

Sedgewick golfers followed French, with Ian Eckstrand and George Lapard each carding scores of 120 and Garret Eckstrand checking in with a 126 total.

First Flight winner was Fred Watkins of Sedgewick, with Colin Cumberland, club president, taking the Second Flight, and Lawrence Becken, also of Sedgewick taking the Third Flight.

Ed Sund of Hardisty took the Fourth Flight, Glen Kamah of Stettin, the Fifth Flight; Ken Wong of Edmonton, the Sixth Flight, and Fred Gatten of Edmonton, the Seventh Flight.

In the contest for Claret to the Pin, Sandy French of Camrose was the winner, a tribute to his golfing prowess.

Fire started to rid wasps nest destroys house

Attempts to destroy a wasps nest last Tuesday afternoon, resulted in a vacant farm home being burned to the ground, near Alliance.

Apparently someone at the Dave Johnstons farm, SE, 2N-5E of the village, set a fire in a bid to rid the building of the pesky pests but the plan backfired.

Two trucks from Alliance Fire Brigade responded to the fire call but limited their efforts to preventing the blaze spreading to a storage garage about eight feet distant.

The farm residence of Mr. Johnstons was about 40 feet distant. Although there were high winds, a firefighter on the scene said the winds were "in our favour".

Residents of the area will recognize the location as being the former Norman Hill farm.

A call was also made to Sedgewick Fire Brigade who dispatched a unit, but it was recalled shortly thereafter.

A Church Bible area and crafts school conducted by Rev. Richard Conrad of St. John's Anglican Church aided these children to complete their summer holidays prior to the resumption of Flagstaff board of education classes this week. The three-day session concluded Wednesday, August 19, and included visual projects such as the Six Days of Creation, Noah's Ark, Animals and a play, The Best Birthday Present of All, about the adoption of two orphan children.

Non-agricultural exports up 30%

In 1980, the value of Alberta's non-agricultural export trade increased more than 30 percent to $6.9 billion from $5.1 billion in 1979, according to the latest edition of the publication "Alberta Exports" released by Horst A. Schmidt, minister of state for economic development-international trade.

The increase represents approximately a 19 percent of the province's gross domestic product and over 10 percent of the 1980 Canadian export total of $74 billion.

"While the dollar value of 1980 exports of natural gas and crude petroleum increased 27.3 percent over the 1979 level," said Mr. Schmidt, "the most dramatic increase was in the export of fabricated machinery and equipment which was up 56 percent over the 1979 level."

The publication lists export commodities to countries which received at least $1 million worth of Alberta goods in 1980. The exports are broken down into 137 commodity groups, only some of which are relevant for each of the countries listed. An analysis of Alberta's export performance over the past five years in relation to major recipient countries is also included.

The United States remains by far the largest outlet for Alberta goods. In 1980, some 66.4 percent of the dollar value of exports went to the United States, down from 69.5 percent in 1979.

Japan, our second largest customer, took 8.3 percent of Alberta's dollar value in exports, 7.6 percent of which was coal sales. Alberta exports to the 19 Asian countries, our third largest trading area, increased by a dramatic 81 percent to $185 million compared to $98 million in 1979. The Asian market represents a major potential market for export development.

The European Economic Community imported 46 percent more Alberta goods in 1980 than in 1979 for an increase in value to $127.5 million, reflecting progress made through Alberta's increased trade efforts.

As in previous years, markets for the other approximately four percent of exports for 1980 included South America, the Middle East, Eastern Europe, Africa, and Mexico.

"All Albertans should be proud of the companies in Alberta who helped to increase the export of fabricated machinery and equipment in such a significant way, but we have not reached the full export potential in many world markets. Alberta's technology, our expertise in specific sectors, is the best in the world, and only continually increasing participation by Alberta manufacturers, engineering companies, and other invisible exporters in world trade shows, ongoing and incoming missions, will further stimulate Alberta's growing export sales," said Mr. Schmidt.

Nutritive processing agreement signed

Alberta's Minister of Agriculture, Dallas W. Schmidt, has announced the signing of a new $38 million Federal-Provincial nutritive processing agreement. It will be in force until March 31, 1984.

Schmidt says the new agreement will enhance diversification and centralization of economic activity in the province and will assist in developing the full potential of the province's renewable resources. Agriculture, it will strengthen the economic viability of rural Alberta, provide an incentive for further process nutritive products which are developed through the development of new technology. A complete list of positions in national or export markets.

The agreement will continue to provide financial incentives based on a portion of the capital cost involved to encourage the establishment, expansion and modernization of processing operations that produce products consumed by man and animals.

It will also provide similar assistance to the processing of products of plant or animal origin for use as non-nutritive uses such as hide processing, pest moose processing or the production of pharmaceutical products. In addition, it will make financial incentives available to private sector research and laboratory facilities throughout the province based on a portion of the capital cost of such facilities.

The agreement was signed at Brooks by Alberta's Minister of Agriculture, Dallas W. Schmidt, and the federal minister of Regional Economic Expansion, Pierre De Bane.

Under it, the costs of financial support for qualifying firms will be shared equally by the two levels of government. Those interested in taking advantage of this program may obtain additional information from Dr. J.E. Wiebe, Alberta Agriculture.

UPDATE

Flagstaff Family and Community Services
Telephone: 385-3976

There will be a Home-maker Training Program held in the Flagstaff Family and Community Services office in Kildare scheduled to begin October 13, 1981. The course will be a three week course, 4 days a week from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Following this course homemakers must take a first aid course, a CPR course and attend 5 monthly in-service training sessions.

The primary purpose of this course will be to train women who wish to apply for part-time work as emergency homemakers. A "Homemaker" is a person who helps families through crisis situations and assists the disabled and/or elderly to maintain themselves at home.

The course of study involves a review of home-making, survival and human relations skills. An important aspect of the course is assisting Homemakers to better understand the variety of situations that individuals and families in crisis face in their daily lives. As in the past, there are some participants who many find that their interest and talents lie elsewhere and go into other areas of work.

The course is free of charge. We hope to have all centres of the County of Flagstaff represented by persons interested in becoming a Homemaker.

For further information please phone 385-3976.

Area athletes finish 4th in summer games

In a letter from Ken Hammer, Zone 4 coordinator for the Alberta Summer Games has come and gone. He thanks The Community Press and the Enterprise for playing their part and helping promote the game activities in Central Alberta.

"Without the co-operation of the media such as your newspaper, the Alberta Games movement would have difficulty in reaching the many Albertans that it involves," he said.

I am sure you would agree of the importance of involving everyone in meaningful physical and mental activities such as the Games program."

Overall, Parkland finished fourth in the medal standings with 26 gold, 25 silver, and 27 bronze. The Alberta Summer Games were held August 6, 7 and 8 at Lethbridge.

Zone 4 covered an area stretching from the southern border of County 23 near Innisfail to points north of Wetaskiwin near Camrose, east to the Saskatchewan border and west to the Rocky Mountains.

Most winners came from many points throughout the Zone and competed in events ranging from archery, canoeing and skiing to swimming, track and field, lawn bowling and swimming for citizens of all ages. Involved area winners were entered in the swimming competitions, and included Jeff Kapler of Daysland, winner of a bronze medal in the 50 m butterfly and also in the 100 m backstroke; Carla Robison of Forestburg, winner of the 100 m backstroke for women and a bronze in the 200 m medley for women; and Mike Borth of Killam, who was a silver in the 200 m relay.

Strike hurts smaller firms

By W. Roger Worth
The double whammy of 12% interest rates and the recent postal shutdown dealt a crippling blow to the smaller firms that are crossing a majority of the country's new jobs.
Indeed, the price paid by smaller firms when orders don't arrive and bills aren't paid is staggering. Bank loans had to be increased to cover payroll, benefits occurred, and hundreds of firms were forced to close shops.
Amid the confusion, the country's much-heralded banks appeared to move mountains in their attempts to fill the breach for small business customers.
Representing 60,000 owners of small Canadian firms, the Canadian Federation of Independent Business in two days. That's better service than the post office provides at the best of times.

Other major banks focused on the paper shuffling a little, increasing credit to small business customers who had trouble collecting bills as a result of the strike. And reports indicate that local branch managers, on the whole, became more sympathetic to the plight of hard-pressed small business owners.
For the answer to that question, ask any Canadian operating a small or medium-sized business. They are firmly opposed to such a policy.

New blue jean a collector's item

One of the best known words to come out of the West is a man's name... his first name.

From Calgary to Cornerbrook, from Whitehorse to Toronto, his name is common currency. He was not a statesman or a well known figure whose pronouncements are recorded in history. But he did do something spectacular: he created a pair of pants.

The man was Levi Strauss. The pants he created are Levi's.

Collector's Item Jeans Today, his blue jeans are manufactured and worn around the world. In fact, the name Levi's has become synonymous with blue jeans.

Despite an ever changing fashion scene and new innovations, the styling of Levi's very first jean, made in 1850, remains an all-time favorite among jean lovers.

This summer, Canada's first limited edition blue jean will be introduced, the '55S' based on that first jean. It's sure to become a collector's item.

Like all limited edition merchandise, each pair of '55S' jeans will be individually numbered and registered. Specially designed hang tags invite purchasers to have their names and serial numbers recorded in the Levi Strauss Historical Archives. Upon receipt of the information, the company will issue a certificate attesting to the authenticity of the garment.

Traditional Styling The '55S' is truly a classic. An authentically styled Western jean, made of 100 per cent cotton, pre-washed, heavy weight denim, it has a traditional button-fly closure and five pocket Western styling plus authentic leather patch on the waist band with Levi's world renowned two-horse brand. An individually stamped and numbered copper plate is fixed to the back patch of each pair of '55S'. Heavy gauge thread and tubular copper rivets provide extra strength and durability as well as additional fashion detailing.

The '55S' is sure to be a popular look this fall and will go on to become another legend that old Levi himself would be proud of.

Complete line of FLOWERS FOR WEDDINGS Fresh or Silk Phone for Appointments Pedersen's Florists Ltd. 4825 - 50th Street 672-2883 Camrose, Alberta

The limited edition 55S jean in classic Western styling comes with an individually numbered copper plate on the back leather patch and authentic button fly.

Jeans For Fall '81 Over the years the company has added many new styles to its basic line. In Canada, these include jeans, pants and tops styled for women plus a full-line of youthwear and men's wear.

Levi's Fall '81 Jeanwear line is an exciting blend of traditional jeans looks and high fashion styles.

Along with the limited edition '55S', Levi's traditional denim looks - Legends - include the popular Saddlemen Boot Cut, the 619 Straight Leg and the 505 Tapered Leg.

In the fashion area, Levi's jeans stand out in a crowd. Special labels and tags add to the fashion look of these slightly darked, medium weight denim jeans. In the Eagle collection straight and tapered leg jeans have added pleats with gold or silver/blue contrast stitching. The Gemstone and California Straight collections are easily identified by intricate back pocket stitching such as the Arctico 2001 and the futuristic Venus design.

New this fall is the Laramie jean with fancy pocket detailing reminiscent of the intricate stitching on a cowboy's boot. Most of the fashion jeans are available in corduroy in the rich fall colors of Cobalt Blue, Mahogany, Berry and Green plus the traditional colors: Antelope, Navy, Chocolate, Grey and Black.

Be stylish and warm this winter with Levi's cozy Sherpa Jean Jacket, worn here with the 5 pocket Eagleman and Western-yoke flannel shirt.

Annual Report

Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Provincial Treasurer Len Hyndman has released the annual report of the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund for the year ended March 31, 1981.

The overall average yield on all investments at March 31, 1981 was 11.8 per cent up from 11.1 per cent the previous year.

Total assets in the Heritage Fund, excluding capital projects which do earn income, stood at $7,374 million on March 31, 1981, up from $5,540 million one year earlier.

The "deemed asset" investments made in the non-income earning capital projects since 1978 totalled $960 million.

Net income earned on the Heritage Fund pool of investments saved over the past five years was $724 million in 1980-81, more than double the previous year's earnings.

The transfer of 30 per cent of revenue received from Alberta's depletion allowances provided $1,446 million to the fund in 1980-81.

"The uncertainty prevailing throughout 1980-81 as to Alberta's economic outlook and future revenue, as a result of O.P.A.'s energy strategy, made it difficult to illustrate the crucial importance of the 'savings' aspect of the Heritage Fund for the future financial well-being of the province and its citizens," Mr. Hyndman said.

He emphasized that the wild reasons for having a Heritage Fund are even more important today than when it was established in 1978. By saving only 30 per cent of the revenues from depleting resources - rather than spending them now - the province will have the flexibility necessary to meet its needs and to cushion its citizens during the future transition period as these oil and gas revenues inevitably dwindle.

"Viewed from a responsible savings perspective," the minister said, "The Heritage Fund is not large." He pointed out that its income-earning assets represent less than one year's provincial budget, or about 2 per cent of the Canadian capital market.

"The Heritage Savings Trust Fund," he further emphasized, "is not cash." The investment of the Heritage Fund, in keeping with the longer term savings objective, are "locked-in" for the years ahead. "Virtually all the Heritage Fund is committed and invested over the long term," he said.

During 1980-81, for the first time, the funds committed to long term investments under the various investment divisions exceeded the monies flowing into the Heritage Fund from non-renewable resource revenues and investment income.

"Suggestions for financing from the Heritage Fund for 1981-82 have been far in excess of the funds available," the provincial treasurer noted. "Three-quarters of all the new money available for investment will be taken up by the home mortgage, housing, municipal financing and telephone crown corporations."

Over 95 per cent of the new investments of the Alberta investment division comprised loans to Alberta crown corporations. "Accordingly," Mr. Hyndman said, "the government will have to be increasingly selective in the allocation of limited Heritage Fund resources among competing investment opportunities."

Expenditures of capital projects division projects, which do not earn a return but which provide "quality of life" benefits for Albertans, totalled $237 million in 1980-81.

Through the Canada investment division, new loans totalling $683 million were made in the year to six provincial governments or their agencies. At March 31, 1981, the total investments under this division was $1,492 million. These loans, made at market rates of interest, are the best provincial credits, are one of the most valuable examples of the Heritage Fund's direct benefit to other parts of Canada. They also generate a good source of income for Albertans in future years.

In 1980-81, as in the previous year, the largest proportion of net investment was made under the Alberta investment division - $1,283.5 million. These investments strengthen or diversify the Alberta economy and yield a reasonable rate of return, at March 31, 1981 more than half of the Heritage Fund's total assets, $4,024 million, were held in this division.

During the year, $435 million in financing was provided to the Alberta Home Mortgage Corporation, thus helping to assure a supply of affordable housing for Albertans. $440 million was loaned to the Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation which assists local governments and their property taxpayers throughout the province. Investments totalling $187 million were also made in debentures of the Alberta Agricultural Development Corporation and Alberta Opportunity Company. They assist Alberta's agricultural producers, agribusiness and small business generally. In concluding, Mr. Hyndman underscored the fact that the Heritage Fund is not sitting idle. "The dollars are invested, committed over the long term and put to work competing in the marketplace. While noting that the Heritage funds."

Riters Ramblings

Moony Didn't Grow on Our Bushes

Doris M. Saunders
The crop was harvested, the bins were full and some wagon loads had been hauled to the elevator. But times were hard as wheat was selling only for about twenty-five cents a bushel.

The Eaton's and Simpson's catalogues had arrived quite some time ago and we children had had many exciting hours pouring over their contents. We'd been cheating things we would like to have when the fall order went.

At last Mother sat down to make out the order for new household goods and winter clothes for the family.

We each had told her what we'd like and after checking our clothing and household goods she wrote the order for what she thought was needed. It was a big order which covered two or three pages of the forms always supplied by Eaton's or Simpson's.

This was the only way we had of shopping as no store in the area carried the things we needed and we didn't often go to a large centre.

There was all the family except Mother. Heavy winter socks and stockings, winter mitts. Perhaps a new coat if the old one was too small or too worn out to be handed down to the next one in line.

Being the only girl, got my cousin's cast off clothes to be made over to my sister. Occasionally I would have a new dress. I always hoped to have one new dress "for good".

Other clothes were made by Mother from material painstakingly chosen from the colorful pages of fabrics illustrated in the catalogues. It was lucky if I had a skirt and a couple of sweaters to wear to school week about.

At last the order was finished and totaled and then it had to have my father's approval before it could be sent. My mother handed it over with some trepidation for my father to look at. He took one look at the total and roared. "You must think the money grows out of the bushes out there. I can't afford to buy all these things. We have to have money for groceries."

He went over that order item by item.

"What's this? Woolen mitts? You don't need these."

"But the boys need new ones. The old ones are all worn out," protested my mother.

"Then I'll make some out of some old socks." To give him due he could make mitts from the tops of old socks. The pencil stroked them out.

"What's this dress? It's for Dora." He answered to my mother. She needs a new one for winter.

"And a cheap one!" He wrote the order for what he thought was needed. So it went until there was no more items blacked out than there were left. I fled to my room to cry out my frustration at not being able to have that pretty dress I had chosen. My mother tried to convince my father that she just had to have some of those things for the family. She was almost in tears but she let him out a new order form. She was ashamed to send her order marked up as it was so she began once more, muttering to herself, "I've just got to have things for the children". She put a few items back in again.

At last it was finished and we watched, almost holding our breaths, while father looked it over.

"Well that's better. You know many doesn't grow on the bushes around here."

Convention of bikers held at Coronation

While most of the Sedgewick-Killam-Flagstaff area was not involved with the annual Coronation convention of bikers, members of Killam Detachment of the RCMP were on the scene with other members from throughout the province, led by the Edmonton Tactical Squad.

An estimated 300 bikers converged on the general area, and Sgt. L. Franke of Killam reports that the number of bikers gathering there has been "progressively getting bigger" over the years.

But the major infringement of the Highway Traffic Act as RCMP officers laid 113 charges under this section.

The annual gathering of bikers began about seven years ago at Coronation Rodeo Grounds, and grew from that point market over the Labour Day weekend, the RCMP spokesman reported.

In another Hardisty incident recently, 13 fully equipped wheelies were removed from C. Rampel's auto lot.

Attempts had been made to remove 23 wheelies in all, according to Sgt. Franke.

Quiet Labour Day in this area

While many residents of Sedgewick, Killam, Forestburg and Flagstaff area in general were away visiting during the long Labour Day weekend, activities were almost reduced to nil.

There were no organized sporting functions for those left behind, although many families were occupied with end-of-summer weddings.

Others generated their own activities, such as parties, while many stayed indoors to watch television in spite of the generally sunny and hot weather which prevailed, particularly in the afternoon.

The Jerry Lewis Tele-

thon for Muscular Dystrophy has become a tradition on Labour Day for many, and this year the Canada Cup hockey series has provided a treat with the world's best hockey for one (at $25 per ticket). And there was baseball and football as well for the stay-at-home folk were busy swatting or combining.

Local elementary, junior high and high school students returned to their classrooms last week, so that having to return to school on Tuesday wasn't such a great adjustment.

Many students started college for the first time, and for those who didn't make it home for the weekend, there would be a considerable change as they further their education.

While the situation in general was quiet in towns and villages, Sgt. L. Franke of Killam Detachment of the RCMP reported that there was "a few people queuing tires." Nothing unusual, there.

A similar break-in occurred at a Provost supermarket over the Labour Day weekend, the RCMP spokesman reported.

In another Hardisty incident recently, 13 fully equipped wheelies were removed from C. Rampel's auto lot.

Attempts had been made to remove 23 wheelies in all, according to Sgt. Franke.

"...for my club, my community and my country." The 4-H pledge came alive for ninety top Canadian 4-H'ers in the 19th annual Interprovincial 4-H Exchange.

Through the continued sponsorship of the Royal Bank of Canada, in cooperation with the Canadian Council on 4-H clubs, nine 4-H members from each province had the opportunity to see more of their country.

The Alberta group were honored at a send-off banquet hosted by their sponsor, Keith Sveinsson, manager, Agricultural Services Alberta, at the Chateau Lacombe in Edmonton on July 8th.

This annual event has kept Canadian 4-H'ers close even when separated by thousands of miles.

The program involves not only the delegates, but 4-H clubs and communities throughout each province and brings Canadians closer to each other.

Events aid Fox Fund

All the returns were in at last but estimates that last Friday's run raised over $10,000 for the Terry Fox Fund by Sedgewick elementary and junior high students, resulted in pledges that could range between $3,000 and $5,000.

The event held at Sedgewick Rec Centre drew a large crowd of people from the area. The estimated 125 participants, and there were some who hadn't started school, as well as one or two runners, who school days have long since passed.

As might be expected on such a pleasant afternoon, the pace wasn't the thing as those with pledges were trying to complete the maximum 10 laps in order to raise funds for cancer research.

While some of the runners ran barefoot, others ran in socks, or in the case of Tanya Oliver, hitched a ride for a short distance on the shoulders of her father, Everett Oliver.

Others, such as Shane Macle, 11, a Grade 6 student, had three sheets full of pledges from supporters who were contributing 19 cents to 90 cents per lap.

Some relief from the aching arms in the form of a treat supplied by a local organization, while many wore the cool waters provided by a garden hose.

Principal Ken Affholder and his teaching staff were most pleased with the results. Gollers at Sedgewick held

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Keith:
I have received your editorial letter in The Community Press of September 8, regarding the water system, and I am sure it is not alone.

Thirdly, your negative attitude on the water system (and with other issues), repeatedly exposed prominently in The Community Press, does nothing but cause ill will. Healthy criticism of any situation is encouraged because from that we may all benefit, but destructively opinionated reporting should not be tolerated by our readers.

Lastly, I object strongly to your reference to the digger, foreman and town councillors. All of the people involved with the water system are doing their utmost to ensure a safe water supply. It is unfortunate that some damage has been done to our landscaping but let's try to look ahead and work together for the betterment of our terrific little Town of Sedgewick.

One of the names, James MacGregor, c.c. all members of Sedgewick Town Council.

We must realize that there is going to be a certain ill involved property in our lives with construction of this magnitude, but if we can look beyond the end of our noses, we can envision a better town of the future. It is unfortunate that the system falls on the heels of completing so many streets and sidewalks but the deterioration of the (rehab) reservoir was unforeseen, the event which prompted the decision to install a water system.

While Kindergarten classes at one time may have been a frightening experience, teacher Donna Polge at Sedgewick Kindergarten says it isn't nowadays. It was explained that most of the children have undergone various stages of preparation, before becoming a part of the Kindergarten school system. The only discomfort appeared to be a full day in the classrooms, with some of the children showing signs of weariness after starting school last week on a half day basis. Front row

SUMMER PADGE and autumn approach. Well there's nothing new about that. It has been happening for 100 years. One gives way to the other. Between the real seasons; a sort of a shopping period. The weather is changing. The crops are coming in. It's a good thing too for we are obliged to accommodate a sudden change from over-hot to over-cold there would be discomfort on all sides. There is a situation than plunge heading.

THE EARLY fall season has always been an attractive one for us. Just watching the foliage change from deep green to a kaleidoscopic, multi-colored array of nature's fantastic display has always filled me with wonder at the magnitude of it. Nature and beauty, almost synonymous terms have an attraction for mankind that is almost beyond comparison.

HAVING JUST returned from a 200 mile excursion through the rural area of Alberta and giving special attention to the topography of the various areas I concluded that in some instances man is making an attempt to force nature to adapt itself to his wishes instead of the other way around. Nature is not to be trifled with and she has a way of putting the message across. O the other hand she is very co-operative when treated with respect. Nature will not be abused and co-operate with dignity. I travelled for about fifty miles with the windshield-wipers making vision possible, during which time no harvest machine was moving in the fields. Suddenly entering into an area of sunshine and cloudless skies combined were making the best of the time left and fields were being cleared of the products of the year. Fights of geese and ducks were circling about in search of a suitable location to gorge themselves in an evening meal, with no consideration for their own kind. All the birds were in the fruit of their labours. With the kind of a fruit it is there appears little doubt that the season was a good one. The birds were gathered in. It has been dry and no better indication of this may be seen than in the number of chicks completely dried up. I noticed that some of these were being culled in anticipation of added acreage next spring to be planted. Nature again will strike whether or not this summer a reality.

HAVING ARRIVED BACK in familiar territory, diminished traffic and fewer hazards, I was able to take my eye off the rear view mirror and relax a bit. Out of a bit of day-dreaming the thought came that there is a similarity between man trying to dictate to nature and to himself; in fact there is a great similarity between man's treatment of himself and his surroundings and his fellow man. Politics is a deal like it. All after all man is man. Isn't he?

ON ONE HAND we have a Prime Minister whom I believe would like to get out of it. He has ambitious courses but remaining as Prime Minister is not one of them. Yet by the very nature of things is being forced to remain. Who is there to replace him? Some think anybody would do. On the other hand we have Joe Clark who clings to leadership even though many of his own ranks think he should go. He has his own cause but at by dictating these appeared, from office, putting friendly nature and their stand. All he has done is to make enemies in his own ranks. Unhappy indeed lies the hand that owns the crown. Good things it does too.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir: This will refer to your editorial which appeared on the front page of the September 2, 1981 edition of the Community Press. It is hoped that the thought that went into writing the editorial does not reflect the thinking of the weekly newspaper editors of this country. If it does we are indeed in a sorry plight. You took advantage of your position to place your editorial in a conspicuous place, an advantage which would not be available to any other private person. For those of us living here and knowing you, we just wonder where it comes from but your other readers must wonder, in printing such an editorial you have done a disservice to your newspaper, your community and yourself. The editorial however does prove a point. It proves that the majority of citizens have been in progress and in a community this size with a major project such as the one being undertaken, I think they are to be expected. It would appear that the names you went to such pains to think up for the digger operator, the farm man and the Town Council would have been better returned to you. Let this positive for a bit. Mr. Editor and not down-grade anyone and everything. Yours truly, C.B. Robertson

Rule grain handlers back

First it was the postal workers' strike, now it's the grain handlers' strike—pity the small businessman! While there are many sectors of the work force who don't receive such benefits as 17 weeks maternity leave, or for that matter, five or six weeks' holidays every year, the "fat cat" unions keep on increasing their demands. Then after being led to the water trough, management succumbs to these exorbitant requests. Leaders of Canada's major unions came right out on Labour Day and stated that they, in no way, would have any part of government-imposed wage and price controls.

In other words, the unions don't give a tinker's damn about inflation as long as their pay cheques continue to contain the usual cost of living clause.

And unions always seem to continue their negotiations past the strike deadline until such a time as the nation as a whole is practically willing to hand them the moon, if they will "get on with the job".

The Lakehead grain handlers could have "walked out" last May at a time when the effect on the economy would not be so great. But, oh no, they wait until a bountiful Western grain crop is nearly harvested, then they cripple about 40% of the export shipments. And as this is written, there are rumblings that the Vancouver grain elevator employees may also join the picket lines.

Farmers are already aware of the implications that a nation wide shutdown would bring. If Canada cannot supply the wheat, then overseas customers will turn to the United States, which expects a record crop.

As the situation stands now, the strike is costing farmers $10 million a day in lost deliveries. Imagine the devastation that would be Canada's plight if both the Lakehead and Vancouver ports are shut down in grain handling for any length of time.

Farm organizations are calling for the federal government to invoke compulsory arbitration as long as their pay cheques continue to contain the usual cost of living clause.

Much has been said about the inadequacies of the grain transportation system in Canada, and we agree there are many, but strikes by union, always appear to be the "crusher".

Canadian citizens as a whole are "fed up" with one strike after another. We say, legislate the grain handlers back to work.

Letters to the Editor

Madison Park, B.C. Sept. 3, 1981

Dear Sir: Since you have become Editor of the Community Press we have thought of writing you. Would your Mother and Dad happen to be Grace and Harold Barrett? For many years we have tried to find out where they are. Harold also went by Barry I believe. He and my husband, Melvin (Mel) R. Lake, were in the Army together and was our best man when we were married in Edmonton in June 1946.

Green was from Loughhead or some town from the same line; also knew, and/or, trained with a friend of mine, Helen Crawford of Forestburg.

We checked Victorian phone book in a recent visit, or thought they may have gone to England. Do look forward to your paper each week. Sincerely, Mrs. Jean Llanos.

Editor's Note: Thank you very much for your enquiry, and we have appointed a committee to meet with committees from other towns along the line. The local board supported the resolution to be submitted to the Government and appointed a committee to meet with committees from other towns along the line.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir: Congratulations to the Hardisty Homecoming Committee, all Hardistys and others involved in making the Hardisty 75th homecoming such a wonderful success. The church service, the choir and the parade were one of the best. The price for the parade was very low. It was wonderful to meet and visit with so many people. The parade was a success. The parade was a success. The parade was a success.

It is quite evident that there will be considerable pressure on the cattle market this fall. The past several months have seen a large percentage of the hobby cattle across Canada forced out of the business. We have now in the time, more so than ever before, to discuss all animals that are available through a good sound, stable market.

Provost Livestock Exchange is:

A MARKET - that has a proven record of top buyer support

A MARKET - that serves the best cattle area in Canada

A MARKET - selected by C.P.R. as a shipping point from the West

A MARKET - with knowledgeable Livestock Auctioneers

A MARKET - that supports the local and surrounding communities

A MARKET - that is privately owned and firmly believes in the Free Enterprise System

Let's work together to build a better Livestock industry! NOW is the time to plan.

Rev. R.L. Conrad is named Anglican Dean of Battle River

The Rev. Richard L. Conrad, 49, prominent local clergyman, has been appointed Dean of the Battle River region of the Anglican Diocese of Edmonton. Mr. Conrad's appointment is particularly noteworthy, since only rarely is a minister from a rural parish given the position of Dean.

The Battle River Region includes Anglican churches in Sedgewick, Killam, Langbeek, Hardisty, Hughenden, Edgerton, Wainwright, Paradise Valley, Viking, Irma, Provost, Sherwood Park, and St. John's, St. David's, St. Augustine's and St. Patrick's in Edmonton.

The appointment, to be effective immediately, was announced by the Right Reverend E. Kent Clarke, Bishop of the Anglican Diocese of Edmonton.

A Nova Scotia native, the Rev. Mr. Conrad has studied at Haver College, the University of Ottawa, the University of Alberta, Newman College, and the Proctor's College of Providence Centre. He is currently pursuing courses from Wilfrid College, Oxford, England and the College of Emmanuel and St. Chad, Exeter, Devon.

Becoming a Deacon at Christ Church, Ottawa, he was ordained in 1975 by the Rev. Gerald Burch, then Bishop of Edmonton. He was served as assistant Chaplain in the Canadian Armed Forces, with responsibility for Sunday School curriculum in Canada and abroad.

He was curate at St. John's Church, Eggarville, Ontario and St. Barnabas Church, Edmonton. He took liturgical training at St. David's in Edmonton.

The rector of St. Edmund's Parish, encompassing Killam, Sedgewick, Langbeek, Hardisty and Hughenden, since 1975, Mr. Conrad is married to the former Dorcas Lester and is the father of four.

A member of the Priestly Ministerial Association, he has done much to promote Christian Education in Protestant Schools. He is also Chaplain of the Kiwanis Branch of the Canadian Legion.

Sedgewick swept by sandstorm

Strong westerly winds which became active on Wednesday caused a sandstorm of sorts in the Town of Sedgewick and area that evening.

About 10 p.m. the peak was reached with high winds blowing home and from westward. Installations against windows of residences in some sections of town, causing the inhabitants anxious moments.

In some cases it was feared that windows would not stand up to the pressure exerted by the hurricane-like winds.

Sedgewick's main street was covered with silt on Thursday morning, attesting to the turbulence of the previous night.

The high winds continued into the early part of the weekend before subsiding.

The offers were made under the Canada-Alberta Nutritive Processing Assistance Agreement and were announced by Senator H.A. (Bud) Olson, federal Minister of State for Economic Development, and the Hon. Dallas Schmidt, Alberta's Minister of Agriculture.

In all, the seven firms are expected to invest more than one million dollars in new, expanded or modernized nutritive processing facilities.

Lougheed establishes commercial subdivision

"Progres" could very easily describe the direction in which the Village of Lougheed is proceeding.

With an eye to the future, council has established a 27-lot commercial subdivision at the westerly approach to the municipality, adjacent to Highway 13.

A service road has been built parallel to the highway, and installation of water and sewer services has just been completed.

Airport construction is satisfactory

Program to date at the Killam-Sedgewick Airport is very satisfactory, according to John Eggle, superintendent of construction for H. and M. Hirsch Trucking Ltd. of Edmonton.

The firm is building a 3,600-foot paved runway and a 1,400-foot taxiway under a $283,450 contract from Alberta Transportation at the site, mid-way between the two towns and about a mile north of Highway 13.

Mr. Eggle said that heavy earth-moving equipment is continuing to remove the top soil, and in three weeks this portion of the work should be completed.

At this time, gravel will replace the top soil, being added on all current unpaid taxes on October 1, 1981.

A much superior material for packing purposes.

Sedgewick streets soon to be repaired

Installation of the water system is progressing satisfactorily. Sedgewick council reports, with water lines being installed on main street. This leaves only Railway Avenue and Ambrose Streets yet to be done, and some work in Block D.

Consent is being poured for the reservoir.

Indications are that permit repairs will commence in about two weeks time.

Gas service line has been installed to serve the six industrial lots available in Blocks 1 and 2, Plan B13-0027, as well as service extended to Blocks 28, 29, and 30, in Plan B13-1366. Both of these are industrial subdivisions south of C.P.R. tracks.

Waste Management Council is in favor of the compact truck rather than the transfer method. The final decision will be made by all member municipalities, as well as the ownership by a hired method of pick-up.

Reclamation of the old garbage site has been completed.

At a meeting of joint libraries held in Sedgewick on August 17th, decisions are that these boards are desirous of forming a central committee with County participation. Next meeting to be held October 15th. We are advised that our local library now has a set of 1980 World Encyclopedia.

Taxes Residents are reminded that a penalty of 9 percent will be added on all current unpaid taxes on October 1, 1981.

Mr. Eggle said that heavy earth-moving equipment is continuing to remove the top soil, and in three weeks this portion of the work should be completed.

At this time, gravel will replace the top soil, being added on all current unpaid taxes on October 1, 1981.

It's all in a day's work as far as employees of ARCO Ltd. of Edmonton are concerned. They poured 17,000 square feet of ready-mix concrete onto the floor at Killam Arms on Wednesday last, as the artificial ice project went complete.

Great hockey ... but desire?

Who's system is best? One can talk about the political framework of a country, the educational system, the monetary system, and so on.

Probably the system that is on many people's minds at the present time is the hockey organization in this country. And most astute observers of the sports scene will argue that the present hockey set-up is obviously in need of a major change if Canada is to regain world supremacy.

Naturally there are many viewpoints as to what happened, and we will attempt to describe some of them here.

Canada supposedly is the cradle of hockey, and as the first it should be the best.

But there is a tool called education, and students sometimes turn out to be more talented than their mentors.

The Russians send representatives to this country to learn our hockey system, and have learned well. Gone are the days when an RCAF team, and not a very good one at that, took the world championship in 1946.

True, for many years, the Russians basically played for several years against so-called amateurs from Canada and the remainder of the Free World. Most sports fans know that the majority of the Soviet players are high-ranking military officers who are instructed in the finer points of hockey, 12 months of the year.

That discrepancy was abolished when the world hockey championships were declared an open competition, with anyone eligible to compete.

Can anyone ever forget the Canadian Team of 1973, and Paul Henderson's famous goal. Since then, though, it has been basically a down-hill battle on the part of Canada.

And much of the blame can be laid at the feet of our "system". While most of us are darned happy that we are living under the democratic system, it has its pitfalls. Professional hockey players like any other professional athlete are a gifted lot—and they know it.

As evidence, we submit the exorbitant salary demands that are made, at the expense of the paying hockey customer.

And therein lies the ultimate fault. While our hockey players are for the most part very dedicated in this world competition, there is a tendency to let down.

Can you picture a $300,000 a year player really giving his all? Perhaps the winning Russian players might be rewarded with an apartment of their very own (living accommodation is very scarce in the U.S.S.R.).

While the brand of hockey played was excellent, and fans across the country could view the tournament on television for free, we can still hark back to our early days, as both as a player and coach.

I was a terrific sprinter and not a very good skater, but I had desire. When coaching minor hockey, I usually picked the boy who could hardly stand up, however his desire stood out, and he usually came through.

That's what is wrong with our system—be it hockey or most other fields—the real desire isn't there.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I read your editorial in September 3 edition of the Community Press. I, too had unnecessary damage done to my property.

A 4-ft. tree was completely covered with dirt. Where the tree is allowed 7 feet from the curb, in some places on our property the town exceeded their boundaries by up to three feet.

I'm not really upset about the town stepping over the boundary, but I am furious that dirt was dumped on the tree that we have prepared for two summers to see that it would grow.

I took a tree from the County Garden about replacing the tree, and he told us that it's next to impossible to be replaced because these trees are no longer grown commercially in Alberta. They came from Manitoba.

I have tried to tell people in town office and on the street about our problem, but no one will make any commitments.

They just leave the responsibility to the other. They pass the buck.

I understand that when such projects are undertaken, there is bound to be accidental damage. But why do we pay large sums of money to the town to replace our complaints.

I'm sure there are plenty of people in Sedgewick who are upset about property damage. I'm making you to go and be heard. If we don't stand together, we'll get nowhere.

You asked me not to print my name, because the people concerned already have heard from me. Concerned Reader.

25 YEARS AGO

On Wednesday, September 23rd, 1956, the weather was bright and sunny all day with some warmer with some wind which is drying the grain. Harvesting may be resumed by the first of next week. It had been raining for one week straight.

An agricultural fair was held in Sedgewick for the week of September 23rd. D.J. Dabbert of Sedgewick took first prize with his Marquis. Winning down a list of awards: J.J. Potage and A.W. Adamson, both of Wood, took for second prize with $9 each.

A true duck story: Frank King of Sedgewick has a duck which was hatched on May 4th, and which has laid four eggs since Monday morning.

24 YEARS AGO

A movement intended to bring about the completion of the growing of Higher Education from its present terminus near Hugenbush to the Saskatchewan boundary came to a definite head last Wednesday evening, when delegates from various points between Carleton Place and Hugenbush assembled at Sedgewick for the purpose of bringing the matter before the Provincial Government. The cost of travelling would be a definite head.

The farmers of Alberta were urged to avoid losses which might be incurred by threatening their grain being in the neighborhood in a statement issued the first of the week by J.R. Stremme, Premier of Agriculture for Alberta. School did not open in the fall until September 1st in the County of Flagstaff Public Schools.

Blanche's, a way-side medication that gives speedy relief from Adul Indigestion was sold at George C. Crooks for only 75 cents per bottle.

30 YEARS AGO

The weather was described as rotten for harvest. Night falling gradually every day and light frost at night.

Canadian Utilities are awarded this power line south and west of town. By the time the new lines many farmers will have had electricity installed.

Mr. Art Paul had the distinction of bringing down a Mallard duck last week. He was with his son, D.J. Dabbert, and instructions to notify the Fish and Wildlife Department, D.J. Dabbert. Many some guys can get a banded duck and many can't. It was a bird of any kind.

28 YEARS AGO

Fire started by spontaneous combustion in a pile of city eggs caused severe damage to the garage portion of Fenn's Service Station on the Highway near Sedgewick, early Saturday morning. Considerable damage was done to the one wall, some of the equipment, along with smoke and water damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Cabot recently purchased the station from Mr. George Acheson.

A.P. Crop Report: In the southern part of this area harvesting of grain is well advanced. At the end of last week when half to 1 inch of rain brought the grain down to a halt. Across the northern portion, though delayed for a week or so, progress has been made. Harvesting of cereal grain is now 75 p.c. to 100 p.c. completed in the area, and averages are about 50 p.c.; Barley 55 p.c., oats 55, Flax 50 percent.

Dianna Zimmer, 15, of Strath, received her Junior Citizen of the Year Award from the County of Agriculture for Alberta. School did not open in the fall until September 1st in the County of Flagstaff Public Schools.

"ALL IS SAFELY GATHERED IN, HERE THE WINTER STORMS BEGIN"

I'm not quite sure who composed the above but I do know that it is a song to music many years ago and is part of a song of thanksgiving which people have been singing for some time. It is a ring of accomplishment as well as a note of satisfaction and an anthem which rural people can appreciate for it spells the end of a season for those who grow the grain and for those who provide nourishment for the world to whom eating is essential. It spells the culmination of a year's work, sometimes under stressful days of stress and worry.

There are many people who never give a thought to the source of their own needs let alone have enough to help need it they are satisfied that all is well. Give a thought now and then to what would happen if the supply would suddenly be shut off.

THERE ARE NOT too many nations in the world today which can supply their own needs let alone have enough to help feed the hungry masses of other countries, many of whom are bordering on the edge of starvation. This has been clearly illustrated during the past couple of weeks by the fact that Russia has ordered from Canada several million extra tonnes of grain over and above what is the usual annual import. We know that climatic conditions have a large bearing on production but that is not necessarily the only factor involved. Proper husbandry of the soil is essential; you can't take forever without giving something back to the soil.

back to you destroy the source. Respect for nature and her resources has been learned by the wise.

ANOTHER FACT is incentive. Farming people produce (much on a commercial basis) in the national interest simply has not proven itself. On the other hand by allowing people to produce primarily for their own benefit an incentive is placed before them in the fact that (most times) the more one produces the more one benefits. This is particularly so in this day when there is a crying need for the basic foods of the world, as population increases and production declines of stress and worry.

do not produce will find it increasingly expensive to purchase the products needed. Fortunately indeed is the nation which can feed itself and have to spare. If its production will increase in demand.

ALTHOUGH WE STRAY somewhat from the original intent of this little article, I thought it necessary to inject as being associated with the overall picture. Another and has come a season of agricultural production, and on the whole has been one of satisfaction. Oh, I know that it is not yet safely gathered in. Every year tells that same story. Greatly to be a hard-earned occupation in which nature and her whims play a major role. But for the most part it is true. New blins have been purchased in large numbers and are filled to the peak mostly with No. 1 hard wheat and other essential products.

On the other hand by allowing people to produce primarily for their own benefit an incentive is placed before them in the fact that (most times) the more one produces the more one benefits. This is particularly so in this day when there is a crying need for the basic foods of the world, as population increases and production declines of stress and worry.

do not produce will find it increasingly expensive to purchase the products needed. Fortunately indeed is the nation which can feed itself and have to spare. If its production will increase in demand.

ALTHOUGH WE STRAY somewhat from the original intent of this little article, I thought it necessary to inject as being associated with the overall picture. Another and has come a season of agricultural production, and on the whole has been one of satisfaction. Oh, I know that it is not yet safely gathered in. Every year tells that same story. Greatly to be a hard-earned occupation in which nature and her whims play a major role. But for the most part it is true. New blins have been purchased in large numbers and are filled to the peak mostly with No. 1 hard wheat and other essential products.

Aid available against grain theft

If you have had grain stolen in the past or are worried about it being stolen from the future from bins that are some distance from your farmstead, you might be wise to consider using GrainGuard, says Murray McLaughlin, supervisor of cereal crops with Alberta Agriculture.

What is GrainGuard? It is a chemical-like piece of paper

Grain thefts are becoming more common as farms become larger and grain elevators have been stolen many miles from the farmstead. And large trucks and high capacity grain augers, which aid thieves, have added to the problem.

that each contain the same identifying number that is registered in the purchaser's name. That number, which is also registered with the RCMP in the area in which the purchaser lives, is not used against anyone it is a record of GrainGuard should be stolen, the number would be compared.

The use of GrainGuard to protect grain and silos against theft has been approved by Canadian grain authorities, and grain owners will be accepted by any elevator company.

In addition to discouraging theft, GrainGuard helps police to identify the grain if it is stolen. Stolen grain that is found in transit or in somebody else's bin is virtually impossible to identify unless it contains something like GrainGuard.

GrainGuard costs $55 for a five pound bag, which is enough for 30,000 bushels of grain or silos. It can be obtained from the Independent Printer, Box 40, Baggan, Saskatchewan S0K 0M6 (Telephone: 366-948-3341).

Three fires in less than 24 hours

Sedgewick Fire Department was called out to extinguish three blazes in less than a 24-hour span last week.

The first and most mysterious fire was discovered in a ditch, adjacent to Highway 13 on October 18, at 11:30 p.m., about two miles west of Sedgewick.

Fire Chief Ensl Thompson said the cause is unknown, however if the grass fire had not been put out, it could have spread to granaries only a few feet away and to stored fertilizer chemicals.

Mr. Thompson suggested, however, that a carvinsky discarded cigarette may have started the fire.

About 11 a.m. Friday, the firemen were called to the Jones farm, four miles north-east of town where two stacks of hay were destroyed by a blaze ignited by strong winds, but potential danger to nearby structures was quelled.

The firemen had just nicely returned to inactivity when they were summoned to Ralph Storkhagen's, not far distant from the scene of the earlier call.

A brush fire had jumped the road and threatened to create more trouble if it had spread to nearby stable.

Chief Thompson said.

A beautiful wedding service took place on August 25, at St. John's Anglican Church, Sedgewick, when Alwyn Shirley Moser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Landale of Edmonton, became the bride of John Clifford Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw of Sedgewick. The church was decorated with gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pale green polyester gown with a pale green sash of chiffon, dropping to a train at the back of the gown.

She also wore white elbow-length lace gloves. Her head-dress was of a white lace hat with white roses. She carried a bouquet of white roses and daisies.

Her bridesmaid, Mrs. Diane Coulson of Loughheed, was crowned in a soft pink gown of polyester with long sleeves. She wore a dark pink hat with carnations.

Agreement near on access to public lands

The Alberta Fish & Game Association has been working for some time on the complex issue of access to Crown (public) lands in the province.

1. the public has the right of access to public lands except under some conditions.

2. the right of access also carries the responsibility for damage.

3. access should be on foot in most areas except existing roads and trails.

4. the legal responsibility for damage should be on the owner, Mr. Gladish reports.

He suggests, "being that we have agreed from most concerned groups, regarding access to public land, we feel that the Government of Alberta and Canada should make the necessary legislative changes that will protect the wishes of the people."

This course is organized by the municipal director for disaster services in conjunction with Alberta Disaster Services District Offices.

For more information please contact Mr. Reg Fox, Director of Disaster Services at 363-3443 or A.D.S. County Office at Mr. S. Harbin, Camrose, at 872-4131, Ex. 37.

Young and old in Hardisty run

Hardisty had a Terry Fox Marathon on September 13th. The 15 km run which started at the Moback Service Station to the highway down to the old Hardisty race track and back to the Main Street Station. This was done in order to make up 10 km. Participants included everyone from little children to adults.

Patricia Stuart of Watrous was with her grandparents, Lyle and Kay Stuart. Kay was the oldest runner and Crystal Blum was the youngest. Both completed the 10 km run. Crystal would have been three years old the next day.

Also were told that one boy and a girl completed the run at 10 km. We commended all who participated in the run. It is a very worthy cause and all should be very proud of themselves.

Prospective new members were discussed with one prospect attending. All members agreed that we need to make the public more aware of what we are on the birth of a baby girl on Sept. 13. The new grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Martin. The occasion was Margaret Denham's birthday. Helen served a very delicious lunch with salads, hams and a lovely decorated birthday cake. Margaret received a lovely message which Helen had made for the occasion. Everyone had a lovely time. The weather was really hot for this time of year too, which made the day fun. Many more happy birthdays, Margaret.

We wish Mrs. Bill (Kae) Routledge a speedy recovery in the University Hospital in Edmonton where Kay underwent surgery on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Clements and Mrs. Elza Clements of the Lodge spent last weekend in Allison visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Foster and family.

Deity Jensen, Miss Allison Leake from Williams Lake, B.C. spent her summer holidays with Grandma Jensen.

Mr. William Leake from Prince George, B.C. and Mr. Herb Leake from Red Deer were in Hardisty for the weekend.

Mrs. Rose Elm had a quilt display at the Drop-In Centre in Hardisty last Wednesday, which received many compliments. Bob was waiting to start a quilt club in the area before she left to go to the States for the winter.

This summer I was informed that Charlie Lloyd's sister, Edna (Lily) of England gave a very large donation to the Hardisty Hospital in memory of Charlie.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Leake Penny and Jayne spent two weeks visiting at the Jensen home. While here, Jay helped with harvest. Allen and girls visited with relatives in Ponoka, and a Cold Lake before returning home to B.C.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Doug Sakakini on the birth of a son, Michael, in July at the Hardisty Hospital, a brother for the twins, Levis and Camryn.

Congratulations to Elson Wilkerson and Lloyd Elton who were united in marriage at the Avonmore United Church in Edmonton, September 15th. All of Elson's brothers and sisters and all her family and grandchildren were in attendance. She had her daughters as bridesmaids and one son and nephew as groomsmen. Lloyd's brother was best man. A lovely reception and dance followed.

Mrs. Nettie Johnson and Elsie Perkins spent last weekend on a tour to the tar sands near Fort McMurray. They found the tar very interesting and had an enjoyable time.

The farmers in the area have finished combining.

Due to the hot dry weather the farmers were able to get their crops in early this year. They are now busy going over the land readying it for spring, haying, and baling and are ready for the winter.

Choir active at Hardisty

Blanche Nelson
The choir that sang for the Homecoming church service is back together again practicing on Tuesday evening at 8:00 p.m. in the Catholic Church. We have heard through the grapevine that the group would like to start up again, only as more of a choir group which would travel around to entertain. They would be very happy if people could help out either singing or other ways.

I would like to commend the library staff who held the today hours to help. My niece told me about the tea party and her enthusiasm wasn't hard to be.

noticed that it was about a week after it took place. When a group of people can make that kind of expression to children, they must have some kind of special magic.

If you have any kind of news items for the paper, please let me know. I have said before, I don't know what that is, how can I write about it.

Get well wishes to Mr. Foster who is in the hospital. Get well wishes also to Mr. Martin Draper who is in the Kilian Hospital and to Leslie Brauman who broke her arm on the monkey barn at school. Hope your arm mends quickly.

Good insurance begins with choice - choice of coverage, choice of policy and, best of all, choice of insurance company.

We want to distinguish between captive one-company sales agents and independent insurance brokers who own their own business in the community.

As insurance brokers we don't work for one insurance company. We work for you. We give you the choice of many insurance companies before we place your coverage.

Sedgewick Chamber outlines projects

The first Fall meeting of the Sedgewick Chamber of Commerce was held in the Lutheran Hall September 15.

The meeting was jointly chaired by President Vic Albert and Vice-President Mel Kappel.

President Vic Albert presented an overview of the past month's activities and outlined some possible projects for the future.

Among those mentioned were street signs to be finished, more and better street lighting, work on the park by the new subdivision, extension of the beautification program, assistance to the Industrial Council, urging Town Council to buy a tractor for mowing vacant lots, etc.

There was a truck ride through the town, and plans for the unloading of trucks on Main Street.

The Chamber expressed its appreciation to the Senior Citizens for the valuable work they did at the Tourist Information booth.

A vote of thanks was also extended to Bob and Gladys Boyden for their good work on the parade float.

Dry weather has helped keep the waterworks project going full speed according to Mayor Kobil who reported for the town. Two trailer lots have been sold. The park area is being cleaned up but no action is to be taken on street widening until the excavating work is done.

Yard Committee chairman, Gary Culbert, reported the winners of the yard contest to be: Mr. Mrs. Bergquist, Mrs. Bergquist, and third, Mrs. Krasne.

It was moved and seconded that these winners be invited to the October dinner meeting and be presented with plaques and color photographs of their yards.

For the History book, Art Eaddy said that the stories are coming in much better now but a great deal of work remains to be done before they can be sent to the publisher.

Dorven French, chairman of the Wilsons Wagon Committee told the meeting that a number of new people had moved into town and were looking for a place to live. He was letting her know about newcomers.

She also reported for the pleasure committee. Four thousand have been printed and there was a small sign to be placed in the general area.

Stop signs were discussed and it was suggested that it would be better to have the sign at the north end of the main street placed at the north and south rather than at the east and west as it is now.

Hal Sparrow pointed out that the trailer disposal sign had not yet appeared on the highway and the secretary was instructed to write a letter to the Alberta Transportation and also to request that Parham's Market, Museum and Jockeyville Lake be added to the existing sign.

October 20-21 has been designated as Small Business Week and a list of good speakers was read for consideration. Banquet, posters, buttons and leaflets are available to each business.

The date for the Christmas promotion was set for December 15, and a film for the children to be ordered. As a guideline for the Business and Promotion Committee, it was decided that from now on, new projects being presented in town would be recognized by a multi-colored triangular sign at the north end of the main street placed at the north and south rather than at the east and west as it is now.

Hal Sparrow pointed out that the trailer disposal sign had not yet appeared on the highway and the secretary was instructed to write a letter to the Alberta Transportation and also to request that Parham's Market, Museum and Jockeyville Lake be added to the existing sign.

At the Senior Citizens Wednesday afternoon Card Party at their Drop-In Centre there were six tables of whist players. Prizes for the highest scores were won by Mrs. Betty Walsh (the cards) and Mr. Peter Lendall. Mrs. Christine Davis and Mr. Jim Walsh received consolation prizes. Mrs. Molly Magee left on Monday morning for Calgary to bid farewell to her son Dick and his family who are moving to Dallas, Texas at the end of the month. Mrs. Beth Blamser of Heiler was at the Jim Walsh home on Tuesday and again on Thursday with son Mac. On Friday there were three Blamers as Grant, Beth and Mac were all here. Mr. Frank Weber of Quilcom Beach, B.C. left on Friday after visiting with his mother, Mrs. F. Weber at Playfair Lodge. The Sedgewick Fire Brigade had a busy day on Friday as they called out twice. At around 11 a.m. the fire at the Zane Parson farm to put out a fire in a table cloth. Some hoses were lost but there was no other damage. Then in the afternoon between 2 and 3 p.m. a bush on the home of Lynn Stokken caught fire. It was quite breezy by that time but may have brought the fire under control and only the bush was burned. So two potentially very serious fires were stopped before they could really cause some really bad damage. Get well wishes to Mr. Eldon Ferrier who last week underwent surgery in an Edmonton Hospital. Brian and Gladie MacLellan with children Aaron and Jan from Elk Point were all here. Mr. Frank Weber of Quilcom Beach, B.C. left on Friday after visiting with his mother, Mrs. F. This week's bulletin on the church's upcoming October vacation. "I just don't have time for a holiday," is the common excuse. But time must be taken. Stay tuned next week. At the moment the vicar is struggling with a bit of a cold. His idea of meditation is to pay visits to at least a dozen of the loyal parishioners of Kilian in their past few days. Now isn't that a good excuse not to be in church on Sunday? Our sympathy is extended to the Matthews family on the passing of Eddie Matthews of Hightstown. The new Johannesburg baby girl is in hospital in Edmonton, and we wish her a quick recovery. Don't forget the St. John's vestry meeting, 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Sedgewick Parish Hall.

Truck thief caught after dramatic air-land chase

An early-Sunday morning chase involving the theft of a truck, a subsequent chase, and the calling in of an RCMP search dog and air support, led early Sunday morning to the apprehension of Anthony Smith, 21, of Loughheed.

He has been charged with taking a vehicle without the owner's consent under the Criminal Code, and also faces a second charge of dangerous driving.

Just before 8 a.m. Sunday, John Sarasin, who lives south of the railway tracks in Sedgewick, close to the west post elevator, heard a truck leave the family's yard.

She believed the driver to be her father-in-law, Mr. Ed Sarasin, but upon realizing that his truck was still in the yard, and that it was their own truck departing, she called John who got into Ed's truck and gave chase.

Mr. Sarasin caught up with the stolen truck just east of town where a road turns south.

At this point, the driver of the stolen truck smashed into the vehicle operated by John Sarasin, and sped away in a southerly direction.

John was able to continue the chase east and north until the other truck got caught up in a dry ditch.

The thief then ran into a field, so John summoned the RCMP.

Two officers from Kilian Detachment of the RCMP responded and the aid of a helicopter and a police dog from Red Deer with his handler, were summoned.

Sgt. I.A. Frank of Kilian RCMP reports that the aircraft was most instrumental in apprehending the suspect.

John's truck is badly smashed up and Ed's is damaged as well.

"Quite a lot of excitement for a small Alberta town," reports Betty Walsh, Community Press correspondent.

The Valedictory address at Saturday evening's graduation activities of Central High School was given by Ernest Eckstrand. A top student, Mr. Eckstrand delivered a stirring address to the nearly one thousand persons who jammed the gymnasium for the awards presentation. Besides his academic achievements, Mr. Eckstrand is also known for his athletic ability, particularly for his accomplishments on the local golf course. Prior to the valedictory address, the presentation of diplomas was made by Principal M. Jensen and Mr. R. Ronsechuk, who was in charge of arrangements for the evening.

Another impressive graduation program for Central High School, Sedgewick, was conducted Saturday, September 18, with 81 graduates in the Graduation Class of 1981. The event-filled day was initiated with a banquet at the Villa Hall in Kilian, followed by Graduation Exercises at Central High School Gymnasium, with nearly one thousand persons in attendance. A well-attended dance in Sedgewick Community Hall concluded the festivities. The theme of the Graduation was "Don't Stop Believing". Valedictorian was Ernest Eckstrand and Mrs. Marlene Quen was the guest speaker. In addition to Principal Manfred Jensen, other members of the teaching staff and students, the event was directed by Mr. Bob Ronsechuk, shown with the grads, and Kevin McCune, President of the Grad Society.

Satellite TV - new toy on scene

The "Great TV Debate" of days gone by consisted of the burning question as to whether Pierre Trudeau was going to confront Joe Clark face-to-face on national television, or whether Jimmy Carter and Governor Regan were to similarly lock horns, before a TV populace across the border.

Now, the phrase "Great TV Debate" has taken on a different connotation. In many areas the issue of satellite dishes, as opposed to conventional cable, is a major political issue.

While the Town of Sedgewick council was one of 138 Alberta communities approached by Quality Cable Television in August of 1980 to endorse a request for cable TV, it chose not to do so, adopting a "wait and see attitude". Especially after another firm suggested that satellite reception should be the service provided.

Many other Flagstaff County municipalities also were contacted by QCTV Ltd. as was the Village of Viking in the County of Beaver. Council there supported the QCTV application to the Canadian Radio and Television Commission, and finally, after many broken promises, Viking is about to receive cable television.

And in the Town of Wainwright, where citizens already have cable television through Northern Cablevision, council is seriously considering installing a satellite dish which could provide up to 50 television channels.

It seems that Wainwright TV viewers (including those at the military base) are dissatisfied with the service and council is on the brink of providing its own television hook-up, with a one-time charge to users.

Since many remote Northern Canadian communities resorted to the use of satellite "dishes" a few years ago to bring in television stations from the major United States networks, the question of legality has been tossed back and forth.

At a Federal-Provincial conference of ministers of communications in Winnipeg earlier in September, it was pointed out that one issue of particular concern to Alberta was that of licensing of TVRO (Television Reception Only) satellite dishes.

Alberta maintains that any individual should be able to own and operate a TVRO without a license. Whether the Federal Government has the right to even require licensing of satellite dishes is unclear, according to an Alberta Government news release.

What is clear though, is that television viewers want the best available at a price within their grasp.

Imagine that instead of being in as many as 50 television channels—that would be giving many a new toy to play with, much like the pioneer days of radio, when it was a triumph to listen to voices transmitted from stations thousands of miles away.

Twenty-five years ago, on the 22nd of September, 1946, to be exact, banking service was made available to the residents of the Sedgewick District by the Merchants Bank of Canada. With the coming of the railway practically contemporaneously with the establishment of the town and the throwing open of homestead land, the surrounding district was settled. Just think, banking has now been made available to the residents of Sedgewick for 35 years.

The weather was reported warm but slightly chilly on September 29th. There was no heavy frost as yet. Good harvest weather. New grain coming in, but not higher than 2 loafs. No alfalfa grade listed.

Sedgewick news reported that a young man in town is turned to today on St. Louis, to listen to the broadcast of the first world's series baseball game between St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics. The bets are nearly all to one on the Athletics.

At the Strum Track Meet on Friday last the Kilian high school secured the greatest number of points, thereby winning the cup. Harold Hanson secured the most individual points in the Junior Competition, obtaining five firsts and one second. The winner of the 100 yard race was the 1st winner in the Senior section with three firsts and one second, giving him a total of 4 points.

Third ColumnBY TRUCAPCA
"I Write as I Please"

"It's pretty hard to keep your head when all about you are losing theirs and blaming it on you."

THE ABOVE QUOTATION is timely for our times and speaks very eloquently of the situation in which we presently find ourselves. We have laboured diligently to develop a propensity to lay on others the blame for our own mistakes. We believe that other heads must roll when adversity strikes us ugly head and we fail utterly to accept any portion of the responsibility for our own mistakes.

YOU SEE when we allow a form of state medicine to be instituted, it matters not whether government puts it into operation voluntarily as a public service which it considers advisable, or whether the move is instigated through public demand, the fact remains that it is going to result in a costly assessment against society. Once put into operation it is subject to abuse and the more it is abused the more costly it is to become. Illnesses or pains which we were once quite capable of caring for ourselves now become a public care. While we don't lose our heads on this matter, we don't use them very well. The medical profession becomes overburdened with minor ailments for which patients "snaps" simply sleep to put our minds at rest, and keep us from losing our heads completely. Our heads should be taking us to correct our way of life but we just don't want to use our heads for that purpose. We continue on our ways and then lose our heads over the cost.

POLITICIANS MAKE poor bedfellows, and when you lose your head and go to bed with one you wake up in the morning and find you have been "taken". It's at that point we lose our heads. The recent election of a union organization which has almost doubled is a prime example of government, not being its best, but simply not being its worst. It is a sad state of affairs that we have just simply put our heads on the ground and we have no heads to lead us. It is the sad state of affairs that we are all going to pay for it. It should cost thirty cents to lead a man in Canada but it is the sad state of affairs that we are all going to pay for it. It should cost thirty cents to lead a man in Canada but it is the sad state of affairs that we are all going to pay for it.

And of course we will take this one because we have no other choice. We won't lose our heads over it, but we will lose our heads with a government that has lost its head. Always the last way out of a bad situation is to make the public pay for it and then try to excuse yourself. The medical profession from the top the top that we should consider for which people in the world in some other countries have been paying that kind of postage for some time; what they have to do with it. That sort of argument is totally unacceptable and obviously an attempt to get a plausible excuse for not attacking the problem at the source. The raise in postal rates is a ploy in an endeavor to recover deficits created by the government without which nobody stays in business very long. Perhaps it is just time the postal service was sold out to private enterprise with government performing its true function of providing postal service over fair business practices. At least one thing is certain. We are all getting to the stage of losing our heads concerning higher and higher costs of trying to get mail from here to there and finding the service deteriorating instead of improving. And please don't tell me how lucky we are to be cost-cut on the private sector with no attempt being made to balance the budget. Private

The weather - Since last time we have had everything we could want, we have had it all. Last Friday and Saturday, rain fell from the clouds. The Kilian United Church held its first regular meeting following the holidays on September 27th, a home of Miss H. Hunt. The worship period was led by Mrs. J. Chumley followed by the regular business. Miss Hunt, assisted by the ladies, gave a presentation of a Life Membership pin and certificate to the new member, who has been a member of the Auxiliary for over thirty years, and who has recently replied to the presentation.

'Give us your news'

Now that the harvest season is over, school is "in" and fall has descended upon us, many residents of country and town are picking up activities which wound down to allow for summer vacation.

That means organizations are forming once again to fulfil the needs of local communities—whether they be educational, recreational, spiritual, fraternal or maternal, or municipal.

And the staff of The Community Press and The Enterprise, plus their correspondents, want to assist you in publicizing your achievements.

While it is an impossibility for correspondents or reporting staff to be in attendance at every event, most groups do have a press or publicity person (e.g. CH). Provide our representative, if possible, with your news. As Blanche Nelson at Hardisty has so aptly put it: "If we don't know about it, we can't write about it."

And where we will attempt to provide picture coverage for special occasions. In many cases, good quality instant pictures are suitable for reproduction.

Sports coverage, especially, is one area in which we would like to increase coverage. Since The Community Press and The Enterprise encompass a wide area, it follows that there are space limitations.

Names make news, and we sincerely believe in that adage. By publishing highlights of events giving individuals the credit they deserve, we at least touch upon the life stream of each community.

Aid available for Royal Winter Fair

Are you planning to exhibit at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, scheduled for November 12 to 21?

Murray McAllister, Alberta Agriculture's supervisor of cereal crops, urges farmers in this province to accept the challenge that the Royal offers and to send exhibits. He points out that in addition to the prize money, the recognition achieved by those who exhibit their seed at the Royal each year is not only valuable for this year, but for all Albertans. Entries from Alberta have done exceptionally well in past years.

Once again, Alberta Agriculture will pay the cost of transporting exhibits to Toronto and will provide seed money in all pedigreed seed classes that is equal to that provided by the Royal Alberta Agriculture also provides an amount of $100 for each first prize winner in the pedigreed classes, and an amount of $500 for each grand champion winner. The honorarium for reserve grand champion winners in the pedigreed classes is $150.

Seed money may be selected from either the 1980 or the 1981 crop, and the entry fee per exhibit is $1. The cost of seed money in the pedigreed classes is $150. Sample class is 10 pounds for commercial cereal seed and three pounds for commercial forage seed. A hay sample must contain not less than a 15-inch section of a bale and should be not less than five inches and not more than seven inches in diameter in the centre. Entries close on October 10 and entry forms should be sent directly to the Royal. However, all exhibits can be sent to the field crops branch, Alberta Agriculture, Bag Service No. 47, Lacombe, Alberta, T9C 1B9 to take advantage of the free transportation to Toronto.

Killam Library ready to meet many needs

Killam Public Library is in full swing for the fall season.

Wednesday afternoons at 1:15 p.m., preschoolers are invited to visit the library for an entertaining hour of stories and handicrafts. Our first story hour will take place on October 7th.

For any of our public who have attended the excellent performance of "The Mousetrap" by Agatha Christie put on by the Playgroup Drama Group this spring, we now have this play available in our library, "The Mouse Trap and Other Plays" by Agatha Christie.

The drama of the inhabitants of Monksholm Manor, isolated in a bungalow with a murderer in their midst, keeps the reader turning the pages. Christie fans will be delighted to find her plays just as exciting and readable as her novels. We have recently added many interesting books to our library for children with creative minds and for parents with creative children. Some popular books include: Secret Codes, Space Robots, Space Puppets, Things to Make and Do for Christmas, and a series of four books entitled The Junior Peltopop Library.

Remember, the library is an information centre as well as a recreation centre. We have many reference materials on our shelves plus we have access to a search phone number that connects us to the Red Deer Public Library. This service can provide you with any information you require, or we can obtain a book which you might need in a hurry.

The Library is open Monday to Thursday from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. and on Monday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Also Tuesday and Wednesday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 3 to 4 p.m.

Killam Scouts form for another season

The Scouting movement is alive and active in Killam but there are never enough leaders. Mrs. Wayne Frieland informed The Community Press at a Monday night organizational meeting.

About 32 boys signed up to participate in activities of the Scouts and Cubs, and newly-formed Venturers and Beavers.

"Leaders are always a problem," said Mrs. Frieland, meeting chairperson, commenting that it is difficult to keep leaders. Sedgewick is one of the centres which was referred to as having "dropped out" several years ago, and because of the problems in obtaining leadership, has not been able to return to Scouting.

Some of the children present came from Sedgewick, although many were in attendance from Stroms and Delvaland, in addition to Killam.

Then, leaving the centre which was referred to as having "dropped out" several years ago, and because of the problems in obtaining leadership, has not been able to return to Scouting. Among the leaders present, Rick Becker spoke on last year's gathering at Battle Lake campsite, and he mentioned holding get-togethers from other areas such as Viking and Forestburg more than once.

Curtis Crawford spoke briefly, and mentioned holding Cub meetings after school.

Edwin Matthews passes

Edwin Charles Matthews passed away at the University Hospital on Sept. 11th at the age of 82 years.

Ed was born in Oxfordshire, England and accompanied his father to Canada in 1911 to a homestead in the Cogan district. The remainder of the family joined them the following year.

With the outbreak of World War II Ed enlisted in the R.C.A.F. where he was in the electronics section. On leaving the R.C.A.F. he set up an electric shop in Hardisty, later moving to Edmonton where he lived until his passing.

In 1953 Ed married Gladys. Result of Hughenden. He was keenly interested in sports and youth and for many years served as coach and manager for Junior football in Hughenden. Under his guidance and direction many awards were won by "his boys" including several Provincial Championships.

He was an ardent fisherman, summer and winter as well as being active in Curling and Dicing in and around Hughenden.

Ed was an active member of the Royal Canadian Legion. In recent years he was a moving spirit in the formation of the Golden Circle Senior Citizens Club.

Ed leaves to mourn his passing, his wife Gladys, a step daughter, Donna Tredy, husband Ellis and family of Vernon; one brother Bernard of Hardisty, a sister Mrs. Doris Chase of Brownville, numerous nephews and nieces and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, Sept. 15 from the Hughenden Community Hall with Rev. Conrad officiating. Organized by Mrs. Margaret W. with the choir in attendance. A solo presentation was sung by Daggy and Lawrence Lindsay. Pallbearers were members of the Hughenden Legion Branch.

Interment followed in the Lawrence Cemetery.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends, neighbours and relatives who were so kind and helpful at the time of Gladys' passing.

Our heartfelt thanks to all who sent flowers, cards, food and made donations in his memory.

Sedgewick regroups for homecoming

After taking the summer off, the Sedgewick Homecoming Committee will meet to regain its momentum at a meeting next Tuesday evening at the RBC Centre.

Committee heads were named prior to the holiday break. But Jim Thiel, general chairman, reports that there is "no room on all committees" although unofficially at the moment the only position needing a guiding hand is the "line of transportation."

Testative budgets will be one of the items discussed. Mr. Thiel invites anyone in Sedgewick and district with an interest in the Homecoming to attend a meeting, called for 8 p.m.

Other members of the committee include Carol Arntsen as secretary-treasurer; Helen Whitten, in-charge of registration; Jim Johnson, promotion; Norm Rose, parking-logistics; Judy Kapiak, food-coordination; Dorcas French, entertainment; Vic Albrecht, music; Ray Feltz, parade; Gerry Culbert, recruitment; Ralph Jacobson, police-patrolling; Jim Thiel, clean-up; Mel Barrett, publicity.

We're building jobs for Canadians: Sponsors needed for Canada Community Development Projects.

The Canada Community Development Projects (CCDP) program is designed to support local organizations in the development and management of activities that will create employment opportunities, identify types of activity generally supportive of broader national priorities.

Such as: Energy conservation, Fisheries, Rural development, Community restoration and development, Environmental conservation and reclamation, Development of local resources, Non-profit housing and rehabilitation, Native employment.

Services and jobs for the handicapped.
Who can apply? Community development associations, Service organizations, Co-operatives, Band Councils, Universities and community colleges, Businesses and partnerships. Municipalities where the province is in agreement. Individuals and newly-formed groups where these kinds of organizations are not available.

Who benefits? In a word, everyone! Because Canada Community Development Projects, introduced in 1980, is one of the options developed by the federal government to create, in areas of higher unemployment, productive jobs enabling unemployed persons to use their skills in work of continuing and genuine value to the community.

More than just a temporary employment creation measure, CCDP will also particularly support project activities that maintain or increase continuing employment opportunities, as well as those that provide workers with skills to assist them in securing employment after participation in a project.

Where do you go from here? To learn more about the kinds of proposals the Canada Community Development Projects program is looking for, to determine your eligibility for sponsorship, and to obtain an application form, contact the nearest Canada Employment Centre.

Remember: the deadline for applications is October 1st.

and also

One of the larger species of the weasel family, the wolverine, muscular animal is today found in its North American distribution chiefly in the northern regions of Canada between the Arctic and the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Bold and curious, like other weasels, the wolverine is omnivorous, consuming a wide range of edible roots, berries, small game and fish. They have been known to kill animals as large as caribou and mountain goats.

Primarily solitary, the wolverine's range is extensive, individual animals having been tracked for 40 to 80 miles over the snow. They follow migrating herds of caribou and clean up carcasses left by wolves and bears, crushing the bones with their powerful jaws. Averaging about 30 lb in weight, the wolverine has been credited with the ability to defend its food against wolves and even grizzly bears. It is active both day and night, seldom seeking shelter, even in the coldest winter weather.

Provoost School Board resolves bus contract

Provoost School Board affected a settlement with its school bus contractors at an August 31st meeting, when after lengthy and informal discussions, a payment schedule was mutually agreed upon for the period Jan. 1 1981, to Dec. 31, 1981.

At the September 17 regular meeting, an amendment was approved dealing with payment for non-operational days guaranteed and January 1st annual negotiations with the bus contractors' payment schedule.

Also a policy was adopted relating to days off for school teachers.

The proposed School Policy was altered to include "annually, all school employees must be reviewed to determine future staffing."

Flashing light change for farm machinery

Overwidth farm machinery may now display flashing amber lights when travelling on Alberta roads, under a recent amendment to the provincial flashing light regulations.

Transportation Minister Henry Kruger announced that the lights are optional on farm equipment and that there is no legal requirement for their use.

Under the amendment, farm machinery over 1.6 metres (10 feet) in width can be equipped with one flashing amber light or two simultaneously flashing amber lights.

The regulations exempt "implements of husbandry" and road construction or maintenance equipment travelling under its own power, from the requirements to obtain overwidth permits and carry wide load signs.

While road equipment was previously permitted to have flashing amber lights, farm machinery was not, until the recent amendment.

All farm machinery, whether or not it is fitted with the optional flashing amber lights, must still be equipped with clearance lights at the extreme edge of the vehicle or load during night time travel, if it is over 2.6 metres (8 feet, 6 inches) in width.

Anglican Church

Rev. appointed Canon

Donna Martin

Another in a long line of members of honor has been conferred upon the Anglican Church of St. John's Parish. On November 24th at All Saints Cathedral, Edmonton, our good pastor will be installed as a Canon, occupying the Bishop's seat at St. John's Parish. This marks the first time since which a Canon has served as priest at St. John's.

Needless to say, the congregation of St. John's are extremely proud and proud of our very special pastor. We hope that his new duties will not overtake our busy pastor, who already follows an unusually demanding schedule.

About Canon O'Connor's proposed October vacation:

as soon this week. However, all congregations are asked to stand by for an announcement of the date. If the priest is away, Sunday morning, perhaps a service will be held. The priest will take the last Sunday school will resume at St. John's on October 11th, and the teachers are busy completing plans for a new term. There may even be a new curriculum and some new furniture to go with it.

At the moment of hour of 9:30 on the morning of Sunday, October 11th, all services and sacraments have been suspended at the special breakfast with the rector at St. John's Parish Hall. After all the church's problems have been solved over these days and nights, our minister will join the rest of us for Holy Communion at 11 a.m.

Remember that Mr. Robert O'Connor and all those who are young people who have been in high school at St. John's Parish High School at Central High School, are also in the Anglican Church. We wish all of them a bright and productive future.

Nancy Holmes of Spruce Grove was a weekend visitor with Allen Couston and the Donald Couston family. Allen is still debating which color he should wear on the trip down the aisle on the 13th of December. Any helpful suggestions are desperately needed.

Remember Canon Elgin Macdonald, who visited last November, and presented a vivid picture of the Church's position and challenges in his native Zimbabwe? Well, he has now been made a Bishop in his own country, and we send him our prayers.

Good wishes to Frank and Pat Cameron of Sedgewick on the recent birth of a fine new grandson.

A truck is expected at St. John's to remove the latest collection of clothing for the Basil Centre. If you

Air travel

Gayle Thompson

Although Christmas may seem far away, it isn't too soon for holiday planning and reservations. If you are flying, are you aware of the services offered by many airlines?

Best known, of course, is the complimentary food service provided if your flight is scheduled near a regular meal time. These meals are fairly standard, but if you require anything special be sure to let the airline know well ahead of time - preferably when making your reservation.

What you may not realize is that North America it can be rather intimidating to a child, so ask about special children's meals. These often take the form of a hot lunch, and are much easier for young ones to handle. Special dietary restrictions for health reasons (e.g. diabetes) or religious observance (e.g. Muslim or Jewish) can also be accommodated. Vegetarian meals will be provided on request. If you have any special needs, ask if they can be met.

Travelling with babies can be trying, but if you think a baby will sleep most of the way, having baby-hand around about the availability of strollers. Then your hands will be free for snacks, or other activities to pass the time. If you are taking a child, you will also need a car seat. If you are not, you will need a car seat. If you are not, you will need a car seat.

If you would like to check costs, books, etc. rather than when on board, the airline may provide you with a sturdy bag when you arrive at the airport. This will go through with your other baggage, and is particularly convenient on winter holidays.

For more information on air travel, contact your local Commerce manager. They can provide you with a list of airlines, their routes, and their fares. They can also provide you with a list of travel agents in your area.

The seasons pass by . . .

Stan Toren
The sharp wind greets the cutting rays of the long-settling sun.
A cross upon an icy branch, completes the willow attitude.
A cold breeze for want of a meadow and staggers with each new step.
The creek reveals with bubbling foam and cuts its way to frozen lowlands.
A gopher peeks from his winter shelter and flicks his tail to greet the sun.
A duck nests beside the furrow and geese reflect their cheerful flight in the blue water the borders the road.
A crocus strains to the south-west wind as a brown-fringed rabbit bides behind a leaving post.
Upon the post a blizzard waits for a mate to nest again.
Color is blue.

The evening grows long and the morning arrives early.
The struggle of a robin with another starling were it hidden in the deep lush grass.

A mosquito buzzes with high-pitched hum as a young calf flags its tail in response.

A charge of lightning spurs the sultry evening as a north-west wind brings out raindrops to quench the dancing dust.

The rain hangs the leaves with tears and the coming of the evening heat will take the wisest from shot-blade to head.

A bull park bounces with neighborhood competition as a cowpoke is kindled for a late evening welter round and string.

A fisherman sits patiently for the big one to come along but gives up toward midnight and decides a moonlight swim is what he needs.

A gull is shown near by the fresh smell of turned soil and rakes roused for round with the farmer and trailer.

The family dog waits in the shade of the new piled boxes, guarding the lunch pail with a hungry eye.
Color is green.

The wind rattles the brittle wheat heads as they curl to the ground in ripe splendor.
The country fair hands out its ribbons and the hillside berry patch is stripped for one more season.
The calf takes a diet of milk as second choice and munches grass like the others on the still lush lowlands.

A chilling frost followed by a crystal powder blue sky, marks the green foliage from the country garden.
A hungry combine rears up into the early hours of the dusk to make up for a late start tomorrow.

Geese in southern formation pass over longfing fields of grain and drying stalks.

Crows gather on the golden rim of earth as students hurry to the city for a new year of books and schedules.

The trees in the valley bear with color as the spruce near the creek remain their same palest self.

A cold dreary rain soaks the rounds of grain as farmers watch the calendar and disappearing sunlight.

A turkey centers the Sunday dinner table.
Color is yellow.

A deer dashes through the hillside bluff as leaves swirl with riotous color to the ground.
The rabbit now fringed in white, twiddles its nose to the level of a leucisus hungry coyote.

The days grow short and dark yards and outside machine become overcasted.

The grassy reveals and creeks with the weight of another year's yield as ice forms over the rocks in the stream.

The wind turns the chilling rain to snow and the country coats to blanketed slumber.

A head of coal fills the bas-ment and potatoes fill the root cellar.

Sometime lights the fireplace as guests arrive for an evening of cordial friendship.
Color is white.

Hardisty seniors visit Drumheller Badlands

Isabel Nelson
A lovely bus trip to the Badlands of Drumheller was enjoyed on September 25.

It was frosty and foggy when we left Hardisty but cleared before we left Highway 15 to have a coffee break at Big Knoll Park.

From there on to Drum-heller and for those of us who had not seen those strange formations before, it was really thrilling.

We tried the swinging bridge and while some leave souls walked across it, my friend and I had not gave up when it started to sway, so we turned back - cowards.

We had dinner in a park not far from the Dinosaur Museum which was our next stop after dinner.

Then onto the little church which is just a building now.
Then we went sight-seeing in the Homestead Museum which was very interesting.

It is a large place with so many interesting things to see.

We did not have long to be there as we were invited to the Drop-In Centre for lunch.

We enjoyed seeing the Drumheller Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre and it seemed to be very well attended. They combine a Twist Show with their Drop-In Centre.

We enjoyed their hospitality as it made a nice break from the bus. They were homeward-bound and stopped at the Alliance Campsite for a supper break.

We blessed the men who was inspired to place these sites in a number of scenic places.

We understood it was Mr.
McCall. A member of Social Credit Government and Alberta is known world wide for these places.

The trip was made possible by Mrs. Parks and the Drumheller Drop-In Centre
also an agency in Wainwright, which provided the bus.

The Killam Arena Artificial Ice Fund has received an added boost with the receipt of a $1,000 cheque from the Killam A-H Boat Club. The money was obtained as the result of a "Slave Auction", held in conjunction with the

Bridal shower is held for Val Schnettler

A mid-week bridal shower was held in McCarthy Hall, Sept. 29 at 7:30 p.m. to honor Miss Val Schnettler, of Killam. M.C., Mrs. Sharon Moser, presented the Guest of Honor with a lovely fall fresh flower corsage and made appropriate introductions. Seated at the head table were Miss Schnettler, and her two sisters, Mrs. Gerri Clark and Mrs. Don Johnson, and her other attendants included Shelly Dion and Lisa Pien.

As the new bride's chores are many and require appropriate organization and some experience, Mrs. Moser suggested to Val that she give a demonstration to the audience of one of her many culinary skills. German Nibbles brought in a cartload of delicious nibbles and ingredients and assisted Val in donating suitable cook's aid and apron.

Following brief but precise directions and much pouring, adding to and mixing, the Val's "recipe" was popped into the oven. A short time later an original "Val Schnettler" cake was recovered and displayed for all to admire—and to sample. It was discovered that sugar had been inadvertently omitted but as one observer was heard to comment, "What the cake lack in flavor, was more than compensated for in its more beneficial aspects — the lower economic and caloric value!"

The program took on a more serious note with a reading by Mrs. Robb Schnettler reading timely "Advice to Wives."

Interesting and pertinent anecdotes from Val's early days at home and school to Nurses' training and present work at Placentia County Office were enjoyed by all. A large selection of gifts were then presented on behalf of all friends and relatives present by Misses Cathy Kohler and Corinne Lang. The bride-to-be was warmly escorted in a large and lovely ribboned bow laden "hat" made by Germaine Wiehman.

Coffee and appetizers were served by the C.W.L. to bring the evening's program to a close.

Mrs. Evelyn Kimber C.W.L. reporter.

Clothing for the disabled

Clothing for the disabled can be fashionable as well as functional, according to Bertha Eggesten, a specialist with Alberta Agriples.

When shopping for clothing for a disabled person, she recommends choosing a design that will be attractive and comfortable and that will allow the person independence from the point of view of dressing him or herself. It should also be safe.

Following are some features to consider when choosing clothing for specific physical limitations.

Wheelchair bound - two place outfits; short jackets; back wrapped garments; knit shorts; knitted or rayon slacks; gussets, knit inserts, action pleats or flaps in the back of the bodice and two-way jacket zipper and pockets.

Limited arm or finger movement - wrapped garments, knit fabrics, knitted and rayon sleeves, waistbands, front closures, velcro closures, easy-to-use fasteners, large buttons, buttons attached with elastic thread, gussets, knit inserts, action pleats and flaps in the back of the bodice.

Leg braces and cast wearers - suspenders, slippers in the side or between toes, trousers or slacks; moderately full skirts; reinforcement at the contact area front-on patches or double fabric and velcro fasteners.

Legal fees and disbursements (money paid for services like registration of land title documents) will vary, depending on whether or not you require a new mortgage or are securing an existing one.

These costs may vary from 1% to 1.5% of the selling price of the home. Often, in order to obtain mortgage financing, the bank or financial institution will require that you have the property professionally appraised and/or surveyed. If that's the case, expect to pay for these services as well.

Also, as a requirement of obtaining mortgage money, you will need to purchase fire insurance and third party liability insurance. This may cost in the neighborhood of 1/4 percent to 1/2 percent of the house value.

And don't forget property tax adjustments. This can be a real killer to first-time buyers who aren't expecting this expense.

For example, if your present date is August first,

Elevating devices provide more access for handicapped

Safer and better access for the handicapped is expected with the increasing use of elevating devices which allow disabled people to easily enter previously inaccessible buildings, according to Gordon Smith, chairman of the Canadian Standards Association (CSA) committee on elevating devices for the handicapped and a representative of the Ontario government.

Smith says some of the equipment that was previously used in residences was "poorly designed and obviously hazardous. We were also aware that a lot of the equipment was not reliable."

The new Standard, "Safety Code for Elevating Devices for the Handicapped" is the most comprehensive of its kind in the world. It details the technical and safety requirements for all types of elevating devices which will be applicable for use in public buildings.

The standard provides inspection guidelines for use by regulatory authorities and testing procedures that enable manufacturers to ensure their devices comply with the minimum safety requirements.

Individual user circumstances are also taken into consideration in aspects such as the height of bed rails and guards and the positioning of controls. The standard states that where special adaptation or combinations of any of the construction requirements are proposed, the safety features should be equivalent to those specified in the standard.

Smith says it is likely Ontario will soon reference the standard in its regulations. British Columbia, Ontario and other provinces are expected to pass similar legislation.

"These devices will mostly be used as retrofits to existing buildings," explains Smith. "Most new buildings have provisions for the handicapped. These will allow access to existing buildings which were otherwise inaccessible. For instance, we've had inquiries from Wawa, Ontario, because they would like to install them in some churches and other public buildings such as schools. In the past, these single story buildings were constructed with stairs which made them extremely difficult for the disabled."

Smith also contends that the smaller lifts are less expensive than installing conventional elevators. "Prior to the introduction of these devices, the only alternative was an elevator. Now, these small lifts are providing an economical and viable alternative."

CSA is also preparing final standards for wheelchairs and electronic aids for the handicapped. These include such items as automatic page-turners for books and devices which allow severely disabled people to control televisions and films.

A CSA committee is also developing standards for hand controls for cars with a view to requesting a certification program. Presently there are no federal requirements covering automobile hand controls.

COUGAR

PLUS COUGAR

Meet the beast that is the largest, most powerful land predator. Once numerous from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the cougar has been reduced to a few stragglers in the Rocky Mountains of Alberta.

Large males can measure 6 ft in total length and over 200 lb in weight. They prey upon deer, wapiti, bighorn sheep, mountain goats, beaver, muskrats, hares and deer. Their persistence is for fresh meat and they rarely scavenge from old kills.

Fun-For-All Club active at Alliance

The October meeting of the Alliance Fun For All was held October 1 with sixteen members present.

Following the reading of September minutes and financial report, Roy Hanks reported the three tournaments of the Race Centre had been checked and put in order for the winter season.

Two cards of members had attended the annual senior citizens Social Days at Killam and Custer. All who attended reported an enjoyable time. Much credit is due those organizations for their work and hospitality. Our visitors to attend were much appreciated.

Two teams of seniors travelled from Custer to Alliance Sept. 30 where they found a very enjoyable afternoon.

Correspondence consisted of a letter concerning the Senior Citizens Games to be held in Custer July 15, 16, 17, 1982. A letter confirming the club wish to take part was filed out and mailed. Members took it time a round robin dining tournament be started. Committee were appointed for drawing up schedule. Play to begin mid-October. Lunch was served by Fern Williams and Martha Bullen.

Now that's luxury

the strange request after Mr. Pasnack provided his reasons.

Although an outgrowth on the property of Lloyd Pasnack at Dayland has evolved to original purpose, the structure has been retained to a position of prominence.

Mr. Pasnack, a real estate agent for A.E. LePage, conceived the idea of using the outgrowth to house a telephone-booth.

While the move may seem "ridiculous," Mr. Pasnack has a logical explanation for his action.

"I live on quite a large lot and I just got tired of running into the house from the garden or yard to answer the telephone, so I decided to put one in the old outgrowth."

Officials at Alberta Government Telephones were immediately perplexed, but were happy to accommodate

Toddlers Inn starts again at Hardisty

Toddlers Inn started again Friday, October 3 with nine children ready for play. All were greeted by Lisa Smith who is coordinating play again this year. The children got acquainted by playing dodge ball, puzzles and by investigating all the toys. All enjoyed the first day. October will be a busy month. Thanksgiving will be a special day and a Halloween party is planned at the end of the month.

Toddlers Inn received a grant from the Provincial Government through F.C.I. this year. This will help make operating easier.

In September a meeting was called, all parents with 3 and 4 year old children were encouraged to attend. The new executive were elected at this time. President is Linda Stuart, Vice President is Toni Miller, Secretary is Gail Kolosch, Treasurer is Carol Reid, Board Member is Betty Baker. Vermilion fire school trains 800 fire fighters

Vermilion is the site of the Alberta Fire Training School (A.F.T.S.) where 780

municipal firefighters are offered courses in firefighting, pump operation, fire investigation, fire prevention, instructor's training and fire officer training.

Another 140 industrial firefighters received training as well.

Located on 35 acres, A.F.T.S. facilities consist of a three-story training tower and two other buildings containing classrooms and administration space as well as areas for equipment and apparatus.

In addition, the site includes outside training areas or pits. The photo above shows six of these seven areas. The first two areas are for future development, the third a reservoir, the fourth for extinguishing propane, and natural gas fires, the fifth for future development, the sixth for fighting flammable liquid fires as in the seventh off photo.

A subdivision in the north-west section of Sedgewick has received the sanction of the Health River F-3-ping Commission.

The property, purchased by the town from the Church of the Nazarenes, is located at the end of McKinnis Drive and consists of three residential lots, two municipal reserve lots, and one church lot.

Lawrence Kneeland, municipal administrator, said the main purpose in obtaining the land is to provide surface drainage rights and sewer access to the low-lying area to the north.

He suggested that for the present the subdivision would not be developed, and emphasized that there is "no intention of opening the street" as provided for in the town's plan.

Lakeland College buys Hardisty Quarter Horses

Lakeland College, Vermilion Campus is at the forefront of western horse training with the recent acquisition of five outstanding Quarter Horse broodmares, purchased from McLean Quarter Horse Ranch, Hardisty, Alberta. All are currently in foal.

Lakeland College is the only Canadian institution making exclusive use of the Quarter Horse for training purposes.

One of the mares is King Leo the A.A.A., a well-known American Quarter Horse (A.Q.H.A.) champion. The Champion Award achieved by acquiring a minimum of 30 points in halter and performance competition, and is the second highest award in the Quarter Horse breed. The triple "A" (A.A.A.) designation indicates the award was given for highest speed classification.

The Quarter Horse breed is known for its ability to accelerate quickly and maintain high speed over a 440 yard, or one-quarter mile, distance. These qualities, when combined with a calm performance while working cattle, make it an ideal breed for ranchers.

Alberta is gaining recognition as a centre for breeding and training Quarter Horses. Throughout the province the breed has been used extensively in the farming and ranching industries for almost a century. Today, the registered Quarter Horse population of the province is approximately 18,000 about one-third of Canada's total.

Alberta Agriculture

TODAY AND TOMORROW

Dennis W. Schmidt
Alberta Minister of Agriculture

They always seem to be putting the card before the face.

And the situation at my next meeting with officials from Agriculture Canada proved to be no exception.

A federal government paper, "Challenge for Growth, an Agri-Food Strategy for Canada", was the focus for the meeting in early September. It had been tabled by the Honourable Eugene Whelan, Minister of Agriculture, at the Federal-Provincial Conference of Agriculture Ministers and Deputy Ministers in Alberta in mid-July. Shortly afterward, it was released to the public.

The meeting was constructive enough. Follow-up meetings between officials from both ministries are expected.

However, I think it is fair to say the federal people still look at the future of Canadian agriculture in a fashion much different from ourselves.

"Challenge for Growth" provides the example. While the "strategy" touches on most segments of our industry, it makes threats to the increase production or, in official terms, "to secure the supply base". From there, so the argument goes, other problems will be corrected as they arise.

That concept has been around for some time. It is the "guaranteed" response to stress and any problem raised by producers and provinces.

If the federal government has a good track record of solving problems, it might have been favorable.

"That hasn't been the case. Transportation and marketing problems have been with Canadian farmers for decades. And over those years we've barely seen minimal improvement on major underlying problems. Yet, the federal pressure to increase production never ceases.

Most recently we saw it in MAP, the Market Access

Plan, which was unveiled after producers placed it under their noses as a local information meeting.

"Challenge for Growth" is the same thing. It is intended to point out those areas where new policies and programs should be implemented. However, it still retains the same underlying argument — that farmers should increase production, with the support of the province, while leaving the problems of transportation and marketing to the federal government.

You know, maybe the idea has merit overall. If Canadian farmers began to clean out cropland, like this year's, and grain stocks began to build up to sustainable levels, if the railways became shockingly bogged down, if the Canadian Wheat Board couldn't meet grain income it couldn't be moved into export position — if I still chase you into the system — then maybe the country would force some federal government to take some positive action.

But the demands of producers and their suppliers would be unacceptable. With the current interest rate and energy prices, thousands would have to leave the industry.

A government refused to make producers responsible for just doing nothing about it.

Despite the ten-year-old discussions directed to gain transportation, the federal government is as bogged down as ever as any attempt to improve the situation. More and more it is becoming evident that the Crow Rate must be reviewed, yet there is no federal commitment on the issue.

It never seems to fail, while one federal minister publicly recognizes that rail problems are costing, other federal ministers, chiefly Senator Hanso Argue, refuse to even consider that what rail services we are today may be the best we'll see for decades to come.

Indeed, with a federal statement to the effect that a rail-reducing scheme will be considered, I think it is time very serious consideration was given to working out our rail problems.

As a country we're making good strides in developing such as coal, potash and oil. This is great news for a trading nation.

But if transport capacity can't keep up, what is the use of developing countries, much less trading sales? And with agriculture having the lowest freight rate among all major commodities, which sector will suffer most if rail rates go down?

It is raining just a hot-air argument? I don't think so. Given all known factors, Canada's Pacific (CP) Rail will be at maximum capacity on its Calgary to Vancouver line in 1984. By 1982 rising transport demand will exceed capacity. Major improvements, possibly operated by rail, will be needed to offset this problem. By 1990 demand will certainly exceed capacity on CP lines.

The situation is growing serious. While grain prices have increased by 50% during the current decade, crop freight is expected to rise more than three-and-one-half times. Though not as spectacular, heavy growth is also expected in poultry and beef. Where will the transport capacity come from?

And yet, the federal priority is an increasing production. I agree, we need more production, but it's a sad state of affairs if we can't ship or market products. There are problems that we need to tackle first. But, it's very debatable whether or not the federal government has yet gotten that message.

The problems are in the federal arena. My Department and I have done our best to solve these problems and to obtain action. But, as the MAP action demonstrated so well, producers can accomplish as much or even more by bringing up their concerns at their meetings and by writing to their federal officials.

I hope things will swing back the stage where rail reductions will be required. If they do, it will be a problem that will take years to correct.

Fire Prevention Week is result of kicking cows

"Fire-Fire, Prepare for Fall and Winter Fire." To read an insurance ad on the front page of the Chicago Tribune, on October 8, 1971. That night a fire broke out in the vicinity of a barn owned by Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Leary.

Tradition lays the blame for the start of the conflagration on Mrs. O'Leary's cow who supposedly kicked over a kerosene lantern and kindled the fire.

Whether the cow is to blame is open to question. After the fire, investigators decided that there were several possible causes: lightning by a lightning rod, lightning by smoking materials, incendiaries, and, possibly, spontaneous ignition of hay.

Whatever the cause, the fire burned for twenty-seven hours, and destroyed 17,346 buildings (about 35 percent of the City's total number).

Between 250 and 300 people were killed although the exact count was never established.

The fire loss was estimated at $300 million, but only $60 million was insured. Because of multiple losses (total of insurance companies, only $45 million was actually paid).

Realizing that fire protection can not always be adequate, people now start thinking in terms of fire prevention. For this reason, marking the anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire, Fire Prevention Week is always the week of October 8th.

Sunday morning's worship service was a busy day to begin the day, thanks to the excellent co-loury choir of Doreen and Thelma. The meeting which followed wasn't quite so busy, since it involved a preview of next year's budget. Stewardship campaigns about to be launched in Sedgewick, Loughhead, Hardisty, and Hapenden. Welcome the visiting canon from the Diocese of St. John's when they call, and support your church. The stewardship campaign and canon from Kilham has been completed and Canon Conrad is pleased with the reception he has received.

Those in attendance at the wardens' breakfast were made aware of the rapid expansion which is now taking place in our diocese. The Mid Woods area is growing impressively, and a new congregation has just formed in Morrisville.

Supporting such growth will inevitably place a financial strain on established congregations, yet the responsibility for furthering God's work lies with us.

Dorothy and Joe Cleaver and son and daughter, Mrs. Lee and Gale from Vancouver, were recent visitors with Marie Martin and the Martin family. Marie has had so much company about now that she is almost spring that we're beginning to think of her as our professional bookkeeper.

Ab Martin and Keith Phipps are home after a most delightful expedition.

Baby Christine Johansson is now making herself familiar with her home in Hardisty, following her stay in Edmonton's University Hospital. Grandma Joy says she's doing well and proudly insists that her little granddaughter is already perfectly

Mrs. Betty Walsh returned Friday evening after spending several days with the Jim Walsh Junior family at St. Albert and visiting husband Jim who underwent surgery at the General Hospital last Monday. Happy to report that he is coming along very well and will shortly be moved to the Glenora Hospital.

There were five tables of what players at the Wednesday afternoon Card Party at the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre. Praise for the highest scores were won by Mrs. Janet MacKinnon and Mr. Henry Jackson. Mrs. Edith Jacobs received the sales conclusion award but no one seems to remember who received the man's consolation award.

Mrs. Myrtle Arntsen entered the Canmore Hospital on Monday. She will undergo surgery (the Carol Magan, and Chelsey Trum of Calgary have been visiting relatives for the past week while Scott was in Houston, Texas).

The Ladies' League held their weekly meeting on Monday evening with the ladies of the C.W. Working in Sedgewick last Tuesday was much enjoyed by those who attended. An Israeli study of the Gospel of St. Mark, which will be continued in November, was launched by Mr. Conrad.

And thanks to the community of Thelma and the story-telling skills of our A.C.W. members, we now have a much better idea of how our good A.C.W. and son and daughter, Mrs. Lee and Gale from Vancouver, were recent visitors with Marie Martin and the Martin family.

Marie has had so much company about now that she is almost spring that we're beginning to think of her as our professional bookkeeper.

The Rev. David Bloom, who is a Chaplain in the Anglican Church Army, served as reader of St. Edmond's from 1981-82 has been made a Canon, and will take the post of St. Christopher when he is installed at All Saints' Cathedral on November 28th.

Farmers may get freight aid

Alberta's Minister of Agriculture, Dallas W. Schmidt, announced on Oct. 6, a new food freight assistance program for farmers in drought-affected areas of Alberta.

The program is intended to assist farmers, where 1981 freight costs have been reduced by drought conditions, to secure winter feed supplies to help maintain their basic herds. The assistance does not cover freight livestock.

Similar to previous feed freight assistance programs in 1977, 1978, and 1980, it will be up to municipal governments in designated areas to request government assistance.

Local councils are expected to assess the winter feed situation in their areas with the respective agricultural department. The program will also be applied to the department whether or not the program is required.

Two major sections of the province have been designated by the Government for potential assistance.

The first includes any county, municipal district, improvement district or special area located by or north of a line formed by Highway No. 15 from the Saskatchewan border to Dayland, then north along secondary highway No. 885 to Smoky Lake, then west along Highway No. 18 to Croyne and then north along Highway No. 4.

The second designated area is the Peace River block. Other areas may also be designated by the Minister if warranted.

Under the program assistance is paid on the basis of conveyance of feed, for that distance in excess of 25 miles to a maximum of 150 per ton.

For 1981, freight assistance has been established at 14 cents/ton mile for hay or straw, 6 cents/ton mile for silage, and 9 cents/ton for cubed or pelleted roughage.

Gross assistance paid to any one operator, partner or corporation is limited to $8,000 under this program. Producers in each approved area of a designated region may apply for assistance at their local district agricultural office.

The program applies to farmers using their own trucks as well as public carriers. Feed purchased in volumes must be retained. If a public carrier is used, farmers must also produce a receipted freight bill.

The program is retroactive to August 1, 1981, and will expire March 31, 1982. Final date for filing and application is April 30, 1982.

Compactor trucks for garbage pick-up

Residents of Flagstaff County are becoming "garbage conscious," according to Councillor Jim Crawford, chairman of the regional waste management system.

"There is a little more waste than is anticipated, but the compactor is taking care of it," Mr. Crawford said, adding that the compactor truck which is collecting garbage from several urban municipalities on a trial basis, at least until the end of October.

Orrville Lissman, chairwoman, suggested that there were "several contributing factors" to the problem. "It's been dry, and there were a lot of clean-ups."

The rural region to the townsite station at Edson Hill is "good," according to the chairwoman, with pick-ups made three times a week.

With a temporary transfer station located at Strome, Mr. Lissman said only Alliance and Gahagan require transfer stations.

He referred to Hardisty as being "not too bad off" in relation to the matter of garbage collection at the present time, although contact will be made with that town to secure March 31, 1982. Final date for filing and application is April 30, 1982.

Recent developments have precipitated the approval of a motion to withdraw from the Commission.

Hardisty will now come under the direct jurisdiction of the Alberta Planning Board and, hopefully, will be better served," according to Councillor Hilary Grey, in the council report.

Flagstaff proposes 5 year fire pact

Councils of the town and urban municipalities providing rural fire-fighting protection are considering a proposal for a five-year agreement submitted by the County of Flagstaff.

If accepted the agreement would come into effect January 1, 1983 and be subject to annual renewal.

Alex Black, fire committee chairman, informed county council "Thursday that besides suggested increases in grants and amounts per fire call, a tentative agreement was reached whereby the county will provide fire insurance for the fire department, Alberta Disaster Services could replenish the supply in short order."

When told about the high cost of the town (about $40,000 for a four-year call), Councillor Glen Miller said "The fire department will be selective in its use."

Orrville Lissman, chairwoman, reported that the use of flagstaff fire department, Alberta Disaster Services could replenish the supply in short order.

Killam's Fred Wilson favours 4-H beef feedlot

4-H Beef Without Waste and Varietal. It can happen, according to Fred Wilson of Killam. Fred says many 4-Hers in his area are tired of months of work in leading and polishing their 4-H steers only to see them up the chute to the packer. Therefore Fred wants to try a 4-H Feedlot Project.

If facilities warrant, the number can raise a pen of beef under regular feedlot conditions and learn precisely about the economics of beef as it is normally produced. Emphasis would be on management techniques, nutrition and record keeping.

If facilities and/or finances are a little short the number could keep one or more steers in with an existing feedlot pen. The main thing, though, is that there needs to be somewhere where kids can decide if the beef inddustry will become a career for them. This decision will be on much healthier ground if the member has some practical reality: experience, rather than expect all his steers will bring show champion prices.

Certainly there is always room for show steers in the feedlot and members learn and achieve from it. However Fred Wilson's idea may be one for the practical future beefman who believes horses are more practical for moving steers than heifers.

Don't forget the heifer project. Like the chicken and egg, 4-H steers come from somewhere and beef breeding is a major part of the business.

The 4-H heifer project is an ideal way to encourage young people to learn the industry from the ground up and it also prevents a lot of tears as 4-H heifers are not usually sold at achievement day.

Whether you're on an acreage or a township, chances are that you can raise a beef heifer with little problem and enjoy association with others in the project.

Contact your Regional 4-H Office or the office of Alberta Agriculture for further information on different ways of operating a 4-H Beef Project.

Central students write creatively

Nine students in the Communications 21 class at Central High School are being offered the opportunity to learn the aspects of creative writing, which in later years could lead to either an occupation or hobby, according to Mrs. Chevrone, the instructor.

Chevrone explains that C-21 is a "writer's workshop" which enables students to explore the profession of writing from the perspective of preparing manuscripts, to the observation of markets and where to locate materials.

The students, mostly from Grades 11 and 12, each interviewed area residents who they found to have interesting careers or hobbies. The persons interviewed and their interest are listed, and the students' impressions will be printed as received.

Ed Pee of Killam was interviewed for his service to the Alberta Hospital Association of which he is a past president; Gordon Storbak of Sedgewick was picked for his crocheting, and Jesse Alan of Hardisty for her interest in equestrianism. George Matthews of Hardisty reported to one of his students that he was an equestrian writer because of his association with his horse, and his interest in the sport of Western Kings.

The "lives" of Mr. and Mrs. James Bell of Hardisty, married for 63 years, were traced another student.

A teacher and her career mounted and fastidiously detailed to explore the profession of writing from the perspective of preparing manuscripts, to the observation of markets and where to locate materials.

Former Killam teacher, Graeme Smith passes

A former Killam school teacher and well-known Calgary sportsman, Graeme Smith, 76, has passed away in this city after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Smith taught school for 17 years, then joined the air force for the Second World War. Returning to civilian life, he became associated with Canada Life Assurance Co.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret (Peggy), formerly of Killam and a daughter, Jeanne Bentley.

A brother in law, Bruce McDougall, is a resident of Manning, B.C. at Killam.

The late Mr. Smith was actively involved in Calgary sports, being president of the North Hill Curling Club when the new building was constructed, and he was inducted into the Southern Alberta Curling Association Hall of Fame as a builder in 1975.

He was also a member of the Alberta Senior curling team which finished runner-up in the Canadian finals in 1967 and for many years he was a drummer for ladies' and men's bands in Southern Alberta.

Also active in golf, Mr. Smith was a member in this sport, serving as president of Earl Grey in 1963-64. His golf clubhouse was constructed.

In 1974, Mr. Smith was honored by the Calgary Booster Club, and he was president of the Calgary Senior Men's Golf Association until last year.

Also active in other community aspects, the late

Graeme Smith was a member of the Procter Club of Calgary and was involved in the Calgary Presbytery of the United Church, and as chairman of the board of Riverside United Church.

'Battle River Lucky Duck' is tourist mascot name

The judges were recruited from Leduc and Wetaskiwin. Miss Cossens will receive a cash prize of fifty dollars.

Ben Chalmers of Edmonton submitted the winning name in the recently-conducted "Name the Mascot" contest sponsored by BRTA.

The contest, to name the primary mascot, drew interest from throughout Alberta and attracted one hundred and ten (110) entries.

The winning name "Battle River Lucky Duck" was chosen for being simple to remember and so that the public of large cities could identify the mascot to the area it represents - Battle River Country.

There were eighteen members present to witness the drawing. Mr. and Mrs. Cossens provide much interesting programs. We certainly hope to see more of them. Our guest for October with slides from Japan will be Mrs. Betty Galtby.

TransAlta Utilities:

Continuing the Tradition of Partnership and Progress

When Calgary Power first began providing electricity to the City of Calgary in 1911, our name accurately reflected the nature of our Company.

However, Calgary Power has grown in the last 70 years and with this growth there have been many changes. Our unique partnership with the people of Alberta has allowed us to expand our services across the province. With operations employing almost 2,500 people, we now serve over a million Albertans.

Our growth and other investment opportunities mean that Calgary Power, 99 percent Canadian-owned, has literally outgrown its name. For that reason, we have now changed our name to TransAlta Utilities which more accurately reflects the Alberta-wide nature of our Company.

Our success is due to the continuing efforts of a great many fellow Albertans —employees, investors, and consumers—who have provided the Company with dedication, direction and purpose throughout our 70-year history.

It is the people of this province who remind us of our past and assure us of our future.

We're excited about our new name and look forward to continuing the tradition of high quality service and personal attention which has for 70 years been the hallmark of Calgary Power.

Services held for Mrs. Alma Harding

On Thursday, Sept. 24, 1981, Mrs. Alma Gertrude Harding passed away peacefully in the Dayland Hospital.

Alma was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, and was born in Huntsville, Ontario, on May 5, 1883.

At an early age, Alma moved west with her family and they homesteaded in the Jarrova area. Later they moved north of Kamloops.

In the spring of 1923, Alma worked for the William Armagosa family of Sedgewick and here she met Joseph Stephen Harding who had emigrated from Ireland that year.

Alma and Joe were married on October 29 of the same year.

For the next four years they remained in the Jarrova area where Joe was employed.

In March 1927, they purchased half a section of land, south of Kamloops where they farmed until their retirement in 1942, when they moved to Sedgewick.

Alma and Joe had a family of six boys and one girl. They were both active in community affairs. Alma had many hobbies, one of which was crocheting, which she enjoyed until her passing.

She was predeceased by one son, John in 1980, daughter, Frances in 1978, and her husband in 1979.

She leaves to mourn her passing, five sons, Edward of Fort Assiniboine, Fraser of Prince George, B.C., Alan of Camrose, George and Stephen of Sedgewick, 34 grandchildren, and 16 great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Barbara Whitlock of Loughheed, Mrs. Kay Davis of Edmonton, two brothers, Frank Brown of Edmonton and Herbert Brown of Bowden, several nieces and nephews, and a host of friends.

She will be greatly missed

Two hundred and thirty-two members of a possible four hundred and six, and fifteen guests at Selkirk School on August 18, and 18th to celebrate seventy-five years in Alberta.

On June 4, 1906, Jack Bowen, and his brother-in-law, William Widdie, travelled from England to the Flaxstaff Hills.

Whether stayed at that time, except for Jack's son, Annie Tuck and her family.

All members of the Bowen family moved west from Ontario between 1907 - 1915 including Jack's father, John.

At the reunion were members of the sixth generation to live in Alberta. Represented were the families of Art Bowen, Jack Bowen, Catherine (Bowen) Widdie, Widdie (Bowen) Harris and Annie (Bowen) Tuck.

Seventeen of the twenty-two remaining first cousins were present. Ironically, the only ones at the reunion with the same Bowen were Ben and his wife, Kate.

Out-of-province guests were Fern and Ruby Tuck and Edith Moore from Scarborough, Ontario; Mildred Tucher, Sandy Allen and Paul Elsie from Hamilton, Ontario; Norma Angus from Southfield, Michigan; Catherine Loden and Jayson Charny from Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; Brad Little from Winnipeg; Munib; Nadine, Brent and Randy Jackson from Prince George, B.C.; Justice and Trevor Hooper from Fort Smith, N.W.T.

Most of us think that Alberta is still the promised land.

A special presentation was made to the oldest member of the family, Marion Elm, who has stayed in contact with all branches of the family.

She received a picture including the photographs of seven generations of mother and daughters, Marion being the 4th generation.

In spite of the 90 degree temperatures, the family had a good time renewing acquaintances, looking at family pictures and artifacts, and the family tree, and of course, eating.

It was decided to call a reunion again in five years.

International Credit Union Day—a day when the credit union family can look beyond the day-to-day business of delivering financial services to reflect on a proud history and a promising future.

Credit unions are not ordinary commercial institutions, operating for private gain. Started more than a century ago to meet urgent needs, credit unions have spread around the world because of the principle of people pooling their resources to share in the benefits.

On International Credit Union Day, October 15th, you can join more than eighty-three million members of the credit union family in celebrating a world of ideas at your credit union. That's why we say that at your credit union "You're a Part of It All!"

Program intended to help farmers

The 1981-82 Alberta Livestock Feed Freight Assistance Program is intended to help farmers in those areas of the province where this year's freight prices were seriously reduced by drought to secure winter feed for their basic cattle herd and sheep flocks.

It does not cover finishing livestock operations.

Bruce Jeffery, head of Alberta Agriculture's animal industry division, says municipal councils and Agricultural Development Corporation committees have been asked to assess the forage situation to see if government assistance is warranted in the following areas: M.D.'s 52, 57, 61 and 65; Counties 26 of Flagstaff, 27, 28, 13, 24, 7 and 11; L.D. 18 and the Peace River block.

He also says that as soon as the assessment has been carried out, applications forms will be sent to district agriculturalists in all the areas that are eligible for assistance.

Under the 1981-82 program, assistance will be paid for the one-way transportation of feed on distances that exceed 16 miles up to a maximum of $30 per ton. And it covers the eligible portions of the transportation costs regardless of whether the farmer hauls the feed himself or pays somebody else to haul it.

The Alberta Livestock

Construction of the reservoir for the Town of Sedgewick's sewer system has been progressing favorably, at least until the present time. Workmen are shown preparing scaffolding for the all-concrete top cover.

St. Mark's A.C.W. of Hardisty meets

St. Mark's Women's Guild met on Wednesday evening at the home of Betty Mills with 15 members present. Devotions were led by the hostess.

Final returns from the Kilt-Action showed a total of $470.28. Of this amount, $390. was voted to the Hospital Auxiliary, the balance to be used for church expenses. The Guild assumed responsibility for the increased insurance on church and hall.

Members planned to meet on Friday to decorate the church for Thanksgiving. Barrie Matthews and Dorothy Krowner reported a most enjoyable day spent at the A.C.W. workshop in Sedgewick.

The Alberta Livestock

Proposal could afford Flagstaff, Camrose Hospital Districts

A move to form a new hospital district encompassing the communities of Dryden, Struma, Hester, Bertha, and Rosedale could conceivably have an adverse effect on two other hospital boards.

The Camrose District Hospital board reportedly has already reacted adversely to the proposal, while the latter is under consideration by other municipalities.

Ed Pie of Killam, chairman of both the Flagstaff Auxiliary Hospital Board and Flagstaff-Hughes General Hospital Board, said that the intent of the move would be "to extract a piece of the Camrose district and a piece of the Flagstaff district."

"We're in trouble," Mr. Pie said, adding that a letter outlining the proposal had been sent out by the Alberta Department of Hospitals to each council in the area involved.

For some time, attempts have been made to get an auxiliary hospital at Dryden, without success. The present Dryden General Hospital also is in need of replacement.

The Dryden Lines on behalf of area groups, presented a brief to provincial health authorities a few months ago, proposing a federal auxiliary hospital, however, even before this proposal was presented it was generally accepted that the cost would be too high.

Instead the Dryden and area groups formed a new auxiliary hospital with adjoining plant to accommodate auxiliary patients, in order that outpatient clinics and medical facilities would be used, thus resulting in a tremendous financial saving.

Transfer station locations

To clarify a report of last edition, The County of Flagstaff has waste management transfer stations at Alliance and Galahad, but do not have permanent sites at Struma and Bertha, although there is a temporary location at Struma and a site at Bertha is being sought.

A transfer station is being considered to serve the rural Hardisty area, located at Loughedale, Sedgewick, Killam, Dryden, Rosedale, Hester, Forestburg, Galahad, Alliance, and Battle Bend.

Preparations for a paved landing strip at the new Killam-Bertha Airport are continuing at a rapid pace, with earth-movers and other heavy equipment in evidence as the land is prepared. The project is being carried out by E. & M. Elfrink Construction Ltd. of Calgary, under the direction of Alberta Transportation. It is located north of Highway 15 and midway between the two towns.

THE AGE OF COMMUNICATION

Editorially

When it's a nice day . . it's nice

"It's a nice day today," I remarked to the gentleman entering the office, just as I was about to leave.

In fact, he held the door open for me so that I could exit more easily with my hand of mail.

A few more pleasantries were exchanged in the second or two as the transition was being made—all based on the weather—and "what beautiful weather it was".

I felt the milk of human kindness ebbed through my body because the gentleman who had performed an act of common courtesy had to get around with the aid of a cane. A quick assessment told me that he was probably a sufferer of arthritis, and for those afflicted with this disease, any day probably isn't "a nice day".

But what a difference a matter of a few feet can make. Just outside the door a voice was heard to say: "It's a nice day", plainly mimicking the prior conversation.

On looking up, I ascertained that it was a young (high school girl) blurring out a clue of her adolescence to her counterpart.

"Well, it is a nice day, isn't it," I chided her.

Another example of the young disrespecting their elders, I thought and continued on my way.

But the more I thought about it, the more I came to the conclusion that some older people are just as guilty of imparting greetings that they don't mean.

Secrecy

Last Thursday was a "nice day" in my opinion, perhaps even the forerunner of a hoped-for Indian Summer. And autumn colors are resplendent in all their wondrous ways.

Perhaps there are some inhabitants of this beautiful East Central Alberta who don't really mean what they say, but we find most people are genuine in what they say. And we're glad about that.

Letters to the Editor

Abbotsford, B.C.

9 October 1981

Community Press

Sedgewick Alberta

Dear Sir:

During the almost three years I resided in Killam as the Presbyterian minister I was a subscriber to your paper. In January of this year I accepted a call to Abbotsford, B.C. I thank you for continuing to send my subscription up until the present. With the receipt of my last issue I see my subscription has run out, because of distance I do not want to renew it. Thank you very much for your courtesy during that period.

Best wishes as you continue to serve the community in the excellent way you have for so many years.

Sunday was a momentous day for the group popularly known as the "Kilnmen" orchestra, as they cut a record of dance music. The group consisted of Lyle Mait, Tom Sparrow, Brian Badstuber, Bill McLaren, Old Ed, and Rita Galloway, a popular dance band with the older generation. The record was made at the S.H. Club meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sparrow with the help of Lyons's Studio in Edmonton. They recorded 23 dance tunes and it is expected the record will be on the air by Christmas time.

was only "doing his thing", and thus didn't deserve the death penalty, the Students for a Democratic Society contended that the killing of Grandin should be considered self-defence, since she was over 30 and therefore, couldn't be taken seriously because she was trying to make love and was not.

ON THE BASIS of these considerations, it was decided that there was no valid basis for charges against the wolf. However, the woodcutter was indicated for unprovoked assault with a deadly weapon. Several nights later, the woodcutter's cottage was burned to the ground.

ONE YEAR FROM THE DATE of "The Incident at Grandin's" her cottage was made a shrine for the wolf who had been and died there. All the village officials spoke at the dedication. But it was Red Rudy that gave the most touching tribute. He said that while he had been suitably grateful for the woodcutter's intervention, he remained in retrospect that he had over-reacted.

AS KEN KNEELAND placed a wreath in honour of the brave wolf, there wasn't a dry eye in the whole figure.

An invitation is extended to anyone who believes they have talent to participate in the Talent Contest at Killam Elks Hall on Thursday, November 19th.

Sponsored by the Killam-Streene Co-op Association, the event is "open to anybody and everybody." Judge Jim VanDresser, manager of the Killam Co-op.

A first-timer happening in Killam, the talent contest is now in its third year, with winners advancing to the district contest, and if successful, to the Talent West finals at the Federated Co-operatives Ltd. annual meeting in Calgary next March.

Mr. VanDresser estimates that there is no entry fee for the talent contest, and no admission fee will be charged. Prizes of $40.00 and $30.00 will, however, be awarded.

"We are after contestants who sing, dance, recite, play a musical instrument - or whatever," to enter Mr. VanDresser said.

Age is no barrier, as last year's overall winner was a 5-year-old from Melilot, Saskatchewan.

Deadline for entries is Nov. 12 and entry forms may be picked up at the main office of Killam Co-op.

Gretna Goodwill Club resumes

On October 14th, eight ladies of Gretna Goodwill Club gathered together at the home of Mrs. F. O'Reilly. This was the first meeting of the Club since last June; when we met at the lovely home of Edna Huse in Forestburg.

Marieje Anderson and Emily MacKenzie were guests that day and Edna Huse gave the toast which was much enjoyed.

The secretary read the minutes of the June meeting and these were approved.

The correspondence consisted of a letter from U.S.

of Canada, asking for another donation. It was agreed that we send the usual $30 donation.

A shower was given from the club for Brenda Lee Strabik who is being married on November 21. Mary Rombough is to get in touch with Brenda Lee; and if it is feasible for her to visit in the local area before the wedding, we will hold a shower.

Betty Cameron suggested that we visit the Sedgewick Lodge and Killam Auxiliary Hospital in the near future.

It was arranged with the Auxiliary that we go there on the Wednesday afternoon October 21. Four ladies will take the usual food cake.

Helen O'Reilly mentioned that she was to play for the United Church service, at the Lodge, on October 27th, and suggested the ladies go to it at that time and help with hymn sing.

This was agreed on and we will take homemade cookies along for them to have with their afternoon and evening snacks.

Helen Strabik had a lovely "Thought for the Day" and there were two other readings by Mary Albrecht.

Helen Strabik, President, also had an interesting and brain teasing contest. We had to guess what lot it was from the definition given. We must confess we are not very good carpenter as no one guessed half of them even, but Edna did win the prize.

The roll call proved very interesting with each one telling of something they had done this summer, or somewhere they had been. These took us from gardening, checker-picking, carpentry, doctor's office, homecomings and Heritage Park in Edmonton to Calgary, Manitoba, and Tennessee.

Mary Rombough won the raffle or hostess prize - hand made dollies.

Helen Cameron invited us to her home for the November 4th meeting, as Helen O'Reilly is to be the meeting hostess and the roll call is - bring an item for auction and bring a friend.

Maybe you ordered that wonderful shade tree that grows in Brazil. Or in Florida. Or southern Ontario. Seven feet in one season, the ad said. Fruit-bearing in two.

But in Alberta it didn't do much but act as a stunted scratching post for the neighbour's cat.

It's one of those cases where you may be the victim of an UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICE.

Mail Order shopping offers a wide array of legitimate firms who talk straight and back up the claims for their products.

Lougheed Rebekahs count calories

Seventeen members of Lougheed Rebekah Lodge met for their regular meeting on Wednesday evening, October 15. Lodge opened in regular form with N.G. Sis M. Quast in the chair. It was reported that Sis S. Drager, sister of Sis. Sis Max Black, is not at all well.

Many members had visited local hospitals as well as lodges in the area.

Sis Myrtle Roggenbach husband has a hospital stay pending.

It was agreed to send a donation to the "Pilgrimage For Youth" fund.

Plans were made concerning the Rebekah tea to be held on Nov. 7. This time of planning was given in appreciation by a vocal solo rendered by Sis. Myrtle Roggenbach.

Under Good of the Order, various members thanked the ladies for cards received. After Penny Drill it was the member's privilege to sing "Happy Birthday" to Sis. Wanda Price.

The next meeting will be in the afternoon of Oct. 26th, and is the District Meeting.

Lodge closed in harmony. Followed by a color-counting, delicious lunch served by Sis. S. Braden. Sis. Black was unable to be in attendance.

At the time of the reporter's departure for home, many of the diligent and dedicated sisters were demonstrating their expertise on the floor.

Thank You

To all the volunteers who helped out this past summer at the Sedgewick Golf Club.

Longbeach Hall, the bride's mother received wearing a two-piece dress of pink jersey with grey accents and corsage of white roses and blue corn flowers. The groom's mother was in a navy suit with powder blue corsage. The master of ceremonies was Jack Sparrow of Sedgewick; table grace by Pastor Tim Johnson; the toast to the bride by Ron Schaeppmeyer of Sedgewick, which was ably responded to by the groom. The head table was centered by a two-tiered cake featuring the roses enclosed in a glass top and in glasses between the layers. All the wedding flowers were arranged by Cora Andersen. The photographer was Vic Newman of Edmonton.

Open house and dance followed with music by the Rhythmic Kings of Longbeach. After a short honeymoon to Jaeger, Hinton and Red Deer, the couple make their home in Viking. Guests were from Ft. St. John, Barrhead, Hinton, Drayton Valley, St. Albert, Edmonton, Mundare, Sherwood Park, Camrose, Bowell, Dayland, Strathmore, Hobbie, Minburn, Irma, Wainwright, Kinross, Hardisty, Oyma, Calgary, Red Deer, Vermilion, Viking, Killam, Sedgewick and Longbeach.

WE'VE ONLY JUST BEGIN... and YOU MADE IT POSSIBLE!!

The previous three years have been challenging ones for our Credit Union and it's members have, through their continued support, further enhanced our future.

Credit Unions exist for the benefit of their members, who share in the profits earned and the profits stay in the community rather than being directed to large controlling Head Offices miles across the country. Funds deposited locally are turned into loans for other local members. Mortgage funds are available for investment in properties within the community.

Camrose Savings & Credit Union Limited is in a profitable position and the Board of Directors is please to announce that a Share Dividend of

has been declared for the fourth quarter. Also effective October 1, 1981, the rate paid on Premium Savings has been increased by 5% as another indication of our future intent.

The Board & Management wish to say
Thank You

Fred Martin

One of Killam and area's most respected citizens is Fred Martin, who during a varied career has been laborer, farmer, and businessman.

Newly retired to a comfortable home in town where he resides with his wife, Dora, a former school teacher, Mr. Martin has become an ardent sports fan through the medium of television.

But just because he is a working professional, doesn't mean that Fred Martin has lost touch with local affairs.

Frequent visits to a downtown coffee shop are a "must" according to his wife, who refers to the practice as a "hobby." A visit to the barbershop of former mayor, Gordon Hilker, is also high on his list.

In his younger days Mr. Martin liked to go hunting.

The Martins moved to Killam in 1948 from their farm, southeast of town, and one of the first moves he made was to join the board of trade as it was known then, later the Chamber of Commerce.

When he sold his garage in 1972 to McLennan's, the Chamber of Commerce felt him for his contributions to the town.

He served on council for two terms and says he "enjoyed it."

For 24 years he operated the Imperial Oil garage and International Harvester Implement Agency at the north end of main street (now Kalawsky's). Jack Shennan was the previous owner.

Like many others of his time, Fred Martin didn't have an easy time of it in the early years.

Asked about his education, he smiled and replied that he was an "everyday education."

Of life, he said "you take your bumps."

A native of New Westminster, British Columbia, he was raised at Ladner where "everybody fished."

His mother, not wishing her son to spend the rest of his life as a fisherman, sent him to work on his uncle's farm near Killam.

His first recollection of farming was of "his old nags for harrowing," a memory which still haunts him.

Shortly afterwards he met Dora Wilson, who had come west from Ontario, to a nearby farm.

The couple were married in March 1939 and they farmed for 19 years on the old R.J. McDowan homestead.

This was during the Depression when eggs sold for three cents per dozen (if you could get it) and butter for five cents a pound. Wheat sold for 30 cents per bushel.

Saturday night is when was a big event in those days, although there wasn't much money to be made. "There was more sociability then than now," Mr. Martin remarked.

In the fall, the Martins Model T would be put up on jacks, and in winter there

was always a good loser of horses which would return them "right to the barn door" often over roads lost to snowdrifts.

Asked about changes in Killam, Mr. Martin recalled that the house of former Mayor James Stark across the road was the house the hardest west in Killam.

In those times, he said it was common to see horses pulling cars out of the road on Highway 13, west of town.

While the Martins had no children of their own, they look back with a high regard for today's youth.

"We've enjoyed the town and we've enjoyed the people," the Martins responded.

And residents of Killam probably feel the same way about the Martins.

STATUTE LIBRARY

Killam's Len Dutton heads BRTA Historical Library

One of the projects of the Battle River Tourist Association (BRTA) held in Camrose on Wednesday, October 21, President Robert Brown of Leduc reported on a number of projects that received the attention of BRTA during the past year.

Some of these included the assistance in operating ten information centres located at various points in the Zone; the completion of a large, colorful, static display, complete with audio-visual equipment for use at Sportsman's Shows, trade fairs, conventions, etc. and the viewing of several 75th Anniversary Projects.

Continuing projects included the booking of a Training and Hospitality Seminar; the operation of an "Efficiency Award Contest" to encourage a high quality of service at the thirteen information centres in the Zone; sponsoring an Essay Contest for grade nine students using the title "Tourism - Town and Country Link" and the hosting of a motor cavalcade (76 recreational units) that toured the Northeast portion of the Zone. Purpose of the latter project was to acquaint people with the fun things to do and see in Battle River Country.

Other projects which Brown reported on were the guiding of 39,000 Battle River Country Visitors' Guides; 30,000 Zone 5 Maps

Historical Photo Chairman Len Dutton and Mrs. Dutton were recognized by the BRTA for their contributions at the annual meeting.

With the continued cooperation and generosity of communities and individuals throughout East Central Alberta, this unique project could see the entire Zone 5 history encompassed into one exclusive library.

Dutton reported that he has knowledge of several volumes that have been printed, which he would like to obtain but either he is unable to locate a copy, or is unable to locate a donor. If anyone would like to add to this collection, or has information about any history book dealing with any part of the Battle River Tourist Zone they are invited to contact the Association office in Camrose or Mr. Len Dutton, Killam.

No paving this year for Sedgewick main street

Sedgewick's main street isn't going to be paved until next June—that's the message Mayor Ernie Koehli delivered to the town's Chamber of Commerce at last Tuesday's meeting.

The mayor said that council was acting on the advice of its engineers.

But Mr. Koehli assured that residents would have a "smoother surface" to drive on in the meantime.

One of the lines will be for water service, and the other for sewer service.

As for the final turning on of Sedgewick's water system, the mayor speculated that it will be "a long way away, depending on the weather."

"Because there is too much clay, it was decided that there would be no much settling," he explained. Gravel fill will be put in place where required this fall, however this measure had to be taken anyway.

In delaying the paving of main street, a better surface will result and there will be an added opportunity to find any discrepancies in the newly-installed water lines, the mayor reported.

Council also has decided to proceed with Stage II watermain installation in Meadowbrook subdivision. Chamber members were informed.

Mayor Koehli stated that two steel pipes are being placed underneath the railway tracks at the town's main entrance to serve the area south of the tracks, in future.

One of the lines will be for water service, and the other for sewer service.

As for the final turning on of Sedgewick's water system, the mayor speculated that it will be "a long way away, depending on the weather."

In the meantime, there will be no swimming at the Killam Agriplex until further notice.

Tourism is alive and well in Battle River Tourist Zone

At the 14th Annual Meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association (BRTA) held in Camrose on Wednesday, October 21, President Robert Brown of Leduc reported on a number of projects that received the attention of BRTA during the past year.

Some of these included the assistance in operating ten information centres located at various points in the Zone; the completion of a large, colorful, static display, complete with audio-visual equipment for use at Sportsman's Shows, trade fairs, conventions, etc. and the viewing of several 75th Anniversary Projects.

Continuing projects included the booking of a Training and Hospitality Seminar; the operation of an "Efficiency Award Contest" to encourage a high quality of service at the thirteen information centres in the Zone; sponsoring an Essay Contest for grade nine students using the title "Tourism - Town and Country Link" and the hosting of a motor cavalcade (76 recreational units) that toured the Northeast portion of the Zone. Purpose of the latter project was to acquaint people with the fun things to do and see in Battle River Country.

Other projects which Brown reported on were the guiding of 39,000 Battle River Country Visitors' Guides; 30,000 Zone 5 Maps and 41,000 Zone 5 Lane placards, also 8,000 Zone 5 events calendars were produced for free distribution.

The president noted that BRTA was represented at the Travel Industry Association of Canada Convention held in Toronto and at the Travel Industry Association of Alberta Convention held in Fort McMurray as well as at numerous other tourism-related functions throughout Alberta.

New projects included the construction of a colorful, eye-catching mascot, officially named "Battle River Lucky Duck" who will promote Battle River Country (Zone 5) by attending parades and functions throughout Alberta; the installation of sound equipment in the BRTA van and the production of several thousand promotional buttons for free distribution.

Brown emphasized that, in addition to over $120,000 spent in tangible promotional programs in 1981, BRTA has been continuously lobbying with government for more and improved tourist facilities for areas throughout East Central Alberta.

Some items receiving attention and positive response include the establishment of a museum in the Wetaskiwin area to house the Reynolds collection; the establishment of a Provincial Park at Red Lake; Lake Station on Buffalo Lake and numerous facilities being properly signed.

The three-page report also touched on community grants awarded to: Viding $1,000, Hardisty $1,000, and Damsel Historical Society $500.00; the involvement of BRTA in numerous parades; the comprehensive summer advertising program sponsored by BRTA and the streamlined literature distribution program carried out by the Association.

In the words of the BRTA President of the 1980-81 year "This again was very busy and a very satisfying experience."

Halloween collections aid kids

'People Programs' subject of Legislature opening

The Fall Session of the Alberta Legislature began Wednesday October 14, and was highlighted by Premier Lougheed's State of the Province Address. The Premier noted that the mood of Alberta was one of great confidence in their province and in its future.

Alberta was one of the "people programs" undertaken by the Alberta Government since the sitting of the Spring Session.

In the area of housing, the Alberta government is now spending $800 per capita, more money than is spent by all other provinces combined, in order to improve the quality and availability of accommodation. The emphasis on people programs has also been demonstrated through the construction of a large number of new hospitals throughout the province. There are three new hospitals in our constituency.

The Premier noted that funds were made available to assist rural municipalities in the development of parks and recreation areas. It was also pointed out that the government of the Province of Saskatchewan Park South of Banff will help to take pressure off of the national parks in Alberta.

In recognition of the International Year of the Environment, the Alberta government has introduced educational programs for the moderately handicapped, and has increased the number of vocational training places in the province, and has opened the William Watson Lodge for the handicapped in Kamloops Park.

The Premier noted that Alberta's economy has shown strong growth over the past year, but that inflation and unemployment were high in other parts of the country. He urged the federal government to work cooperatively with all the provinces so that all regions of Canada could prosper and realize their full potential.

A sign of Alberta's strong growth has been the creation of 68,000 new jobs in this province over the past year.

Economic conditions in the world have had an effect on Alberta's grain and cattle industries. But there is still a large increase in the net farm income predicted for this year.

The Premier called on the federal government to bring down interest rates, which affect all areas of the economy, but have hurt the industry in particular. Grain prices are higher than they were in 1980 and yields per acre are up 34 per cent over 1980.

But the key to the success of all parts of the agriculture industry is transportation. Even though transportation is a federal responsibility, the Premier's address opened the Fall Session on an optimistic note. His remarks make me optimistic that we will continue to enjoy growth and prosperity in Alberta in the future. I will be in Edmonton for the next few weeks, and can be contacted at 437-1838. Call collect if you wish. My Vermilion office - 433-1202. I am open five days a week from 9 to 12:30 noon, and from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m., and Lloyd Seath should be able to help you, or contact me.

Alberta public to be alerted of rail crossing hazards

Railway crossing hazards will soon be the subject of a provincial public awareness program to reduce traffic fatalities at railway crossings in Alberta.

Operation Lifesaver, a national campaign focusing on education, enforcement and engineering to promote level crossing safety was introduced in Canada this year by Transport Canada.

The Railway Association of Canada and the Canadian Transport Commission in co-operation with the Canadian Safety Council.

The official campaign kick-off took place in Ottawa with the Honourable Jean Luc Pepin, Minister of Transport, the Honourable Edgar J. Benson, president, Canadian Transport Commission; J.S. Allison, president, Railway Association of Canada and L. Higgett, president, Canada Safety Council attending a staged accident demonstrating the devastating effects of a train/motor vehicle collision.

Roger Cyr, national director for Operation Lifesaver, met with Alberta organizations interested in level-crossing safety at the Alberta Safety Council on October 14.

Mr. Cyr said the program met with a positive response and plans are underway to establish a steering committee who will determine education, enforcement and engineering to promote level crossing safety was introduced in Canada this year by Transport Canada.

4-H changes

Important changes in national and provincial 4-H programs are being planned for 1983 when the Canadian 4-H Council celebrates its 50th anniversary.

"Jack Redden, newly-elected president of the council, says the council hopes to present a position paper at that time which will outline plans for the next 10 to 15 years. During a recent tour of Western Canada he also said that future changes will require the assistance of provincial 4-H organizations, and that various 4-H sponsors will be involved in the plans as well as 4-H staff members.

According to Mr. Redden, the proposed changes that will be contained in the position paper will be discussed at the annual national 4-H meeting that will be held in Victoria, B.C. in May 1983. Ted Youck, 4-H supervisor, Irene Lawitt, home economics director, and volunteers representing the provincial 4-H council will represent Alberta at the meeting.

Among the issues that will be discussed will be the placement of the national 4-H council staff and the structure of the volunteer staff and that this goal is achieved through the assistance of various sponsors who help with provincial programs as well as national and international exchange trips.

Tire pressure check vital in fall

Fall season brings with it widely fluctuating temperatures and a need for motorists to keep a watchful eye on their tire pressure.

"It's normal for tires to lose air. A normal 'bleed-off' of one pound of pressure per month and pressure fluctuations are common," says Stan Lew, tire construction engineer with B.F. Goodrich Canada Inc.

"For every 10 degree Celsius of temperature change, tire air pressure will rise or decrease about one pound per square inch."

Seasonal temperature changes, especially winter's low readings on pressure, will also alter tire demands. Low tire pressures cause tire sidewalls to sag and flex, causing a heat buildup and long or longer than most possible pressure failure. Unusual wear on the tire tread shoulders also occurs. Over-inflated tire pressures cause sidewalls to stretch and abnormal centre tread wear results.

Proper tire pressure of ten ensures tires last as Winter radials advised for highway driving

"If I have radials, do I need snow tires?" A frequent question this time of year, and one with many possible answers, says Stan Lew, tire construction engineer with B.F. Goodrich Canada Inc.

"Winter radials will give you the optimum in safety and convenience for winter driving," says Donald McKenna, head of the division at B.F. Goodrich's Richmond, Ont. Canada's

"However, depending on how much and where you intend to drive in the winter, there may be cases where radial snow tires aren't needed."

"If your driving is confined to the city and you don't plan to drive if there's a heavy snowfall, you can probably avoid investing in winter radials," he says.

"But anyone who plans to do an appreciable amount of highway driving and will be driving in all kinds of weather should have winter radials," McKenna adds.

"Especially if you're headed for rural areas where snow removal may not be as regular."

"It's a trade-off between the convenience of being able to use your car all winter and the expense of winter radials," says McKenna. "Without snow tires you may have to be content to stay home or suffer the consequences if you're caught in a sudden storm."

It's hard to put a price on safety and peace of mind," McKenna stresses that if you decide not to buy winter radials that you make sure your tires have transverse grooves (grooves running across the tire).

"With a straight-tile tire you don't stand a chance against winter," he says. "Transverse grooves will keep the snow from packing in the ribs."

B.F. Goodrich offers some further winter driving tips: "Never put a blocky tire on a radial-equipped car. The difference in handling characteristics between the two constructions can cause unexpected control problems, especially on wet or overcast pavement."

"If you get stuck in heavy snow, use a light foot on the accelerator. Spinning your wheels is dangerous and will only dig you in deeper. Paving rock salt and/or a traction mat such as wire mesh or carpeting under the rear wheels may help you get the like you need."

BRTA annual meeting reveals busy year

Carol Land

The annual meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association was held at the Crystal Springs Motel in Carleton Place on Wednesday, October 21. The affair was attended by over 100 people from all corners of the tourist zone. Zones 6 and 14 were also represented.

During the business session, members received a number of reports on the activities of the Association during the year. These included a president's report from Robert Brown of Leaside, a manager's report from Sylvia Clemens of Carleton Place, and a report from the Publicity Committee by S. Clemens of Carleton Place.

President Land presented the annual report to the members. The report was presented by the President of the Planning Committee, Robert Ruttan of Provost. This included expenditures in excess of $130,000 on a wide range of promotional activities and projects. A budget involving receipts and expenditures of $135,000 was also presented and approved.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of a number of awards. Two "BRTA Awards" were presented by Gertrude Thiemens of Stettin, a member of the Executive Committee. These were presented to the Association of Information Centres during July and August.

Both awards went to Lady Luck's one for the best "non-government" operated centre (in competition) and one for the best operated centre in the Zone 6 area (thirteen in the competition). Mr. David Hildner of the Saskatchewan Senior Citizens Club was on hand to receive the plaques on behalf of the active and enthusiastic group and paid tribute to the late Mrs. Hildner for her work in founding the centre.

Arden Adams of Bahar presented a plaque to Janice Thiemens of New Norway who placed first in the BRTA contest sponsored for grade nine students throughout the Zone 6. A plaque was also presented to the New Norway School, which has been a member of the BRTA since 1974. This was accepted by the Principal, Mrs. D. L. Dutton. The BRTA also presented a plaque to the Bahar Service Award was presented to the Bahar Service Award by the Dutton of Kilmarnock for outstanding volunteer service. This unique award is in the form of a silver-plated hand-carved replica of a Bahar Hendry. Results of elections held previous to the annual meeting were announced by the Chairman of the Nominations and Elections Committee, Jack Kneale of Provost. Taking over leadership of the Association during the 1981-82 year are: Past-President, Robert Brown of Leaside; President, Carol Land of Wataskiwin; First Vice-President, Lindsay Smith of Stettin; Second Vice-President, Joyce Harrison of Wataskiwin.

Guest Speaker for the evening was Mr. D. L. Dutton, President, University of Guelph (World University Games). This informative talk, augmented by the premier showing of an excellent feature film was enthusiastically received by the audience.

Concluding item on the agenda was an invitation by Bahar Service Award to the President, Mrs. D. L. Dutton, to be involved in the Bahar Service Award which will be held in Carleton Place in July, 1983.

Small business big force in Alberta's economy

"A growing domestic and international awareness of the contribution made by small business to society has created a demand for forums which allow for information and educational exchange.

"For example, 104 delegates from about 64 countries will be in Ottawa (October 18-22) for the 11th International Symposium on Small Business (ISSB). This event will be hosted by the Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce, and the support of the provinces, the private sector and the academic community.

Killam Rebekahs

lite duties

Silver Link Rebekahs of Killam met at the home of Edna Baker. The duties of the officers were called for, to refresh our memories.

Sisters Polgas, Stelm and Lawson had visited St. Ann's Parish in Viking Hospital, and St. Ann's had made a visit to Killam Hospital.

Plans were made to attend the District meeting in Loughheed. The annual donation was made to the P.R. for Youth; Noble Grand Sis. Vincent offered to check with the High School to see if some students would be interested in entering the speaking contest.

The new altar cloth was discussed and it was decided that it should have a silver edge instead of gold. Sis. Polgas gave her report from Whitehouse, where donations were made by the members to increase the Holo tea money to $40.00. Sis. Manning was appointed to buy some of the much needed articles and offered to deliver them. Sister Conrad was presented with her "past noble Grand pit". Lodge closed with prayer and lunch served by the hostess.

THE MANAGEMENT OF ENERGY IN CANADA. ONE OF A SERIES.

STARTING NOVEMBER, 1981 CGSB-LISTED CONTRACTORS ARE REQUIRED FOR 'CHIP'

LOOK FOR THE CGSB SYMBOL BEFORE YOU HIRE AN INSULATION CONTRACTOR

The vast majority of insulation firms are both capable and honest. But there have been cases of poor workmanship and even outright fraud.

To help ensure good value for your insulation dollar, the Canadian General Standards Board has established a national certification program for residential insulation contractors. The contractors listed in the CGSB Program certify to their clients that their quality of insulation workmanship meets the CGSB standard.

Only those contractors listed in the CGSB certification program are authorized to use the CGSB symbol.

USING A CONTRACTOR FOR CHIP? CGSB IS A MUST.

CHIP (the Canadian Home Insulation Program) offers taxable grants of up to $500 to make your home better insulated and more airtight - if your house was built before January 1, 1961 - whether you own or rent.

After November 1, 1981, if you intend to apply for CHIP and have a contractor install the materials, you must use a contractor who is listed with the CGSB program. You won't be eligible for a grant otherwise.

If you prefer to do it yourself and use CHIP only to assist with buying materials, that's fine. But remember, you must install the materials before applying for a CHIP grant.

CHOOSE YOUR CONTRACTOR CAREFULLY

The new CGSB certification program will do much to reduce the problem of poor quality work by insulation contractors, but don't stop there. You should further protect yourself in these ways:

1. Plan your home's energy savings by filling in the free EnerGuide "Energy Analysis" questionnaire. Call the EnerGuide Hotline toll-free for your copy.
2. Ask friends or neighbours to recommend a contractor.
3. Verify the contractor's CGSB listing number with your CHIP office. Check the company's record with the Better Business Bureau or your provincial Consumer Affairs office.
4. Watch out for high-pressure sales techniques.
5. Compare estimates. Get three estimates in writing which locate and specify the size of the area to be insulated, give the type of materials to be used and list their RSI (or R) value. RSI is the new metric rating for insulation.

6. Check your contractor for details such as CGSB listing number, the estimate of your home's existing RSI (or R) value, the RSI (or R) value of insulation to be added, and the recommended RSI (or R) value for your area.
7. Monitor the job. If possible, stay home while the work is being done. Don't be shy about asking the contractor questions.
8. Never sign a blank or partly filled-in contract or CHIP application form. It takes planning and comparison shopping to find good value for your insulation dollar. But it's in your best interests to do it right from the start.

Get in touch with your CHIP office in Edmonton to find out whether your home is eligible and how to apply.

CANADA'S NATIONAL ENERGY PROGRAM

Three basic ways for tenderizing beef

How can one tenderize some of the more expensive beef cuts?

According to Betty-Ann Caray, marketing officer with Alberta Agriculture, here are three basic ways they are marketing, using commercial tenderizers, and cooking the meat in moist heat.

Most marinated are made with a vegetable oil and a tenderizing acid such as vinegar, lemon juice or wine to which is added spices or seasoning. The marinade should be refrigerated in a plastic bag or plastic container. After scoring or piercing the meat with a fork to allow the marinade to penetrate it, put the marinated meat in a slow-cooker or crockpot.

Makes sure the meat is completely covered and turn it over at least every 12 hours. The slow cooker should be set on a low heat to keep the meat moist.

Marinade may be cooked or uncooked, and a cooked marinade should be thoroughly chilled before it is used. Both types can be used in a sauce over the meat.

Commercial tenderizers contain enzymes which break down the muscle fibers of the meat. The tenderizer should be applied to the meat for three to six hours, round steaks covered and basted with the tenderizer at least 14 hours. The slow cooker should be set on a low heat to keep the meat moist.

The meat basting method is recommended for cuts from the chuck or brisket, areas of the carcass. Put the meat in a liquid, preferably an acid liquid like tomato juice, cover it and cook it in an oven temperature of from 160 degrees C (320 degrees F) to 180 degrees C (355 degrees F) for approximately 30 minutes per pound.

They reported it was a very busy time while there and returning business too. We'll seem to be happy. It is nearly here. This means that it will be Halloween night too. Anglican Church News

Dennis Martin

Last summer's Loughed Park and Sedgewick Agri Days seem like a long time ago now, with cold winter winds sending chills inside our fall coats. But remember the marvelous time, decorated by Verona Cookman as a replica of All Saints' Church, Loughed?

The cake - a well-seasoned fruitcake, of course, was being raffled to raise funds for the 70th anniversary celebrations of All Saints' Church. Well, the long-awaited draw for the lucky winner was finally made at last Wednesday's Parish Council meeting. Veronik, accorded the honour of making the draw, was Donna Martin. (That's right, Veronika Cookman's daughter, and the writer of this column.)

Donna plunged her hand into the thousands of little slips of paper, and emerged triumphantly with one and only one-lucky little slip, which she promptly delivered to the waiting friends of an excited Rev. Richard Conrad. And whose name you suppose was on that slip of paper?

Well, suffice to say that it was Mr. Donald Cookman, prominent Loughed cattle buyer, husband of talented cake decorator, Veronika and father of the capable draw master, Donna. Is now the proprietor of the All Saints' Anglican Church.

It is just good to know that Veronika doesn't go to all that work for nothing.

Glad to see Ted Lohr home from hospital, and returning rapidly to his accustomed good form.

A special hello to Mrs. Grace Palmer who is a patient in Galahad Hospital. She is much missed by her friends in Sedgewick and Kilian.

Also back home after surgery is Mr. Glen Roggenbuck.

Outside shopping habits cost county 300 jobs

Members of Sedgewick Chamber of Commerce were alerted to learn today that day that as many as 300 jobs have been transferred out of the county because potential customers haven't supported small businesses in their own communities.

In an address making Sedgewick Chamber of Commerce 25-31, Ron Hancock, of the Alberta Tourism and Small Business Development Corporation, acknowledged the Chamber to fulfill its primary role of promoting the community, while at the same time pointing out ways in which businessmen can help themselves to obtain more of the outside shopping dollars.

"It's a tragedy that young people have to leave to find their own 'where', Mr. Hancock remarked, stating that the large business chain stores ignore the East Central Alberta Region. Almost 100 percent of the employees in the region are small businessmen, he related.

By remarking that Sedgewick's businesses are doing a "good job," there is room for greater achievement, he said.

A study undertaken by the provincial business development representative, indicated that Sedgewick's retail sales are currently growing at an average compounded annual rate of 14.8 percent compared with 10.9 percent for the province.

An inflation rate of 12.4 percent was also considered in arriving at a net annual growth of 1.54 percent.

But he pointed out that the yearly annual population growth over the past ten years is 1.8 per cent, "which is greater than the net retail sales."

Suggesting that "you are what you are," Mr. Hancock stated that a businessman has to be an "entrepreneur," but he must also help himself.

He said that "good business rarely happens; they are planned," and stated that planning should include the what? how? who? and where? in bridging the gap between now and future planning.

Elements to be considered consist of financial, marketing, sales, production, etc.

"More and more, I see businessmen asking for help," Mr. Hancock commented.

He reported that "good management" comes from experience and the desire to do better, adding that the businessman "must reach out to new goals and heights."

A survey of why prospective customers go outside the area to make purchases indicated that inadequate services and poor perception are major reasons.

The development representative suggested that businesses don't convince the customer to make demands for giving businesses the chance to meet that demand.

The illustration of Macdonald's new outlet in Camrose, the speaker related, that their products are no better than those of similar outlets, but the difference is a matter of marketing and service.

The demand for service can be an asset for the small businessman, because he knows his product through the use of the audience was told.

Members of Sedgewick Chamber of Commerce were alerted to learn today that day that as many as 300 jobs have been transferred out of the county because potential customers haven't supported small businesses in their own communities.

In an address making Sedgewick Chamber of Commerce 25-31, Ron Hancock, of the Alberta Tourism and Small Business Development Corporation, acknowledged the Chamber to fulfill its primary role of promoting the community, while at the same time pointing out ways in which businessmen can help themselves to obtain more of the outside shopping dollars.

"It's a tragedy that young people have to leave to find their own 'where', Mr. Hancock remarked, stating that the large business chain stores ignore the East Central Alberta Region. Almost 100 percent of the employees in the region are small businessmen, he related.

By remarking that Sedgewick's businesses are doing a "good job," there is room for greater achievement, he said.

A study undertaken by the provincial business development representative, indicated that Sedgewick's retail sales are currently growing at an average compounded annual rate of 14.8 percent compared with 10.9 percent for the province.

An inflation rate of 12.4 percent was also considered in arriving at a net annual growth of 1.54 percent.

But he pointed out that the yearly annual population growth over the past ten years is 1.8 per cent, "which is greater than the net retail sales."

Suggesting that "you are what you are," Mr. Hancock stated that a businessman has to be an "entrepreneur," but he must also help himself.

He said that "good business rarely happens; they are planned," and stated that planning should include the what? how? who? and where? in bridging the gap between now and future planning.

Elements to be considered consist of financial, marketing, sales, production, etc.

"More and more, I see businessmen asking for help," Mr. Hancock commented.

He reported that "good management" comes from experience and the desire to do better, adding that the businessman "must reach out to new goals and heights."

Social Club hears of Hardisty history book

A note of thanks was given by Mr. May for his efforts in this project. As any further profits will go to the Social Club, several projects for future improvements were discussed.

A large framed oil painting by Margaret Overman was shown to the group, showing the Hardisty rail station, and the group voted unanimously to purchase this for the centre.

Members then welcomed Coach Johnson of Sedgewick who is co-ordinator for Further Education for the County of Plaquemine.

She outlined the various slides available under this program, and showed a film outlining how one group had worked out a very educational program.

Letters to the Editor

Edmonton, Alberta
October 15, 1981
Mr. Monte Keith
Publisher
Dear Monte:

This year I thought I'd write a personalized letter to you, to thank you for the opportunity to be a part of Alberta Culture's New Provincial Competition. I'm hoping to suggest a few ideas for a feature or two this year. It's a tough road for writers, and for your encouragement to new authors in particular, I'm grateful.

Assessing five of these New Provincial Competitions to date, you would have to believe they have paid off for writers here. Despite mixed reviews, Margaret Doerksen's Jazzy (our latest winner) has been a Literary Guild selection (I can't even remember that happening last year). If you read Publisher's Weekly you know that Pauline Gedge's massive story of a woman parish Hatescape, Child of the Morning, is currently a best-seller in France. (Edmondson, Alberta) closed is a more detailed report of what has come forth from the New Novellet Competition to date; hope you find it interesting, perhaps good for background reference.

One important factor, it seems to me, is that the very continuity of this Competition is a paramount factor in author success. It's significant that Pauline Gedge's first entry drew attention of all three adjudicators; her second entry - "written because I needed to make money" - got nowhere; her third was the bestseller, Child of the Morning.

Ditto for Margaret Doerksen. Her first entry drew some helpful suggestions from the adjudicators. Jazzy, in addition to being a Guild selection, is soon to be released in French by Les Quatre, Editors of Montreal - a first, I believe, for any Alberta novelist.

An "odd" thing about this competition thus far is that all the winners have been women. Why? There really isn't all that much difference in the number of manuscripts submitted by men and women writers. (We had 35 men writing in the 15th Search vs. 31 women.) You can't help wondering why at least one man hasn't emerged a top winner (although at least three men have had publishing contracts, as a result of the competition).

This year, as in our previous Competition, General Publishing of Toronto remains our enthusiastic "partner." This fine firm has certainly opened new horizons for Alberta authors (they swing the French-language deal; additionally, New York publication is secured through Benchmark Books).

The prize remains a very worthwhile $4,000 of which $3,000 is an outright award to the winner.

Carmine Simpson was early settler of Sedgewick area

Carmine (Fisher) Simpson passed away in the Dayland Hospital on October 15th, 1981 at the age of 88 years. She was born in Toronto, Ontario on September 1, 1893 and spent her childhood days in the Perry Sound district.

At an early age she came west to Wabasca, Sask., where she met her first husband, Percy. They were married in Vancouver, B.C. in 1910 and spent four years in Vancouver.

Coming to Alberta in 1914, they settled on a C.P.R. farm, south of Sedgewick where they farmed for many years. They retired to the Town of Sedgewick in 1944.

Following the death of her husband Percy in 1974, she lived in her own home until the last few months when she was hospitalized.

Carmine was a home-loving person and enjoyed the company of friends, neighbours, and relatives, and loved gardening.

She leaves to mourn her loss, three daughters, Helene (Mrs. Warren Anderson) of Edmonton, Ethel (Mrs. Leslie Hall) of Canmore, Frances (Mrs. Gordon Gertoff) of Tofield, four sons, Gordon of Edmonton, Harvey of Loughheed, Vernon and Raymond of Sedgewick.

She was predeceased by her husband Percy in 1974.

As before, any manuscript entered will get a generous contract from General, if the editors feel it worthy of publication by their firm.

As the December 31st deadline nears for our sixth Competition, I am anxious to see if the quality of entries will be sustained. (If not, no award, of course.) But there seems to be a "chance" for creative writing here, compared to the rest of Canada, and as the number of new Alberta authors breaking into print climbs even higher - with some of the finest publishers anywhere - I think the "chance" we have created for authors in this province must be a factor.

Remembering my own hard road as a freelancer, continue to ask your support for the new writers coming up. December 31 is the deadline.

Your reminder might mean a fresh burst of faith for someone looking to complete a manuscript that just might be another wonderful Alberta-based novel.

Sincerely,
John Patrick Gillespie

Linda Marie Bosch is bride of Constable Stephen Michael Stuart

St. Mary's Catholic Church, Medicine Hat, Alberta, was a lovely scene on June 20, 1981 when Linda Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Bosch, became the bride of Constable Stephen Michael Stuart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Stuart of Medicine Hat, Alberta.

Father John Cunningham of St. Andrew's Parish, Edmonton officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father and mother, Linda looked lovely in a satin gown. The couple walked down the aisle to the organ. A cathedral train flowed from the back waistline. Her two tiaras, well-trimmed with daisies, tilted from her floral headband. She carried a cascading bouquet of red roses and white daisies.

The maid of honour was Mary Ann Hall of Medicine Hat, sister of the bride, and Lynne Carr of Sherwood Park, Alberta, as bridesmaid.

They wore floor length yellow gowns with dark yellow flowers embroidered in the material with empire waistline and short sleeves. They wore daisies in their hair and carried bouquets of cascading white daisies and red roses.

The best man was Constable Doug Wainwright of Sherwood Park. Groomsmen were Constable Paul Haines, also of Sherwood Park. Flower girl, Michelle Phillips, niece of the bride, wore a floor length yellow gown identical to the bride's at the wedding, and carried a bouquet of red roses and white daisies.

Darcy Stuart, nephew of the groom, carried wedding rings to the altar on a heart-shaped pillow trimmed with lace.

The guests were ushered into the church by Stephen and Gerard Bosch, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Theresa Lacey presided at the organ and accompanied Mrs. Kathleen Phillips as she sang many beautiful renditions, among which were "The Wedding Song" and "There is Love". Theresa and Kathleen are sisters of the bride.

THE ARTIFICAL SALE PRICE

What you can do about it.

Sales are a great idea. There's no doubt about it. The right retail sales can help you pick up that special item you've been waiting for, trim a few dollars off the family budget or just indulge in a little shopping fun. The many retailers who honestly reduce prices provide a real benefit for the shopper. Once in a while, though, an impostor sneaks in. A game of "how high was up when you were still up?" Or 20% off what? In that case you could be looking at an UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICE. There are guidelines to protect you. And there's a way to learn about them.

Remembrance Day to be marked by Legions

As is traditional all across Canada, Remembrance Day, Nov. 11th, will be marked by services of worship honoring those who made the Supreme Sacrifice.

Mrs. Isabel Harrison of Bury, Quebec, has been chosen as The Silver Cross Mother attending the Remembrance Day ceremony at the National War Memorial in Ottawa.

Mrs. Harrison lost two sons in Hong Kong - Col. A.C. Harrison, killed in action, and Riflemen E.C. Harrison, who died in a prisoner of war camp.

Locally, at Loughheed, members of Kilron Legion at Loughheed will hold a memorial service at the Community Hall, commencing at 10:30 a.m. with a service meeting at the Legion Hut at 10 a.m.

Hardisty Legion services this year will be held at the Legion hall starting at 10:30 a.m. with Rev. Conrad officiating. A pot-luck dinner for members is to follow.

Killam Legion's schedule for Nov. 11 begins with veterans and Legion members convening at the Legion Hut at 10:30 a.m., with Commemorative Service at 10:45 a.m., and Community Remembrance Service in St. Joseph's Catholic Church at 11:10 a.m.

At Alliance, there is a parade at 10:45 a.m., with services to follow at the Theatre. An evening dance in Alliance Community Hall begins at 8:30 p.m.

Dayland Legion is participating in Remembrance Day observances this year at Bevil.

Flagstaff schools to check the use of computers

An announcement that a number of computers in Alberta schools will triple the next 18 months has been enthusiastically received by Terry Thim, deputy superintendent of Flagstaff County board of education.

"It's a real good area with lots of potential, but being a new field we have to be careful," Mr. Thim said.

The school board official said the local board was aware of the possibility and is in a position to make a decision now that the government has asked.

As a teaching tool and a communications tool, computers, when properly used, will aid teachers and free them to spend more time with individual students," Mr. King said.

Halloween vandals spray school

While the ghosts and goblins carried out their Halloween pranks with relative regard for property, one act of serious vandalism was carried at Killam on the weekend.

Extensive damage was done to the exterior of Our Lady of Fatima separate school by spray painting with "craze" being made on both Saturday and Sunday evenings.

The RCMP's Killam Detachment reports that no acts of vandalism were carried out, except for the spray painting.

A couple of tractors and benches were moved to the main street of Killam, while Loughheed's main thoroughfare was blocked by piles of hay and benches.

Dayland was "badly spray painted," stated Sgt. L. Franke.

There were many school parties held on Friday, and this might account for the fact that the number of trick-or-treaters appeared to be down considerably this year.

Of course, there was the usual amount of soaped windows.

Several towns had patrols comprised of constables and others with two-way radio equipped vehicles, also being in rural areas which assisted in keeping damage to a minimum, according to Sgt. Franke.

Members of Sedgewick Playchood entertained residents of Flagstaff Lodge last Friday afternoon, and handed out cupcakes made by the mothers. While the children had a ball, the event also brought back memories to the seniors. Shane Barclay, a rather reluctant Superman was carried out.

Shower held for Brenda Storbakken

On Sunday afternoon, Oct. 25th, about fifty people gathered at the Hill Community Centre, at home Brenda Lee Storbakken with a miscellaneous shower.

Mrs. Helen Sutherland, as president, graciously welcomed all to the event and then conducted a short program, before the opening of the gifts.

Christie Armstrong came up with her usual inspiring speech. It was an "alligator subway" this time and was presented to the bride, after all had tried to guess what might be wrapped up in the box.

She also had a "name my favorite things" contest which was finally won by Mary Cameron, on a cut of the cards.

Helen Sutherland had a scrawny words contest. "Items the bride would take along on her honeymoon." There were so many who got all the right answers, that it was decided to give that prize to Brenda Lee.

A reading by Mary Albrecht was next, followed by two vocal selections by Betty Cameron, accompanied at the piano by Helen O'Reilly. These were very appropriate numbers and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The encores then asked the future bride to come to the front and after planning on a corsage, seated her at a gift table. To help her open and record the many and varied gifts, were Cheryl Kowich, Calli Rumbough, her mother, Mrs. Margery Storbakken, and Mrs. Valda Storbakken.

Brenda Lee modelled a hat fashioned from gift bows, while she thanked everyone for the many lovely gifts.

Craft bazaars becoming popular

With people getting more and more leisure time they are seeking ways to fill that time. Thus the ever-increasing popularity of crafts and handicrafts. A lot of the most popular are to be seen at the various craft fairs and farmers' markets during the pre-Christmas season.

You're sure to see a large selection of pottery and ceramics, crocheted clothes, animals, slippers and hats, quilted jewellery, Christmas decorations, dolls and many other things. Of course, when people make more of these things than they can give away, they use themselves as a natural outlet for the surplus. The crafts pictured are but a very few of the articles to be found at the Longbeach Christmas craft bazaar, which is usually held in late November.

Wedding vows exchanged by Lynn Metz and Donald E. Krasowski

The scene of a beautiful wedding took place on July 18, 1981 at 5:30 p.m. in the Sedgewick United Church beautifully decorated by Janet James — with Rev. Macdonald officiating — uniting in matrimony was Lynn Marie Metz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Metz of Sedgewick to Donald Edward Krasowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Krasowski of Edmonton.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, handsomely dressed in a brown 3 piece suit, the tone of the Hawaiian Wedding March beautifully played by Mrs. Kaye Hoshida of Longbeach. The guests were ushered in by Mr. Darren Metz, brother of the bride and Doug Krasowski, brother of the groom.

The bride was radiantly dressed in a floor length Australian lined gown of white peridot and a flowing train, accented with a high length veil of sheer, trimmed in attractive lace, carrying a bouquet of 12 red roses with rose bud streamers.

Attending the bride as Matron of Honor was Shelby Weir, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Pamela, cousin of the bride and Donna Polonski, close friend of the bride. The bride's attendants and white ruffled shirts trimmed in black.

Mr. Gordon Hollinger of Irma capably sang, "We're Only Just Begun," while playing on the register.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown, beige colour trimmed in lace, accented by a red rose corsage. The groom's mother wore a floor length blue western styled gown with a sheer cape, accented by a red and white rose corsage.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom were seated at the reception table. After the pictures, a reception was held at the Sedgewick Community Hall with 170 guests beautifully catered to by the Sedgewick United Church Women, with Rev. Alex Desjardis, relative of the newly from Kansas City, U.S.A. giving the blessing.

Mr. Dick Matthews of Sedgewick, friend of the Metz family, acted as master of ceremonies. Mr. Tom Sparrow, also a friend of the family gave the toast to the bride, which the groom capably responded.

Following the reception there was an open house with Laurie Metz, cousin of the bride, and Laura Bozard, friend, looking after the guest book.

After the open house, a dance followed with Ruby Egan's Orchestra supplying the music.

For going away the bride wore a white 3 piece dress complimented in red accessories, the groom being dressed in a black pattern shirt with grey slacks.

Out of town guests included friends and relatives from Abbotsford, B.C., Kansas City, U.S.A., Cornwall, Ont., Lake Lake, Sask., Edmonton, Calgary, Altamont, Wainwright, Viking, Nanaimo, Irma, Camrose and friends and relatives from surrounding areas.

Special numbers in song were rendered. Guest speaker was a former pastor, Rev. Wally Gripps, of Burnaby, British Columbia.

Displays of photos lined the lower auditorium for a coffee hour and luncheon. Many who had attended the Killam Baptist Church throughout the seventy-five years enjoyed a time of fellowship. Cutting of a beautifully decorated 75th Anniversary cake completed celebration of seventy-five years of service to the Glory of God.

Killam Baptist Church observes 75th anniversary

Seventy-fifth Anniversary celebrations, October 14-18, at the Killam Baptist Church depicted gospel ministry and church history throughout the seventy-five years of progressive growth.

From its inception as Presbyterian, the Killam Baptist Church, 1886, to Killam Baptist Church, 1961, a heritage of faith characterized through saints of God has marked our history.

Through heretofore and labour as well as times of rejoicing, men and women and youth stood firm in their belief and true to the Word of God, "Glory and honour be to His presence; strength and gladness are in His place."

Antiques tied in red ginghams, and chrysanthemum lined banquet tables Saturday evening at Killam

Eric Hall for a capacity crowd. Progressive design of structural growth though the years were portrayed in hand-drawn sketches of the church.

Floral bouquets and banners set the stage for the program which included musical numbers, sharing of early years, middle years and latter years.

Nostalgia time with slides brought many memories, concluding with the message by a former pastor, Dr. Lorne Carlson of Calgary.

Sunday morning services continued in praise, ministry in music, and a message by Pastor Robert Cochrane on "The Characteristics of a Local Church."

Sunday at 3:30 p.m., 75th Anniversary services included greetings from the Town of Killam, Mayor Dennis Strickland, greetings from Provincial Government, Gordon Strickland, greetings from Flanagan, Minister, Pastor N. Bering, greetings from Alberta Conference, Rev. Abe Fink, other greetings read by Pastor Robert Cochrane.

Special numbers in song were rendered. Guest speaker was a former pastor, Rev. Wally Gripps, of Burnaby, British Columbia.

Farming for the Future is a commitment of the Alberta Government, through the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, to support agricultural research of benefit to Alberta.

Financial assistance is available for studies having the potential to lead to increased agricultural productivity and improvement of net farm income, as well as the long-term viability of agriculture in Alberta.

Eligible research includes programs which have the potential to meet these goals and which would not likely be undertaken without support. Significance to northern agriculture is of major importance. Competence to carry out a proposed program, and commitment to complete the program, must be demonstrated.

Deadline for submission of applications for grants is December 1, 1981.

Meet some of the outstanding young people of this province.

We'd like to introduce the 1981 Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year... and the youthful spirit of young citizenship in Alberta.

It's a spirit to be proud of... and one to inspire confidence in a bright future for our country.

Through their unselfish giving of themselves and their time, these young people have made a vital contribution to their families, their fellow students, and to their communities. They are involved—in supportive care of a handicapped classmate, in school and church leadership, in devotion to others—and they enthusiastically accept the responsibilities of their involvement.

The Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year Awards are co-sponsored by TransAlta Utilities. On this 20th anniversary we take pride in saluting the courage and determination of these young Alberta citizens of tomorrow.

New adult books placed on shelves at Hardisty Public Library

A Workbox held recently at Hardisty Public Library has placed 25 new adult books and 25 donated adult books on the library shelves. Among the 50 new books you will find the following:

"The Key to Rebecca" by Kim Peat. In his latest novel, Peat delivers the suspense readers have come to expect from the author of "Typhoon" and "Eye of the Needle".

Daphne du Maurier readers will be pleased to see new editions of "My Cousin Rachel" and "Rebecca" on the shelves—stories of love and suspense.

"Terry Fox: His Story" by Leslie Stevenson has been placed in Section 921-Biographies and Autobiographies. Based on the daily journal Terry kept as he travelled across the country in a Marathon of Hope, this book is a powerful testament to a young man whose crusade of courage stands as an inspiration to every Canadian.

According to reviews, Mary Stewart has a worthy rival in author, Morgan Lloyd Wynne, author of "Lion of Ireland". Lloyd Wynne who has studied Irish history and literature presents an engrossing tale of the Irish hero, Brian Boru, whose wisdom as a ruler and valour as a warrior, combined with dedication to his task enabled him to unite Ireland. In her novel Lloyd Wynne has recreated Twelfth Century Ireland with all its violence, glory and tragedy.

"Follow the River" by James Alexander Thom is a novel based on the true story of Mary Ingles. Mary Ingles was 23, happily married and pregnant with her third child when Shawnee Indians invaded her Virginia settlement in 1788 and kidnapped her, leaving behind a bloody trail. For months they held her captive. This is the story of her escape from Indian captivity and her remarkable journey home, walking 1,460 miles through an untamed wilderness with the Ohio River as her guide. Her story lives on, testimony to the strength of a pioneer woman struggling to return to her own people.

Interested in the contemporary realm of Horror and Supernatural? Read "Night Shift" and "The Fire Starter" by the master of the psycho-thriller, Stephen King, author of "Shogun's Lot".

And for those who go on a journey through "Flowers in the Attic" and then read "Pete and the Wolf" V.O. Andrews has finished the horrifying saga of the DeLanguerays in a Marathon of Hope novel entitled "If There Be Thorns." The climax in this novel is all. Let one have a chance to escape from his other two books.

John Christopher's prophetic novel of the ultimate machine, "No Blade of Grass" is a frightening read. The end of mankind begins with a break in the ecological chain as a relentless force destroys the grass and grain supply of the entire world, leaving a small band of men, women and children fighting their way across a devastated landscape to an isolated mountain stronghold. There is a story of survival against all odds in a dying world.

For the western adventure reader we now have "Collier" and "Collier" books 6 and 7 in the Yagons West Series which continues the story begun in the earlier books: "Independence", "Nebraska", "Wyoming", "Oregon" and "Texas." Dana Fuller has written a series that traces the lives of pioneering men, women and children as they brave the hazards of an untamed land in their trek across America. Watch for Book 8 - "Nevada" coming soon.

Also for the western reader is "The Sackman" Book 4 in the Western series, written by Donald Clayton Porter. Filled with the glory and adventure of the colonization of America, the "White Indian Series" is the saga of Ramo, one of the new frontiers' boldest heroes. Born to white parents, raised by Indians, Ramo is destined to be a leader in both worlds, this series chronicles his adventures as he struggles to tame a savage land. Watch for "Homo," Book 5 coming soon.

Two novels dealing with prehistoric man have been added to our collection. They are "Dance of the Tiger" and "Dance of the Tiger." "Dance of the Tiger" by Bjorn Kurten. This novel is set in Scandinavia, as the Cro-Magnon peoples enter Neanderthal territory during a thaw in the great ice age. Kurten's account of this contact is much more than good storytelling. For this novel, written by one of the world's premier paleontologists is filled with scientific accuracy, science and the kind of feeling for natural history that requires a lifetime of devotion. Kurten has managed to integrate into his story facts and theories about Neanderthals, Cro-Magnon, human evolution during the great ice age and the meaning of the glazing of his book Kurten tells us that he feels there is much to be told about prehistoric man that cannot be formulated in scientific reports and theories like the greatest appeal of his novel—the treatment of both Neanderthal and Cro-Magnon as people of fully human intelligence and feeling.

In "The Clan of the Cave Bear" by Jean M. Auel we are taken back to the dawn of mankind and swept up in the world of Ayla, a natural disaster has left young Ayla alone tending for herself in an unfamiliar land. One day she is discovered by the Clan of the Cave Bear, men and women far different from her own people. This is the first volume in the saga of Ayla, a Neanderthal girl who is adopted into a tribe of Neanderthal people. Jean Auel's underlying theory is that modern man is genetically a mixture of Cro-Magnon and Neanderthal strains.

story tells of Ayla's rape by a Neanderthal man and the birth of her child, the first of this new genetic type. The story itself is moving and full of the authors' interpretation of archaeological evidence of this period's man.

Other volumes taking off in Ayla's life are planned by the author.

Born to white parents, raised by Indians, Ramo is destined to be a leader in both worlds, this series chronicles his adventures as he struggles to tame a savage land. Watch for "Homo," Book 5 coming soon.

Two novels dealing with prehistoric man have been added to our collection. They are "Dance of the Tiger" and "Dance of the Tiger." "Dance of the Tiger" by Bjorn Kurten. This novel is set in Scandinavia, as the Cro-Magnon peoples enter Neanderthal territory during a thaw in the great ice age. Kurten's account of this contact is much more than good storytelling. For this novel, written by one of the world's premier paleontologists is filled with scientific accuracy, science and the kind of feeling for natural history that requires a lifetime of devotion. Kurten has managed to integrate into his story facts and theories about Neanderthals, Cro-Magnon, human evolution during the great ice age and the meaning of the glazing of his book Kurten tells us that he feels there is much to be told about prehistoric man that cannot be formulated in scientific reports and theories like the greatest appeal of his novel—the treatment of both Neanderthal and Cro-Magnon as people of fully human intelligence and feeling.

In "The Clan of the Cave Bear" by Jean M. Auel we are taken back to the dawn of mankind and swept up in the world of Ayla, a natural disaster has left young Ayla alone tending for herself in an unfamiliar land. One day she is discovered by the Clan of the Cave Bear, men and women far different from her own people. This is the first volume in the saga of Ayla, a Neanderthal girl who is adopted into a tribe of Neanderthal people. Jean Auel's underlying theory is that modern man is genetically a mixture of Cro-Magnon and Neanderthal strains.

story tells of Ayla's rape by a Neanderthal man and the birth of her child, the first of this new genetic type. The story itself is moving and full of the authors' interpretation of archaeological evidence of this period's man.

Other volumes taking off in Ayla's life are planned by the author.

For the western adventure reader we now have "Collier" and "Collier" books 6 and 7 in the Yagons West Series which continues the story begun in the earlier books: "Independence", "Nebraska", "Wyoming", "Oregon" and "Texas." Dana Fuller has written a series that traces the lives of pioneering men, women and children as they brave the hazards of an untamed land in their trek across America. Watch for Book 8 - "Nevada" coming soon.

Also for the western reader is "The Sackman" Book 4 in the Western series, written by Donald Clayton Porter. Filled with the glory and adventure of the colonization of America, the "White Indian Series" is the saga of Ramo, one of the new frontiers' boldest heroes. Born to white parents, raised by Indians, Ramo is destined to be a leader in both worlds, this series chronicles his adventures as he struggles to tame a savage land. At Lougheed

Weather like Indian Summer

Molly Fernyough, Mrs. Margery Strickland of Grimsby visited with Molly Fernyough last weekend. These past few days have been like Indian Summer we used to get. The farmers are still busy working their land to get the fertilizer in before move fall. But it is very dry, we need a lot of moisture now. Sympathy is extended to the families of Mrs. Susan Thomas who passed away on Wednesday. Funeral was in Lougheed, Saturday Oct. 31.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Scott on the birth of a baby boy, born in Camrose this past week.

Joe and Betty Traylor of Bathurst and Alf and Jean Blumhagen of Grimsby have been busy this week moving their mother, Mrs. Margaret Denison over to the Verdant Valley Villa apartments. Margaret now lives in the unit that the late Bill Yates was in.

Sympathy is extended to the families of Mr. Ched Collier who passed away this past week.

Mrs. Adella Clark has moved into the house that was owned by the late Mr. Fred Culyer. Adella is Mrs. Herb Lomax's sister. She moved here from B.C. Welcome to Lougheed, I must say welcome to all the new families that have moved to Lougheed recently. Seems like there are getting to be a few dogs running at large in town again. They make such a mess of the garbage that is put out for the garbage truck to pick up too. There was a person had a bite off one recently. So what can be done about this before assembling serious cases up. Mrs. Iona Koch of Camrose was home for the week and with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White. Friday evening supper guests at the Whites were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Davis and Dorey of Kamloops.

Lougheed, Alberta is confused with 'Lougheed Village', B.C.

Readers in The Community Press coverage area are well aware that the Village of Lougheed in the County of Flagstaff on Highway 13, between Sedgewick and Hardisty.

Right? Right! However when a recent Alberta provincial government news release stated that the Village of Lougheed had won the right to operate an earth satellite television station, enquiries drew a blank.

A court decision had apparently ruled in favor of "the Village of Lougheed," against the wishes of the Canadian Radio and Television Commission, which argued that such transmission was illegal without a broadcast license.

It now comes to light that there is indeed a "Lougheed Village," but it is not in Alberta, and it is not even technically a village. "Lougheed Village" is a group of apartment buildings in Burnaby, British Columbia. Now you can rest easy, Mr. Stan Towers, Village Administrator, the affairs of the Village of Lougheed, Alberta, are in good hands. Meanwhile the struggle continues with the Alberta government contending that anyone who wants to purchase and operate an earth television dish may do so, even if they want to charge for relaying the signal.

The federal government says its legal for 40 occupants in an apartment building to put 40 individual dishes on the roof, but it is legal to have one dish to serve everybody.

MAIL ORDER MISREPRESENTATION What you can do about it.

Maybe you ordered that wonderful shade tree that grows in Brazil. Or in Florida. Or southern Ontario. Seven feet in one season, the ad said. Fruit-bearing in two.

But in Alberta it didn't do much but act as a stunted scratching post for the neighbour's cat.

It's one of those cases where you may be the victim of an UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICE.

Mail Order shopping offers a wide array of legitimate firms that talk straight and back up the claims for their products.

But look at the world through smart-colored glasses. If the representation sounds too good to be believed it probably is. There's an easy step you can take to inform yourself of the existing guidelines.

Ruth Drynan is Provost School Trustee

On October 18th, by-election to replace a trustee on the Provost School Division No. 33 board resulted in Ruth Drynan being the winner. Seventy-one persons out of an approximate 1,000 voters cast their ballots.

The count was Ruth Drynan 77 and Charles Nicholas

38 votes in the two-way poll, prompted by the June 1980 resignation of a sitting member.

At a school bus safety seminar for Provost School Division bus drivers, it was pointed out that impatience is not a virtue, it is a human flaw that frequently contributes to school bus accidents.

Another point stressed, was whether we be a passenger or a pedestrian, we will all benefit if we "wait a minute" for a potentially dangerous situation to clear.

Does anyone remember the 1950s birthday calendar that was out several years ago? Well it's back, but only this time it's sponsored by the Hardisty Stampers. They are going door to door collecting names, birthdays and anniversaries for the calendar. Barb Croshaw and Laura Grogan are in charge.

Lis and Angela McFadden were doing visiting to their parents, Tom and Frieda McGhie.

SEDGEWICK HOMECOMING '82

The Homecoming '82 committee needs a mailing list for all present and former residents of Sedgewick and District, as well as Central High students for Homecoming '82.

This list will be used to send out invitations for Homecoming '82 as well as the History Book promotion. Names should be sent immediately to Box 450, Sedgewick TOB 4C0 or left at Lorne's Pharmacy, Sedgewick Co-op, Bealro's and the Town Office.

Kinsmen Corner

October has been a busy month for our Club. First off, welcome Ray Barclay and Owen Kilham to the Club. The Kinsmen membership is now fifteen and climbing. Welcome to the Club Belva, your support is surely welcome. Don is a "new guy" in town, having moved here from Lacrosse. Hope you enjoy it in Sedgewick, Don.

It was decided at the last meeting that hopefully with the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce, and our K-40 Club, we will endeavor to clean up the lake once more. Perhaps then, if the vandalism can be curbed, the lake can be an asset to Sedgewick once more.

Our next meeting will be November 10th - we hope to see all members and K-40's there. Also, anyone interested in joining Kinsmen, please contact President Gary or any member.

Central High School's Reach For The Top team competed in a taped television series on Tofield, Sherbrooke and St. Mary's of the Peace River, however we weren't told how they made out. The secret will be revealed November 19 at 7 p.m. on Channel 13 as the eventual winners. Members of the Central team, Todd Armstrong, Lois Poles, Dean Keldorfer and Jay Amin are shown with Principal Manfred Jasevic.

Highway sign is deferred for Fish Lake Camp

Alberta Transportation has notified the Battle River Tourist Association that signing of the Highway 13 entrance to Fish Lake Campsite, near Hardisty will be deferred until certain conditions are met.

The provincial body reported that the matter will be considered after reconstruction of the access road to the campground is complete, and until an inspection of the campsite by Travel Alberta is carried out to ensure the minimum standards are met.

Hardisty receives rail station painting

The future and the present were combined in a painting received by the Town of Hardisty on Thursday night, Nov. 10, in recognition of the town's 75th anniversary.

Making the presentation at Hardisty Legion was Bruce Dufos of Edmonton, on behalf of Northwestern Utilities which has provided natural gas service to Hardisty since 1967.

In his remarks, Mr. Dufos of Northwestern's vice-president and general manager, recalled that the flame was lit on Sept. 12, 1967, and that the father of the present mayor, Cecil Rempel, served in the same capacity at that time.

Reasons for Hardisty drop-out from planning group not known

Indications are that there will be repercussions as to why the Town of Hardisty has withdrawn from the Battle River Planning Commission, a move it had initially wanted to take about two years ago.

The move was made official at the October 28th meeting of the BRPC when Hardisty Councillor Gordon Brub walked out, after attending the morning session.

BR Planners received information, a copy of a letter addressed to Mr. A.J. Sussie, Alberta Planning Board, from the Town of Hardisty requesting that the Board arrange for the withdrawal of the Town of Hardisty from the jurisdiction of the Battle River Planning Commission.

At Sussie, Alberta Planning Board secretary, has indicated a meeting is planned between the board and council to find out the reasons for the withdrawal.

The Town of Hardisty had previously applied to the Alberta Planning Board to be taken off the BR Planning Commission but the board asked the town to stay on for at least another six months.

After last year's municipal election the new council decided to stay on for a year and then evaluate the program.

At its October 28th meeting Hardisty council made what one councillor referred to as a "landmark decision," in reporting on the withdrawal.

In the report, Councillor

County librarians attend workshop

Alberta Culture, Library Services, sponsored a New Librarians' Workshop in Edmonton, October 31 through November 2. It was well attended by librarians and library trustees from throughout the province, including six representatives from the County of Hasty.

The local librarians of Hardisty, Lougheed, Killam and Dayland sent delegates to the workshop with the aim of improving library services to their patrons.

Reverses vehicle, injures brother

An early Sunday morning altercation in the parking lot of Killam Co-op resulted in a man being hospitalized after being run over by a vehicle operated by his brother.

Robert Wiebe was taken to University Hospital in Edmonton with severe fractures after Daniel Wiebe reversed the vehicle he was operating, passing over his brother.

During the fracas with others, Robert Wiebe, apparently unknown to his brother, positioned himself at the rear of the vehicle.

Bruce Dufos of Northwestern Utilities makes presentation to Hardisty Mayor Cecil Rempel.

Clinics in Sedgewick for skate coaches

The Sedgewick Skating Club has just finished a week of clinics to present two Coaching Clinics to this area.

The instructors are supplied by the Canadian Figure Skating Association and are well qualified in their field. It is to be noted that these courses are not Figure Skating Courses, but are intended to train those who have the desire to coach children in the pleasure and/or preparing them to play hockey well.

The clinics are planned for November 11 and will both take place at the same time as each clinic requires on-ice training and off-ice lectures. The power skating clinic does not require a written exam for certification.

The Amateur Coaches certificates are recognized across Canada as the standard has been set by the Canadian Coaches Council in order to keep the standard high the minimum age for the power clinic is age 14 and, the skating clinic is age 12 for an Assistant Coaches Certificate, following a written exam. Non-skating adults are encouraged to observe these clinics as valuable information regarding supervision can be gained.

In conjunction with these clinics there will be a workshop to discuss skating in general during the afternoon.

The Sedgewick Club has put many hours into the planning of these events and it is to be hoped that the courses will be filled. The course information can be found in the advertising section.

THE MANAGEMENT OF ENERGY IN CANADA. ONE OF A SERIES.

HERE'S HOW TO SAVE BIG DOLLARS WHEN YOU BUY BIG ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES

LOOK FOR THE ENERGEUIDE LABEL

When you buy a major electrical appliance, you're picking up two price tags. One is the cost of the appliance. The other is the cost of the electricity to operate it over its lifetime.

Until recently the energy price tag was missing. You paid now—but had little idea of what you would go on paying. Now there's a second tag, in the form of an Energuide label.

WHAT IS ENERGEUIDE?

Energuide is an appliance labelling program under which energy consumption "stickers" are attached to new refrigerators, freezers, dishwashers, clothes washers, and kitchen ranges offered for sale in Canada. The program was initiated by the Government of Canada and is operated in co-operation with consumer groups, appliance manufacturers and retailers, electrical utilities and provincial governments.

COMPARISON SHOPPING

The whole idea behind Energuide is to help you, the consumer, to compare the energy cost tags of appliances and determine which is the best buy. Comparison shopping and wise decisions can save you a great deal of energy and money over the long run.

HOW DOES ENERGEUIDE WORK?

The label on each new appliance shows the number of kilowatt hours of electricity (kWh) consumed by that appliance in one month of normal operation. This rating is determined by a test developed by the Canadian Standards Association for all appliances labelled. The number is representative of the energy that the appliance will consume under normal operation in your home. It's not exact; the test could never duplicate precisely all the conditions in your home. But it is correct as a comparative rating, to indicate the difference between models.

Type and Defrost System	Total kWh per month
Model A—Two-door, top mounted freezer, frost free	18.2 117
Model B—Two-door, top mounted freezer, frost free	17.1 190

Over a 15-year lifetime Model A, although slightly larger, would cost you $842.40 for energy (at a constant 4¢/kWh). Model B's energy cost would be $1,368.00. That's a difference of $525.60!

WHEN MORE IS LESS

The appliance with the lower Energuide ratings may cost a little more to buy—but you'll usually have more insulation, better motors, more sophisticated controls. But as the above example shows, the value of the energy they save over their life cycle will pay for the extra investment many times over.

So when you're shopping for major appliances look at both tags, do a little figuring and buy the model that will be cheapest over its life cycle—not just the cheapest on its purchase price.

AN ENERGEUIDE BONUS FOR ALL

Besides providing consumers with information for comparison shopping, the Energuide program is having another effect. Appliance manufacturers are improving the energy efficiency of their models. Already there have been some notable improvements and experts predict that within a few years major appliances will be consuming about 40% less electricity—while providing the same services. That's a powerful example of how consumer power and industrial innovation go hand in hand.

I am interested in receiving the Energuide Directory for the following appliances:

Refrigerator, Freezer, Range, Dishwasher, Clotheswasher, Dryer

Name: _____

Address: _____

City: _____

Province: _____

Country: _____

Comments: _____

To convert the Energuide rating in kWh to dollars, multiply by the cost of a kWh in your area. (The current national average is 4¢ per kWh). This will give you the operating cost for one month.

kWh per month x cents per kWh = cost per month.

WORK OUT THE LIFETIME COST

To really appreciate the importance of Energuide ratings, figure out the lifetime energy cost of the appliance. The average major appliance lasts 15 years, or 180 months.

Multiply the cost per month by 180 and the number you get will be impressive. And it will be an underestimate, because it assumes a constant electricity price over 15 years.

TWO REFRIGERATOR EXAMPLES

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada publishes each year the Energuide ratings for new appliances. From the 1981 Refrigerator listing come the following examples:

Funds from Simpson memorial to aid Gretna Goodwill anniversary

Thirteen ladies met at the home of Betty Cameron on Wednesday, Nov. 4, with Helen Sutherland in the chair. She welcomed all to the meeting, especially the guests, and read a lovely poem, which was our thought for the day.

Helen O'Reilly then read the minutes of the last meeting and the financial statement, also a special message we had at Helen Sutherland's home on October 15, and these were all approved.

It seems like we have been really busy since that last meeting. On October 17th we supplied and served lunch in the Sedgewick United Church hall after Mrs. Carmine Simpson's funeral.

October 21st, nine of the ladies visited the Killam Auxiliary Hospital and provided angel food cake for the afternoon tea. We then held in a sing-song of old favorite tunes, with Helen O'Reilly at the piano.

We sponsored a shower for Brenda Lee Storchak, at Seabell, on October 25th. This was very well attended and the bride-elect received many lovely and useful gifts.

On October 27th at 7 p.m., six of us attended the monthly church service in the Flagstaff Lodge, with Rev. Alex MacLellan of the United Church officiating. We helped with the hymn singing and served homemade cookies with the evening tea and coffee.

Thank you Jean MacLellan for helping us with the singing. Correspondence was read and it consisted of a "thank you" letter from the U.S.C. and more literature to be passed around and read by all. This explained how the money was spent; that we and others donate to them yearly.

Margene Simpson reported sending gift-wrapped cards to three people recently. The roll call for the day was - bringing a friend and an item for auction.

There were four lady visitors and three men, but the men folk stayed in the kitchen and played cards.

The Auction Sale, with Marlene Simpson as the auctioneer, proved very amusing and very profitable as well.

Helen O'Reilly reported that we had received a generous donation from the Simpson family, in appreciation of the lunch we served after the funeral. They have also directed many memorial funds to our use. This is to go to a fund to help us celebrate our sixtieth anniversary in 1983. We certainly appreciate this gesture and will put it all to good use, to Granny's memory.

Mrs. Simpson was one of the founding members and she gave the Club its present name. It started out as the Gretna Mothers Club.

Monday, Dec. 28 is the date set for our annual Christmas supper and social evening, at Seabell.

Plans for this event will be finalized at the next meeting which will be held at Marlene Simpson's with Helen Sutherland as co-hostess. Roll call will be held at Marlene Simpson's with Helen Sutherland as co-hostess. Roll call will be held at Marlene Simpson's with Helen Sutherland as co-hostess.

A Christmas rose pin, and Doreen Eidey had the lucky tea cup so got a box of goodies.

Lotteries helped the Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation rebuild the Boysdale Camp

The Boysdale Camp is a summer recreation camp in the Edmonton area for underprivileged Alberta children.

Last spring, the camp was partially destroyed by fire. Thanks to a donation from the Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation, repairs were made in time for the camp to resume full operations this summer.

The Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation is one of the many worthwhile Alberta organizations supported by proceeds from The Provincial, Western Express and Super Loto ticket sales.

Isn't it good to know that every time you give yourself a chance to win, you're giving others a hand too? Hey, Alberta, it's great to feel like a winner!

Legislature Report

Amending formula conceived in Alberta

The provincial government is unlikely to let us forget that the amending formula for the new constitution was first conceived in Alberta.

Under the agreement struck by nine provincial premiers and the federal government, any constitutional amendments must be approved by seven out of ten provinces, representing at least half Canada's population.

But any of the three provinces that dissent from a constitutional amendment will be able to opt out of it.

This formula was first devised in 1976 by officials working in Alberta's federal and intergovernmental affairs department under the direction of deputy minister Peter Meekison, a former University of Alberta political science professor, who specialized in constitutional law.

The formula has the advantage of preserving the equality of provinces while breaking the stranglehold of unanimity that has so often impeded constitutional change in the past.

The inclusion of the Alberta formula in the new provisions has approved the concept although it was then given the label "The Vancouver consensus," after the place where agreement was reached.

After the 1980 round of intensive constitutional negotiations, a majority of provinces had approved the concept although it was then given the label "The Vancouver consensus," after the place where agreement was reached.

It was thought at the time, the formula would be difficult to sell as "the Alberta formula" because of widespread skepticism.

Sedgewick Driving spree breaks windows

Damage has been estimated to be near $10,000 as the result of an early Sunday morning "power trip" by a half-ton pickup driver on Sedgewick's Main Street.

A power turn at the Post Office corner resulted in several windows at Sedgewick Coop being hit by flying stones, and a pit mark was later discovered in newly-installed windows at Beattie Bros. Store.

During a one-hour "spree" starting at 11:15 a.m., the culprit was observed by a citizen as he made several sweeps of Sedgewick's Main Street, entered with loose gravel missiles at the recent installation of underpasses.

Drivers of two other pickups apparently were observed to the act of mayhem, as only the operator of the yellow pickup was causing the damage.

A second power turn in front of Lyle Bakery, owned by Robert and Gloria Boyden, appeared to cause the most damage as frosted windows at the Arcade, butcher shop and beauty shop were hit, also some pit marks were made in the window at Lorne's Pharmacy.

The business establishments mentioned are on the west side of the street.

In some manner, a stone also found the mark at Jimmy's Kitchen located on the opposite side of the street.

Before the offender was satisfied, another power turn was performed in front of the Cenotaph and this time, windows at the nearby Bank of Montreal were damaged.

Lorne French of Lorne's Pharmacy said this incident was the worst since three years ago when six windows were broken in his store.

While some of the businessmen have deductible glass insurance, others have not, and will have to bear alone the expensive costs of replacement.

Some of these affected are more than a little upset by the incident, and point to many other instances on Sedgewick's Main Street - mostly on weekends when the thoroughfare becomes a roadway for so-called "joy riders."

As on all other occasions, the investigators have made sure that law enforcement officials aren't in the vicinity before embarking on their trip of mayhem.

Available details have been made known to the RCMP at Killam, who have the matter under investigation.

Unlucky 13th for Loughheed driver

Friday the 13th proved unlucky for Harold Hangey on Monday morning when he was sent to Hardisty Hospital for a head injury after a half-ton truck left Highway 13, six miles east of Hardisty, striking a road approach.

Mr. Hangey's vehicle was a white 1970 Ford.

Sgt. L. Franks of Killam Detachment of the RCMP has received complaints about Highway 13 being littered with trash intended for one of the Pleasant Court's Waste Management transfer stations, and cautions those hauling garbage to make their loads secure.

Byron Johnson of Camrose was sent to Hardisty Hospital on Monday morning when he was sent to Hardisty Hospital for a head injury after a half-ton truck left Highway 13, six miles east of Hardisty, striking a road approach.

The Killam Arms artificial ice campaign received a big boost when a $8,000 cheque was received from the proceeds of the Octoberfest Bonanza Brawl, co-sponsored by the Killam Elks and Killam Lions. At the presentation, from left, are Dwayne McMurtry, head of the Elks, and Lorne French, president of Killam and District Agricultural Society; Doug Forster, Executive Officer of the Elks at the time of the brawl; and Bill Hangey, general manager of the Elks.

Anglican Church News

The annual St. John's A.C.W. tea, bazaar and bake sale held last Saturday in Sedgewick, proved once again to be a gratifying success. Pat MacArthur was a marvelous banger and plant, and Raymond Tanton was a giant teddy bear, almost as big as his mother. It looks as though there will be lots of bangers in the next few weeks, and we can all do some of our Christmas shopping.

We are happy to see Myrtle Roggenbach, Ardis Sibbald and Vera Lien home after their stays in hospital. It was a big weekend for the Conrad family when granddaughter Rhonda Lee was baptized at St. John's Church. At the Conrad home for the event were the Bob Brown family, the Richard Conrad Jr. family, and Mr. and Mrs. William Bernard and daughter, Sharon of Edmonton.

Also baptized on Sunday were Kenneth John and James Gary, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Martin of Loughheed. The christening took place at St. John's Church. Next Sunday's schedule of services was inadvertently omitted from the church bulletin. However, Canon Conrad assures us that he does not intend that we should sit at home watching the Grey Cup game. The correct schedule is printed in this week's church section of The Community Press.

Baby Nicholas Felipe de Strome is a patient in an Edmonton hospital. We wish him a speedy return home. Don't forget the installation of the Rev. Richard Conrad as Canon, occupying the seat of St. Edmund's at All Saints' Cathedral, Edmonton, on Thursday, November 26th, at 8 p.m. Everyone is most welcome to attend this special occasion. Canon Conrad needs our love and support in his new undertaking. Back from a fabulous trip to Disneyland are Shelia and Thelma Tanton and the kids, and Mr. and Mrs. William Rowik. What a great pre-Christmas present!

Kathleen Anne Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carter, was baptized Sunday at St. John's Church. Loughheed. Back home after a week with the grandparents in this week's church section of The Community Press.

Our Mistake One letter makes a big difference

Readers of The Community Press thought they had come upon a "real isolation fighter" when they read last week's advertisement for "Imagin." Jeans for only 10¢ per cent off regular price.

This was still a bargain. What a difference one letter makes!

The Community Press apologizes to Saunders Variety Store for any inconvenience the error may have caused.

Nov. 11th is well attended at Killam

Involvement of the community resulted in one of the largest Remembrance Day observances at Killam as community youth groups joined with Killam Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

A large number attended the brief ceremony at the Cenotaph and there were an estimated 350 at the service following in St. Joseph's Church.

Chaplains were Reverend Fr. V. Parnell and Rev. Robert Cochrane, and Mrs. Kin was organist for the selection rendered by the choir.

The Anglican church ladies catered to the dinner. Many merchants and business establishments purchased Remembrance wreaths and local Brownies sold poppies on the day.

The coin boxes yielded $398.35 to bring the 1981 poppy total to $845.35, an increase of 21 per cent over last year.

The County of Flagstaff Rural Crime Watch Association was addressed Monday night in Sedgewick by the above three representatives of the RCMP. Constable Jim Brown of Red Deer spoke on livestock thefts, while Sgt. L.A. Frauke of Kilman touched on the use of computers to track down thieves. Corporal Rick Williams, also of Red Deer, spoke on the components of Rural Crime Watch including Property Identification, Home and Building Security, and Range Patrol.

Crime moving to rural areas

The criminal element is slowly moving out into the rural areas, about 50 members of the County of Flagstaff Rural Crime Watch Association heard at a meeting in Sedgewick. Community Hall on Monday night of this week.

One of three RCMP officers in attendance, Cpl. Rick Williams, crime prevention officer for Red Deer Division, said that since the formation of Rural Crime Watch about three years ago, there are now 2,500 members in East Central Alberta, belonging to groups in RCMP Detachments areas.

Later in the evening, Henry Hays of Hardisty who was retired as president, reported that the Flagstaff Association consists of more than 120 members. He stated poor weather for the small attendance.

Mr. Hays was returned to the presidency for another year as was Jim Matthews of Hardisty in a vice-president's capacity and Josephine McClements of Loughheed as secretary-treasurer.

As the constitution dictates that one-third of the executive must be replaced each year, an election was held with the incumbents replaced by acclamation for five directorships. They are Edmond Thibault of Sedgewick, Ben Wetthaus of Kilman, Eugene Waldorf at Dayland and Josephine McClements of Loughheed, Paul Froehner of Strome, and Peter Gunnar of Hardisty.

The Flagstaff organization was formed in February, 1980 and was a spin off of the Neighborhood Watch Program, reported by President Hays. Mr. Hays also stated that more crime is spreading to rural areas.

Cpl. Williams explained that Rural Crime Watch consists of three sections. Property Identification, Home and Building Security, and Range Patrol.

In Operation Identification, Cpl. Williams explained that in rural areas where there are no numbers, since there has arisen some problem about individual farms in this area.

He asked that items be properly marked "because if you lose something and can't properly identify it, we can't give it to you and it has to go on police auction. The officer asked that a separate list be kept of the items and that card numbers could be listed as well.

Members were informed that a meeting plan, invisible ink and engraver are available on loan from Kilman RCMP Detachment.

Cpl. Williams also explained Operation Provincial which would be the marking of machinery, using a set of dots or engraver. Placing crime marks on stickers of doors, windows or gate posts (Continued on Page 2)

Kilman Mayor: Tourist group doing 'job of excellence'

A wide range of business was dealt with at the November 19, 1981 meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association held in Kilman. Over fifty members journeyed from Foremost, Castor, Bawit, Corralton, Canow, Sedgewick, Kilman, Altona, Holden, Bahaw, Irma, Donald, Ryse, Provost, Loughheed, Tolson, Corralton, Fort Saskatchewan, Viking, Wetaskiwin, Leduc and Hardisty.

The good attendance, coupled with the wide geographical representation, indicates the increasing interest in the promotion of the tourism industry in East Central Alberta, according to BRTA Manager Sylvia Chace and Hardisty.

Members were pleased to learn that the Honourable Henry Kroeger, Minister of Transportation was taking a serious look at the proposal submitted by the BRTA for a new highway interchange.

Provincial President, Mr. Dennis Streib, Minister of Transportation was taking a serious look at the proposal submitted by the BRTA for a new highway interchange.

Legislature Report

Power rates to be equalized

Residents of rural and northern Alberta will be the big winners in the government's decision to equalize power rates throughout the province.

The levelling of power bills will be accomplished through the establishment of an Alberta Electric Energy Marketing Agency, which will buy electric power wholesale from existing utilities and resell it to distributors at a province-wide average price.

While rural and northern consumers will benefit, residents of the cities, and Calgary in particular, will be nailed with higher rates which for a five-year period will be partially cushioned by government subsidies.

After introducing Bill 63, the legislation setting up the equalization scheme, U.S. Minister Larry Shaben indicated average power bills will be about $77 per month once the act goes into effect next year.

The average power bill in Calgary is now $23.50 per month; in the small town of Acadia Valley in south-eastern Alberta it is $47 a month.

Bill 63 is under heavy criticism from several quarters. Calgary-Buffalo Independent M.L.A. Tom Shindler, has condemned the government for introducing such an important bill so late in the fall session.

Calgary city council is protesting that Calgary consumers should not be forced to subsidize consumers elsewhere.

And NDP Leader Grant Hickey, who has always argued that the government's refusal to deal with power distribution costs, means power in remote areas will still be higher than elsewhere in the province.

As of last week, Shaben had refused to table government studies that provide the background for his decision to proceed with the power marketing scheme.

He introduced the bill in what were believed to be the dying days of the fall session. Apart from an Opposition filibuster of Heritage Fund capital projects estimates, there was little business to stop the house from adjourning for the year.

Asked why he introduced such an important bill under these circumstances, Shaben said "I understood the Opposition is willing to sit for a session."

Public ownership was one of the options reportedly considered by Shaben when studying the equalization scheme during the past agency.

However, Netley contends that public ownership would because a provincially-owned utility would not have to pay dividends to private investors. He also claims that the government's refusal to deal with power distribution costs, means power in remote areas will still be higher than elsewhere in the province.

Just because your kids have started challenging you, doesn't mean they've stopped loving you or needing you.

Throughout our lives, we're influenced by others as we grow and create our own, unique identities. Parents, friends, teachers and co-workers, show business celebrities and sports figures all play their part in shaping our characters.

As a parent, your influence on the young people around you is ever-changing. The unquestioning gaze of the small child quickly becomes the hard-edged challenge to authority of the adolescent. Adapting to these changes in the way young people look upon you isn't easy.

And you may feel that your importance in the lives of your growing children is fading, when in fact, just the opposite is true. Adolescents are making important choices.

Choices that will be with them for the rest of their lives. To smoke or not to smoke. To drive carefully or to take risks. To drink or not to drink. To stay in school or to leave. As we try to develop our own unique personalities, we need the support of the people who love us.

Ironically, kids need their parents most at the same time as they are trying to break the childhood ties to them.

'No' to special wastes disposal plant

A Special Wastes Disposal Plant is supposed to be built "somewhere in Alberta", but if a group of concerned Flagstaff ratepayers has anything to say, it won't be built in this county.

In fact, a delegation of more than 40 citizens from all parts of Flagstaff crammed into the Council Chamber in Sedgewick last Thursday, and presented its views in a precise, well-organized manner.

Council was given until December 9 (next meeting day) to arrive at a decision, but if their answer isn't favorable, you can be sure that this citizens' group won't stop until any thoughts of locating the plant in Flagstaff have been laid to rest.

While the issue of plant location has reached major proportions in the County of Beaver, Flagstaff ratepayers, especially those in the north part of the county, have been keeping a close eye on happenings in the adjacent county.

And as usual, the rumour mill has been working overtime. A daily newspaper reported that Flagstaff already has been chosen as the site for the Special Wastes Disposal Plant. This information supposedly came from a senior government source, however cabinet ministers have been mute.

One public meeting was called at Killam in August to discuss the possibility of locating the plant in Flagstaff, however only six citizens attended in addition to council, and no more meetings were scheduled.

Spokesman Orville Fossen pointed out that if the plant was located here, Flagstaff could conceivably become "the dumping ground of all Western Canada, the Yukon and the N.W.T., and since there is no plant like the proposed hazardous waste plant in North America right now, this would obviously be a trial and error operation".

While the plant is supposed to bring a large tax revenue to the area in which it is located, and provide about 75 jobs, Mr. Fossen weighed this against the potential danger to people's health if an accident should occur, also stating that water could become polluted as it has elsewhere. He also said the number of permanent jobs would be far less than indicated.

The manner in which meetings have been held, sometimes secretly, also came under fire from Mr. Fossen.

And to top off their case, the ratepayers produced a map from a book produced jointly by the federal and Alberta governments, which showed that none of the land in Flagstaff or Beaver is suitable for storage of chemicals.

The majority of Flagstaff council already has minimal knowledge of the special wastes issue, but council were aware that the taxpayers would be present at the November 28th council meeting, and obtained a film and slides from the Task Force which is in charge of public meetings.

The entire issue is creating a distinctive odour no matter where it is discussed.

The way we see it, Flagstaff council can make only one decision. The ratepayers have spoken and their wishes should be carried out.

Support program

free dollars over these years to support a beef product promotion campaign planned by cattle industry organizations.

Any long-term development strategy must address stabilization, agricultural lending policies, a grain transportation subsidy, grain pricing, and supply, tax policies, foreign production and domestic land-use, market development, and market sales.

These are issues that have raised by industry representatives said Mr. Schmidt. It is imperative that the industry work on a long-term strategy and government is prepared to assist where ever possible added the Minister.

In concluding his remarks, Mr. Schmidt said that "...this government remains fully committed to the maintenance of the mixed farm and our agriculture industry.

Citizens in Alberta have become aware of the growing number of support programs established in other provinces and in the absence of any meaningful national stabilization program, it was essential to have a "one time" only program.

"I would urge the Federal Government to move expeditiously in developing a national support program and forget any consideration of supply management," stated the agriculture minister.

NO BETTER SYSTEM of public administration has ever been invented by the genius of mankind than that of Democracy, and no better system of obtaining the participation of a populace in the process of Democracy has ever been known than that of Free Enterprise.

AMONG THE many of the thousands of immigrants who have risked their very lives to escape to what such a system prevails. Both Democracy and Free Enterprise function at its best when allowed to freely pursue its goals unhindered by excessive administrative regulations and red tape.

And the more attempts of those whose only aim is to discredit and destroy such a system.

WE ARE REACHING the point now when Democracy is in danger and Free Enterprise on the brink of being destroyed by restrictions and regulations, along with the growing desire to get something for nothing and to live without effort. Democracy will prevail and Free Enterprise will survive simply because we are going to let things go so far that we are going to be shocked back to reality. It's going to take time, it's going to take effort and it's going to take determination. But we are going to do it because we want to survive in the system we call Democracy.

SOME PEOPLE ARE SHOCKED TO THINK THAT Free Enterprise means profit, and fail to comprehend that profit is the name of the game. Without it, free enterprise loses its incentive and workers lose their employment. Profit is legitimate, fair wages are legitimate, decent working conditions are legitimate, but excessive profits of the profits other way is illegitimate.

LISTEN TO THE tale of the Little Red Hen and her hen.

ONCE UPON A TIME there was a little Red Hen who scratched about and uncovered some grain of wheat. She called her hen neighbors and said "If we work together and plant this wheat we will have some fine bread to eat. Who will help me sow the seed?"

"Not I," said the Duck. "Not I," said the Goose. "Not I," said the Cow. "Not I," said the Pig. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen - and she did.

The wheat grew tall and ripened into golden grain. "Who will help me reap the wheat?" asked the Little Red Hen. "Not I," said the Duck. "Not I," said the Goose. "Not I," said the Cow. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen - and she did.

The wheat was threshed and the grain was cleaned. "Who will help me grind the grain?" asked the Little Red Hen. "Not I," said the Duck. "Not I," said the Goose. "Not I," said the Cow. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen - and she did.

The flour was made and the bread was baked. "Who will help me bake the bread?" asked the Little Red Hen. "Not I," said the Duck. "Not I," said the Goose. "Not I," said the Cow. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen - and she did.

The bread was eaten and the hen was happy. "Who will help me eat the bread?" asked the Little Red Hen. "Not I," said the Duck. "Not I," said the Goose. "Not I," said the Cow. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen - and she did.

The hen was happy and the duck, goose, and cow were sad. "Who will help me be happy?" asked the Little Red Hen. "Not I," said the Duck. "Not I," said the Goose. "Not I," said the Cow. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen - and she did.

They only met each other recently.

But Heather, Dianne, Ian, Dianne, Ellen, Sylvia, Jane, Georges, Serge, Walter, and Ed live together in an old farmhouse on the outskirts of Seaford with a cat called Gontrand. Larry lives there too. It's their leader. They are a part of a nation-wide program sponsored by the federal government for young Canadians called Katimavik (Ka-Ti-ma-vik) which means meeting place in Inuk.

And that in a nutshell is what they're doing — meeting. They have stepped off the high school to university treadmill for a year to meet, learn, grow and explore their alternatives.

The group arrived at the farmhouse rented from James Scott at R.R. 2 Seaford, September 8. Two weeks of orientation followed before group members began work on three main community projects that were waiting for them: restoration work at the Van Egmond House, working as teachers' aides at Seaford Public School and fixing banks along the stream and generally upgrade facilities at Lions Park.

Four weeks had been budgeted for the latter project. They did it in two. "They are a very good bunch, quite diligent, a good gang," says Dr. John Turnbull, chairman of the Lions Park and pool committee.

Hard workers Susan Dunlop, project manager at the Van Egmond House, echoes these sentiments, saying they are really pleasant hard workers, "they are a very good bunch, quite diligent, a good gang," says Dr. John Turnbull, chairman of the Lions Park and pool committee.

Paul Carroll, principal of SPS and a moving force behind Katimavik's coming to this part of the province for the first time, says he is "very pleased" with the group "which has provided some really positive things."

For instance, using Katimavik people for support under the direction of teachers has enabled those teachers to devote a higher percentage of their time to teaching. It has also enabled some students to receive more intensive, on-going support on a one-to-one basis daily. Mr. Carroll adds he has used special teachers at the school's advantage, for instance this week a francophone from the group has been working as a teachers' aide enabling youngsters who might never have met a French-speaking person to do so.

There are 37 Katimavik projects in Canada, seven in Ontario including the Seaford group which is a part of another two groups of 12 individuals doing similar work at Goderich. Cherie Sheard is a coordinator for all three west groups. Larry McQuade, 31, from P.E.I. is the Seaford group's leader. He's big on energy conservation and environmental awareness and recently worked with problem teenagers in a group home on the east coast.

for 1,500 Katimavik openings in Canada this year. Groups were matched by computer to ensure the proper French-English and male-female ratio. The volunteer-action program is for youths ages 17 to 31, but the majority of the present local group is 18 or 19 years old. Most members of the group are from big cities: Vancouver, Toronto, Calgary, and smaller centres in Quebec, Cape Breton, and Alberta.

This group of 11 will rotate with the 22 at Goderich to British Columbia in early January, and another group of 33 now working at Waterloo, Quebec will come into Haron County for three months. Co-ordinators and group leaders stay in the same place while all this rotating is going on.

Keeping track of work assignments in his diary, co-ordinating the volunteers and helping to structure the group living situation are the jobs of Mr. McQuade's biggest preoccupations. The present Seaford group is structured into various committees which include social-cultural, nutrition, environment, and Technology, second language and active leisure.

Two members of the group stay at the farmhouse each week cooking, cleaning and doing other domestic chores. Katimavik's code of conduct forbids the use of illegal drugs, drinking under age and hitch hiking. Most of them would rather work any way they can. They are very conscious of their image in the community.

Katimavik volunteers are in it for the money. They work for a dollar a day (plus $1,000 for completing a project and food and housing that is taken care of). All the furniture, etc. in their farmhouse was donated by the community.

To get more out of its working relationship with the Seaford group the local house is looking for billets in local homes November 2 to 10. While co-ordinating the volunteers as to where they will be placed, Mr. McQuade is also looking for billets in local homes November 2 to 10. TODAY AND TOMORROW

Of all the concerns today facing the agriculture industry, "What to do about the Crow Rate" has the potential to become the dominant issue. The Crow Rate is a long-drawn-out, costly and complex question in itself.

It is brewing for years. Certainly, some issues are of more immediate concern to us as interest rates, inflation and low commodity prices. But none has had the long-term effect of the Crow Rate on the grain freight rate issue and none promises to have the same impact on grain agriculture when it is finally resolved.

There are four sides to this issue — the railways, producers, farm organizations and the government, and components of each side have positions which sometimes differ quite radically from the others.

Despite being at the center of the problem, the railways seem almost relative newcomers to the Crow Rate public relations game.

For many years they had remained almost invisible. It was only, until fairly recently, when Canadian Pacific and Canadian National both unshied their heads and began to speak out on Statutory Freight Rates, the Crow Rate as we call it, that they became a factor.

Their arguments have been straightforward. The railways could handle the Statutory Freight Rates imposed by Parliament, until inflation and interest rates began to get out of hand.

Now, at a time when all business are looking for greater efficiency and the railways in particular need to undertake large capital projects to build capacity, the railways naturally want to cut their losses. The chief concern is grain transportation, which they suggest the user-pay concept would help overcome. To them, whether the money comes from producers or government, or both, is not really a critical issue.

The positions of producers and producer organizations have been quite different. Until recent times farmers and farm organizations have viewed the rate as something that saved them money but also viewed the few advantages grain had against the railways. From that view, the rate was something worth fighting tooth and nail to save.

Finally, there is government which usually supports an existing situation until there is sufficient reason to do something about it has been obtained.

Throughout, individuals have ranged from those who have argued that it had not much effect — until recently. Now, many producers wonder whether their position is costing them more than it is saving them.

For almost two decades we've seen a consistent deterioration in grain freight service as it has been done to side-walks, curbs, etc.

What Board members and efforts and their methods of allocating grain cars have also had a major impact in this issue.

However, we've also seen the deterioration in our grain car fleet, car turnaround times and maintenance of the branch line system that services our country's elevator network.

It is to be expected that Royal Commissions, each one pointing out that the railways should receive the difference in money on the grain freight rate issue and none promises to have the same impact on grain agriculture when it is finally resolved.

Producers also began to raise questions when the media began paying attention to findings that during the last decade U.S. grain exports doubled while Canada's nominal farm income fell by 50 per cent. As a result, U.S. producers were sometimes paying as much as 10 per cent more for their grain than we farmers, yet U.S. farmers generally were not getting better returns. It wasn't that strange — they were getting the volume, we weren't.

Now other things were happening, and temporary solutions were even found, such as the creation of the Grain Transportation Agency which was to be a separate agency, considerably different from the two crop years.

However, that hasn't solved the problem of the Crow Rate. We're now seeing some movement on the issue. During the last two or three years grain farmers have been taking the stance that it must be altered, and most have suggested some alternative. Gaining consensus on these issues has not been easy, and as concerns over the Crow Rate, more proposals are being issued making choices difficult for the government.

In general, most take the position that the federal government should make up rail losses, paying the railways on at least a break-even stance on the issue.

What happens at a federal level during the next few months will be crucial. The provincial government is prepared to do its part in helping to settle the Crow Rate, but the federal must be found. It is the best interest of our agriculture industry.

Although Sedgewick's new municipal water system project will become operational until next year, a more-than-sufficient water supply will be available.

The contractors have three wells drilled and are now working on a fourth, according to Lawrence Knead, town administrator.

Most of the municipal water mains have been installed, and some repairs will be done to side-walks, curbs, etc.

What Board members and efforts and their methods of allocating grain cars have also had a major impact in this issue.

However, we've also seen the deterioration in our grain

Consider Battle River canoe route

In August, 1981 it was brought to the attention of the Battle River Tourist Association that the Battle River is marked simply as an "Unclaimed Stream" on the Canada Alberta Map Association. The association had advised BRTA that to make certain that the Battle River is classified as the "Battle River" on the new edition of the Canada Alberta Map Association, it would be necessary to have individuals paddling the river with a detailed trip description.

Proper "River Report" forms, which should be used, are available at the BRTA office, Box 1515, Camrose, Alberta, or by phoning 672-4848.

Once the detailed trip reports are compiled, the information will have three uses — (1) to be used in the next Canada Alberta map, (2) the ACA will spread the word about the Battle River through their newsletter which goes to all clubs in the province and their members, which include at least one thousand paddlers, (3) a more aggressive marketing campaign to promote the Battle River may be for BRTA to develop a trip map or incorporate the information into the present Battle River Country promotional literature, geared to promoting East Central Alberta.

BRTA look forward to hearing from interested paddlers!

Dangerous goods

It provides for the development of requirements for the handling for transportation of dangerous goods by vehicle on Alberta highways.

The definition of "highway" and "vehicle" are broad enough to cover the whole field of road transportation.

An important provision of the Bill is that it would prevail over any other legislation in the province might deal with the transportation of dangerous goods.

Municipalities would be able to pass by-laws designating routes and time of movement, or prohibit carriage on designated highways in the municipality.

Such by-laws would be subject to approval by the Minister to ensure compatibility with the legislation.

In speaking to the Bill, Mr. Moore, said that it provided for the use of one code of regulations which would be in effect across Canada.

This was intended so that Alberta would not have standards and requirements different from those elsewhere in Canada.

He said that Alberta would move carefully to ensure that there would be no disruption of the Point of privilege is serious matter

The past week was a lively and interesting one in the House. Many of you will have heard about the lengthy and heated debates which followed a ruling by the Speaker of the Assembly on a point of privilege raised by one of the members.

A point of privilege is the most serious matter that an M.L.A. can raise because it involves a charge against another member. The Speaker did not deny the member the right to raise the point, but postponed it until the accused member could be present to respond to the matter.

The debates which followed occupied much of the time of the Assembly, and since they received a lot of coverage in the media, I will not comment on them here. I would say, though, that I fail the Speaker acted fairly in giving the accused member a chance to respond to the charge. I also noticed that the tone of the opposition's debate was more subdued when Mr. Bob Clark, the former Leader of the Opposition, was in his seat.

He seemed to have a standing influence on his colleagues, the result of his many years of experience in the House. I pointed this out in light of the fact that Mr. Clark has resigned his seat as of the end of November. His presence in the Alberta Legislature will be missed.

The point of privilege was raised because a member felt that the Premier's answers to earlier questions regarding inter-ban transfer of water, were inconsistent with information obtained from leaked, confidential memos. On Friday, November 20, the point was allowed to be raised, and the Premier explained that it is not the government's position to proceed with such a plan.

On the basis of all the evidence submitted, Speaker ruled that there was no breach of privilege. As a result, the issue has been resolved.

Over the next two weeks, Alberta Agriculture will broadcast a couple of television shows dealing with issues that rural residents should find quite interesting.

"The Alberta Connection", to be shown on CFTY television on December 6 at 8 p.m., looks at the agricultural exchange between Alberta, Japan and South Korea. Alberta does over $500 million in international trade which brings in foreign exchange, creates jobs and helps keep prices down at supermarkets.

"On the Water Front" looks at the vast water resources in Alberta. One of the problems faced by all Albertans is that 85 percent of the population lives in the southern half of the province, but most of the water is in the north.

Adelines, Barber Shoppers at Alliance

At the Alliance theatre on the evening of Saturday November 21, the people of the Alliance area and surrounding towns, were entertained by the Barber Shoppers and Sweet Adelines groups of Camrose.

The Barber Shoppers were a group of 14 men, aptly directed by Mike Gibson.

All water used in Alberta, 85 percent goes for irrigation. This is important when you consider that $300 million from the Heritage Savings Trust Fund will be spent over the next five years on the irrigation right to raise the point, but postponed it until the accused member could be present to respond to the matter.

The East-Alta group recently opened the time of the Assembly, and since they received a lot of coverage in the media, I will not comment on them here. Constitution is historic

The past week has been an important and historic one for Albertans and all Canadians. Nine provincial governments and Ottawa reached agreement on a new constitution, resolving a century-old problem in Canada. Alberta had five main objectives going into the constitutional talks, and they have all been achieved.

Firstly, we will have a constitution made in Canada, not in Great Britain. Secondly, the Alberta amending formula was accepted by ten other governments. Thirdly, the new charter of rights and freedoms guarantees the legislative supremacy of provincial governments in their areas of jurisdiction. Fourthly, the Supreme Court decision, which was a major factor in creating pressure on the Prime Minister to drop his plans for unilateral action, was respected. Finally, no more decisions affecting the rights of Canadians will be decided by a referendum, a tool considered to be very divisive by Alberta.

The amending formula proposed by Alberta ensures that all provinces will have equal constitutional and legal status, and that none will occupy a second-class position within Confederation.

What will the new constitution mean to Albertans? As Canadians, we decide the future of our own made-to-Canada constitution. All provincial governments have equal status under a strengthened federal system. All Canadians have five main rights protected by a charter that will apply in all provinces.

Importantly, all Canadians will be guaranteed a fair and equitable share of the national wealth. On a more local level, we can expect to see some indirect benefits flowing from the new agreement. With the energy and coalfields issues finally settled, the Alberta government will be able to direct its full attention to the issues concerning Albertans, especially the problems in the grain handling system.

The government certainly has not been ignoring the needs of Albertans and the constitution provides the framework under which the Alberta government can now move with confidence and the assurance of success.

No longer will we feel like the farmer trying to get his crop off, who has to stop and continually chase the cows from the field.

I have dealt with the constitution at some length this week because of its importance to Canadians, the impact it will have on Albertans, and because of the key role of the Alberta government in bringing about the agreement.

Next week I wish to deal with the new federal budget, and to discuss my recent trip to Halifax.

If you wish to call me when the House is in Session, please phone 427-1333. Collect, or please Lloyd Smith at my Vermilion constituency office. The number in Vermilion is 853-4302 and Lloyd is in the office from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday to Friday.

Lougheed Rebekahs are "True Canadians"

Thirteen members of Lougheed Rebekah Lodge met for their regular meeting on the evening of Wednesday, November 25. Lodge spent its regular term with N.G. Sis. Quaid in the chair.

Members reported having visited at the local hospital as well as the St. Citizens Lodge, University Hospital, and W.W. Crow.

Sis. Ida Mae Black reported that her sister, Bessie, was still having an uphill road. Sis. J. Cookson was able to be at lodge despite her recently injured ankle. Bravo!

Many birthday, get well and sympathy cards had been sent.

Plans were made for the Christmas party, which will be a part of the December 9 meeting.

There was a discussion of the wedding on December 13 at which the Rebekahs had a luncheon.

Sis. Jerry Johnson presented a report of the District Meeting, held in Lougheed on October 28.

It was the sister's pleasure to serenade Sis. Derrang upon having passed another milestone.

In spite of a horrendous noise from the front of the hall, lodge closed in harmony and the sisters partook of a delightful lunch.

If there are any more burning in Ottawa, it just may be a result of the lunch talk. It was evident that all were true Canadians who believed in exercising the right to freedom of speech.

project: Health Care ... creating new facilities

The Heritage Fund commitment to health care is providing Albertans with modern treatment facilities.

- Applied Cancer and Heart Disease Research. The support for applied cancer and heart disease research continues strongly. Funds provide for the renovation of facilities, purchase of equipment, treatment and rehabilitation.
- Alberta Children's Provincial General Hospital. This unique Calgary hospital treats both the physical and emotional needs of children - with care. And it provides schools, for hospitalized children and for those with learning disabilities.
- Walter C. Macfarlane Health Sciences Centre. When completed, the Centre will replace the University of Alberta Hospital and combine teaching, patient care and research in one facility.
- Southern Alberta Cancer Centre & Specialty Services Facility. A major addition to Calgary's Foothills Hospital, the facility includes a cancer treatment and referral centre where the most current diagnostic and therapeutic resources are available.

This support for health care is only one sign of your Heritage Fund's commitment to improving our quality of life.

The Heritage Fund is investing 30% of the revenue from your oil and gas resources in projects which benefit Albertans today and provide a legacy for the future.

Hardisty Legion honours Auxiliary past president

Remembrance Day in Hardisty saw a large crowd gathered at the Legion at 12:30 where Rev. Canon Conrad conducted the service and gave a most inspirational talk.

A slightly sour note was struck when during the Cenotaph service, a number of cars and trucks roared past the parade district and the solemnity of the group of people standing in silence before the Cenotaph.

Following the service, a pot luck dinner was enjoyed by Legion members, their families and guests. Conrade David VanLoon, acting Legion

Surface Rights Report tabled in Legislature

Describing his Committee's report as a "new dawn" in the area of surface rights, Chairman and Member of the Legislative Assembly, Ken Kowalski tabled proposals in the Legislature designed to remove existing mistrust between Alberta's agricultural and energy industries.

Chief among the 70 recommendations in the report are those calling for:

- a more aggressive and vigilant approach by the Land Conservation and Reclamation Council in ensuring the conservation of topsoil and the preservation of prime agricultural land;

- "the realignment of responsibilities of both the Surface Rights Board and the Energy Resources Conservation Board that would see the Surface Rights Board act only in the area of compensation and would see responsibility for the issuance of right-of-entry orders transferred to the Energy Resources Conservation Board;

- "the realignment of responsibilities of both the Surface Rights Board and the Energy Resources Conservation Board that would see the Surface Rights Board act only in the area of compensation and would see responsibility for the issuance of right-of-entry orders transferred to the Energy Resources Conservation Board;

- "annual compensation for all major transmission line surface structures erected by utility companies;
- "a review of all legislation dealing with coal surface mining projects;
- "local representation on the Surface Rights Board;
- "a code of ethics and written standards of conduct for Alberta land agents.

"The report is a complete package and I am asking all of the players involved - agriculture, the energy industry and government - to read, study and deal with the report as a package," Kowalski said.

"When implemented, these recommendations will see Alberta with a positive new dawn in the area of surface rights."

"We can and must remove the mistrust that currently exists between Alberta's two key industries - agriculture and energy," said Kowalski.

The 63-page document is the result of a Committee study over the past eighteen months.

Public hearings were held in 45 Alberta communities and the Committee received 341 submissions from individuals, groups and firms involved in both the agricultural and energy industries.

The committee also held meetings with industry and government officials in British Columbia, Saskatchewan, California, Wyoming, Montana, the United Kingdom, the Netherlands and the Federal Republic of West Germany.

2,500 copies of the report will be printed and all who provide a submission will receive a copy. The public can obtain a copy from the office of the Clerk of the Legislature.

Whether the County of Flagstaff remains in contention as the site of a hazardous waste disposal plant, may be decided at a meeting of county council (today) Wednesday.

A delegation of citizens from across Flagstaff was present at the November 26 council meeting and presented their views on the subject.

The concerned citizens groups, with Orville Farnham, Peter Gagnier and Ron Bergman as chief spokesmen, opposed the location of a "special waste disposal plant" in Flagstaff.

The citizens group contends that although preliminary testing has taken place in Flagstaff on crown land, no official invitation to do so has been extended, and it seeks assurances from the county that the issue be quashed, now and forever.

Never a dull moment in Battle River Senior Hockey

Followers of the rock-and-sock-and-sticky hockey dialed up by players in the Battle River Senior Hockey League weren't disappointed with the entertainment provided in Saturday's game at Sedgewick between the hometown Sabres and the robust Iron Aces.

Because of the lack of ice, many of the teams have been forced to play their opening games in other rinks, disrupting the schedule in effect, before it had begun.

Sedgewick traded Irons 4-3 after one period, managed a 5-5 draw after two but faded early in the third, dropping behind 8-5 before staging a comeback.

With players showing an apparent dislike for each other, referee Jim Van Dresar had no alternative but to call infractions just about each time there was a rush into opposition territory.

There were a total of 37 penalties during the first two periods, and after a brief "full" early in the final frame, the contestants went at each other again.

Several snarl mismatches were handed out to players of both sides and infractions later in the game resulted in automatic game misconducts.

A brief skirmish took place between the players as they were leaving the ice at the end of the second period.

One of the Iron players, Gary Phillips, was given a game misconduct for threatening Ironsman.

Indeed, a sorry mess for League President Gary Wolska and his executive to straighten out.

Whitehead, Kevin McConnell, Marty Servino, Ken Anderson, Blair Cookson, Tim Wilkins, Lester Geier, Greg Sorewer, Charles Goyette, Bill Rose, George Lepore.

Assisting referee Jim Van Dresar were Linemen Vern Coates and L. Franke, a trio who had a very busy evening.

Phillips, who was one of those around at the finish, scored two Iron goals in the first period, with others going to Owen and L. Parson.

Sedgewick goals came off the sticks of Captain Tom Walska, Sheldon Thidell and Greg Sparrow.

When hockey was being played in the second, Irons scored one goal.

The Sedgewick lineup consisted of Lyndon Jackson, Lyle Thidell, Glen Poyner, Gary Fossen, Graham Anderson, Norm Brundage, Sheldon Thidell, Phil

Action at last Saturday's Battle River Senior Hockey League game in Sedgewick was hot and heavy, and, in spite of an abundance of body contact (and high sticks), some exciting hockey was played. Sheldon Thidell of the Irons Aces appears lastly as he is surrounded by Sabres Aces defenders.

Editorially Christmas... mania shopping time

It's that time of year again. Christmas is fast approaching once more, to the delight of children and some grown-ups, but to many more, the Festive Season isn't a time of joy or thankfulness, only a time for "shelling out".

Commercialism has taken over, for many years now, citizens have transformed what is supposed to be a religious observance, into a gigantic spending spree.

It's quite evident that "Jingle Bells" has been replaced by the jingle of cash registers as family budgets go by the wayside.

Most of us are guilty of participating in this madness which can be hardly called a phenomenon—it has come to be more of a way of life.

What are the reasons? They are varied and many, but at the top of the list is the present-day life-style. Everyone wants to start at the top, whether it's a high school student demanding his own vehicle, the newly-weds who start out in a new home with a household of furniture, the athlete who wants the best of equipment, the office worker who wants the best in clothes—the list goes on and on.

The trouble is that no one wants to make sacrifices anymore, whether it's doing without material items, or giving of your time, so that others may achieve more enjoyment out of life.

We are sure that our church leaders are very well aware of the mania that persists at Christmas time, and even the Lord has to take a back-seat at a time He alone was responsible for creating.

With the myriad of gift items on the market nowadays, it's no wonder that most of us weaken. Merchandise is made to look so attractive that even the "clearest" of persons is soon parted from his money.

While money is being spent so recklessly, it should be fairly distributed.

Businessmen in our small communities are often left out in the cold as Christmas shoppers flock to the shopping malls in the larger cities and towns.

If you must spend all the money you have, then some more, please leave some of your business in your own home town where merchants support you 365 days a year through the payment of taxes.

What Others Say

... at home government

Government-funded groups, such as the County of Lacombe Parishes, the Council and the Lacombe and District Recreation Board are examples of beneficial government involvement. Both organizations are reflecting the wants of the area people. Their courses are popular. The money going into these projects stimulates a sense of local identity and personality. And local citizens are teaching their own skills — not skills developed by some government agency. These programs are beneficial to a wide range of the adult population, dependent on and responsible to the residents of the area. In many cases, this type of government spending is more accurately reflecting community wants than federal or provincial funding. It has to be happening here, led in Ottawa or Edmonton.

In a time when one of the central traditions of the federal government is the senior government that operates independently of its electors, such government spending is welcome.

AN INTERESTING and revealing statement was made recently by Mr. Len Hough, a man who is actively engaged in the health professions in the province. He said, "The Province of Alberta is a veritable 'hotbed of geriatrics'." To the uninitiated mind this simply means that there is going to be a doubling (or what) of treatment care and facilities for ailments peculiar to the aging; for that is precisely what geriatrics means. The statement is probably more interesting than revealing because advances made in the medical sciences have made it possible for more people than ever to live beyond the age of three score and ten. It is projected, using past and present statistics, that from 1977 to the year 2000 the number of people living beyond the 65 plus age will double in Alberta. It may well be assumed that the figure applies also to other areas where health care and geriatric have been adequate, and as fallaciously proved. By the late 80's or early 90's there will be a tremendous need for new facilities and trained personnel for this one field of health care alone. There is little doubt that the needed facilities can be erected at time passed and need dictated, but in view of the present state of trained people the problem is likely to be, will we be able to man the facilities with trained and capable people?

So much for revelation.
WHAT MR. HOUGH'S remarks appeared to indicate.

But ANOTHER interesting fact is attitude. No matter what may be years ago now, we, all of us, face the likelihood of reaching the period of life of "senior living". Contemplation of this period can be aversive if we are left alone with diminishing resources, and if our attitude allows it to take hold. On the other hand such a life can be the golden years, the rewarding years, the years of fulfillment for those who have established ties, anticipated increased leisure and kept youthful by graceful and active living.

SENIOR LIVING can be tremendously satisfying depending upon the interest in

was the interesting side-light they brought to mind. Geriatric medicine required by professionals and administered by competent personnel will have to become a part of the health care, but institutionalized patients are not the best patients as such, and the also of geriatric treatment must, where possible, prepare the patient for return to the community, with back-up treatment from appropriate agencies. We have much of this today in the form of home care, sheltered housing, and back-up treatment from appropriate agencies. Foster homes could be provided for those who do not have families or whose families are unwilling, with back-up treatment from appropriate agencies, thus relieving the institutionalization of many in already over-crowded facilities.

BUT ANOTHER interesting fact is attitude. No matter what may be years ago now, we, all of us, face the likelihood of reaching the period of life of "senior living". Contemplation of this period can be aversive if we are left alone with diminishing resources, and if our attitude allows it to take hold. On the other hand such a life can be the golden years, the rewarding years, the years of fulfillment for those who have established ties, anticipated increased leisure and kept youthful by graceful and active living.

SENIOR LIVING can be tremendously satisfying depending upon the interest in life about; the attitude toward adjustment to changing circumstances required by professionals. It is just as easy to react at it as it is, as to be unhappy and vexed at its every turn. It is quite as easy to be aggressive and grateful and appreciative, as to be an expert at griping, criticism and malingering. It is just as easy to be unwholesome, estimating, full of pessimism, as to be demanding, assertive and provocative.

ATTITUDES have a lot to do with quality of life. Besides that, the correct attitude may exclude you from being an institutionalized senior citizen. Attitudes can make senior living more of a joy, something to anticipate, a natural sequence that one can find upon teaching the brim of life's frontier. How can you evaluate "friendliness"? Common experiences? Knowledge that there are those who care? After all is said and done, life is a journey to its final resting place. How pleasant that journey is or how dramatic, attitudes have a bearing of inestimable importance.

In smaller centres however when parents and teachers come wanting books, they bumble along having no idea what to choose and the children are confused by the many books they see. This is the perfect place for the teacher to see a number can gather to share a good story. Here there is a sense of reality that could touch the lay, indifferent reader. As they skip and hop they hear their chanting. Children are alert to picture-making quality in poetry as well as rhyme. Here is a book interesting to all adults, who want to develop sensitivity and perception in children.

Learning aggression
 by Ashley Montagu
 This book is concerned with the question of some societies having so little aggression as compared with others. The writer has studied many societies in the world and found many unaggressive - the Punan of Borneo, the Papago Indians, the Semai of Malaya to mention a few.

Ashley Montagu has written of the politics of non-aggression in Zaire, of aggression and anti-social behaviour among the King of Africa. Among the Taba, his nature is very gentle. Their environment is almost free of irritation. People learn to be passive optimists. The gentleness of these farmers and fishermen is one of a series of traits adapting to a whole, dependable, steady and delicate ecology - all highly achievable in their eastern environment.

Killam Kindergarten News

There was a hundred percent attendance for kindergarten open house for fathers at Killam Kindergarten.

It was a real bang up time as each father helped his child construct a name sign. Bingo, puzzles, lego, and playdough were favorite past times for fathers.

A new climbing apparatus complete with slide has been purchased, and is getting constructed.

Parent-teacher interviews were profitable, time enabling to discuss each child's progress.

There will be no kindergarten, December 3 because of a workshop in Carleton Place.

We wish every welcome to Dayna Barnes as she will be transferring to a Carleton Kindergarten. We will miss you, Dayna.

Lotteries give the Alberta Games Council a Hand

The Alberta Summer Games are a competition and fun-fest for Albertans of all ages. In August, over 3,500 people from every corner of the province gathered in Lethbridge to participate in events from children's painting to senior citizens fiddling.

The Seniors' Fiddling is sponsored by the Alberta Games Council, one of the many worthwhile Alberta organizations supported by proceeds from The Provincial, Super Loto and the Western Express ticket sales.

Isn't it good to know that every time you give yourself a chance to win, you're giving others a hand, too?

New programs may be first step in aid to cattle industry

Premier Peter Lougheed has announced $140 million in spending that could represent the first step in implementing sweeping reforms in the cattle industry recommended by former deputy premier Hugh Horn.

Lougheed announced in the legislature a $120 million beef cattle and sheep support program that will help reimburse stockgrowers for losses suffered during the last year.

He also announced $3 million in spending for a beef market development program to bolster Canadian consumer demand for beef products.

Both moves are pre-figured in Horn's 225-page review of the meat industry in Alberta released about a month before Lougheed's announcement.

Government observers are asking whether the two new programs are only the first of the Horn recommendations the government will act on.

He also favors the establishment of a Crown corporation, Alberta Meat, to help develop new meat products and open new markets both within Canada and internationally.

Horn even goes so far as to urge provincial ownership of railway branch lines as part of a proposed solution to the Crown's freight rate debate.

The Crow rate subsidies feed-grain shipments to eastern Canada and the detriment of Western stockgrowers.

Giving the railways a state structure that would adequately compensate them for their costs is necessary, Horn argues.

But provincial takeover of branch lines would violate both the railways and the federal government's financial burden of maintaining them.

With these costs gone, Ottawas will find it easier to cover the "Crow gap" — the difference between the Crow rate and the actual cost of transporting grain.

Margaret Elsie Noble served in war as CWAC

Margaret Elsie Noble was born July 9, 1919 at Irma, Alberta. She spent her childhood on the home-stead south of Jarow, attending public school at Melrose high school at Sedgewick and Irma.

In 1941, Elsie joined the Canadian Women's Army Corp and was among the first women to go overseas. She took motor mechanics training and drove staff cars, jeeps, trucks and ambulances in England. In 1945, she returned to Canada where she continued to drive for the C.W.A.C. until her discharge in 1948.

After her discharge, she owned and operated a dress shop in Sedgewick for a few years. She sold the dress shop and worked for the Red Cross, driving a mobile blood donor unit for a number of years.

In 1953 Elsie married Leo Noble. They had two sons, Lester and Leo Jr. They continued living in Edmonton, until moving to Victoria B.C. in 1970.

Elsie was a member of the Canadian League Branch 215.

On September of this year Elsie returned to Sedgewick to reside in the Flaggist Lodge, which she passed away in the University Hospital on November 27, 1981. She was predeceased by her father and mother, 2 sister, Lilian Twenty and Bernice Drummond, and two brothers, Harold and Lester. She is survived by her loving family, husband, Leo, two sons Leo and Lester and his wife Helen, four sons three sister, Rob, Tom, Douglas, Nelson, Iren Fleming, Marian Campbell and Evelyn Campbell.

Elsie was a loving mother, sister and friend and will be sadly missed by family and friends.

Memorial service was held on Thursday, December 1, 1981, at 3 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church, Lougheed, Alberta, with Pastor's Quilty officiating. Interment was at Jarow Cemetery.

We extend our sincere thank you to our many friends for their expressions of sympathy on the loss of our mother and sister Elsie. Special thanks to Pastors George and Carol Quilty for their message of comfort, to the Legion and to Donna and Valerie for their consideration. Also thanks to Dr. Arntsen and staff at the Kilman General Hospital and the staff and residents of Flaggist Lodge for making a happy home for Elsie during her short stay with them. God Bless You All.

The Noble and Twenty families.

Author, ex-cultist address students

Last week we had two interesting visitors who spoke on very different topics to the students of Central High. On December 1, Monica Hughes, an accomplished Alberta author, spoke to some 1,000 students, 25 and 33 classes and to the Dancesman's 11 class.

Mrs. Hughes spoke about developing story ideas and about the work and determination required to be a successful writer.

On December 3, Treva Steele addressed the student body and members of the general public about her participation and destruction of the glamour attached to "The Students of Light."

Treva spoke about vulnerability of young people, and about mind control. The session was very informative and was well received.

Through the efforts of Flaggist F.C.S. a contact group of inmates from Drumheller Correctional Institute will visit the School to present information on crime prevention and public information about prison life.

The group's aim is to destroy the glamour attached to crime and to deter others from following the path which the speakers have followed.

The general public is invited to participate in this session on December 14 beginning at 2 p.m.

The Contact Group and Rana began their league basketball play on December 3 last night at 7:30 p.m. from Provoat. The girls were defeated in a well played game while the Rana won in their close and exciting match. Fan support is growing and greatly appreciated.

The next home game is on December 17 when Hughenden will be here.

Sensible suggestions for Christmas safety

As the festive season approaches, the Canada Safety Council offers some useful information to Canadians celebrating Christmas.

It is a time when families get together, and that often means travelling. Sometimes long distance travelling. Before starting out, the Council suggests that vehicles should be thoroughly checked, since new service stations open during the holiday period, and spare parts may be difficult to obtain in an emergency.

All electrical light sets used from previous years should be carefully inspected before use. Any with frayed wires, loose connections or plugs are best discarded and replaced.

Lights should not be left on when the tree is unattended and never when the house or apartment is left empty even for a short time. When lights in the family, they should be instructed not to leave new playthings on the floor for others to trip over.

This is also a good time of the year to check the operation of all smoke detection devices in the home.

A safe Christmas is a happier Christmas!

On-the-Job, Christmas lunches or parties are inevitable. The Safety Council suggests moderation be the key word. Eat before drinking, and if possible, arrange car pools with no-drinking drivers.

Otherwise use a bus or taxi to get home or back to the office.

Employers can do much to ensure that Company functions are enjoyable, without risking the lives of employees driving home, or other innocent people.

In the home, fire safety is most important at this time of year. Trees should be as fresh as possible, cut diagonally, and stood in water, then later disposed of as soon as possible.

HARDISTY CHORAL GROUP PRESENTS AN EVENING OF CHRISTMAS MUSIC

MLA details cattle, petrochemical support

Don Lysons, MLA for the Lac Seul constituency, was highlighted by a number of important announcements. The first one will be released by rural Alberta and will benefit all citizens of the province. On Monday, November 30, the Premier announced a $150 million dollar Beef Cattle and Sheep Support Program. This plan was designed to assist a sector of the livestock industry which is undergoing a critical situation over the past two years.

Because of the numerous natural advantages which we have in this province, Alberta produces over 65% of the beef for Canada and this government has no intention of leaving our farmers to lose their competitive position to other regions in the country. The program will provide stability to the livestock industry and will strengthen the economy of a national stabilization program.

Details of the Beef Cattle and Sheep Support Program are as follows:

Cow/Cal Operator: Producers will receive $40, for each bred cow and bred heifer based on 90% of yield in the year of September 1, 1981.

Feeding Feeders: A payment of $4.00 per hundred weight will apply to feeder cattle and calves that were purchased and owned for a minimum of 180 days, and then resold as feeder cattle between December 1, 1980 and November 30, 1981.

3 Fat Cattle Feeders: A payment of $4.00 per hundred weight will apply to all Grade A* B or C slaughter cattle sold between December 1, 1980 and November 30, 1981.

4 Sheep Producers: A payment of $10.00 per head will be made to eligible producers on all lambs sold for slaughter between December 1, 1980 and November 30, 1981.

Agriculture is the foundation of the Alberta economy, and the livestock industry, which makes up about 40% of our gross farm income, is an essential part of it. Declining cattle prices over the past two years have resulted in significant financial losses, and in recognizing the importance of the livestock industry, it is attempting to maintain the breeding herd and bring some stability to the cattle industry.

It should be remembered, however, that this "one-time" support program addresses a short-term problem but is not a solution to the larger problem. A long-term strategy is needed and this government is committed to help whenever possible in implementing it.

The Alberta Government will provide $3 million over the next three years to assist the cattle industry in beef cattle development and promotion. In the meantime, the support program just announced will provide stability to an essential part of Alberta's agriculture industry.

The other announcement this week will cause a strengthening of the other major sector of Alberta's economy—the petrochemical industry. On December 2, the government announced approval of construction of four petrochemical plants in the province of Alberta. Total capital costs of the plants will be well over $1 billion.

These projects will benefit the entire province by providing jobs for many years to come. It is hoped that local contractors will be called on these projects, so that smaller businesses can take advantage of the opportunities the government is attempting to maintain the development. Approval of these projects by the Alberta government presents another step towards a more balanced and diversified economy, a step that will serve the province and its people for many years to come.

The Fall Session of the Legislature will end before Christmas. In my final newsletter I will review the major pieces of legislation of this session, and I will continue to monitor the opposition's behavior in the House.

Many of you will be participating in the cattle and sheep support program. If you need any assistance or clarification in this regard, please do not hesitate to contact me.

While the House is sitting, please contact me at 427-1655 collect, or phone Lloyd Seath at my Verdon constituency office. The Verdon number is 853-4762 and my office is in the office from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Monday to Friday.

Without ever having had Rubella, so that one in every seven women is susceptible to the disease.

Over 400 cases of Rubella were reported in Alberta during 1980.

However, Rubella is preventable through immunization. All women in their childbearing years should be protected by vaccination if they are not already known to be immune.

Rubella immunity can be shown only by a blood test. Women who are pregnant or who plan to become pregnant within three months after vaccination, should not be vaccinated.

Rubella, commonly known as German Measles, received little attention until 1941 when it was implicated as a cause of malformations in infants whose mothers had contracted Rubella during pregnancy.

Up to 50 percent of infants born to mothers who have Rubella during the first three months of pregnancy show some abnormalities.

About 85 percent of the girls develop Rubella as children giving them lifelong immunity. However, 15 percent reach adulthood

Indicate Canola acreage lower

Walter Paszkowski of the Alberta Canola Growers' Association, says the producers' group is very concerned about indications that point to decreased canola planting during the next crop year.

In some areas, he said, there are indications of reduced canola and fertilizer sales which supports the probability that planted acreage will be reduced.

As well, drought conditions still persist in some major production areas putting additional pressure on canola planting which depends very heavily on early moisture.

Mr. Paszkowski said it would be unfortunate if planted acreage is greatly reduced at this time when the prospects for canola appear very bright. By utilizing established export established during recent years could be lost to western farmers if the necessary supplies of canola are not available next year.

The canola growers' president further observed that present low canola prices are also contributing to the possibility of decreased acreage next spring.

He said that too much of this year's canola crop is going into storage unprocessed and consequently, it is unlikely that the price will increase while exporters and processors have an ample supply of captive product.

Former D.A. inducted into 4-H Hall of Fame

The eleventh recipient to enter the 4-H Hall of Fame, was recognized at the 40th annual Provincial 4-H Leadership Conference held in Red Deer.

Jack Kerns, 72, has been an active supporter of the 4-H program and a long-time associate with Alberta Agriculture.

Kerns, a former District Agriculturalist in the Carleton Place, Ponoka and Strathcona regions, was honored for his achievement as a leader in the 4-H program in the past 53 years of 4-H history in Alberta.

The announcement of Kerns' entrance to the 4-H Hall of Fame took place at the 40th Leadership Conference annual banquet dinner, at the Capri Centre.

Even though Kerns retired in 1974 from his duties with the Alberta Livestock Industry, he remains an active participant within the 4-H program.

This summer, I judged 10 4-H Best and Dairy Competitions," says Kerns.

"I'm very interested in the 4-H program, and as long as I'm able, I will give the club a hand."

Kerns, born in Washington, D.C., was raised on a farm in Acme, 134 kilometers Southeast of Red Deer. At the ripe age of sixteen, he ventured out to study at Olds Agricultural College and then, majored in general agriculture at the University of Alberta.

"As a point of interest," says Kerns, "my grand-daughter is in the same second-year class that I previously was in fifty years ago."

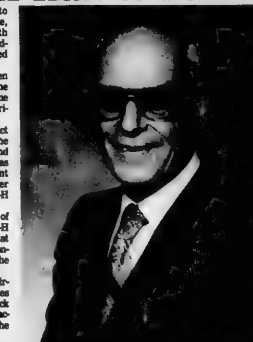

In addition, to his many duties as a District Agriculturalist, Kerns also served as an instructor at the Verdon School of Agriculture and then later, became involved with extension work for the Alberta Livestock Branch.

In 1964, Kerns became vital legislator in establishing Alberta's 4-H Livestock Club; when he was asked to join the 4-H committee because of his experience as a District Agriculturalist.

"I am very honored to be the eleventh recipient of the 4-H Hall of Fame," says Kerns. "I have known all the people who were previously selected to the Hall of Fame, and I appreciate the opportunity of joining their company."

The award was last given in 1977, when the 4-H Foundation honored Stan Gould for his past volunteer work as a leader and as a member of the 4-H Advisory Council. Unfortunately, Mr. Gould passed away but he will be long remembered as an important 4-H figure.

Marina Dobson, Alberta Agriculture

curtist and above all, his love for horses.

"I was instrumental in getting the horse club under way," says Kerns. "When I moved on, and became involved with the livestock branch, but to this day I still have direct contact with 4-H horse club."

In his Edmonton home, Kerns has a vast collection of horse books in which he has now made up a horse library.

"After I'm gone, I plan to donate my library to the horse club."

At present, Kerns says he attends many 4-H horse club meetings in an effort to lend a hand in proper horse-care procedures.

"No only have I an interest in the horse club, but I have been involved with many other clubs such as the Dairy, Swine and Beef Clubs."

Such as when he chaired the Buffalo Grand Club to the Toronto Royal Competition in 1984.

Uniform President:

Budget hurts farm transfers

Howard Falkenberg, president of Uniform, Alberta's general farm organization and today that the recent federal budget will have a severe effect on farm transfers within a family or sales to other purchasers.

Many farmers who plan to retire to pay full rates up-front on accumulated debt during their lifetimes will now find themselves with substantial loss retirement income.

Prior to the recent budget, farmers and other taxpayers were allowed to average their incomes over a number of years. Farmers could average income from capital gains, recaptured depreciation and inventory by purchasing tax-deductible income-averaging annuity contracts.

Those who did not sell for cash, as was often the case in sales to their children, were permitted to defer income tax on capital gains when the sale proceeds were to be received over a number of years. They were allowed to spread out their tax by claiming reserves and reporting income when payments were received.

The new budget removed these two special provisions and farmers will now find it extremely difficult to transfer land to their children or to sell out and retire.

The assets they have accumulated in a lifetime of work will now have to be shared with Ottawa rather than going into the retirement.

The proposed forward income averaging proposal in the new budget is a sorry joke, Mr. Falkenberg said, and he will be doing to reduce the tax burden on farmers who will be required to pay full rates up-front at approximately 80 percent without much hope of ever getting anything back while inflation continues unchecked.

Mothers-to-be warned of Rubella

"Although Rubella is a very mild disease in children and may occur even without rash, it effects on the unborn baby when a woman is infected early in pregnancy are very serious," Dr. John Walters says.

Dr. Walters, the director of Communicable Disease Control and Epidemiology of Alberta Social Services and Community Health, warns that "babies born with congenital Rubella may suffer deafness, blindness, serious heart defects, mental retardation, and a variety of other effects." Rubella may also cause miscarriage or stillbirth.

Rubella, commonly known as German Measles, received little attention until 1941 when it was implicated as a cause of malformations in infants whose mothers had contracted Rubella during pregnancy.

Imante Dennis addresses Central High students.

Central High Students told: Prison is dead-end street

For the first time in the 76-year history of the Alberta legislature, the government has invoked closure on debate.

The unprecedented move was taken to end an opposition filibuster of the 1981-82 estimates and appropriations for the Heritage Savings Trust Fund.

The passage of the appropriation bill, now guaranteed by closure, will give the Heritage Fund the 30 per cent of non-renewable resource revenues it is entitled to next year.

Passage of the estimates will provide funds to the Heritage Fund's capital projects division for construction of hospitals, development of parks and other items. The capital projects division is the only part of the Heritage Fund directly controlled by the legislature.

It was explained that the institution is "recession" security and no staff members inside carry weapons.

While students took some time "warming up" to the guest speaker, many questions were asked.

Originally from Hobbes, the affable Dennis, 34, said he had been out of prison, a couple of times previously and hoped that "this time is the final time."

John, 43, a native of England, said he was married and had worked in the construction industry, and was serving a "life bid."

But, he asked that when they return to society they need new friends in the community.

"With all their old friends, who needs enemies," the priest added.

He said that "normally we work eight hours and sleep eight hours but other eight hours is when you get into trouble."

Another purpose of the community visits is that they help the men themselves.

There are no "brownie points" for coming out on this program, and no special considerations - the idea is that they are here to help, Father Andrews said.

During a slide presentation, the padre outlined that Drumheller is a modern institution built in 1967 "but it's not a nice place to be."

"When you've lost your freedom, you've lost everything," he commented.

There are 460 men in the prison, whose average age is 33, with many teenagers.

The slide presentation showed that there are adequate accommodations and had worked in the community to learn several trades. Also Grades 1

Heritage filibuster stopped, legislature session ends

Lougheed's announcement of the investigation did not modify the Opposition, who criticized the terms of reference for not being sufficiently specific. The five opposition members were also not sure if the auditor-general's report would produce the detailed records they were seeking.

Rather than move closure, the opposition argued, the government should adjourn the house without passage of the Heritage Fund matters until Rogers completed his report.

The opposition denied that the government didn't need to allocate the Heritage Fund money until next April anyway.

But government spokesmen said prolonging the session would interfere with government business outside the house.

The government took two measures to motion the closure bill, however.

Once the motion was passed the opposition was given an additional eight days to continue the Heritage Fund issues.

And Premier Peter Lougheed agreed to ask Auditor-General Douglas Rogers to investigate a $40 million loss on certain Heritage Fund bond transactions over the last three years.

Demand for an accounting of the $40 million loss was the primary reason for the opposition filibuster.

The opposition had refused to accept the government's explanation that the losses occurred when the Heritage Fund sold off low-interest bonds at a discount in order to purchase securities bearing a higher interest rate.

The government's special motion to close debate occurred on a unanimous legislative sitting in which members sat from 1:30 in the afternoon to 9:30 the following morning.

Opposition members argued repeatedly that their freedom of speech was being restricted by the motion; but the government members contended they had been given ample time to speak with a full 13 days having been allotted to the Heritage Fund matters.

Heritage to be held July 2, 3, and 4th, 1982.

The council expressed interest and offered assistance and their wholehearted support for the community project. Two thousand dollars was granted the committee.

Sedgewick council assists homecoming

Winners in a province-wide Farm Safety Poster Contest from Sedgewick public school were presented with plaques on Monday for their winning entries. Winning entries from the 6,000 submitted, were placed in the "Colour Me Safe" booklet issued by the sponsoring Alberta Agriculture and Workers' Health, Safety & Compensation. From left, Principal Ken Affolder, Natasha Affolder, second prize winner in Grade 4; Barbara Hagg, first prize winner in Grade 4; MELA Yuen Lyons, and Solomon Kyremanting, manager of the Farm Safety Program.

Opponents to Hazardous Wastes Plant won't be sleeping

While county council didn't go as far as concerned Flagstaff citizens want it to go at last Wednesday's meeting, perhaps that is the proper route to take.

The citizens group (now to be known as the Flagstaff Electors Association) asked that council turn down outright, the possibility of locating a major hazardous wastes disposal plant in the county.

Instead, council took the stand that a series of public information meetings be held, and a motion was approved that in the meantime any further testing and feasibility studies for such a facility be suspended.

But concerned citizens who crowded into Sedgewick Community Hall last Wednesday realize that there is a danger involved in this approach also, and drawing on the experiences of similar gatherings in the County of Beaver, have asked the county to lay down specific guidelines.

In an effort to avoid further occurrences of so-called "secret meetings" with small gatherings, council has been asked to arrange for these workshops to be held in the evening so that working people can attend, and that they be held in early January 1982 so that the public can participate to the fullest before spring farm work intervenes.

The Flagstaff Electors Association is explicit in its wish that these workshops not be held "for select or small gatherings" and asked that meetings be held in accommodations for numbers of people.

And mindful of last summer when only a small number of electors attended an information meeting in Killam, the concerned citizens "do not wish our elected representatives to make the false assumption again, that poor attendance signifies "no interest" or "blanket approval of decisions".

More than 300 persons signed a petition on December 8th opposing the location of a hazardous wastes disposal plant in the County of Flagstaff. The message has been clear—regardless of any financial benefit, this group does not want the plant in Flagstaff.

And even with the "hull" for the holiday season, one can be sure that organizers of the opposition to a hazardous wastes plant won't be caught sleeping at the switch.

What Others Say

Gloomy predictions justified?

Headlines about the impending doom of civilization by nuclear holocaust, and the inflation of money doesn't seem as nearly as much as those that we read these days about the bleak future of Western Canadian agriculture.

We had to be aware of the depression that holds the beef and pork industries in its shambles grip and that world over-supply have brought down grain prices at a time when exorbitant interest rates and soaring inflation make this development catastrophic. However, depression on the farm is of a short-term nature and typical of the boom and bust cycle of the agriculture industry which has always seemed to be able to register considerable progress on the long-term.

Now however, we are compelled to wonder if long-term progress is any longer obtainable. We read that Maclean's is now on retreating as president of United Grain Growers, and that farming has become a hard-core business, not a way of life as it once was. There is a time when a farm family could tighten its belt a little more and feed the horses a little more straw and survive when farm prices turned down, but now because of inflation and high interest rates, it's not a high cash flow. When cash dries up, it's all over.

Then we have David Bonner, general manager of Massey-Ferguson Ltd., saying depletion of soil fertility, industrial pollution and widespread depression pose a threat to the Canadian farm community.

Mr. Bonner's remarks about depleting soil quality are the same as those of other farm leaders and scientists. He says cost-price squeeze pushed farmers into emphasizing production at the expense of soil erosion. Quite simply, to break even, farmers must take more out of the soil than they can replace. If true, this description of good farming practices will leave a poor legacy to future generations.

For one who believes the real and lasting strength of the nation is its arable land, such statements are depressing. We hope that damage to our soil is exaggerated. More on the subject needs to be said, and Mr. Bonner's are debatable, let's hear from the other side for a change.

The Third Column

BY TRUCATE
"I Write as I Please"

"THIS LAW OF JUSTICE cannot exist without a small measure of injustice." The above quotation is not a new one. It was probably coined by some distinguished leader of office on the benches of law, or perhaps even by some wiseacre who had experienced the processes of law and found it distasteful. However it does make the point that justice is not always carried out to the full extent of the law administering justice at 100% efficiency and with entire satisfaction to all those involved. Of course justice is not entirely carried out to the full extent of the law, and it is discovered that when one minimal justice according to the law another finds that he has received a measure of injustice in the same process. On the level below that of judiciousness there is often dissension with the judgement.

BUT GETTING IT out of the courts and on to the streets is where most people find that justice is not always forthcoming. FOR INSTANCE, I have yet to find a Minister of Finance, who in bringing down a budget, is not maligned by some section of the populace. Difficult as his chore is, there is no way he is going to escape the wrath of those who feel abused and hard done by at the expense of others or to the catering to others. The present Minister of Finance has come in for more than usual simply because the nation feels the present situation difficult enough without added burdens and obstacles being placed in the way of progress, and a meaningful pursuit of personal advancement. In times of social peace and economic prosperity a budget is not a problem for nearly everybody is willing to accept a minor delay in activity, and even a further increase in taxes and a more austere lifestyle a modest invasion. But in times of so-called economic disparity, coupled with high interest rates, inflation and rising costs of consumer goods, any further invasion of whatever income an individual has is deeply frowned upon and loudly resented. It is not surprising that the powers that be are besieged with unending protest. Such is the present situation and a continuance and meaningful protest deserves attention, because the powers continue at their paces, and just their rage in jeopardy. Such may not be absolute justice but it is justification.

SOMETIMES AS WE watch law and order and justice unfold before our eyes we cannot resist the urge to question the entire process. While most of us, in fact a vast majority adhere to the principle of supremacy of the law we cannot escape questioning the justification of some of its procedures; for it seems to us that the law is there to protect the peaceful and the law abiding and not to cater to the violent and the aggressive who believe the law is there for all others but not necessarily for him. This is why we sometimes

Strome parishioners fetes Father Perron

The parishioners of Our Lady of Fatima parish at Strome gathered for their annual Christmas supper and party in the Elys Hall last Sunday evening.

Everyone enjoyed a delicious potluck supper and later treats of oranges were handed out.

While the parents and grandparents visited and played cards, the youngsters gathered around the Christmas tree to sing Christmas carols and songs in anticipation of the arrival of Santa Claus, who came and brought them each a small gift.

At this gathering also, the parishioners honored their pastor, Father V. Perron on the occasion of his sixteenth anniversary to the priesthood.

He was presented with a plaque from the C.W.I. and a lovely anniversary cake, baked and decorated by Maureen Pfeiffer, in the form of a cake, from the parish.

Father expressed his thanks to all for the gifts and for the evening of fellowship and gaiety.

Alberta 4-H gets branding irons that match its snowmobile sweaters.

If you have a snowmobile suit, wear it this winter as a waste to keep it waiting in the closet waiting for the next trail ride. If you don't have one, remember that they provide protection from wind, cold and snow than anything else you can wear.

A snowmobile suit is a worthwhile investment that will last for years.

Hazardous Wastes Plant opponents fill Sedgewick Community Hall

More than 200 interested citizens opposed to the location of a hazardous waste plant in the county, convened at Sedgewick Community Hall on Wednesday, December 16, to discuss the views of a committee, and to sign a petition, which later that day was presented to council by a delegation.

Outlining the progress to date, meeting chairman Bob Rostochuk, a biology teacher at Central High School in Sedgewick, reported that he had been presented to council on November 30 and December 7 and "none has had the desired effect."

As a result of the petition presentation, council later agreed to a series of public information meetings, asking that both sides of the issue should be heard before any final decisions were made.

The citizens group had asked council to shelve permanently the matter of locating a hazardous waste plant in the county. Mr. Rostochuk said the citizens committee felt that council was going to approve the project, suggesting that it was "far past the preliminary stages."

Stating that any strong opposition with consultation would antagonize them, Mr. Rostochuk said he hoped a petition "will do the trick."

He referred to the situation in Beaver where he said council has endorsed the project, even though a 950-name petition had been presented.

Even though tax revenue from a hazardous waste plant was estimated at $300,000, Mr. Rostochuk said that in reality, no one wants such a facility in their neighbourhood because property values would be lowered.

Exclaiming that "we're next on the list," the biology teacher said the committee "doesn't trust the accountability and technical know how of our decision makers."

He continued that 90 to 95 percent of cancers are chemically-induced and a hazardous waste plant would have a "significant" impact on the health of the community.

"We are the bleeding heart, the alarmist, or the victim who will pay the consequences," Mr. Rostochuk said.

The next speaker, Roger Johnson, of Hardisty, a geologist, said the most important item would be the selection and management of the facility.

Mr. Johnson emphasized that a hazardous waste facility, when built, will be large, serving all Western Canada and the Yukon.

He explained the workings of a physical-chemical plant, an incinerator, a landfill site and noted that their operation is questionable, leading to environmental and social problems.

Should a physical-chemical plant be constructed near Severn, Mr. Johnson expressed concern about transportation, stating it would be involved in the time before an accident occurred.

Incinerator ash could result in the wrong amount in the air, and he said an incinerator would be an on-going waste that would be a psychological effect. "Every time I would look at it, I would get a headache," he said.

Due to the frequent invasion of air in this area, Mr. Johnson expressed concern that wastes from an incinerator could be close to the ground.

Mr. Johnson said it was a "complete waste" of the money that hazardous wastes should be treated where they are created.

Larry Stuart, a former biologist and now a Hardisty area farmer, who had worked in wildlife services, questioned the government's handling of emission standards and said from first-hand experience there can be a risk to health and human degradation.

Determination of maximum emission levels, he said, is an "arbitrary decision." Because so little is known about cancer, birth defects down the road after breathing a small amount.

Mr. Stuart said that during incineration, toxic products are created - "waste parts per billion" - which create new biologic responses which affect the food chain.

Also in slow years, he said environmental monitoring is the first thing out from biological research. It should not be located in Flanaganville as agriculture and people live.

Mr. Stuart said that he was having trouble getting anything from government "to black and white."

An overlay map had been shown to Flanaganville council on December 7th, showing "the county is most unsuitable for a hazardous waste plant, the audience was told.

He mentioned that the plant will not be put in the best place but in the county where there is the most resistance. It should not be located in Flanaganville as agriculture and people live.

House session exhaustive

The past week in the Legislature was exhausting. The House sat for 15 hours in a marathon session on a motion to conclude the longest full session on record. It was also the longest debate ever held at the House, and it tested the stamina of members on both sides.

Last week I mentioned that I would discuss the opposition's filibuster which caused the conclusion of the business of the House. The filibuster was staged in the Committee of Supply, which requested over $400 million from the Heritage Savings Trust Fund for special projects such as library construction, irrigation, reforestation, land reclamation and improvements in the agricultural industry.

Since these estimates are not part of the regular budget, they require a special act of approval from the Committee. The opposition have been exercising their right to ask an amendment to the details of these expenditures and have delayed the final vote of approval.

In comparison to the $400 million being requested, the regular federal budget is 1 1/2 times greater and 25 days of debate are allowed. In the Alberta Legislature the government is allowed 25 days to debate. Hundreds of questions have been asked dealing with the smallest details of each project.

In light of these developments, the government has imposed a time limit on their debate. Despite the protests from the Opposition, I do not see this as a radical step. Other legislatures have similar time limits in place, so that the business of the House can proceed in an orderly way.

The time limitation is somewhat different than clause, which has been used by other governments to push through unpopular or controversial pieces of legislation. The Alberta Legislature does not have a provision for clause. In this case, the votes were to be held anyway. Since a large amount of time had been spent on questioning and debate, the time limit was not unreasonable.

In reviewing the record of the past several weeks, I noticed that as the filibuster progressed, the Opposition lost sight of their line of questioning. This lack of direction led to a lot of repetition and many questions seemed, were being fired from the hip.

I feel that adequate time was given for questioning, and that all questions were answered thoroughly, often more than once.

I was pleased when the Opposition's chairman of the House of Commons made the point of free speech had been threatened. The fact that they were given so much time for debate and questioning resulted in a last week I mentioned that I would discuss the opposition's filibuster which caused the conclusion of the business of the House. The Alberta Legislature does not have a provision for clause. In this case, the votes were to be held anyway. Since a large amount of time had been spent on questioning and debate, the time limit was not unreasonable.

In reviewing the record of the past several weeks, I noticed that as the filibuster progressed, the Opposition lost sight of their line of questioning. This lack of direction led to a lot of repetition and many questions seemed, were being fired from the hip.

I feel that adequate time was given for questioning, and that all questions were answered thoroughly, often more than once.

Life is what you make it

As another calendar year draws to a close, it is customary to reflect back on past achievements or failures, contemplate the future, and perhaps make a New Year's Resolution or two.

The year 1981 will go down in the history books as a most trying one for Canada as a nation. While the Constitutional issue grabbed much of the ink, and rightfully so, there the Ottawa-Alberta confrontation on oil matters, Quebec's unwillingness to join the federal and nine other provincial jurisdictions in just about everything, the native rights question, the continuing debate over the Crow Rate, ... and so on down the line.

As for the Province of Alberta itself, the government's hard-line policy on oil pricing had a devastating effect on many communities, causing much family hardship, especially in areas of heavy crude production such as Lloydminster and Cold Lake.

Hopefully, current talks between federal and provincial officials will give producers of heavy crude the break they need to put Alberta and similar projects back "on stream".

Alberta cattlemen received a temporary stop in the arm from the Loughed government, while grain farmers seek a better system to transport record crops to market. Then they, like the cattlemen, have to worry about a freeze.

The Third Column

BY THURICATE
"I Write as I Please"

IT IS NICE to know people, to hear and read what they have to say, what they are and how they are. H.H. Anthony is such a person with whom I am associated and he has given us a Christmas Message of old substance yet with a flicker of modernism which is acceptable. He starts it out this way:

"While they were in Bethlehem the time came for her to have a baby, she gave birth to her first son, wrapped him in clothes and laid him in a manger — there was no room for them to stay in the inn. There were some shepherds in that part of the country who were tending the night in the fields taking care of their flock. An angel of the Lord appeared to them and the glory of the Lord shone over them. 'Do not be afraid! For I am here with good news for you, which will bring great joy to all people. For this very night in David's town your Saviour was born — Christ the Lord. This is what will prove it to you: You will find the baby wrapped in clothes and lying in a manger.' Suddenly a great army of heaven's angels appeared with the angel, singing praises to God in the highest heaven! And peace on earth to men with whom he is pleased to dwell."

ONE WRITER says: When man sits beneath the burden of an anxious year, Christmas comes down from ethereal realms to rescue him and bring him out of the land of fear and foreboding, of grief and graves unto a land flowing with the milk and honey of human goodness and hope and wistful joy. As Voltaire might say: If there were not such a season we would invent one.

THE WORLD 500 years ago was really not unlike our world today. It was not a reality it was almost next door; some of the people had plenty and some of the people were without. They lived in tension, in tension between despair and hope. To the shepherds in the hills Christmas did come down from ethereal realms — Angels sang — an angel announced an event — the shepherds were terrified — a baby was born and cradled in a manger.

THE CHRISTMAS MESSAGE is profound; it's mature; it's really, it's the voice of the angel and the voice of Herod. The angel sang and Herod said: "Desire every male child up to the age of two years." In the Christmas story we have two things going along together — the sweet and the gentle, the loveable, the sort of experience where you want to have your loved one around you, and at the same time we are aware that the world is torn asunder and so many people live in hell. Both of these aspects make up the Christmas story.

CHRISTMAS IS A TIME for loving, for sharing, for enjoyment. Christmas is a time to reveal in the joy of a new born child. It is difficult sometimes for the festival of gladness to deliver some hearts from sadness and conflict. Yet men and women work and plan in secrecy that a child may have his toy and the friend his token. Nor is the most efficient and prosperous forget the forlorn and forgotten, those whose life has broken or passed by. Evil loses its power when Christmas comes. The birth of a child restores the childlike heart to the oldest of us and we pray to keep something of the splendor of it. "I have come that they may have life and that they may have it abundantly." "He" stressed the importance of relationships. His parables and questions were directed to that end rather than the intricate aspects of theology or the real understanding of the scriptures (not those things that we want to suggest are so basic, and at times so very important) but our attitudes toward each other.

"WHAT MUST I DO THEN?" the young inquirer asked? The answer? Love God and your neighbor as yourself; go and do this. And He spelled it out with the parable of the Good Samaritan.

The Good Samaritan. "I was hungry and you fed me, thirsty and you gave me drink, a stranger and you took me in, sick and you helped me. When did I do this to you, as you as you did it to someone in need, you did it to me."

THAT IS THE message of Christmas. That is the Christmas Story. May yours be a joyous, peaceful and contented Christmas and may it continue through a New Year of building relationships. Our God and our Father, for friends, for people, for life, for thoughts and for your presence in our lives we give The thanks.

Merry Christmas everyone! And may there be peace in the Valley for you.

Winter dangers

—St. Paul Journal.

One of the first things a person notices upon coming to live in St. Paul is the fact that pedestrians have the right of way when crossing the street whether at the corners or in the middle of the block. To just walk right out in front of oncoming cars and trucks and do so by feeling quite confident that the motorist will stop in time. Well it is winter time now, and this practice continues in spite of the street conditions, the only difference is, now it is more difficult to stop a vehicle. Motorists do stop for pedestrians regardless of the weather, but some near misses have taken place in the last week.

Pedestrians must now realize that where a motorist could once stop on a dime and avoid running over a person, now with the ice and snow the situation is altered slightly. If you are going to cross the street, make sure the motorist has some distance in which to stop. The other day an elderly lady stepped in front of a car on a side street and was nearly knocked down for her tardiness.

The other aspect to consider is the fact that the roads are icy and slippery so motorists must drive with a great deal more care. Some people get a large charge out of spinning around the town, but fail to consider, that while a car is spinning and sliding along the street, it is also out of control. Slow down and we can all have a happy and safe winter here in St. Paul.

In this case, a little common sense could go a long way on the part of the pedestrians and could prove to keep a few of them out of hospital. Pedestrians should consider the feelings of the drivers. No driver wants to be the one to run down an elderly lady because the senior stepped out in front of the path of the vehicle.

The other aspect to consider is the fact that the roads are icy and slippery so motorists must drive with a great deal more care. Some people get a large charge out of spinning around the town, but fail to consider, that while a car is spinning and sliding along the street, it is also out of control. Re: Hazardous Waste Plant in Flagstaff County
The main consideration in the acceptance of a disposal plant in this area should be "Quality of Life."

Will the quality of our lives be improved or even maintained in the event such a plant is constructed here? Will the influx of people to operate the plant compensate for the exodus of long-time residents and their families?

Can concerned people be guaranteed the impossibility of vehicles dumping of the hazardous waste, due to accidents, or mechanical failure, or to the proper site?

In short, we in the Flagstaff County enjoy a quality of life that is envied by many urban dwellers. Pollution, due to gas plants, oil refineries and chemical plants, is threatening to our "quality of life."

proposed "hazardous waste" plant.

The Report and Recommendations for the Environmental Council of Alberta recommends that the term "hazardous waste" be retained. There are hazards associated with the generation, accumulation, and management of waste. Such hazards should be publicly recognized and kept in view.

The substitution of other terms such as "special waste" will create additional problems of definition.

Killam Seniors enjoy supper

The December meeting of the Senior Citizens was called to order by President E. George. Minutes of the previous meeting were reported and approved.

The financial statement was given by the treasurer A. Robinson. The card games committee turned in money received for the last few games. Blanche Cronin thanked ladies for donating her quilt and she also paid for the quilting done.

Visits to the sick were recorded and "Happy Birthday" sung for three members present.

It was reported the paper salvage van is filled but is being detained for shipment at the present time. We were advised to continue saving papers for a later date.

Most seniors took advantage of the invitation to take shopping at the Co-op store for bargain prices and delicious free lunch. The door prize of a large house-lum was won by Ivan Flanagan.

On January 14th the annual meeting will be held. All committee reports to be given. Nominations committee was appointed. Card parties will resume in January, as usual.

After adjournment, a delicious lunch of muffins and cheese was served by M. Gibb and H. Erickson. On Tuesday evening, December 14th our Christmas pot luck supper was enjoyed by a large crowd. The food was a great assortment, complete with ham, turkey and other treats. With dishes out of the way, a delightful program followed of recitations, singing songs and Christmas carols. Music was supplied by Merion Wilson, Levernson Hoffman, Al Granick, Annie Burdick and Irvin Edgerton, at the piano.

Today and Tomorrow

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone about them, and they were very afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And thus shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

Luke 11, 8-14. Many it helps ease some of the toughest times they have lived in the previous 12 months. For others it can be a very enlightening experience.

David's directed to some of the messages at those in agriculture. I guess it is because all Albertans are aware of the same feelings and emotions. Now that is at any other time of year.

Therefore, to all those involved in the food industry, produce and consumer alike, my very best wishes for a Merry Christmas, and a Safe, Healthy and Happy New Year.

Like many others, especially of my generation, I have seen great changes occur in the material side of Christmas. Some practices I do not care for.

Yet, overall I still find the Christmas season remarkable and enjoyable. Each one brings back pleasant images of Christmas I had as a kid. I still believe it is a time for children, and in the eyes of my grandchildren I still see the surprise and expectation I recall feeling a few decades ago. Without a doubt, Christmas is a fine time of year. For Christmas with native people

Christmas on my reserve starts with midnight mass for the Roman Catholics and with church services for Christmas morning for the other denominations.

We give gifts to show the love we have for an individual rather than simply to exchange gifts as is done in the white society. This means that when we give a gift to somebody we do not expect to get a gift back and we do not automatically give gifts to all our family and friends. The gift might be a pair of moccasins, a leather jacket, yard goods, etc.

We have our Christmas day feast at noon, and those who follow the old tradition make special soup, which you would probably call a stew. Here is the recipe. Cut the meat as for stew in one-inch cubes. The meat can be moose, elk, deer or beaver, whichever you have. Meat goes in a heavy pan, add the meat and sear it until it is brown. Add water to cover the meat and cook it until it is very tender. Then add carrots, turnips, potatoes and shredded cabbage. Now add two cups of dried mushrooms and cook the soup for another half to three-quarters of an hour. It is the berries that make the soup special. Finally, thicken it with a paste made of flour and cold water. We serve the soup, which is dark blue in color, with trout baked hamcock that has been buttered with lard.

Other foods eaten at the Christmas feast might include fried hamcock, pemican (dried meat and berries) and dried chokcherries that have been crushed (including the stones) and made into a paste. The chokcherries are served with the meat. Then we often serve cooked blueberries or Saskatoon berries and we also serve tea; never milk or coffee.

However, today many members of our society follow the traditions of the white society and serve goose, turkey or chicken with cranberry sauce and vegetables. In days past, our houses were not decorated for Christmas. But with the coming of electricity to the reserve, one now sees the same kind of decorations in our houses as you see in the towns and cities of the white society. We also have decorated Christmas trees.

Christmas is not the big celebration for us that it is for white people. In the native culture, New Year's Day is the important day, and it is the most beautiful day! While people celebrate Christmas with their own families, on New Year's Day, they invite friends to their houses for the feast. The same type of food is served as is on Christmas Day, but wine or some other type of liquor is included for this feast. Families make their own wine and liquor from blueberries, Saskatoons, chokcherries, strawberries, dandelions, etc.

Some families put on a dance on New Year's Day and invite their friends. The important dance at this time is the chicken dance. This is the story of our native people's Christmas as told to Edith Zavadzka, Alberta Agriculture's regional home economist at Two Hills, by Maggie Dinn of the Kabanis Indian Reserve, which is near Bonnyville.

Assists were credited to Bill Peters (3), and two each for Curtis Hogg, Doug Caruth and Bill Knodel, also one each for Dan Prichard, Jay Wahlund, Ben Caruth, Jim Spiller, John Carter, and Kevin Sorken.

A good team game guys as everyone collected a point.

There were only three penalties for Dayland and six for Killam.

On Saturday, December 19, the Killam Warriors played in Forestburg, coming away with a score in their favor of 11-4, despite the cold ice conditions.

Sylvia Wold
Due to the fact that my private paper (Peta) will not be running next week, the news is being submitted early. Hopefully, this simply means that you will have ample time to contact me with your news for the next edition, which will be after Christmas.

Our Alliance School concert was held on Friday the 18th and as always was a huge success. The children make it look so easy and natural one would never know that it has taken the teachers weeks of rehearsal to get it all together.

We were very proud to see one of our students being presented an award by M.L. M.L.A. Tom Lyons. The grade 4 student, Doug Dammann won third in Alberta for the farm safety poster contest. Good work, Doug.

On Saturday, the 19th, Ed and Nancy Batesman drove Stan and Donna Smith to the airport. From there the Smith's winged their way across the Pacific to bank in the smog of Hawaii for Christmas.

Stan and Donna will be joining their children who have been there for the past week. They were posed the week together, then the offering will return to winter and Alberta while the parents enjoy another week on their own.

Stan celebrated a birthday this week, sure hope that doesn't slow him down! Keith and Jamie (Donna and Nancy's sister) hoped to join them at the airport for the royal send-off.

Mrs. Lynne will be flying to Ottawa to spend Christmas with her son, David and family. Marjorie Fankhauser will join the family in Ottawa after Christmas.

On Monday, the 21st, the Lions held their annual Christmas party, where the wives were wine and dined with all the pomp and pageantry they could carry me to hold the shop of Tom Towers. What I want to know is who or what is being hosted in there?

Betty Nelson and Joyce Batesman are both crusing about in lovely new cars these days. This fact is causing a great deal of concern in the community. Both ladies are postal employees - just how much are those stamps going to increase?

Peter Speck is feeling quite touchy these days about 'power' in general. It's perhaps a mild case left unmentioned. When he requested underground power lines half of the power company arrived on his doorstep to do the task, only to find out they were unable to change the mode of power. He had been previously assured it would pose no problem. It rather reminds me of the four people required to change a light bulb, three to turn the ladder and one to hold the bulb.

Red, Shirley and Tracy McDermott joined Shirley's Christmas party, where the wives were wine and dined with all the pomp and pageantry they could carry me to hold the shop of Tom Towers. What I want to know is who or what is being hosted in there?

Bob and Colleen Rombough's home seems to be coming along beautifully. It's located a bit west of Bill Schulz's place. The Romboughs hope it will be completed by February. Hopefully in the guise of local reporter, I can get a great tour soon.

On Tuesday, the 15th, several ladies of the district gathered at Pat McPherson's home for the C.W. Christmas meeting. It was a lovely evening, with card singing, a gift exchange, a color-laden lunch and a great deal of visiting. Would someone please tell Della Peacock who went to the same gathering with her last year. Lou Batesman and Betty Peacock nearly lost their Christmas spirit over this burning question.

Our Alliance bowling ladies: Irene, Donna and Laura Towers as well as Sheila Miller and Betty Kecker, and spare, Irene Baird.

Don Dammann of Alliance School was one of the winners selected in the province-wide Farm Safety Poster Contest. M.L.A. Tom Lyons who presents Doug with a plaque said the win is a great tribute to his artistic talent, since there were over 4,500 entries in total. He won fourth prize in the Grade 5 section for his entry, "Watch For Powerlines".

Santa Claus is quite a busy chap during the Christmas season. It almost seems that he is everywhere at once. At the Hope residence in Hardisty, Raymond Hope hosted him, setting up several displays including, of course, Santa and his reindeer. A realisation of Santa is shown coming down the ladder.

Down described as perfect insulator

The value of down as an insulating material is well known. In addition to its light-weight and warm, down's many attractive qualities include its compressibility, resilience, and its ability to "breath". These features, and the fact that down is easy to care for, has made it an increasingly popular choice for winter wear and clothing.

However, because of limited supplies of down and the increased demand resulting from its popularity, the price of downfilled products has risen dramatically over the past few years. This, coupled with the wide variety of downfilled products now available to choose from, increases the consumer's need for an informed purchase.

So, whether you're considering the purchase of sleeping bags or quilts, winter sportswear or work wear, if it's downfilled, here are a few things that you should know.

The undercoating of waterfowl, down appears much like the puffball of a dandelion, having fluffy filaments rising from its three-dimensional structure.

Feathers provide insulation, too, but because they're flat and two-dimensional, they can't trap as much air as down, and so the degree of insulation that they provide is much less.

Most down that is used in consumer products comes from ducks or geese, and it must be carefully washed and sorted to separate it from the feathers. Still, even the purest down contains some feathers.

Under regulations to the Textile Labelling Act, Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada permits an article to be labelled "down" if it contains 75 percent or more down, with the remaining 25 percent a mixture which may include small feathers down and feather fibre.

The article cannot, however, be labelled "pure", "all," or "100 percent" down. Any article containing less than 75 percent down must bear a label showing the amount of feather or fibre which has been added.

The quality of down is measured by its ability to Phones will be busy

Albertans are expected to make a record number of 469,000 long distance calls on Christmas Day.

Traditionally, December 25, is one of the busiest telephone calling days and this year, AGT expects to handle 10 per cent more long distance calls than last year.

To handle the large volume of calls, AGT operators will be working across the province. In Calgary, 15 operators will be on duty. Last year, 5,700 long distance calls were handled by AGT in Calgary.

Nationally, the Trans-Canada Telephone System estimates Canadians will place more than 5.5 million long distance calls on Christmas Day.

The Christmas party at Sedgewick Senior Citizens Centre, December 18 had a double meaning for Bill and Beanie Russell. In observance of their 51st wedding anniversary, the couple received the best wishes of members and an anniversary cake. They turned south of Jarro before retiring to Sedgewick in 1972.

Sedgewick Seniors Christmas party

The Sedgewick Senior Citizens Christmas Party which took place at the Drop-In Centre on Wednesday, December 16th, commenced at noon with a beautiful turkey dinner.

Calls were then exchanged and a few jokes enjoyed. Some folk then played whist, others pool, others shuffleboard, while some sat and talked.

Mrs. Ida Black and Mr. Bill Russell (who was tied with Mr. Art Palla but won on a cut of the cards) won prizes for the highest scores.

Mrs. Helen O'Reilly and Mr. David Davidson received consolation awards.

Lunch was then enjoyed and congratulations tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Russell who were celebrating their 51st wedding anniversary. They had brought a big cake to celebrate the occasion, which was very much enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs.

Dale Erickson, Stephanie and Christopher, came to take part in the official dedication of a plaque in memory of Mrs. Tina Hanes.

A sing-song was enjoyed with Mrs. Gwen Freeman and then Mrs. Helen O'Reilly playing the piano. Guests left for home after a most enjoyable time.

The evening scene is turned into a fantasy this time of year, and the effect is man-made, not natural. We are talking about Christmas tree lights. Besides the colours, many imaginative designs are used to catch the eye of passer-by. From Highway 18 in the distance, the Stobers residence appeared like a magnificently-lit palace.

Anglican leaders send Christmas messages

The Primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, Archbishop E.W. Scott, has sent Christmas greetings to the people of Canada.

"Peace on Earth, Goodwill to Men."

At Christmas comes again we recall the angel's message of "Peace on Earth, Goodwill to Men."

May the peace and joy of Christmas be with you and all of us not only for a few days during the festive season, but for all the days that lie ahead.

Archdeacon Harry Hilchey, the General Secretary of the Church has also released a Christmas message.

A Christmas Message
"There is magic in the very name of Christmas."

As we approach Christmas, a tremendous claim to make about a person who lived in history. Paul said it was "holiness to the Greeks and a stumbling block to the Jews."

For Christians it is the very core of our faith, a faith that is concerned about peace, about shalom. We need to strive to be able to give a reason for the faith that is in us which speaks to people in our age which means we must continually seek to enable our faith to speak to the thought forms of every culture and every age.

As we approach Christmas and meditate again on its meaning for our lives and the life of the world, it is my prayer for you and for myself that this message may enable us to become, at a deeper level and with deeper insight than ever before, persons of good will. "God's will," that we may not only experience His peace within our own lives but in the power of the spirit become "peace-makers" in a world where peace is so desperately desired and needed.

May the peace and joy of Christmas be with you and all of us not only for a few days during the festive season, but for all the days that lie ahead.

The true meaning of Christmas is portrayed in The Nativity scene displayed at the Church of the Nazarene in Sedgewick. While many others pay little heed and have worldly preoccupations as their goal, Christians pay homage to the Christ Child on this day. A Christmas Eve service in Sedgewick will be held in St. John's Anglican Church, starting at 11:30 p.m.

School children serenade seniors at Loughheed

On Wednesday morning, Loughheed Senior Citizens had a lovely surprise—carol singers, at their doors.

Children from Grades 1 and 2 along with teachers and parents were transported in wagons pulled by lovely horses driven by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swanson and Mr. and Mrs. Darrell McClements.

All had an enjoyable time singing carols to the seniors and each received a lovely basket of goodies.

It reminded some of us of the old-fashioned Christmas when we once enjoyed years ago.

We all enjoyed every bit of it.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR FROM THE TOWN OF SEDGEWICK

Prompt action by the Sedgewick Fire Brigade last Friday morning probably saved the life of town resident, Will Clark. Mr. Clark, 78, resided alone. A passer-by alerted firemen and Mr. Clark, suffering from smoke inhalation was rushed to Killam Hospital. He has since been transferred to the Col. Mewburn Hospital in Edmonton where he is expected to remain for about three weeks. Damage to the residence was held to a minimum. Cause of the fire is still under investigation.

St. Nick calls unexpectedly at Anglican Rectory

Dorcas Martin

"Nase McClements, Sheila Toon, the photographers, the Sunday School teachers, and the Sunday School children are to be commended for a very fine Christmas program, held at St. John's Church last Friday evening.

A large crowd of adoring relatives and friends joined the children afterwards for lunch, and all enjoyed a visit from Santa Claus.

It seems that, while in Sedgewick to attend the Sunday School program, old St. Nick also found time to pay an unexpected call at the rectory, depositing a ceramic church under the rector's tree.

This gift was not only surprising, but was also totally undeserved, for the rector has never been heard to say a kind word about St. Nick, who, he claims, is frivolous and quite unnecessary at Christmas time.

Indeed, poor old St. Nicholas is the only saint that the rector has ever been known to criticize.

But our good rector, Richard had better learn to like St. Nick because it appears that dear Santa Claus is somehow related to our devoted parishioners, the Culberts.

Margaret Martin has seen Santa twice now, and she is convinced that Santa has the same glasses and the same voice as Ned.

What's more, Santa Claus was observed kissing Margaret Culbert in the church kitchen, and who but some close relative would dare to take such liberties with the esteemed president of the A.C.W.?

Ted Lister is back from a visit to Red Deer, and has been spotted playing, of all things, bingo! What would his son-in-law say?

The Ken Affolter family was in Edmonton to attend shopping.

Volker Meier has chosen the wrong time of year to injure his back, and we hope he'll be out of hospital in time to spend Christmas in Illinois Creek.

The traditional Christmas Eve midnight service at St. John's, Sedgewick will begin at 11:30 p.m. on December 24. The pastors, George and Carol Qualley will be assisting the Rev. Richard Conrad with the service and there will, of course, be special music. Do join us. It is a beautiful way to begin Christmas Day.

The Greg Martin family are spending Christmas with the Martin clan in Penhold. Greg is busy learning more about setting up satellite receiver dishes.

1982

These youngsters at Sedgewick Kindergarten are supposed to be napping but they appeared to have at least one eye open when the photographer arrived on the scene. From top to bottom, the youngsters are Clayton Baird, Kara Swainson, Jillian Wallace, Bruce Olson and Danielle Galtier. They are having their "rest time" on a climbing apparatus.

Citizens should be more active in reporting vandalism

Residents of the Town of Sedgewick "have to stand up and be counted" if they want to curtail vandalism, suggests Vic Albrecht, president of the town's Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Albrecht made the comment following a meeting on Tuesday night of this week between representatives of the RCMP, Chamber members and Mayor Ernie Kothel and Deputy Mayor Art Strobel, representing the town.

The meeting had been called as the result of a Chamber letter to the RCMP protesting the lack of proper patrolling in town. The action followed incidents on Sedgewick's main street in which store front windows were broken by stones propelled from vehicles.

As the result of RCMP investigations, charges have been laid.

"Local residents have to be more active in reporting incidents in town," said Mr. Albrecht.

The Chamber president said that as a result of the information session, it is now realized that the hiring of a "full-time" RCMP officer which the town can't afford is not the answer.

It was pointed out that a police officer's shift constitutes eight hours per day, five days a week, leaving many hours when the town would not be policed.

Inspector L.L. Pearson, officer in charge of RCMP detachment policing from Red Deer and Sgt. L.A. Franke of Killam RCMP Detachment pointed out that, with the extent of the detachment area from Dayland to Armak and a staff of only five officers, the best service possible is being rendered.

The officers reported that with no more manpower available, not much more can be done at present, but the possibility was brought out that more manpower might be in the picture for 1983.

The inspector called on residents of Sedgewick to "get involved" in reporting malicious acts.

Residents of Sedgewick were asked by the RCMP officers to phone either the Killam or Red Deer detachments if there are incidents that should be reported. Calls received would be relayed on to motorized officers for investigation.

Mr. Albrecht said it is important to notify police if there is "a ruckus in town," adding that too often this is done either the next day or not at all.

Mr. Albrecht emphasized that it is "the citizen who makes the noise that will get the service."

Only two babies so far

New Year's 1982 arrived exactly as time in Flagstaff County, however the start failed to arrive at any of the local hospitals with a "bundle of joy."

Only at Dayland Hospital have the nurseries been busy since the birth of another year.

A girl and a boy saw the light of day on January 2nd at Dayland Hospital - and then, later on in the day.

Baby Girl Vornbrock, weighing eight pounds, ten ounces, proclaimed her arrival at 7:45 in the evening, much to the delight of parents, Sharon and Kenneth Vornbrock of Dayland.

Baby Boy Prehn, weighing eight pounds, four ounces, officially entered the world at 11:50 p.m. on January 2nd, just one minute before midnight.

Peggy and Dennis Prehn of Galsburg are the proud mother and father.

At Killam Hospital, there was a birth on December 27th, but no more as of January 4th when The Community Press made its checks. There were no births at Christmas time or since, at Hardisty Hospital or Galsburg Hospital.

Killam Pool to re-open

Thoughts of milder climates are brought to mind with the announcement that the Killam swimming pool will be open again for business in early February.

An abrupt halt to the pool program came in late October when mechanical problems forced a complete shutdown.

During February, there will be public swimming every night as well as Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Swimming lessons for the various groups will commence the first week in March.

What's ahead in '82

SHERRY MAYNE

I don't think the country is doing too well. I sure hope there's peace and not war. Everything is going up and up, and sometimes I don't think we can keep up with it.

HEATHER ACKERSVILLER

I hope interest rates drop. I think that people should still have hope. We have a lot to be thankful for in Canada compared to Poland and Romania. We're lucky to be here.

RICHARD DESROCK

Basically, I see in the future a further downslide in the moral fabrication of society. There's a bigger gap between man and God, there's no doubt about that.

KEN APPOLONI

The question of the hazardous wastes plant can give us an increased sense of community. We can really probe this issue and have an increased knowledge of the nature of government.

Call is out for basketball coach

Sedgewick public school has a shortfall, and Principal Ken A. Holder would like the situation remedied as soon as possible.

It seems that the boys are anxious to play basketball, but at the present time there is no one on the staff who is capable of "filling in."

Such being the case, the call has gone out to anyone who could be at the school once or twice a week and give of their coaching skills.

Two tournaments await the boys, if they are prepared.

Mr. A. Holder suggests that, while the position is voluntary, the experience will be "rewarding."

Any prospective coach is asked to contact the principal, either at school or home.

The same problem does not exist with the public school girls' basketball players.

They have Mrs. L. Erickson as coach.

Sedgewick Visitors

Mrs. Gwen Myhre of Ucky Saskatchewan and Mr. Gerr Pope of Hayter Saskatchewan spent Christmas Day with the Cliff Pope family. They are Cliff's sister and brother.

Mr. Robin Patterson returned on Sunday from England where he spent the Christmas vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson of Red Deer were at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Simpson, for New Years.

At the Dick Erickson house over Christmas were Irene, Clover and Vaughn Schmitt and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Bergel and daughter Candace, all of Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hagen and children were in Edmonton after Christmas to attend the baptism of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schmitt's infant daughter.

Husband Jim says to blame any mistakes in the news on him as he gathered most of it for me.

Just because your kids have started challenging you, doesn't mean they've stopped loving you or needing you.

Throughout our lives, we're influenced by others as we grow and create our own, unique identities. Parents, friends, teachers and co-workers, show business celebrities and sports figures all play their part in shaping our characters.

As a parent, your influence on the young people around you is ever-changing. The unquestioning gaze of the small child quickly becomes the hard-edged challenge to authority of the adolescent. Adapting to these changes in the way young people look upon you isn't easy.

And you may feel that your importance in the lives of your growing children is fading, when in fact, just the opposite is true. Adolescents are making important choices.

Choices that will be with them for the rest of their lives. To smoke or not to smoke. To drive carefully or to take risks. To drink or not to drink. To stay in school or to leave. As we try to develop our own unique personalities, we need the support of the people who love us.

Ironically, kids need their parents most at the same time as they are trying to break the childhood ties to them.

Village of Lougheed opens new town office, library

Not too many Lougheed residents are familiar with the whereabouts of McLeod Street and Alberta Avenue, however village council has no trouble in locating its new chambers, on Thursday night, January 7th. For on that date, Mayor Jack Ramden and his council convened at the new town office and library for their first meeting of the 1981 year. Actually the frame and brick veneer building is located in the centre of Lougheed's Main Street at the northwest corner of 10th Avenue and 10th Street; mailing address 5,804 10th Street. A spacious, well-lighted area at the rear of the building will serve library purposes and an additional feature is that double doors open into the council room for film screening. Ray McInnes of Foreburg was contractor for the building, which Mr. Towers said was completed "right on schedule." Moving day from the former office was January 6th, one day prior to the first council meeting of the year. Construction of the new quarters, located on the site of a former bank building, began in mid-summer. In addition to Mayor Jack Ramden, other members of Lougheed council are Bobby Smith, deputy-mayor and Councilor Bruce Bovenkamp. Ben Harris is the village foreman.

Region planning study review is postponed

The Battle River Regional Planning Commission advised of Alberta Planning Board representatives present at its December 16th meeting. The commission should take place again in March, having allowed the members time for input from their respective councils. It was also suggested that the best time and place for discussion of the Regional Planning System Study would be at the Spring Seminar in Jasper, when the full political impact could be received.

Letters to the Editor

Hardisty
January 7

Dear Editor: On reading Mr. Radechuk's letter re Hazardous Wastes, I, too, was horrified at the statement made by our provincial member, Mr. Tom Lyons.

Surely, he is aware of even problems created by fumes from crop sprays, which if touched on garments will make them look pretty sick.

My brother and I smelled unpleasant odors from the Alberta Sulphate Plant at a distance of about ten miles from the plant, and that was just an odor, and not harmful.

Just imagine how far industries from a harmful hazardous plant would travel with the wind in the right direction.

Alberta at one time was a very productive agricultural province. Industry wants to spoil this beautiful country, and I don't see why we should have garbage from Ontario and all across Canada to Flagstaff county.

We should be thinking of our children, grandchildren and also great-grandchildren.

They should come before money.

Isabel Watson

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir: We are an Association of personnel who, at one time served with, or where attached to the Royal Winnipeg Rifles. We have a mailing list and keep in touch with all our members.

We keep them up-to-date on the Regiment.

We know there are people in other provinces who serve with the Rifles and have news of our Association. These are the people we would like to get in touch with.

This is to help us celebrate the 100th birthday of the Regiment in 1983.

Sincerely,
A.W. Kuppens

Are you 'a member' of the community?

Isn't it human nature? When disaster strikes far-away, most of us pay lip service and pass it off with the thought, "Isn't that terrible."

And goodness knows, there is plenty of weather-induced grief right now on this North American Continent, let alone the rest of the world.

Mud slides in California, devastating snow storms in the United States mid-West, and in the Maritimes, and a short time ago, mud slides in British Columbia.

These are examples of weather catastrophes for which, man, in the main, is not responsible. In our area, we are fortunate because we only have to cope with the frigid weather.

But there are more "subtle" forms of man-made destruction, which if allowed to escalate, can also have disastrous effects.

Several area towns have experienced acts of vandalism the last few months (and before), the most recent escapade being the breaking of windows on Sedgewick's main street by the method of stones thrown from the roadway by vehicles using more than the required amount of power.

Disturbed by this destruction, the Sedgewick Chamber of Commerce arranged a meeting with the RCMP to see what could be done.

While the employment of a "full time" police officer appeared to be the obvious solution, discussion revealed that it was not.

Those attending the meeting agreed that there would be many hours when the streets would remain unpolluted (based on a 40-hour work week).

Citizens of Sedgewick were called upon to report every incident, no matter how minor, to the police for follow-up. Otherwise, the meeting would be repeated.

We are all guilty of apathy to a point, but if residents permit acts of vandalism to continue unreported, then the situation will get progressively worse.

No one should be afraid to enter a main street because of the fear of being maimed by inconsiderate drivers, but there have been times when this situation has existed on Sedgewick streets, and no doubt, elsewhere.

It is your duty as citizens to assist in keeping the peace by immediately reporting such flagrant acts.

According to an dictionary we checked, "citizen" means "member." Do you want to remain a "member" of the community?

25 YEARS AGO
The fire engine was discovered in J.R. Slavik's meat shop in Dryden at 2:45 Wednesday morning by S. McLaughlin who rooms over the store.

The fire broke under the fire engine. The fire was caused from a live coal which had fallen out of the heater onto the floor.

Mr. A.M. Moir has kindly compiled the figures which represent the amount of rainfall in 1981. Ten inches of snow equals one inch of water. From January to December we had a total of 19.81 inches of rainfall, nearly twenty inches.

We had a variety of weather in this locality on Wednesday. During the forenoon, there was an old-fashioned blizzard, with rain falling on the eaves or buildings and on the sidewalk. Snow after noon there was a light fall of snow and before dark a cold northwest wind was blowing the snow into drifts making outdoor existence and outdoor work disagreeable. Sleighting is the order of traffic now.

A mixed hospital was to begin in Sedgewick next week. The hospital entry fee was 25 cents each.

42 YEARS AGO
Congratulations are extended to Rodney Phipps upon his receiving his wings and the commission of pilot officer at Saskatoon on Friday, January 3, P.O. Phipps, 23 years of age, only son of Mr. and Mrs. H.V. Phipps, was born and raised at Strone. He received his education at Strone and at the University of Alberta. The fire alarm in Kilham sounded on Sunday evening for the first time in many months. The fire engine was taken out but was not used as the fire was of a minor nature, in the United Church nursery.

The annual meeting of the Strone Red Cross was held recently with a good representation on hand. Receipts for the year totalled $147.75. Over half of this amount has been used to keep the ladies in supplies for the winter.

20 YEARS AGO
At a regular meeting of Sedgewick Village Council held last week, Mr. Magnus Hansen was appointed to the position of secretary-treasurer of the Village. He was succeeded by Mr. E. Leach, whose resignation was tendered at the year end. Mr. Hansen will take over his new position on February 1st, and the office will be situated in the building where he operates his business.

Hardisty Hospital was to be constructed in the Sedgewick-Constitution area. The building will be situated at Sedgewick. It will replace the existing home which originally was used as a High School dormitory.

10 YEARS AGO
Miss Pat Ross, ship, and her team were participated in the school girls' bonspiel in Edmonton. Sharon Ann Gibson, Julie Burgess and Maureen Carlson complete the rink. The girls won the first game in the evening.

Many homes in Loughheed were decorated during the Christmas season and a contest for the best decorated home was held. George's trailer won first prize. The first prize was given to the trailer which was decorated with the most lights. George's trailer was decorated with the most lights.

twelve at the Central High School in Sedgewick. The award was given to a student with an average of 85 or over and going to University. Miss Rawlins was continuing her education at the University Hospital in Edmonton.

The weatherman has been giving us a hard time recently with temperatures ranging from 40 above to 30 below, all in a ten day period.

"I Write as I Please"

RIDING ON A CLOUD BECOMES REALITY.

There's the possibility of sliding off. If you have what it takes to land your feet well and good. But if you haven't you are likely to suffer a few bruises. Not only are you physically hurt but you are hurt to your pride and your confidence. For some time now Canada has been riding on the cloud. People for the most part have had more available than they really know how to use properly. Of course some have been wise and comparatively frugal, preparing for a day when things might turn out so good. But for the most part we have gone on in the belief that nothing could come about to destroy our chosen way of life or dampen our ardour for the best life has to offer. When it happens and we fall off the cloud we are not prepared to accept lesser things. So we become dissatisfied.

We look at the world with obstinate eyes and dare it to challenge our ill-considered opinion that everybody and everything but ourselves and our own lifestyle is to blame for our situation. We are not used to such a situation and cannot cope with lesser things. Many cannot land on their feet and as a consequence are suffering the economic bruises that change produces. Believing that the world is our oyster and all the savvy there is in the world is in the comfort zone and forever, we fail to grasp the fact that economics dictate that changes come with the passing of time. We are down off the cloud and those who landed on their feet are not grovelling in the throes of despair and despairing that it is not worth the effort. Rather it is those who do not have the bent to face adversity, hardship and struggle that are the ones who are bent to despair. It is thought to be a hopeless situation.

POOLS, it is said, often rush in where angels fear to tread. The rather facetious statement might be made a bit more humorous by reversing and putting it as, angels go in where even a fool won't venture.

Now DON'T GET EXCITED all you red-necks, for I am not suggesting that Trudeau is an angel by any stretch of the imagination. But I am going to suggest that he recent statement on martial law in Poland, ill-considered and ultimately as it was, as well as unpopular, may have caused more trouble than it did.

We saw a clear case of feds running in where angels would have stayed clear. They may have been angel in intent but they were not in execution. The hope they would be allowed to succeed. Solidarity, basically, was only asking and fighting for those liberties and freedoms which we in Canada have and which we take for granted and guard jealously, but to allow them to have these freedoms and to allow the grain and would have been a disaster for the communist world. All it did was attract attention from the rest of the world, for we in the west tend to get a bit mis-ey-eyed at whatever the current situation may be, particularly where freedom and rights are being eroded. Our sympathy is justified but our arguments lack credence simply on the basis of the existing situation.

FROM WHERE WE SIT it is easy to decide in favour of the Polish people but let us not be naive enough to suggest that it was entirely an on-country struggle. Everything that took place and everything that was allowed to take place was orchestrated in Moscow and carried out by a puppet regime in Warsaw. Communism will not easily loosen its hold in Poland for so would require its eventual down.

but be not deluded that this was not a defensive position, and so it could be that the invasion of martial law was the result of the situation, with the least harm.

FROM WHERE WE SIT it is easy to decide in favour of the Polish people but let us not be naive enough to suggest that it was entirely an on-country struggle. Everything that took place and everything that was allowed to take place was orchestrated in Moscow and carried out by a puppet regime in Warsaw. Killam team loses but many smiles at hockey tournament

Teams from the Mattie River Senior Hockey League had little to cheer about at the 30th annual New Year's Tournament, held at the Killam Arena.

Not unless you can count a 10-2 whipping handed out by the host Killam Indians to their archrivals, the Sedgewick Sabres in the opening game.

But from there on, it was strictly downhill as New Sarepta Hawks of the Central Alberta League, a smooth-skating, well-disciplined aggregation, taught Hardisty Stampede a 10-4 hockey lesson.

The Hawks then proceeded to administer the same medicine to Killam Indians in the final, costing to an 8-3 triumph.

As part of the program, draws were held for $7,500 in prizes from the Killam Senior Hockey Lottery.

Three hundred tickets were sold at $50 each with half the intake returned to ticket purchasers.

Big winner was Shelly Erickson of Killam, who won $2,500, and Sam Simola of Killam who won $1,900.

Winners of $500 were Bertha Pederson, Joan Woroschuk of Grande Prairie and Killam Treasury Branch (GPA).

Twenty-five other lucky people won $100 apiece.

The Village of Loughheed has a new facility, combining an office for the secretary-municipal and council, and new quarters for the library. Consisting of 3,800 square feet, the brick-clad structure makes an attractive addition to the village's main street. The building was completed in time for the first meeting of 1982 there on Thursday, January 7th.

Loughheed News

New Town Office and Library opens

Molly Fournberg congratulated the town of Loughheed on their new Town Office and the Loughheed Municipal Library. It was a very busy week for the workers to get things moved into their new offices and library. It was a life-saver to get moved with all this cold weather coming in on us. It is all greatly appreciated with new accommodations now.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Beaton and family of Corvallis spent New Year's weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Graham Beaton.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White and Iona Roch of Camrose were Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve at the home of Mrs. Jean White and family of Sedgewick.

Well, Old Man Winter is giving us some very cold weather, with blowing snow the last few days. Mr. Gundersen has returned home after spending a few weeks in Edmonton with some of his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wright and Linda of Edmonton visited Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wake, and Mr. and Mrs. John Wright for while, one day last week. New Year's visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Wyle were Wayne and Pauline Wilson and family of Edmonton and Rev. and Mrs. Les Smith and family of Gwynne, David and Sharon Wyle and family of Sedgewick and Leland, Louise Wyle and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hildring and family of Wetsal, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mutchler and family of Camrose, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Congdon and family of Hinton were holiday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lohr.

Get well wishes to Mr. George Haddock who underwent surgery at the University Hospital in Edmonton, just before New Year's.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Cooke during Christmas and New Year's were their son, Roxie Cooke from Casper, Wyoming, U.S.A., their grandchildren, Leslie and Steven Cooke of Sedgewick, and Debbie Richardson of Edmonton. Debbie is the fig skating instructor in Sedgewick. She spends her weekends with her aunt and uncle.

Home for the holidays were Lorne Cooke of Wetsal, B.C. It was nice to see them as they live a fair ways from Hardisty and it is quite hard for them to visit more often.

Seen at the New Year's Dance were Bob Gwynne, and Bud Overman's sister, Mary (forgive us for not knowing her last name as my husband's memory isn't that good), whom I had the pleasure of meeting that night.

Seen during the holidays, season was Don Hutter. Get well wishes go out to Robert Henshaw, who is in hospital. Also to Wyatt Baker who is in hospital and to anyone else that is in hospital or not feeling the way you would like to. Sympathy is extended to the families of Mrs. Carlton, on her passing.

Area copes well with frigid winter weather

This section of East Central Alberta faced extremely well during the recent invasion of Arctic air, compared to other areas of the province, country and North American Continent.

From lows ranging to -37 Celsius, temperatures had moderated locally to -18 C or zero on the Fahrenheit scale by Tuesday of this week.

While there are no doubt many unreported cases of frostbite, residents bundled up according to the weather conditions, and turned out in encouraging numbers for such events as hockey games.

Killian Detachment of the RCMP reported that outside of a few minor accidents, there were very few problems encountered during the cold spell.

No schools in the jurisdiction of the Flagstaff County Board of Education were closed during the weather.

Some waterfalls either "frozen-up" or pumping systems refused to operate in the cold, in town and country.

At Gahelad, a waterline burst, reportedly the first such malfunction since the system became operational about 1960.

At Sedgewick, town employees had to contend with frozen sewer lines on Monday of this week, and no doubt other towns and villages experienced similar problems.

The Village of Alliance was without electrical power for about an hour on Saturday night.

Mr. Tiffen said that unless the school makes a decision, it is up to the individual bus driver to travel his or her route during bad weather.

Parish of St. Edmund's Anglican Church News

Donna Martin, Baby Christine Johanneau, daughter of Tim and Deb Johanneau of Hardisty was baptized Saturday evening at All Saints' Church in Loughheed with family and friends in attendance.

Maria Martin of Loughheed has had enough of this cold weather, and is planning to escape to Texas. But a glance at the weather map, reveals that Texas may not be much warmer.

We are relieved to hear that Cathy Schomberg of Edmonton is recovering well after complications from a bout of flu.

Good wishes to Raymond Tanton who is having a struggle with allergies.

The December meeting of Loughheed's All Saints' A.C.W. came to order at the home of Mattie Peters with president Marie Martin in the chair. Two visitors, Jean Hapworth, and Genevieve Haines, were welcomed. The devotional, which followed the Members' Prayers, was taken from the Living Message.

The minutes and treasurer's report were delivered by Rosemary Karpner, after which a stable accumulation of business waited to be attended, since several months had elapsed since the previous meeting.

Church plans have arrived, and the selling price was set. The Diocesan newsletter was read, and it is hoped that news items can be sent to Donna Martin for future issues. Several members contributed to the birthday

Protective equipment important in hockey

Brian Bowles, coach of the Killam Midgets is a believer, and he would like everyone else to be a believer - in players wearing hockey protective equipment.

Two recent incidents have strengthened his views on the importance of wearing this important piece of equipment, whether it be skates, practice, or a game situation.

Two Sedgewick brothers were the victims of recent incidents on the rink.

Ronnie Caruth was not wearing a mask in a scrimmage at Sedgewick, and he wound up with ten stitches in the face, and a possible scar.

Although he was wearing a mask, Doug Caruth received the butt end of a stick in his eye and was initially rushed to hospital in Edmonton.

Keith Richard Roggensack was born on April 20, 1920 at Loughheed, Alberta and passed away in the W.W. Cross Hospital in Edmonton, on December 11, 1981 at the age of 61, after a lengthy illness.

Keith took his schooling at Loughheed School and Loughheed School. He spent his entire life farming north of Loughheed.

Keith's love of horses and animals kept him very happy and contented. He was a good friend and neighbour to everyone he knew. He gave much of his time helping to build the riding ring and also helping with the admission to the Community Hall at Loughheed.

He was always willing to help his relatives and neighbours with anything he could and especially during calving time in the spring.

He leaves to mourn, his passing, one sister, Mrs. Beryl Redman of Ponoka; three brothers, Cliff of Loughheed, Martin and Glen of Sedgewick. Also there are three nieces and four nephews, and many friends and dear neighbours who will miss Keith very much.

Funeral arrangements were conducted by Fee and Sons of Killam. The service was held in the Community Hall at Loughheed on December 18th, with Rev. Alex MacLellan officiating. The hymns included "Unto the Hills," and "The Lord's My Shepherd". Honorary pallbearers were Melvin Larson, Ian Burden, John Black, Graham Benson, Bill Peterson and Howard Pope.

Pallbearers were Bill, Ron and Bob Roggensack (all nephews of Keith), Don MacLennan and Jim and Ted Butcher, all dear neighbours of Keith.

Keith was laid to rest in the Loughheed Cemetery.

Card of Thanks
The family join together to thank Dr. Catlin, the nurses and staff of Hardisty General Hospital for the excellent care given to Keith while he was a patient there. Also thanks to all the doctors, nurses and staff at the W.W. Cross Hospital, Edmonton, for the loving care and consideration to Keith during these last weeks. Many thanks to everyone, neighbours, friends and relatives, who sent flowers, gifts of food, and donations sent in memory of Keith. To Rev. MacLellan for his visits to the hospital and for his kind words at the service, to the Loughheed Rebekah Lodge for the lovely lunch they served to all those who attended the funeral. Thanks to all those dear people who visited Keith during his many months of suffering. Special thanks to Pat MacLennan and Mary Roggensack for helping Keith so many times this past summer. Special thanks to Kae Routledge for playing for the service. To all who called at our home during these sorrowful times. Your thoughtfulness will never be forgotten. The Roggensack families and sister, Mrs. Beryl Redman.

News from Sedgewick Public School

Extracurricular basketball will continue at Sedgewick Public. We are pleased to have Ron Caruth and Darryl Thompson as coaches and Mr. Fraser, our grade 6 teacher, as a staff supervisor. Our students have enthusiasm and determination. They will be out to do their best at our tournament, Saturday, January 16. The tournament begins at 10 a.m. in Sedgewick.

The girls team, coached by L. E. Eichenman, has had their first victory against Killam and they have been practicing hard to defend their lead at the tournament.

We encourage parents and the general public to come to the tournament. Your attendance as spectators lends support to the teams. You will find the games well worth watching. We have had some offers from parents for help with clean-up and with the concession. If you are able to come for an hour or two to help, please call us at the school 384-3823.

In my last newsletter, I wrote about improper dress which has become generally acceptable for our rigorous climate. The issue is as important one. I ask you to check your children's clothing as they leave for school and think of their safety. The "ice makers" who do the fashionable dress means a bare head and jogging shoes unfortunately set the scene for California, not Sedgewick. Such is the force of mass advertising, that is required is a balancing amount of thought for consequences and the ability to say "dress properly."

Waste Authority may expand

The Flagstaff Waste Management Authority could be expanding its jurisdiction to the east to service the communities of Anzac, Hughesden and Carmichael. Such a possibility will be examined at a February 15 meeting. Orville Lillness, chairman of the council at its January 14th meeting.

Councillor Jim Crawford, chairman, said that the acquisition of a compressor unit to be delivered, will put the operation on a more paying basis. It was stated Alliance and Loughheed will be the only two urban centres not serviced by the compressor.

Flagstaff has multitude of social problems

Doors of the Flagstaff Family and Community Services are always open for counselling, education and service to the community. The council representative on the PCS board also stated that many referrals are made elsewhere by the PCS staff. One doctor in the area has refused referrals directly to the hospital preferring not to go through the PCS staff.

Council approved its share of the PCS budget for this year at the amount of $12,500, an increase of $1,800 or about 16 per cent. The PCS total budget is up about 20 per cent. Councillor Glibb said that it is not the intention to expand the PCS program at present, but to "level it out."

Orville Lillness, secretary-treasurer, reported that in 1981, there had been nine suicides in the county. Councillor Glen Miller asked if the counselling staff are providing assistance before real problems develop, and Councillor Glibb replied in the affirmative.

Heavy winds on January 14 resulted in blizzard conditions in the area, and school buses made the trek home from schools at the noon hour. This scene was taken at Sedgewick school as a bus prepares to leave, assisted by a truck driven by a County of Flagstaff employee. The school is almost invisible in the background. Drifting snow has cancelled many bus routes since. The cold weather continues with temperatures of -40 and below recorded on January 18.

Visit the elderly . . . it's great therapy

On the whole, most of us are a selfish lot, living in our own little dream world.

But once in a while, some one comes along with a statement that demands more than just passive attention.

It was at the Christmas program for residents of Flagstaff Lodge, in which board members and residents themselves combined to provide a most entertaining evening.

Administrator Nelson Bergum thanked board members for participating, and in an appeal to the community in general, he asked citizens to take that "first step" and visit the Lodge.

We know that during the holiday season, numerous groups enter- tained the residents, and we are sure they were most appreciative. While some of the residents have relatives who frequently take them for drives, or out for special occasions, others do not.

Why not drop in for a chat some afternoon — it will do wonders for the residents, and for you as well.

Many may take you on a trip to the past, and their recitations may sound like fairy tales, but they actually lived those times, and have a twinkle in their eyes as they recall them.

Your visit is a great morale-builder to the residents, and you will find it is great therapy for you.

Letters to the Editor

Mayor Ralph Klein
City of Calgary
Calgary, Alberta

Dear Mayor Klein:

I am writing to express my very real disappointment in your unmeasured comments with respect to fellow Canadians who live in areas other than Calgary, Alberta. As many of us of Canada's major cities it is incumbent upon you to realize that statements made by you reflect an official view and therefore obligate you to treat every basic action with the highest degree of responsibility.

The recalcitrance of inevitable comments can be devastating to Canadian unity.

To refer to eastern Canada as "home and crops" or to invite them to come to Calgary as "crooks" is highly irresponsible and can only heighten hostility between eastern and western Canadians.

Only in recent months have central Canadians started to forget the needless action of an individual Calgarian who printed bumper stickers stating "let the eastern bastards freeze in the dark."

In spite of the fact that the bumper stickers were done by an individual citizen it was perceived by many elsewhere as official Alberta policy.

Because of the importance attached to the position of Mayor in one of Canada's major cities, Canadians cannot be satisfied with anything less than a public apology in which you accept full responsibility for your over-the-top and strident actions coupled with a promise to act on irresponsibility in public life again.

I await your corrective no-tion.

Yours sincerely,
Arnold Nelson, M.P.
Calverton.

Community Press,
Sedgewick, Alta.

Dear Sir:

Recently the County of Flagstaff and the County of Sedgewick have reported the location of the hazardous waste disposal plant in the County of Sedgewick.

The Province of Alberta continues to regard the County of Beaver as a potential site.

The test drilling sites are located as close as eight miles from the northern border of the County of Flagstaff.

Sections: 11-48-13-W4, 11-48-13-W4, 11-48-13-W4, 11-48-13-W4.

Airborne pollutants from an incinerator located on these sites would fall over a wide area of the County of Flagstaff.

Crooks drinking this area are the headquarters of iron and steel flows into the Battle River, near Hardisty.

We would urge residents of the County of Flagstaff to protect their interests by asking that a stop be put to these further developments.

The County of Beaver as a potential site for a hazardous waste disposal plant.

36 YEARS AGO

With excellent weather prevailing, and with a total of 26 competing teams, 17 of them from outside points, the Killam, Strone and Dayland bantam got away to a fine start on Wednesday. The Crooks risk of Sedgewick won the grand challenge of the day, defeating the Griffiths risk of Dayland. Carmichael of Strone won over Hays of the Killam. The Crooks risk of Sedgewick also beat Caldwell to win the district final.

Loughed citizens were aroused at 7 a.m. on Tuesday, January 25th, by the loud ringing of the fire bell. The fire was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Morrison, and was caused by red hot stove pipes. Much damage was done before the blaze was put out. About 1:30 a.m. Wednesday morning the fire bell again sounded at the village. The fire at the Morrison home on Tuesday was thought to be extinguished and furniture was replaced, but the second fire completely destroyed the house and all the contents.

The second annual meeting of the Sedgewick Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held in the United Church hall at Sedgewick on Wednesday, January 14th, at 8:45 in the evening. This branch had a very active year in 1981. Elections of officers took place for 1982 at this annual meeting. T.J. Dabbert was elected as president, C.R. Smith as treasurer and H. Gwynne as the secretary. The financial statement was then discussed with receipts totaling $1052.84 and disbursements equalling $918.55. This left a balance of $134.29 for the following year.

YOU HAVE PROBABLY already suspected that columnists, journalists, sycophantic writers, free liners, commentators, and yes, even editors, are a queer lot. Now by the word queer we do not intend what has become the familiar application of being cracked in the cranium, loose in the noggin or that one's eggs are scrambled. We prefer to use the word meaning as being different. Again, naturally the case we refer to is that of one who has a captive national or international readership, or audience; and those who are paid, rather generously, for expressing their personal point of view. Quite naturally therefore we do not refer to those whose readership is extremely limited by virtue of the fact that their efforts are limited to a local area. For that reason alone I do not include myself in what is to follow for comparatively few read what I have to say and those who do not pay any attention anyway.

NORMALLY writers have varying methods of approach and expression, conflicting attitudes and multifarious interpretations. In any given situation whether legislative in nature or not, Charles Lynch who always seems to give a reasonable assessment of situations without being obnoxious, although not always right in the eyes of his fellow men. Then of course there is Ron Collier who quite eloquently states his likes and dislikes. Don Brandt who has a bent for prophecy, William Thorne who seems to have a knack for being forthright.

THERE ARE TOO MANY to give a rundown on each in this limited space but of course one cannot escape the mention of the Great Lord of Sedgewick, Charles Lynch who always seems to give a reasonable assessment of situations without being obnoxious, although not always right in the eyes of his fellow men. Then of course there is Ron Collier who quite eloquently states his likes and dislikes. Don Brandt who has a bent for prophecy, William Thorne who seems to have a knack for being forthright.

IN THE LIMITED availability of columnists and their comments that come to your attention I am an avid follower and it does not take too long to assess each one, which side of the fence they stand on, those who straddle it and those who wander freely about it. I take an amused person to do that and still get the message across, particularly if he is castigating.

TAKE POTHERINGHAM as an illustration, that manufacturer of words, and color of phrases unequaled in the Canadian scene. Here is a writer who is the most virulent pen in the nation, constantly poised and loaded with poisonous darts, ever ready to jab, and make fun of his fellow men. Who sees little good in anything at all, but who surmounts his writings with enough humor to bring forth chuckles.

lines attempts to speak out without doing his homework first, and Roy Farnon who writes about everything with a good dose of accuracy. Then of course there are sport commentators like Brian Hall when you have to believe knows everything and will not tolerate non-agreement, and Terry Jones who sometimes makes sense and quite often does not.

BUT OUT OF ALL THIS comes the conclusion that nearly all scribes know what the problems are in the nation, know who the culprits are, but seldom come up with what to do about them. One would very naturally assume that once the problems are pointed out and the ones causing them are identified it would be easy to come up with solutions.

THEREFORE I suggest an answer: have the nation millions of dollars in holding elections every four or five years. (Sedgewick provinces). Draft all the scribes, journalists and commentators, by law if necessary (hence the constitution) and install them in parliament and legislatures and let the country go on with its avowed business. They know the problems; they must have the answers. With a trust that would be. National and international tranquility would prevail. The Almighty would look with favour on such a situation and would postpone Armageddon rather than disturb such a delightful affair. Come down from the mountain O Ye Scribes and give unto the people the law.

Letters to the Editor

Flagstaff concerned citizens had much support in opposing hazardous waste facility

The following is a copy of a letter presented to Carl (third) and Roy (fourth) of the County of Flagstaff on January 13. Along with this, the County of Flagstaff has received a letter from the County of Sedgewick (except for Loughed and Alliance), expressing their opposition to the hazardous waste disposal facility.

The City of Canadans also make a presentation by letter. Included were letters from many professional people and concerned citizens. The City of Canadans also make a presentation by letter. Included were letters from many professional people and concerned citizens.

We requested information from independent sources and tried to present it to council members. We cannot afford any more delays. Delays which make it appear as if council were not taking in good faith. Delays which might result in our acquiring the plant by default.

Remember there is a rising tide of opposition to this plant. It is a vast majority of your ratepayers, plus numerous towns as well. We urge council to address this situation now, so that a crisis can be reached on this vital matter!

Aerobic classes to be held in Killam

Yes, the entire country is talking about aerobic. But what are aerobics?
In actuality, any exercise that gets the heart beating fast enough to enter its target zone (determined by age) and maintaining that rate for a certain period of time can be called "aerobic." If that is the case, then a lot of us have been doing aerobics for years out here have just called it something or getting into shape.
The reason it is now called aerobics is that through studies on fitness, experts have found that by exercising the proper way for a period of 30-45 minutes, we can improve our cardiovascular fitness.
This interpreted means to get our heart and lungs back into shape. In order to achieve cardiovascular fitness, one must exercise properly with a warm up session, aerobic (or fast session), and conclude with a cool down session.
Fitness can only be achieved if this is done at least three times a week. We all know how difficult that can be on our hectic schedules these days.
Aerobic classes will be running both in the afternoon "fund evening" in Killam, commencing in March. Only the afternoon classes are listed in the pamphlet put out by Further Education, however, the evening classes will be running the same weeks as the afternoon classes (March 1 to April 8) on Tuesdays and Thursdays. One class will run from 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. and another from 8:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.
Registration for all these classes can be made at the Killam Agriplex and all registration fees must be paid by February 1st.
There is a limit to the number of participants in each class, so to avoid disappointment do not delay, register now.

Poor weather brings many fender benders

Killam Detachment of the RCMP reports that current inclement weather has resulted in a higher than average number of "fender benders."
Monday afternoon about 4 p.m., a farm tractor operated by Herbert Holmstrom of Killam was making a left hand turn into a driveway of Highway 24 when a collision occurred with a vehicle driven by Caroline Mackey of Coaldale. There were no injuries.
A 1976 Cadillac, stolen from Calgary, was discovered on Monday by RCMP officers in a ditch near Strome.
Either late Sunday night or early Monday morning, a break-in took place at Loughheed Arena, and an amount of cash was stolen.

Provincial building in the offing for Killam

A provincial building for Killam is in the offing. The good news was relayed by Gordon Strebeberg, MLA for Camrose constituency at last Friday's annual meeting of Killam Chamber of Commerce, held in the Legion Hall.
But Mr. Strebeberg told the gathering "don't expect it this summer."
He stated however, that a start will be made on planning and design within the next few months.
The MLA said that the Killam Chamber had written him about the possibility of obtaining a provincial building for Killam.
Another pleasant duty was performed when Ernest Lindholm presented a cheque for $25,000 to Robert Berch, the Chamber's first vice-president. The money will be used by the Agricultural Society for the artificial ice fund at the Killam Arena.
Mr. Lindholm of New Norway, a member of the Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation, commended the Agricultural Society for their excellent presentation at a recent Lethbridge meeting.
He said the foundation appreciated the self-help put into the project by the people of the community.
Mr. Lindholm explained that the Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation is an autonomous government agency with 13 members from all parts of Alberta. Funds for the Foundation are derived from the Alberta government's portion of Western Express lottery tickets.

Among other grants given in the area, Mr. Lindholm mentioned that a grant had been made for construction of the Oshon community hall, also for the new ice machinery at Forewasting Arena.
The first honorary life membership in the Killam Chamber of Commerce was presented to Roy Manning, a resident of Arizona for the past eleven years, but who has been instrumental in the early days, when the original building was built in 1947 by the then board of trade.
In making the presentation, Mr. Berch said that after the 1959 fire, Mr. Manning assisted greatly with his reconstruction in 1963, having been chairman of the building fund.
Also in 1963 with the Chamber, Mr. Manning was one of the first to go to Brooks when the Highway 34 Association was in existence.
Mayor Dennis Strebeberg made presentations to the winners of the Killam Christmas lighting contest. Prizes were provided by the town and members of the Chamber of Commerce did the judging.
First went to Lloyd and Esther Young, second to Bill and Dot Morgan, and third to Bruno and Isidore Bagdasarian.
In his remarks, Mayor Strebeberg said that what makes any community run is when there is communication between town council, businessmen, and citizens.
Progress instituted by the Chamber "encouraged community spirit," commented Mr. Strebeberg.
"It's a worthwhile organization doing a tremendous job. I am proud to be a member of the Chamber and a citizen of Killam," the mayor concluded.

Killam Chamber hears of waste plant

Guest speaker at the Killam Chamber of Commerce annual meeting on January 15th was Cyril Fossen of the Flagstaff Concerned Citizens, a group of county ratepayers formed to oppose the location of a hazardous waste plant in Flagstaff.

Noting that the Flagstaff council had unanimously passed a motion the day prior, turning down the hazardous waste plant, Mr. Fossen said it was a "pretty happy day."

Pointing out that several citizens became aware of the possibility about November 1st, the group had worked one day short of two months in the face of "many wild rumours," but by the time they were flustered nearly one thousand books from Environment Alberta had been spread throughout the county.

Relating events chronologically, Mr. Fossen said a brief was presented to council on November 28, asking council to put a stop to a hazardous waste plant and on December 7, a geologist's report was made available to council, indicating that Flagstaff was unsuitable for such a project.

Council was presenting "stiff resistance" at this point, Mr. Fossen remarked, adding that council wanted the "bare facts."

At a meeting in Sedgewick Community Hall on December 8th, 300 people attended and a small delegation was sent to council that same day. Council agreed that testing in the county should be stopped until further information meetings were held with people from the hazardous waste team.

On December 14th, a letter was sent to council permitting to the information meetings which were slated to begin sometime in January.
